The new position was formed in order to bring a concentrated emphasis to the fund-raising activities of the hospital. Richard Krueger, hospital administrator, says, "We are very happy to have Diane with us. Her talent and enthusiasm will be most valuable to us in this time when contributions are so important to the future of the hospital."

Fowler was most recently employed as advertising representative at the Charlevoix Courier and Petoskey News Review. Prior to coming to Charlevoix last year, she served as marketing administrator for Spencer Stuart and Associates in New York, and sales/marketing manager for Peninsular Leasing in her home town of Grand Rapids. She was also assistant product manager at Becham Cosmetics in Chicago.

As a graduate of the University of Michigan with a Bachelor of Fine Arts degree, Fowler has an interest in art and illustration and has been teaching art classes in Charlevoix during the past year.

In her new position, she will be responsible for contributions to the hospital from first contact to computer record keeping. She will be setting up a volunteer network, applying for grants, and organizing special campaigns and events.

Young children visited the high school child development class last week to give the high school students some first hand experience with youngsters. One lesson the high school learned is when youngsters have things which they could pop you with, you'd best keep your guard up.

Hospital plans Health Day

Charlevoix Area Hospital is opening its doors for health day Wednesday, May 22.

There will be free pulmonary function tests, hearing screening tests, and blood pressure check. For $5 a total cholesterol test will be available.

"We have a commitment to area residents," says Richard Krueger, hospital administrator, "to provide community education and wellness programs, to help make people aware of healthy living habits and the importance of regular examinations."

The hospital will provide free colorectal cancer self-test kits and information on first aid, breast care, and cancer.

Munson Medical Center's Ear Lab will be on hand for the free hearing tests from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. The other tests will begin at 7 a.m.

Meet Gopher The Gold!

Gopher will be here May 17 from 6:30 pm - 8:00 pm!

Bring the children to Glen's and join the fun as Gopher the Gold visits our store. Parents bring your camera and capture the excitement...it's a great way to Catch the Magic of Special Olympics!

Local Scouts take honors

The Boy Scouts from Charlevoix's Troop 11 took first honors at the Northern District's Spring Camporee held in the Pigeon River State Forest. There were approximately 150 Scouts in attendance from all over northern lower Michigan.

Scouts were tested on their over-all ability to move about and camp in a wilderness setting with the least amount of impact to the environment. They were also tested on orienteering skills using compasses and sets of directions. The Scouts cooked all their meals on portable backpacking stoves and packed out any and all litter and containers they brought with them.

For Eric Halverton, Adam Laucher, Blair Welhem, Alan Sliger, and Mike Kniet of "Bat Patrol," it was their first competition and backpacking experience as Boy Scouts.

Other Scouts who attended included, Bob Sommerfeld, Patrick Butcher, Eric Rowell, Brian Marquis, Andrew Laucher, Dave Bellairs, and T.J. Caldwell. Adult leaders were Jim Smith, ASM, and Jack Laucher, SM.

The Scouts did extremely well, learned more about themselves and backpacking, had a great time and learned little about the Green Timbers area of the Pigeon River State Forest area.

BEACONS

by Jan Boss

I just returned from a glorious vacation to Hawaii. What a wonderful place. Warm - clear water - flowers - water falls all wrapped up together to make it seem like an unreal place. During my two-week stay I saw many rainbows - at least one every day, sometimes two and many times they were double rainbows. Rainbows are a beautiful phenomena of God. Everything has to be just right - for the colors to shine brightly. The sun has to be shining and it has to be raining. Two such totally opposites happening at one time for a beautiful rainbow to happen. Waking up many mornings to a rainbow outside my window, seeing them as I laid in the sun, or walked on the beach, or was riding around seeing the sights got me thinking about them and comparing them to life. So many of us want life to be easy - to go our own way - without any glitches. When things do go wrong we pout - throw tantrums - mope around - saying things like "why does this have to happen to me?" or "life isn't fair." Where in reality everything that happens to us helps to form us into the beautiful people God wants us to become. A rainbow can't happen without both rain and sun - we cannot be giving, thankful, growing, maturing adults without all our experiences of both joy and struggles. God wants only the best for His children - we make choices everyday on how we are going to react to the things that came our way. Will we mix them up and make a rainbow or pout in a corner and miss a blessing? I want to make rainbows - how about you?

Lexalite: A local plant shedding light on the world

By Ralph McRae

In our community there are 20 assorted manufacturing companies. Four of these firms account for 50 percent of the total employees of the 20 companies. Lexalite International Corporation is among these four.

Lexalite is one of the world's major makers of precision quality injection-molded lighting components. Since its beginning in 1961, Lexalite has been fabricating lighting components that have dramatically increased the efficiency of electric lighting. Lexalite fixtures allow much better lighting without increasing wattage. Using thermoplastic materials such as acrylic and polycarbonate, the company makes lenses, refractors and reflectors that are used throughout the entire world. Combining the plastic word "lexan" and the business of making lighting components resulted in naming the company, Lexalite.

A group of seven people originally formed the Lexalite Corporation, which was founded in Southfield in 1961 and incorporated in 1963. Lexalite's initial goal was to design, promote and sell light globes and refractors from the plastic which was available at the time.

With the exception of its first year, Lexalite has been a successful venture. In 1963, Lexalite opened its 9,600-square-foot Charlevoix plant. Today, Lexalite has a 100,000-square-foot state-of-the-art manufacturing, engineering, tooling and assembly complex. For 16 years, by its very accurate and inventive fabricating processes, the company has gained corresponding sales increases and plant expansions.

Despite the overall success, there have been setbacks. On August 2, 1981 everything came to a complete and costly halt. Mid morning on a Sunday, fire struck and continued to burn until all of the plant's manufacturing facilities were destroyed. Only the business and engineering offices escaped the flames.

Even before the ashes cooled, plant management decided to rebuild and stay in Charlevoix. On the same day, the Economic Development Corporation (EDC) of Charlevoix offered its cooperation and assistance. The initiative and quick action shown by the EDC helped persuade Lexalite officials to stay in the community. Eventually, bonds were sold through the Manufacturers Bank of Detroit to finance the reconstruction project.

Within 135 days after the fire, Lexalite was in a larger, modern plant and again in full production. Four years later, the plant expanded again. Last year, 1990, Lexalite had a $3.5 million payroll. Future expansion is doubtful given to day's discouraging business climate.

Lexalite Chief Executive Officer Josh Barnes says that the company has enjoyed its 25 years in Charlevoix and that he hopes the company has been as good for the community as the community has been for the plant.

None of Lexalite's lighting products are sold directly to users. All shipments are trucked to original equipment manufacturers. Unless stock items are purchased, customized orders requiring special molds have to be produced in quantities of several thousands.

The gestation period for producing a new item, from conception to completion, is the familiar time frame of nine months. Approximately two months are required for engineering design, four months are spent by tool and die makers grinding and shaping and the remaining months are spent setting up production facilities and testing and retesting the finished product.

Lighting data is obtained by scientific photometric measurements. Taking these measurements involves things such as radial arc photometry, a 50-foot gonimeter and working with brightness readings and lamp calibrations inside a white-walled 11-foot sphere.

All test results must equal or exceed customer specifications. Lexalite has an in-plant subsidiary with 13 tool and die makers turning out jobs for other lighting and molded-products industries. Lexalite products end up on, and in, streets, highways, industries, commercial businesses, recreational sites, marine areas and hospital operating rooms.

The corporation's national sales office is in Charlevoix. Sales are generated by direct contacts, sales representatives and through licensed distributors in addition to referrals from customers throughout the world. All new mold products are assessed in weekly status reports.

Progressive benefits have resulted in a very low employee turnover. The 130 employees own 35 percent of the corporation's stock. Accumulated over the years, the stock becomes a retirement fund. Each month, employees receive a bonus if there is a profit for that month. Bonus amounts are the same for everyone, to executive to truck drivers. Bonuses average a little less than $100 per month, however each day of unexcused absence reduces the bonus by 20 percent. In addition, a portion of the plant's monthly profits are placed in the Employee's Stock Ownership Plan. Lexalite has optional dental and hospital insurance for company workers and their families.

Home-like kitchen and dining facilities at the plant overlook Lake Michigan. A beautiful atrium adjoins the business office. The company has perhaps the most luxurious corporate headquarters in northern Michigan. Outside the factory, a water-cooling pond is home to several large and active rainbow trout that lead a well-fed and protected life.

Lexalite has a smaller plant in Dickson, Tennessee and joint ventures overseas. Sales for 1990 were close to $20 million.

In 1990, Ronald Chapman became Lexalite International Corporation's president. Barnes is now the CEO.

Next week's story will cover the plant's production operations.

The corporation's national sales office is in Charlevoix. Sales are generated by direct contacts, sales representatives and through licensed distributors in addition to referrals from customers throughout the world. All new mold products are assessed in weekly status reports.

Tennis team wins title in Great Northern Conference

Charlevoix's high school tennis team won the Great Northern Conference championship last Friday at Boyne Mountain.

Charlevoix won by the narrowest of margins over Harbor Springs and Traverse City St. Francis. Charlevoix finished with 11 points, while the Rams and Gladiators tied with 10. Other teams competing in the tournament were Elk Rapids, Boyne City and Whittenore-Preseott.

Rayder coach Eric Lundteigen praised his team's performance. "I don't think very many people expected us to win it," he said. Four of Charlevoix's 11 wins required come-from-behind efforts. "I was thrilled," Lundteigen said. "Nobody let up. It was a great effort."

Although the Rayders have won six straight regional titles, this is the team's first conference championship because it is the first time there has been a conference meet to play in.

Individual results for the Rayders were:
Number one singles: Paul Cunningham lost 6-0, 6-1.

Number two singles: Jeff Joy lost 6-2, 6-3.

Number 3 singles: Chris Bair won 6-7, 7-5, 6-3 and lost 7-5, 6-4.

Number 4 singles: Christian Marschal won 1-6, 6-4, 6-4, won 6-4, 6-4 and lost 6-1, 6-2.

Number 1 doubles: Corey Cram and Sam Bingham won 6-4, 6-1 and lost 6-4, 6-1.

Number 2 doubles: Todd Kovach and Erich McElroy won 3-6, 7-6, 6-3 and won 6-7, 6-2, 6-4.

Number 3 doubles: Jasper Sweetny and Mike Dobulis won 6-1, 6-2 and won 6-4, 6-4.

Lori Darrah appears to take her hitting seriously as she takes a swing in a game against Boyne City.

Belvedere to host tournament

A golf tournament called the Dick Gennett Classic will be played at the Belvedere Golf Course Saturday, May 18. Gennett is a golf course employee who has worked at the course for 44 years. One of the other course employees did some figuring and estimated that Gennett has logged about 165,375 miles on golf course tractors over the years.

The tournament is an 18-hole, four-man scramble. The entry fee is $60 per player which will cover 18 holes of golf with a cart, dinner and drinks. Golfers can register at the Belvedere Pro Shop or at the Town House. The entry deadline is Thursday, May 16.

Tournament organizers say the Gennett Classic is meant to be a fun, early-season tournament for the working golfer. Door prizes and cash prizes will be awarded at the dinner following the tournament.

Teams will be selected in a drawing at 7 p.m., May 17 at the Village Pub. For additional information, phone 547-2611.

Corey Ostrum scores a run against Boyne City. Despite the run, Charlevoix lost twice to the Ramblers.

KFC golf tournament May 26

The 12th Annual Kentucky Fried Chicken March of Dimes Golf Tournament will take place Sunday, May 26 at the Belvedere Golf Club. This year the tournament will be a Four-Man Best Shot or Scramble.

There will be a shotgun start at 8:30 a.m., however, participants are asked to check in at the clubhouse by 8 a.m. were they will be treated to a continental breakfast so they can register, get their complimentary prizes courtesy of Kennucky Fried Chicken, and purchase their Mulligan if they so desire. In case of rain, the tournament will be moved to the next day, Monday, May 27.

Both men and women are welcome in this tournament. Teams are flighted according to the total handicap of all four golfers with approximately ten teams per flight. In addition to the main tournament competition there are several other special events such as the option to purchase a Mulligan for $1, giving you a "bonus" shot to be used any hole except the 17th, a putting contest, a prize for each hole, closest to the pin, etc. For the third year there will also be a big skins competition. To be involved in this your whole team has to sign up.

For additional information please contact Joe Eugene at 547-2700 or 3476-8843.

Lina Doan squares to bunt. Charlevoix's softball team is now 16-10 on the year after sweeping double headers against Boyne City and East Jordan.

SPORTS

Softball team continues to win

Today the county, tomorrow the world. Charlevoix's high school girls' softball team swept both of the other high school teams in the county this past week.

May 9 the Rayders beat Boyne City 18-8 and 18-13 and Monday, May 13 the Rayders got the best of East Jordan 20-10 and 20-6.

As is obvious by the score, Rayder batters hammered Boyne City, pitching in Charlevoix, Thursday.

Melissa Cox had a week's worth of hits in the first game, collecting four. Stacy Tilton had three hits, including a home run. Mary Jane Grunch also had three hits while Lori Darrah and Stacey Skeel each contributed two.

Tammy Holm picked up the pitching win striking out four while allowing eight hits and six walks.

In the second game, Charlevoix again hit well. Cox, Tilton and Melissa Murray each had two hits. Holm relieved Cox to get her second pitching win of the day.

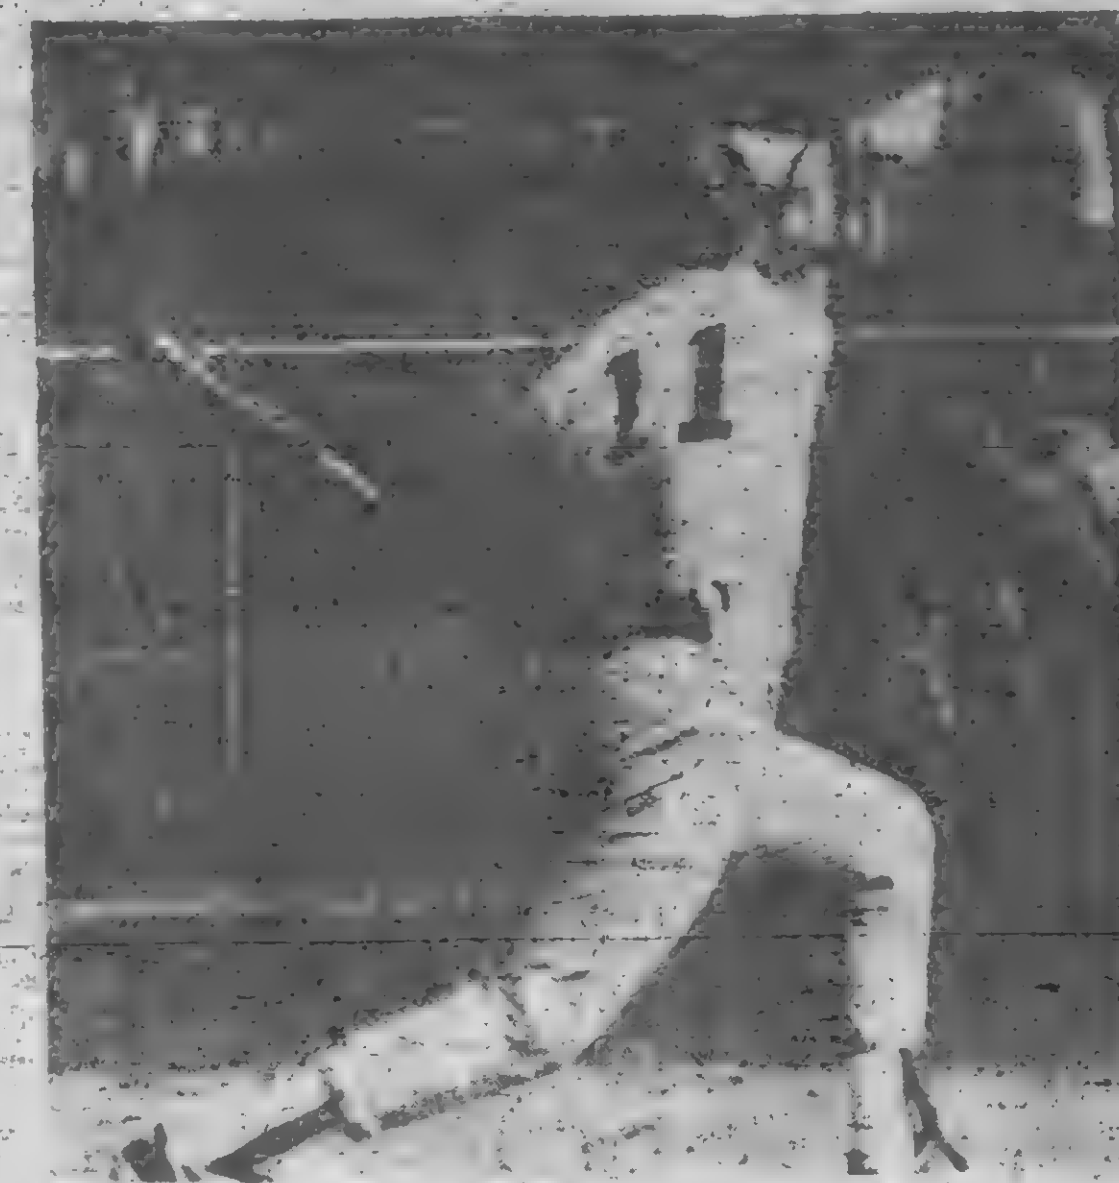

The games against East Jordan were also slugfests. In the opening game, Tilton had three hits, including two doubles. Darrah had three hits. Holm had two hits, including a double. Grunch and Cox each had two hits.

Grunch got the pitching win, striking out four while allowing six hits and walking 11.

The Rayders put away East Jordan early in game two, scoring 18 runs in the opening inning. The game was called after three innings.

Grunch led the plate parade with four hits, including a triple and a double. Tilton had two doubles and a single. Holm and Heather Radle both singled and doubled. Murray had two singles and a double. Cox also had a double.

The Rayders are now 16-10 on the year.

Luke Porath takes a healthy cut; Charlevoix lost twice to Boyne City May 9, but came back to take two games against East Jordan this past Monday.

Band students converge

More than 300 middle-school-aged musicians will converge on the Gaylord Middle School on Friday, May 17 to participate in the first annual Middle School Massed Band Festival.

Seventh and eighth grade instrumental music students from Gaylord, Charlevoix, and Gaylord, will meet, not to perform as separate groups, but to combine as a single, 300-piece massed band. This unusual ensemble will perform an afternoon concert program for Gaylord Middle School students and an evening program open to the general public. The evening concert will begin at 7 p.m. in the Gaylord Middle School located on East Fifth Street in Gaylord. There will be an admission fee of $1.

According to Ralph Schweigert, Gaylord Band Director and host for this year's festival, the purpose of this program is to give student musicians from different schools an opportunity to interact musically and socially.

Unlike high school students, middle school students rarely have the opportunity to interact with kids from other schools, except as athletes. An event such as this massed band festival will hopefully give these kids a slightly different perspective on the many roles each one plays each and every day as students, musicians, and people. In addition to actually rehearsing and performing together, we have also planned social activities so that these kids can get to know each other on a more personal level," Schweigert said.

George Colburn

County video premiers

Persons who attended the showing of the video "Northern Lights" last week saw Charlevoix County in a new light—what it has to offer local families, vacationers, business, and industry.

The film was produced by National Video Communications, of which George Colburn, a part-time resident of Melrose Township, is a principal. Colburn explained to the audience that his first came to Charlevoix County over 20 years ago, to ski. He fell in love with the area, bought a home, and later, a business. (For several years, he published the Charlevoix County Press in Boyne City.)

"Northern Lights" will be available for lease by organizations interested in promoting the region for business and industrial purposes.

There are sections on Charlevoix, East Jordan, Boyne City, Boyne Mountain, and Horton Bay. Harold Krusch of the Charlevoix Visitors' Bureau appears in the video to explain the advantages of Charlevoix as a vacation spot—its hotel-motel accommodations, its water sports, golfing, fishing, and other outdoor activities. Both the Charlevoix Visitors' Bureau and the Chamber of Commerce will have copies of the video available for group presentations. It is expected that other organizations such as real estate companies, travel bureau, businesses, and government bodies will use the video as a marketing tool. Trish Wright of Boyne City served as location coordinator in producing the video. Rpsalind McManaghan of Charlevoix also assisted with the production.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING INCREASING PROPERTY TAXES

The City Council of the City of Charlevoix will hold a Public Hearing on a proposed increase of 1.3328 mills in the operating tax millage rate to be levied in 1991. The hearing will be held on Monday, May 20, 1991 at 7:00 o'clock in the p.m. in the Council Chambers of City Hall, 210 State Street, Charlevoix, Michigan. If adopted, the proposed additional millage will increase the operating revenues from ad valorem property taxes 11.93% over such revenues generated by levies permitted without holding a public hearing. A comparison of actual 1990 millage to the proposed millage is shown below:

Zoning suit against city dismissed by Circuit Court

By L. Scott Swanson

A law suit filed by Lester Turner contesting a Charlevoix City Council zoning decision has been dismissed by Circuit Court Judge Richard Pajtas. The suit was filed in May of 1990. Pajtas granted the city's motion for a summary disposition approximately two weeks ago, on May 13.

Turner has a land contract agreement with Oscar Stroud to purchase property which is located at the corner of Mercer Avenue and U.S. 31, near the northern end of town. Separate litigation is also pending between Stroud and Turner. (See accompanying story.)

The central question in the case between Turner and the city is how much information the city can require a developer to provide when making a rezoning request. Turner filed a rezoning request in June of 1989. He asked for the property to be rezoned from M-H (motel-hotel) to R-4 (planned residential).

Turner provided the city planning commission with a preliminary site plan, but refused to provide with additional information in regard to percentage of wooded area which would be lost, detailed landscaping plans, project elevations and estimates as to how the plan might affect water quality.

After refusing the planning commission's request for information, Turner took his site plan before the city council without a favorable recommendation from the planning commission. In September of 1989, the council sent Turner back to the planning commission and said the preliminary plan would be rejected if the requested information was not provided.

The information was not provided and in February of 1990, the council formally rejected Turner's rezoning request. Turner filed suit three months later.

In the suit, Turner contended that the city could not require the information requested until after the rezoning request was decided. According to allegations in the suit, the request placed an illegal burden on the property owner and would require architectural and engineering costs and other expenses for building design and site development prior to the property owner having the necessary zoning.

City attorney James Young's arguments in behalf of the city centered around two main points: that since no "actual controversy" existed there was no grounds for legal action; and that according to state law the city's may request more than the usual amount of information when the rezoning request involves a planned unit development.

The "actual controversy" argument was based on the fact that since the requested information was never received, the city council never reached a point of reviewing the project and making a decision based on the project's merits. The city's argument was that since Turner did not follow the zoning procedural requirements of the city, no decision was made on merits and therefore there could be no court case contesting the city's decision on the project.

On behalf of the city, Young also argued that according to state law, cities may request more information on planned unit developments than would normally be requested for something such as single family residential project. According to Young, Turner's attorney argued that the planned unit development wording of the state law did not apply to Charlevoix's R-4 zoning. Young said his argument was that the state law judges a project by what it is rather than by what it is called and that the Charlevoix's definition of R-4 is encompassed by the state's definition of planned unit development.

Contacted by phone following the hearing, Turner said he is obviously disappointed in the Circuit Court decision. He said that following the decision he will be assessing available options and has yet to decide what future action to take. Given the decision, Turner said he can't build the project.

Young said he sees Turner as having the option of appealing the Circuit Court decision or providing the city with the information requested. Young said the case is legally significant in that he doesn't believe the zoning law in question has been tested in court before. The Circuit Court can't be used as legal precedent, but if the case were to be decided by a Court of Appeals it might set state legal precedent.

Related suit still pending

Although a suit filed by developer Lester Turner against the city has been dismissed, a suit filed by Oscar Stroud against Turner is still pending. Stroud and Turner are parties in a land contract calling for Turner to purchase Stroud's property. The land contract was signed more than a year ago, but the purchase process is now stalled. Stroud has filed suit to get things moving.

The Stroud suit alleged that the contract doesn't comply with a law commonly referred to as the rule against perpetuity and that Turner's failure to cooperate with the city to get the property rezoned is holding up the purchase process.

The rule against perpetuity basically means that contracts can't be worded so that a property transaction is left in limbo for too long. The Stroud suit asked for a summary judgement in Circuit Court. That request was denied, but Stroud has been granted leave to appeal by a Court of Appeals. The case will come before the Court of Appeals sometime within the next two months.

The second part of the case is still in Circuit Court. It is scheduled to come before the court in mid August.

In a phone conversation with the Courier, Turner said the basis of the suit is that Stroud wants to get paid off, but the contract says that won't occur until after the property is rezoned. Turner said he also feels the project is moving too slowly.

McManus and Woodworth explain state budget fight

State senator George McManus, R- Traverse City, and state budget director Patricia Woodworth were in Charlevoix Monday, explaining the Republican side of the state budget debate.

State democrats have claimed cuts made by Republican Governor John Engler are hurting disadvantaged people. In an interview with the Courier Monday, Woodworth said the Engler administration inherited a billion dollar deficit and that the Democratic-controlled House of Representatives has attempted to put up road blocks rather than to work to solve the problem.

Woodworth said she feels Democrats in the house are trying to block budget cuts and force Engler to raise taxes. In addition, Woodworth said she and Engler proposed specific cuts rather than across-the-board cuts, but when Democrats would not agree to specific cuts the across-the-board cuts became necessary.

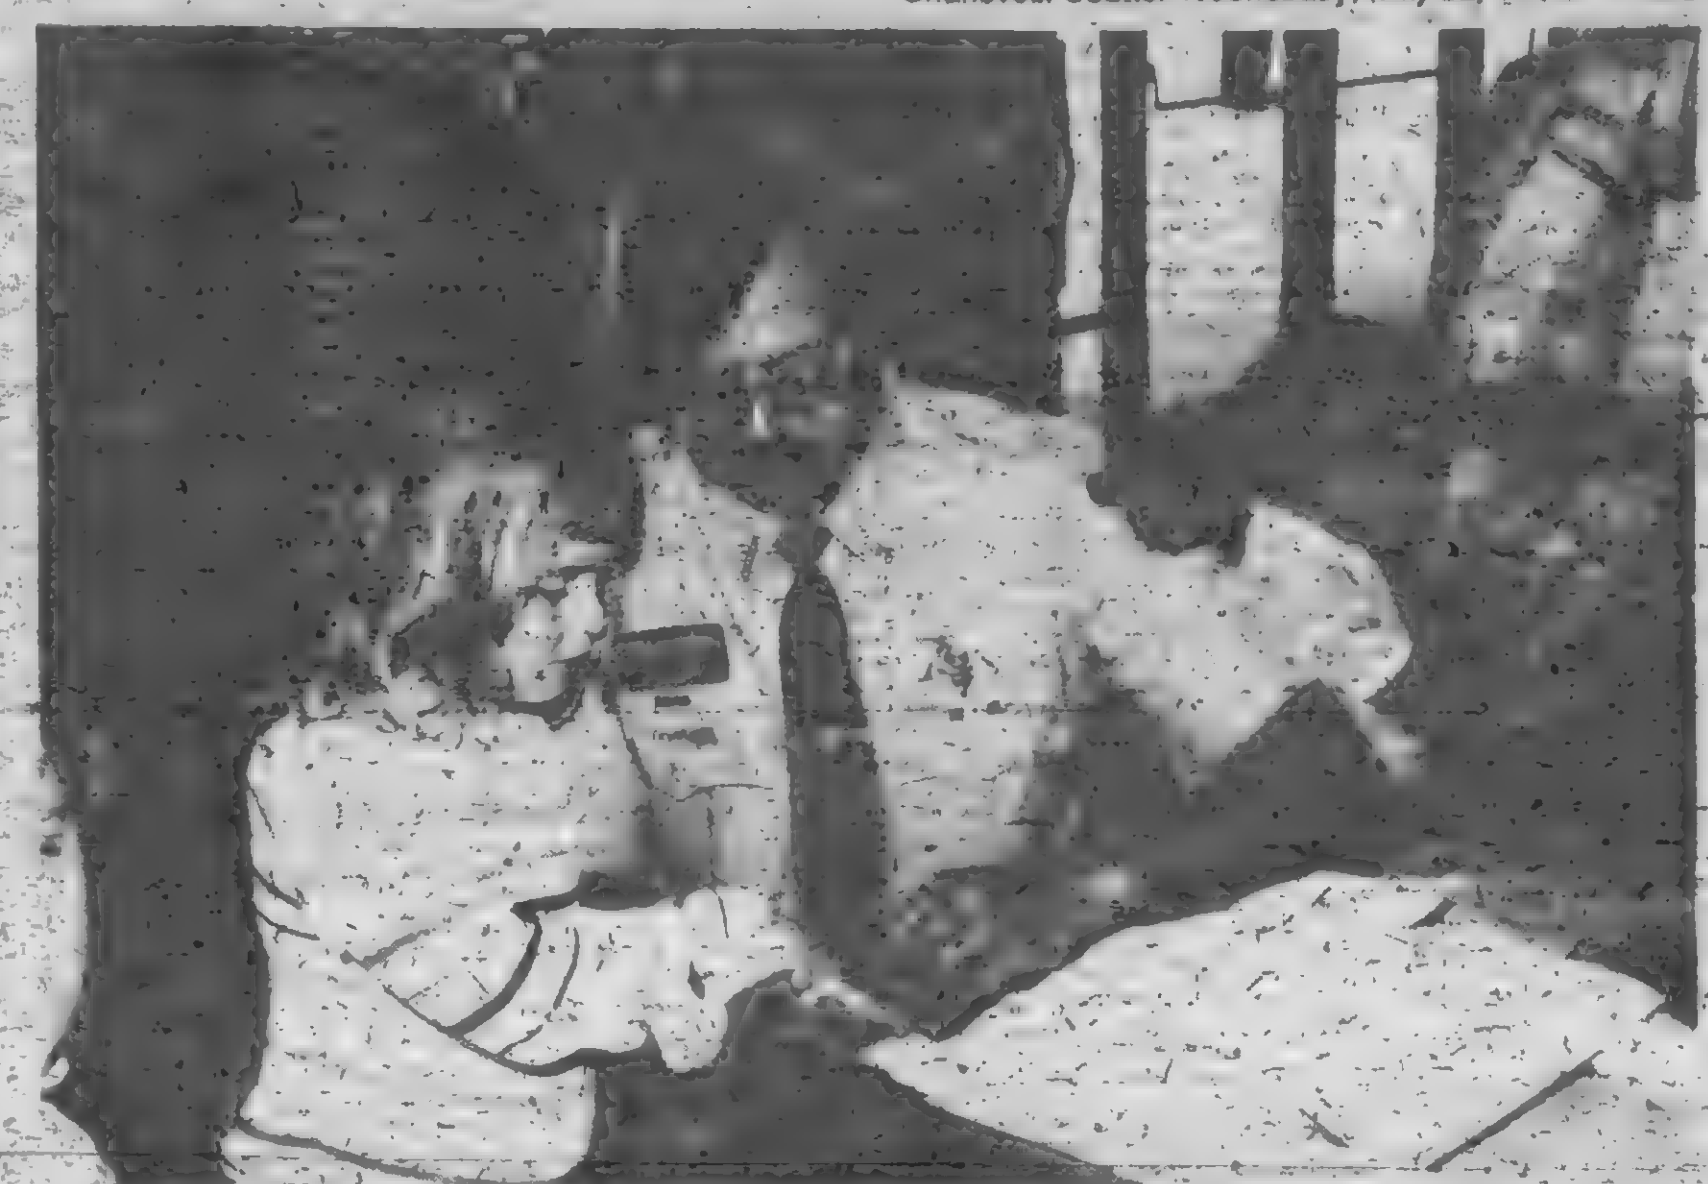

Recently, Engler restored funding for foster care, long-term medical care facilities, adoption subsidies and Medicaid by shifting funds within departments. Democratic legislators have taken Engler to court, claiming the shifts aren't legal.

Woodworth said she and Engler don't feel the case should be in court, but are confident they will win the case.

"We feel we're on very solid ground," she said. Woodworth said that if the Democrats were to win their court case, the net effect would be to hurt the very people they claim they're trying to help.

Woodworth said the current budget fight is for the state's 1990-91 fiscal year which ends in September. She said that once this year's budget problems are resolved, it will be time to start over again for the 91-92 fiscal year. She said that will be a different struggle though since Engler will have more cards to play (i.e. the opportunity for line item veto) coming in at the beginning rather than in the middle of the budget process.

Woodworth said Michigan is one of about 30 states that are having severe budget problems. She said only about five of those states are talking about increasing taxes. Michigan isn't one of the states talking about a tax increase. Woodworth characterized efforts to recall Engler as "a lot of noise by a few people." She predicted that the state legislature will continue to have "major, major fights" between the Republican-controlled Governor's office and Senate and the Democratic-controlled house.

Stephanie Kerner was one of 346 children at the elementary school and 56 children at St. Mary's School who were fingerprinted last week in a safety program sponsored by the Barnard Grange, Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department and the Charlevoix City Police Department. To be fingerprinted, the children had to have a permission slip signed by their parents. Fingerprint cards were sent home to be kept by the parents and hopefully will never have to be used. Fingerprints are helpful in identifying children who become lost or are kidnapped. The officer fingerprinting Kerner is deputy sheriff Rex Behling. City police officer Dale Meredith fingerprinted the children at St. Mary's School.

...traffic problems to close south end of State Street

up a sign at State and Carpenter saying "Dead End" or "No Outlet." The initial closure would be temporary.

While the new traffic light may be beneficial to the Bridge and M-66 intersection, it has created two major problems at State and

The first problem occurs when people coming off of State Street want to get on Bridge and then quickly get across to the left lane so they can turn left onto M-66. Given the limited distance between the end of State and M-66, that can be a perilous maneuver.

The second problem occurs when people driving north on Bridge attempt to turn left onto State Street. This problem is particularly troublesome when southbound Bridge Street traffic is backed up beyond the end of State Street. What has occurred in some instances is that people stopped in the left southbound lane have waved turning traffic across in front of them, but the person attempting to turn onto

State has then been hit by someone coming along in the right southbound lane.

The city and state have discussed several possibilities to correct the traffic tangle.

OPINIONS

REASONABLE TO ME

L. SCOTT SWANSON

The universe is shrinking

The universe is not expanding. It is shrinking. I am sure of it.

Last week, in this column, I mentioned that I lived at 306 Clinton Street when I was young. A day or so after the paper hit the streets, the person who recently purchased the house called and asked if I would like to see how it is today. I said, "Certainly. I don't think I'd been in that big old house since my family moved out of it more than 20 years ago."

On more than one occasion, my father had mentioned that he'd like to see that house again. I asked the new owners, Sam and Toby Haberman, if they would mind if I brought my parents along to see the place. They consented.

My family lived at 306 Clinton from about 1961 or '62 to 1970. I'm unclear on the exact dates. As I recall, we moved in there when I was too young to remember anything and moved out to Barnard Road when I was in fourth grade.

I know that we lived in that house when President Kennedy was shot. My father remembers that he was putting a new furnace in the house when he heard over the radio that Kennedy had been shot. That old furnace is still going.

As my parents and I prepared to tour the house last week, my mother said, "I hope I don't cry." My younger brothers were both born while we lived at 306 Clinton. My mother had raised her babies in that old house. In fact, as we walked through the kitchen and saw a small room off to the side of it a memory popped into my head. Twenty-some years ago, that little room is where I first heard about my youngest brother, Nick.

I must have been about seven years old at the time. Mom had a desk and chair in that little room. It was kind of like a small office. She and I were in there one day and she told me that in a while I would be getting a new baby brother or sister. As I recall, this development was all right by me, although it was nothing to get excited about one way or the other. Getting a new baby brother or sister isn't as much fun as getting a new puppy, but on the other hand since I'd already gone through this new baby thing once before I had the security of knowing that any problems they cause are manageable.

According to what the Habermans have been able to find out about the house's history, it was built sometime in the 1880s. If the rate of shrinkage between 1880 and 1970 was anything near what it has been from 1970 to 1991, the house must have been enormous prior to the turn of the century. As soon as I stepped in the yard last week, I could see that the house, the yard, indeed the whole neighborhood weren't nearly as expansive as I remembered them being.

The grassy little hill on the west end of the yard just isn't what it used to be. When I was young, I used to roll down that hill and have great fun. Now, it's only about knee high. The hill on the street and sidewalk is also smaller. When my brothers and I and the rest of the neighborhood kids were young we used to go up the sidewalk about to where Moshers now live and coast down the hill on tricycles, bicycles and various other wheeled toys. I used to have a little Tonka toy Jeep. I could fit my butt on the back end of that little Jeep and hold my feet up and ride to the bottom of the hill.

In last week's column, I mentioned playing softball in the back yard of the house at 306 Clinton Street. I couldn't do that anymore. Like everything else, the yard shrunk. It used to take a mighty heave to throw a ball from center field to home plate.

Not only has the field shrunk, it's been modified. You know how all the great old ballparks are disappearing. The Clinton Street ball field has lost its second base. One of the owners between the Swansons and the Habermans chopped it down. But there have been some improvements. The warning track has been paved.

The inside of the house is also smaller. I noticed this as soon as I walked in the front door and saw the stairs leading to the second floor. When we lived in the house, there was an apartment on the second floor. One winter my maternal grandparents' house burned down and they lived in that apartment while their new home was being built. When Grandma and Grandpa lived on the second floor, there were good things to eat at the top of the stairs. Those steps were a long, steep climb for a young boy, but I got to know them well as I went in search of cookies, ice cream and hot corn bread. Now, I could scale those stairs in four or five big strides.

Letters to the Editor

Field trips opposed

Editor,

Public School sponsored field trips to the Big Rock Nuclear Facility are not in our children's best interest.

There is no safe level of radiation. Ionizing radiation is the most misunderstood toxic substance known to us. These particles are very unstable and are prone to form new combinations with other atoms and molecules.

In living tissue, ionization sets off a chain of physical, chemical and biological changes that can result in serious illness, genetic defects or death. This can cause changes in the molecules of human cells. These changes may kill the cell outright or alter them in such a way that cancer or other physical injuries as cataracts, or benign tumors eventually develop.

When exposed to the same concentration of air pollutant children inhale several times as much pollutant per unit of body weight as do adults.

The immune system, that system that protects against foreign substances, which could cause disease or injury, does not typically mature until approximately the age of eight years or over. Body cells divide more rapidly in infancy and early childhood, there is increased probability that cell mutations can be passed on and begin the process of cancer development.

Facts from a 2-year study just released by Natural Resource Defense Council publication: Newsline, April 1991 Vol. 8.

Even "normal" background levels of radiation can be harmful, some radiation exposure is unavoidable as in medical situations which may be necessary.

Parents must protect their children from avoidable, unnecessary exposure to radiation. Latency period for some cancers and immune disease can be two, ten or even 30 years.

The federal government is now encouraging utilities and businesses to form "partnerships" with school systems. These "mutually beneficial" partnerships give controversial nuclear industries inroads to educators and young minds. Public school board officials and teachers must remain vigilant if they are to present accurate non-biased, balanced energy information.

Our first responsibility is to protect the health and welfare of our children. Our children can learn about nuclear power and other energy sources without being exposed to unnecessary radiation.

Sincerely,

JoAnne Reemon

Editor's Note: Charles MacInnis, public affairs director at Big Rock Point nuclear power plant, said the students receive no more exposure during the tour than they do at home. All come with permission slip, and have an opportunity to learn more about nuclear power "than what they learn on The Simpsons."

"I've brought thousands of students into the plant, including my own, and there is no health risk. No one comes through here involuntarily."

Generally, students are taken through the front gate, past the control room and onto the turbine deck.

"My main problem is people bringing in radioactive materials, our standards are tighter than the rest of the world, they're tighter than what exist for some consumer products," MacInnis said.

A Coleman lantern mantle will set off plant monitors, because they are constructed with radioactive materials.

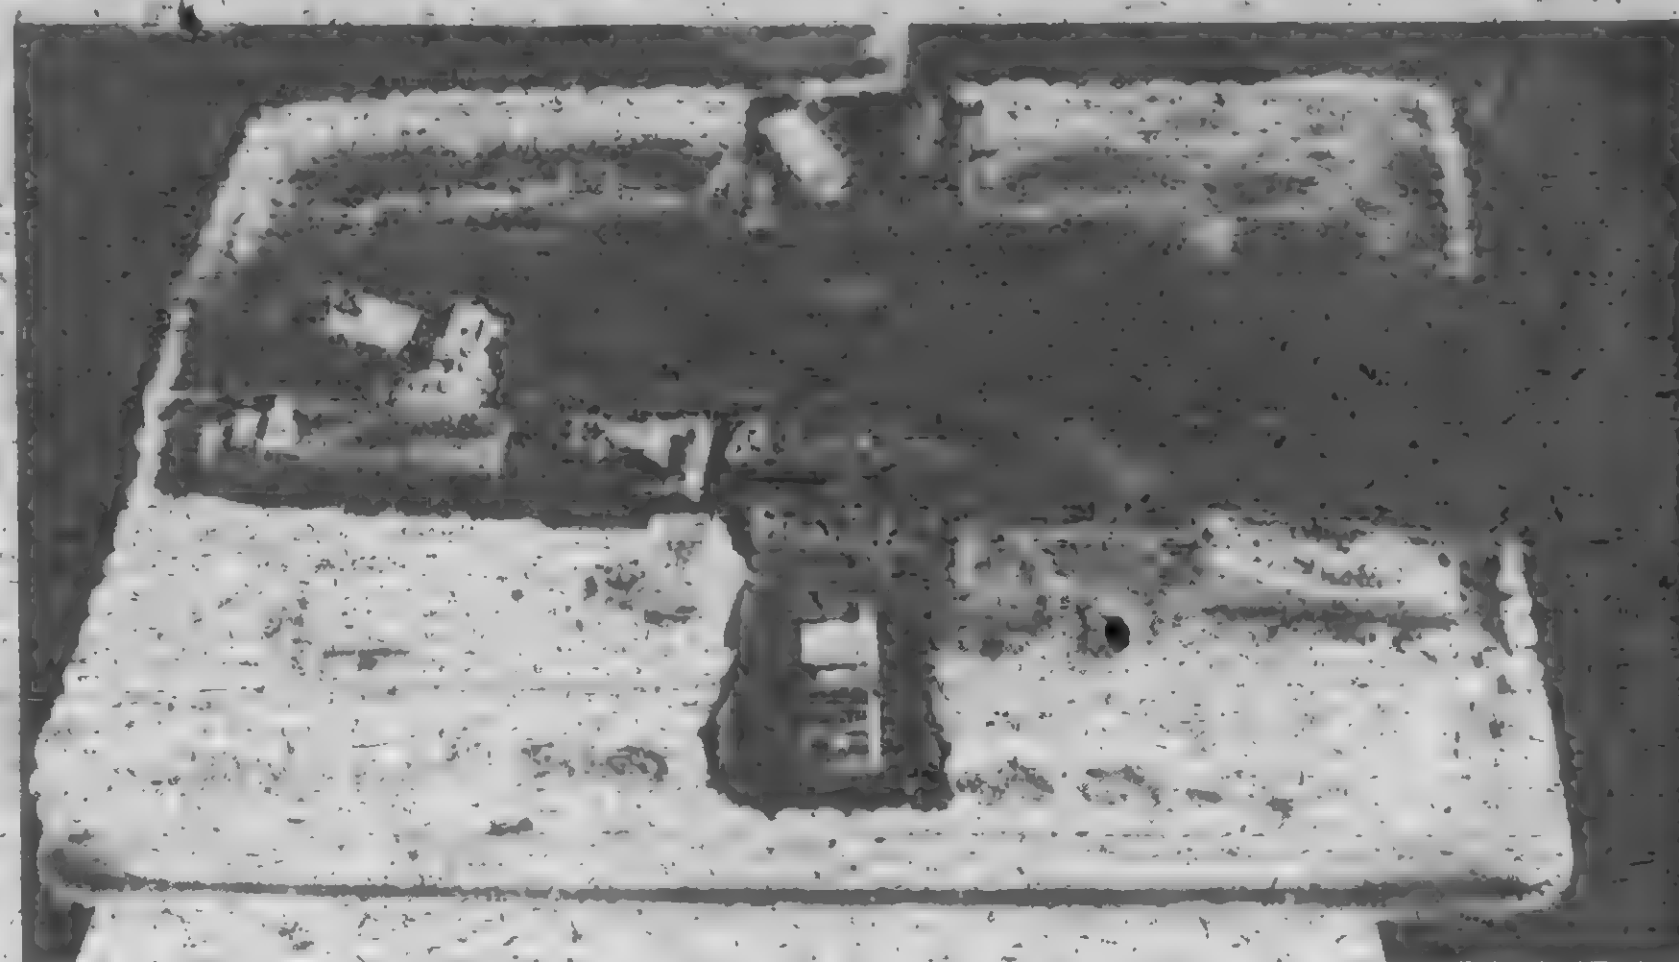

"It is the openness of this plant that assures the public that we know what we are doing here," MacInnis said. "There is no concern by educators, and parents who sign permission slips. No child is forced to go on the tour."

Dave Phillips and Matthew Greeley brought this cake (above) along to celebrate the repaving, and more so the reopening, of Bridge Street.

Downtown Development Authority (DDA) members, city businessmen, Chamber of Commerce and City officials gathered at the corner of Bridge and Clinton Streets last week to celebrate the completion of repaving and the reopening of Bridge Street to traffic.

Rather than cursing the closed city street, some local business people chose to make the best of a bad situation and had lunch right in the middle of Bridge Street before it was reopened.

Petunia planting marks 10th year

The 10th Annual Keep Charlevoix Beautiful Petunia Planting is scheduled to begin at 5 p.m. this Thursday, May 23. Close to 50,000 petunias will be planted by approximately 1,000 volunteer planters in one hour.

Following planting, the Petunia Picnic will take place in East Park from 6 p.m. to 7 p.m. and following the picnic The Larry Wojcik Real Big Band will perform in the new band shell.

People wishing to help plant should go to U.S. 31 and find one of 14 block captains who will be wearing orange vests. Block captains for this year's planting are: Ralph McRae, Don Meggison, Gumar Lundteigen, John McKown, Ty Conklin, Frank Zednick, Elaine Kurtz, Hagan Manker, Jacqueline Meza, Rita McAvoy, Tim Block, Christy Dillon, Troy Bonar, Tom Bergmann and Tracy Eckhold.

This year the petunias will be planted in 230 cubic yards of new top soil. The old top soil was replaced to make planting easier and the petunias grow better. Camp Pellston prison crews have prepared the petunia beds and will once again be tending them through the summer.

Once again there will be several items available for planters and others interested in the petunia project. Each family helping plant petunias will receive a free tray of six petunias. Planters will also be able to purchase a petunia planting license plate, which was recently redesigned by Marilyn Boss, for half price ($3 rather than $6). Charlevoix school students who help plant will receive a Dairy Queen certificate. Burger King and McDonalds have also made contributions to the project.

Oleson's has again donated hot dogs and buns for the picnic. The hot dogs will be cooked by local Rotarians. The Kiwanis and Lions Clubs will be directing traffic during planting. Pepperidge Farms has donated cookies and Coca Cola has donated pop for the picnic. Local chef Dave Phillips has created a special Petunia Cookie for the picnic.

Petunias planted this year will come in three shades of pink and in purple, white and red. Block captains will begin putting the petunias out at 2 p.m.

Local MADD chapter hosts state conference

The Charlevoix Mothers Against Drunk Driving (MADD) chapter hosted the State Coordinating Committee Spring Conference in Charlevoix this past weekend. The conference took place at Pontiac North and drew approximately 100 people to the community.

The guest speaker for the conference was Jonanne Wild who is the Director of Youth Development for the National Crime Prevention Council based in Washington D.C.

Friday evening, Wild spoke about roles as officers of boards and offered ideas on how to be a more effective officer and how to get boards to work together more effectively.

Saturday, Wild spoke about volunteerism, conflict management and delegation of duties within a volunteer organization.

Sunday, State Senator William Van Regenmortel who chairs the Senate Judiciary Committee updated MADD members on four bills concerning drunk driving which are advancing through the legislature.

State emphasizing safety for road crews

State police and highway engineers will add more tools this year in their "Give 'Em a Brake" campaign efforts to persuade motorists to slow down in highway work zones.

License plates of some speeding vehicles will be photographed and the owners will be advised in a letter from State Police that a radar device detected the driver exceeding the posted speed limit in a work zone.

The Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) will field test a lighted, radar controlled sign that displays the speed of vehicles approaching an area where highway work is going on. The department aims to have more than half a dozen of them in service by next year.

Both new devices are designed to reduce the number of work zone accidents, which killed 15 people and injured 1,471 other last year.

The fatalities included several highway workers.

State Police also will continue their tough enforcement efforts. They include the CZAR (Construction Zone Accident Reduction) program which stations radar equipped troopers in orange highway trucks at construction sites. Speeding motorists are ticketed by another trooper stationed beyond the construction zone.

Leading the 1991 "Give 'Em a Brake" campaign to increase public awareness are State Transportation Director Patrick Nowak, Col. Michael Robinson, State Police director, and Larry Grennell, president of the Michigan Road Builders Association.

The campaign includes posters, bumper stickers and billboards. In a light approach to a serious problem, a new rap music television and radio public service announcement (PSA) featuring "The Cone Crew" animated orange work zone cones that sing and dance a safety message will be distributed to broadcast outlets. A longer MTV-style music video also will be distributed to every driver education site in the state, promoting work zone safety.

"Our message to motorists is clear—SLOW DOWN in highway construction areas," said Nowak. "The number of accidents declined to 4,122 last year from 4,889 in 1989 and 5,689 in 1988, and we believe our enforcement and public awareness efforts are having an impact. But the numbers are still far too high."

"Safety in construction zones is a problem that cannot be solved by law enforcement alone," said Col. Robinson. "It takes the cooperation of those who drive the roads, those who repair the roads and those who patrol the roads."

Grennell called on motorists to consider that "highway workers are in danger every day."

"These are real people with real families who put their lives on the line so people can drive on good roads," he said.

If the weather's good, motorists will drive about 920 million miles in Michigan during the Memorial Day weekend.

That's the prediction of the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) for the four-day weekend starting at noon Friday (May 24) and ending at noon the following Tuesday.

MDOT traffic analysts said Memorial Day traffic volumes have increased every year for nine years but probably will hold steady this year because of the soft economy. Even with no growth, however, travel should match last year's record.

State Transportation Director Patrick Nowak ordered the suspension of construction activities on state highways, except for emergency work, from 3 p.m. Friday until the start of normal working hours on Tuesday. Work also may continue on relocated or detoured sections that do not interfere with traffic.

Nowak also directed traffic engineers to inspect all projects where traffic is being maintained for conformance with signing and traffic safety requirements.

"We want to keep traffic moving as smoothly as possible, but always with safety foremost in mind," he said.

Building increases

Construction in Charlevoix County continues to be higher than during the same period last year.

The April report of the County Department of Building Inspection indicates that in the first four months of this year, 182 permits were issued for construction amounting to $7,207,799. During the same period last year, 149 permits were issued for work amounting to $4,284,467.

Of the permits issued from January through April of this year, 44 were for new houses and 10 were for mobile homes.

The largest number of permits for construction of all types, 32, was issued for work in the City of Charlevoix. This was followed by Hayes Township, 22; Bay Township, 17; Marion Township, 15; Boyne City, 12; South Arm Township, 11; East Jordan, 11; Eveline Township, 11; and Hudson Township, eight.

Also, Charlevoix Township, seven; Pease Township, seven; Melrose Township, six; Wilcox Township, six; Evangeline Township, five; Norwood Township, five; St. James Township, five; Boyne Valley Township, two; and Boyne Falls, one.

Building permit fees and fees for electrical, plumbing, and mechanical permits totaled $43,104 for the first four months of the year. This money goes into county funds to help support the Department of Building Inspection.

VFW Auxiliary installs officers

The Ladies Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post #1153, Charlevoix, hosted their monthly meeting at the Post Home with President Angie Borish presiding. Reports of committees showed that members had contributed 60 hours to Community Service, 30 hours to promoting Americanism and 80 hours for rehabilitation projects.

Arlene Staley, Cancer Chairman, reported that the group received checks in the amount $178.82 for cash register tapes for Glen's and Oleason's groceries. This is to be used for the National Auxiliary Cancer Aid and Research program. Anyone having tapes may donate them to any auxiliary member for this purpose. The Auxiliary continues to sell the small attractive pins in the shape of the Mackinac Bridge with the proceeds also being donated for cancer. Pins are available from Arlene Staley or other Auxiliary members. Local members received cancer grants and cancer insurance payments from the National and State Auxiliaries, and it was reported that 207 cancer aid grants had been given in Michigan thus far in 1991. This is one of the benefits of membership in the VFW Ladies Auxiliary.

In other business, the Auxiliary voted to donate $180 to Camp Mt. McSaubia for scholarships for this summer's camp children. They also sent a donation to the VFW National Home for Children at Eaton Rapids, and contributions for memorials to Patricia Olack and Robert Bergman were sent to the National Home the past month.

It was announced the Department Convention will take place in Lansing June 20-23. Delegates will be nominated for the convention. Delegates also attended the 13th District Meeting in Traverse City May 5.

Installation of officers for the 1991-92 term were installed in an impressive ceremony. Isabel Sidel, Past President, was the installing officer. Those installed for the coming year included: President, Angelina Borish, Sr. Vice Pres., Clara Parsel, Jr. Vice Pres., Marilyn Finch, Secretary, Eleanor Curtis, Treasurer, Beverly Plum, Chaplain, Rosalyn Goldstick, Conductress, Arlene Staley, Patriotic Instructor, Betty White, Officer of officers and flag bearers will be installed at a later date.

Plans were also made to participate in the Memorial Day Parade in Charlevoix Monday, May 27th. Auxiliary members will wear blue jackets, red shirts, and white slacks. All are asked to participate in the parade. Children will participate with special uniforms. Cars will be available for those who are unable to march.

Jordan Valley officers installed

The Jordan Valley Veterans of Foreign War 7580 recently installed new officers for the coming year. They are:

Joe Elliott, Commander; Harrison Elliott, Senior Vice Commander; Dick McKinnis, Jr. Vice Commander; Bob Santo, Advocate; Theo Jeffery, Quarter Master; Jim McKay, Officer of the Day; and Troy Newborn, Chaplain.

Sound-Lab studios records local talent

By Peg Ohle

As a youngster, Craig Shepard took piano lessons, but he didn't like to play what someone else wrote. He didn't like to sit still, either, so after a while, he, or his mother or his piano teacher ended the lessons.

Then, when he was in the Charlevoix Middle School, he heard The Monkeys on television and thought they were great. A short while later, he teased his mother into buying him a Beatles record at Oleson's, and his happiness was complete.

That is the way Shepard explains his beginnings in the music business. He progressed through the Middle School and High School bands and today he plays most key, string and percussion instruments. He has also composed 200 or more songs, many of which he has recorded.

Shepard also runs the Sound-Lab Recording Studios south of Charlevoix which produces record albums and provides "behind the glass" facilities for local artists.

Shepard got his start in recording while serving with the United States Army in Germany from 1983 to 1987, when he was able to experiment and work with different kinds of equipment. As he explains it, "When I returned home, I had all this equipment and decided to do something with it."

He also said that his company is directed toward developing art, although the "bottom line" is considered. "There is so much talent around, closet musicians who are never heard. They need a chance. No matter how far-fetched an idea may be, it can be put on tape," he continued.

Two local musicians, George Scholey and Jim Marquardt, use the Sound-Lab facilities regularly. Shepard would like to add some bands to his list of artists. He would also be available for recording musical programs in churches or other buildings. "I can move my equipment around. This kind of recording is good because it's live and we get the full feeling of the performance," he said.

But recordings at Sound-Lab need not be musical productions. They can be personal greetings, recollections, or any type of message designed to be kept for years to come.

Shepard and Sound-Lab offer several individual services not offered by other recording studios, according to Shepard.

They do not charge extra for the use of Sound-Lab musical instruments. The cost is included in the studio fee. Sound-Lab gives 15 minutes of free set-up time for those who bring their own instruments. If they have to play a track, there is no extra fee. Shepard goes out to meet his clients. They know him as a person and he gives them individual attention.

Sound-Lab is part of Intervention Music Unlimited, which offers other services. They are a talent network, a booking agency, and they have connections with major record labels in New York and California.

Further information about Sound-Lab and related services may be obtained by calling Shepard at 547-0253.

CHURCH

Obituaries

Arthur Lee Simpson

Arthur Lee Simpson 36, formerly of Charlevoix, died May 10, 1991, in Torrance, Calif.

Funeral was Friday, May 17, at the Winchester Funeral Home, Charlevoix. The Rev. Clarence E. Fritz of the First Baptist Church officiated with burial in Brookside Cemetery, Charlevoix.

Mr. Simpson was born July 2, 1954, in Port Huron, the son of Clifford J. and Elva G. (McVey)

Simpson. He grew up in Charlevoix and graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1973.

He enjoyed sports and played football in high school.

After graduation, Mr. Simpson resided in Florida for a short time before moving to Arizona. He has been a resident of Phoenix, Ariz., for the past seven years where he worked as a carpenter in the construction industry.

He is survived by his mother, Elva G. Simpson of Charlevoix; one sister, Judy Murray of Charlevoix; three brothers, William R., Ronald J. and Mark L. Simpson, all of Charlevoix; his fiancée, Nancy Carley of Phoenix.

He was preceded in death by his father, Clifford, in 1969.

Arrangements were handled by the Winchester Funeral Home. Memorials to the family are suggested.

Mary Frances Marchewka

Mary Frances Marchewka, 82, of Norwood, died May 15, 1991, at her home.

Funeral services were Monday, May 20, at St. Peter and Paul Catholic Church in Chicago.

Mrs. Marchewka was born Nov. 9, 1908, in Poland, the daughter of Tony and Frances (Mallek) Praczal. She moved to the United States and Chicago at the age of 15.

On Sept. 5, 1936, she married Joseph Marchewka in Chicago. They resided in Milwaukee for one year before returning to Chicago.

They have been residents of Norwood Township for the past 13 years.

Mrs. Marchewka was a member of St. Mary's Church in Charlevoix and loved gardening, flowers and picking mushrooms.

She is survived by her husband; two sons, Eugene and his wife Sandra of Broken Arrow, Okla. and Richard and his wife Laima of Chicago, Ill.; two daughters, Mrs. Walter (Jeanette) Gallas of Naperville, Ill. and Mrs. George (Alice) Phillips of Carol Stream.

Ill. 12 grandchildren; two great-grandchildren; two brothers, Adam and Joseph Pruczal, both of Chicago.

Nazarene Church celebrates mortgage burning

The Charlevoix Church of the Nazarene celebrated the burning of the church mortgage this past Sunday morning. The guest speaker for the service was Rev. Milton Hoos, church district superintendent. Former pastors of the church were also asked to give a short greeting.

A spaghetti dinner in the fellowship hall followed the service.

Senior bowlers wrap up year

The Charlevoix Senior Citizens Bowling League finished their season with a bowling banquet at the Barnard Grange, May 9.

The first place team for the 1991 season was "The Zappers" whose members are Frank Cellner, Irene Cellner, Dolly Coen and Theola Elzinga.

The annual meeting took place after lunch with election of next years officers and minor by-law changes. The officers for 1991-1992 season are Sherry Black, President, Bob Black, V. President, Betty Bergmann, Secretary and Lloyd Cummings, Treasurer.

Anyone 50 years or older is welcome to join the senior citizens next fall. New bowlers and subs are needed. Contact the center at 547-5361 if you are interested.

Bob James kicks off concert series

The "Midsummer Music Magic" with the Northwood Orchestra begins soon as keyboard wizard/composer Bob James launches the season on a high note.

James will perform at The Barn at Dunmaglas Saturday, July 13 in a special benefit concert for the Northwood Orchestra. This concert marks the beginning of the orchestra's 13th season in Harbor Springs and its second year at Dunmaglas in Charlevoix.

Throughout his musical career, the universally admired jazz virtuoso has never shied away from taking on the musical status quo. "I like to shake up people's expectations," he says. A master of both electronic jazz keyboard music and the classic concert grand piano, his work spans a wide range of musical interests. One of his most highly visible accomplishments has been the theme for the TV comedy series, "Taxi."

Oh Boix

Navy Seaman Recruit Steven G. Rogers, son of David W. Rogers of 07569 Charlevoix View Drive, Charlevoix, has completed recruit training at Recruit Training Command, San Diego.

During Rogers' eight-week training cycle, he studied general military subjects designed to prepare him for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the Navy's 85 basic fields.

His studies included seamanship, close order drill, Naval history and first aid. Personnel who complete this course of instruction are eligible for three hours of college credit in Physical Education and Hygiene. A 1990 graduate of Corona Del Sol High School, Tempe, Ariz., he joined the Navy in December 1988.

Alan W. Lusk, son of Bill and Shirley Lusk of Charlevoix and a 1967 Charlevoix High School graduate, recently joined the Broadway & Seymour Corporation as Vice President, Regional Manager of the SCG Midwest Region based in St. Paul. Lusk previously was a Senior Manager with Price Waterhouse. Lusk and his wife, Lorna, have three children, Derek, 13, Kyle, 11, and Jordan, 8.

Three Charlevoix High School alumni were included on the spring semester Dean's List at Grand Valley State University. They were John OBrien, Jill L. Taylor and Krista Martin. To be included on the Dean's List a student must have a grade point average of 3.5 or better on a 4-point scale.

Concert to benefit pageant

A concert by "Da Yoopers" will take place at 8 p.m. Saturday May 25 at the East Jordan Civic Center. The show is open only to adults. People must be 18 or older to be admitted.

Proceeds from the concert will benefit the Miss East Jordan Scholarship Pageant fund.

Tickets are $7 in advance or $9 at the door. For additional information, phone 536-3133.

BEACONS

by Lowell Anderson

The Cross is more than a symbol of death. It is even more than the symbol of the sacrificial death of Jesus Christ who atoned for our sin. The cross is a symbol of God's Love. Even more, it is a symbol of God's love for His enemies!

Through the pen of Paul the Apostle the truth is expressed this way: "Christ died for us sinners who had no use for him." (Romans 5:6 Living Bible) He continues by adding, "... God showed His great love for us by sending Christ to die for us while we were still sinners." (Romans 5:8 TLB) So God's love for sinful mankind was not based on any merit whatsoever. The sacrificial death of Christ on the Cross was not an expression of God's love for those in whom He saw any merit, or for those who had any salvageable qualities. Christ died for those who had no use for Him!

So God's love, expressed in the Cross of Christ is unconditional. I cannot do enough good to earn it! I cannot do enough evil to spurn it!

Even though I do not merit God's love, and cannot earn it, I am not worthless. I am only unworthy. The fact that God would love me so much to send His only son to die for my sin indicated that He assigns fantastic worth to me even though I have no worth of my own.

This leads me to the concluding point: "And since by His blood He did all this for us as sinners, how much more will He do for us now that He has declared us not guilty?" (Romans 5:9 TLB) Christian, hold your head high, squeeze your shoulders! If God loved you when you were His enemy, how much more are you an object of His love as His child?

Petunias planted for a 10th year

The 10th annual petunia planting and picnic went off with military precision. Under the command of block captains, approximately 1,000 troops planted almost 50,000 petunias in one hour. The attack on the petunia beds began at 5 p.m. By 7:30 p.m., Operation Petunia chairman Dale Boss and his wife Marilyn had undertaken the first of many saturation bombing runs. This battle was not without its casualties. By 7 p.m. 960 hot dogs had fallen at the hands of the Rotarians and been consumed by Petunia planters. Once the battle was won, the planters celebrated in East Park to the music of The Larry Weikert Real Big Band. Candy Smith of Vital Options led some of the younger dancers.

Several awards of valor were awarded. Ralph McRae won the award for the oldest petunia planter. McRae also served as a block captain on the north side. At the other age extreme, the youngest family member to participate in the planting was only 17 days old.

Troy Bonar, a KCB board member who served as one of the south side block captains, was the first block captain to complete his offensive. He was assisted in rallying the troops by Chrissy Dillon.

Four block captains have participated every year since the petunia planting began. They are: Don Meggison, Frank Zednick, Ty Conklin and Tom Bergmann.

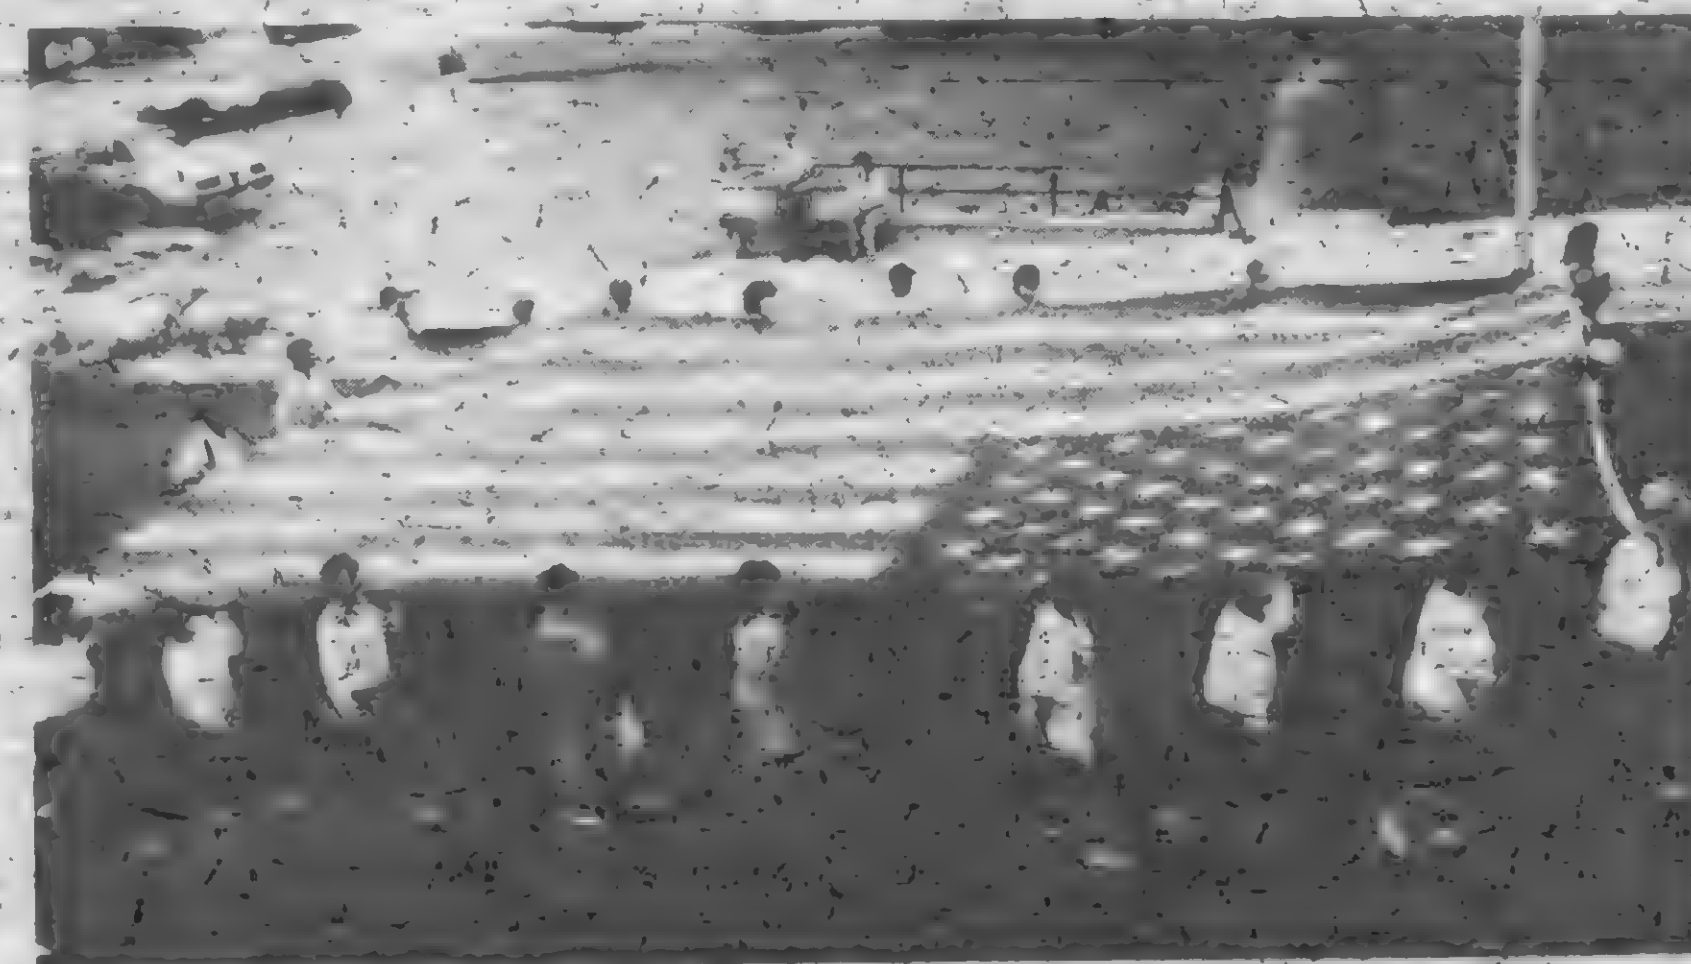

Several families devote almost a full day preparing for the planting. Assisted by Hal Hill, Bill Price and Charles Meier, Jr., these families are: Bob and Linda Boss; Sandra Boss and family; Barney and Chris Way.

Oleson's, Coca Cola, Pepperidge Farms and Burger King contributed food for the picnic. Dave Campbell of Wharfside Deli designed petunia cookies. Other businesses contributed gift certificates and other awards.

Jennifer Mosoryak displays one of the byproducts of the annual petunia planting. Jennifer and approximately 999 other people planted almost 50,000 petunias in an hour last Thursday. It marked Charlevoix's 10th annual petunia planting. (More photos on page 14).

Parents and other family members of Operation Desert Storm troops carried a large American flag in Charlevoix's Memorial Day parade. With the recent Persian Gulf War, this year's Memorial Day events took on a greater meaning for many people. Local veterans marched through town to the cemetery for a Memorial Service. Along the way, ceremonies took place at Memorial Bridge, in East Park and at Veteran's Memorial Park. (Additional photos on page 15).

Superintendent field narrowed to seven

The Charlevoix Board of Education has selected seven candidates for interviews from a field of 73 people who sent in applications. The board will begin interviewing candidates May 30 at the public library.

Candidates selected for interviews are:
Robert D. Spencer, who is currently superintendent of Central Montcalm Schools in Sheridan, Michigan.

John Meredith, who is currently superintendent of Hudson Schools in Hudson, Michigan.

Paul Setton, who is currently superintendent of Westmoreland Schools in Manhattan, Kansas.

Berry Argabrite, who is currently superintendent of Fostoria City Schools in Fostoria, Ohio.

Stephen Sexton, who is currently superintendent of Chadron Public Schools in Chadron, Nebraska.

E.T. Lon Luty, who was formerly superintendent of Fresno Schools in Fresno, California.

C. Dean Atkins, who is currently superintendent of Dansville Schools in Dansville, Michigan.

The board of education is looking to replace Charlevoix's current superintendent, Gordon Van Wieren, who announced his retirement earlier this year and who will be concluding his service with the school system at the end of June.

Kara Funk, a Michigan Association of School Boards consultant hired by the board to assist them in the process of hiring a new superintendent indicated that the field of applicants was strong both in quantity and quality.

They had a tremendous list, Funk said of the board's field of applicants. She said that on aver-

Forty-seven Charlevoix Elementary School third grade students and their chaperones traveled to Beaver Island last week. The Beaver Island adventure is an annual field trip taken by the school children.

The pētūmā planting is primarily funded by proceeds from a summer pētūmā Party which will take place in conjunction with a Pōhānction. This year's party and a pōhānction will be held on the 11th of by the 50-piece Northwood Symphony Orchestra. Seating is limited. Approximately 150 of them have been sold in recent weeks.

"A friend and I were exchanging tips on how to handle a steady stream of houseguests during July and August."

"How do you catch-up with your own life?" I asked. "After all, one needs a day now and then to do laundry and pay bills."

"I send them to Mackinac Island or Beaver Island or down the Jordan River," my friend smiled knowingly.

"Yes, of course! That was then and this is now and things are changing. Fortunately, this summer there will be a great many new things for visitors to do right here in Charlevoix."

For starters there are three different mini-cruises offered visitors, all leaving from Round Lake. The Moyageur, a 105 ft. cabin cruiser, is scheduled to make two trips to Boyne City every day. It is also available for charter. The daytime cruise leaves Charlevoix at 11 o'clock and returns about 3:30. The evening cruise leaves at 5:00 and returns at 9:00. For $17.50 one may purchase snacks and beverages aboard, or one may opt for the luncheon package deal at Stafford's Number One Water Street Restaurant. This is priced at $24. The dinner package deal is priced at $34.50. Children under twelve are charged less.

The second scenic cruise is offered by Ward Brothers, on the custom built, 56 ft. double deck, tour boat, Miss Charlevoix. Two hour cruises, depending on weather, are scheduled daily, leaving Ward's at 12:30, 4:30 and 7:30 p.m. The rate for adults is $14 and $7 for children under 12.

The third cruise offered this year for the first time is aboard an 85 ft. schooner called Appledore. Her beam measures almost 19 ft. Two hour cruises are scheduled at 11:00, 2:00 and 5:00, subject to change without notice. Light snacks and refreshments are for sale on board. The price is $18 for adults and $11 for children. The 8 o'clock sunset cruise is priced at a little higher.

In addition to visitors enjoying Lake Charlevoix cruises, there will be not one, but two free band concerts every week in the park this summer. The usual Wednesday evening 8 p.m. concert will be augmented by a Saturday 1 p.m. concert in the park, thanks to the auspices of the Charlevoix Convention and Visitors Bureau. A nifty variety of entertainment is scheduled for July, August and September.

Speaking of concerts, you'll be interested to know that the Barn at Dunmaglas is hosting a return of the popular Northwood Symphony programs starting July 13 through August 3. Featured are such luminaries as Bob James and Alexei Sultanaov at the keyboard, and Byron Stripling and Al Hirt, jazz trumpeters extraordinaire.

REASONABLE TO ME

Blame it on the refs

Ain't even June and the professional basketball season is already over for us Detroit Piston basketball fans. Now don't that just gnaw ya right in the hip pocket?

Those twinks from Chicago, in concert with their friends the referees, went and defeated the defending champs.

Well, I suppose it could have been worse. The Pistons could have lost to that green slime from the East Coast.

But beating Boston and losing to Chicago is small consolation. It's only going to take a few more Michael Jordan interviews before it gets to be just as easy to hate Chicago as it was to hate Boston. And that's saying something. Because Boston is a pretty easy team to hate.

Even though the Chicago series only took four games, that was plenty of time to get sick and tired of hearing Jordan cry about the Pistons "dripping up" the game of basketball.

For Piston fans the mystery is solved. Why can Michael Jordan jump so high? Because he's nothing but a lightweight.

And what's Jordan whining about anyway? Jordan didn't get pounded on half as much as Detroit's Mark Aguirre. And did Aguirre get any breaks from the refs? Noooo! He just had to pick his butt up off the floor (and for a guy built like Aguirre, that's no small chore) and drag it back down to the other end of the court.

Now, the National Basketball Association (NBA) has rules prohibiting players and coaches from criticizing the referees. If any of the Piston players or coaches had the nerve to say they thought the officiating in the series was pretty shaky, they'd quickly get word from the commissioners' office. "Here, Here. There'll be none of this freedom of speech stuff."

Due to some heinous oversight in professional basketball's scouting system, I am neither a player nor a coach in the NBA. That has its drawbacks in that I don't make millions; but on the up side I can hoot on the referees. And if the commissioners office chooses to call me and complain about it, they'll hear some language which will give them a whole new outlook on the term "flagrant foul."

The Pistons entered game three of the Chicago series down 2-0 in games and down by a ratio of about 2 to 1 in free throws attempted and down by an even larger amount in time spent in free-throw bonus situation. Coincidence? I think not. The officiating was, for whatever reason, out of balance.

Even though I'm criticizing NBA officiating, I want this to be taken in the right light. I want it to be taken as constructive criticism. With that in mind, I feel that I am compelled not only to point out that I feel there was something wrong with the officiating, but also to point out some possible reasons as to why the officiating was so decidedly lopsided.

And so... I give you... L. Scott Swanson's Top 10 List of... Why the Referees Stunk in the Pistons-Bulls Series.

10. Although it was invisible to mere mortals, there was a little booth and counter at the midcourt line where the referees were required to "cheek their whistles" prior to entering the Piston's offensive end of the court.

9. The referees' dogs refused to lead them to the Piston's offensive end of the court.

8. The referees' games were painted red and white, similar to the Bulls' team colors.

7. The referees are afflicted with arachnophobia. They don't like Spiders (or worms).

6. Bill Cartwright shoots free throws in a peculiar manner which the referees find "fun to watch."

5. The referees figured anybody who smokes as mischievously as Isaiah Thomas must be up to something.

4. Dennis Rodman refuses to divulge his barber's name so the referees can get neat haircuts like the one he's got.

3. The referees figure Bill Laimbeer is shy and they're doing him a favor by getting him in foul trouble so he won't have to "stay out there on the court in front of all those people."

2. In old gangster movies, anybody dressed like Chuck Daly was always the bad guy.

And number 1.....

Yes, number 1 - As a referee, you've got to protect Jordan, because even light contact could mess up his hair.

There you have it. I suppose the officialdom of the NBA might find this list offensive... but unless they first find somebody willing to read it to 'em.

Letters to the Editor:

Pool efforts to continue

On May 13, over 1,900 voters in the Charlevoix School district participated in the special bond issue referendum for construction of a community pool on school property. Those of us who have worked hard promoting the concept of an indoor public pool in Charlevoix are obviously disappointed with the results of the vote, but we feel it is important for the community to know that we are not giving up.

We do not believe the 1,163 voters who voted "no" were necessarily opposed to a community pool. What they were opposed to was school involvement and the possibility of higher taxes. These are understandable concerns, particularly in the context of the state of the economy today and the growing focus on educational priorities.

In the days before the bond issue vote, we heard the indoor community pool described as a "luxury," something that would be nice to have if it was given to us, but not something on which tax dollars should be spent.

Frankly, we do not consider a facility with the primary functions of water safety instruction and health improvement a luxury. Further, we do not plan to sit patiently and wait for an angel to descend out of the blue with a $2.29 million check.

What we do plan to do is continue to evaluate all our options and develop new strategy accordingly. Anything less would betray the support for the pool voiced by 717 Charlevoix School District voters and our many donors who have helped us raise over $410,000 to use as operating funds for a community pool.

What are our options following the bond issue vote? For one thing, we feel that the $2.29 million price tag can be adjusted substantially. By working through the design, engineering and construction costs thoroughly, we believe that a much lower overall cost would be attained.

Taking the clear message from the voters opposing school involvement, we'll now shift our focus to other possible sites. At present there are, at least six sites we are studying within the city and Charlevoix Township. Included in these are some very appropriate locations that would tie in nicely with existing recreational facilities and thus enhance our application for state recreational bond fund support.

In terms of the financial outlay that will be required for any scale facility, we will continue to approach the task creatively and resourcefully. We are not bound by traditional thinking. We are opening our minds to any and all possibilities and believe that innovative solutions may well exist that could write new chapters in public-project financing.

We feel it is crucial at this point to reaffirm our resolve. We are satisfied that the school bond issue was decided fairly and that the school district voters expressed a clear message.

However, our response to that message is not to close up shop and abandon the idea of an indoor community pool, but to use it positively as a guideline in future strategy. A community pool on school property built with a $2.29 million bond issue was just one option.

We shall now proceed with the many others that remain.

Not to be missed, on the outskirts of Charlevoix, on Monday, June 24 - historic Bay View is hosting the Crooked Tree Arts Council House Tour for the second time, and on July 10, the Annual Charlevoix House Tour will be held. Both events are all day affairs that we should try to attend with our guests, if at all possible.

In addition to the above, there are the usual events, such as the Craft Show in the Park, Venetian Festival, two Art Fairs, sidewalk sales, yard races, and charity auctions.

On rainy days, you might suggest a free visit to the Charlevoix Historical Society as a good alternative to shopping. There's a lot of nostalgia here for families to enjoy.

Come to think of it, why not just pop in to the Chamber of Commerce and pick up one of their brand new, attractive booklets that gives your visitors all the information they need, and possible even more than they care to know. Maybe they will just want to fish, play tennis, golf or toll on the beach, at least for the first couple of days.

Thanks for field day

Editor,

On behalf of the special education students of the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District and parents of the Little Traverse Enterprises, Bergmann Center, Gaylord Opportunity Center and Antrim-Kalkaska Industries, we would like to thank the Charlevoix service organizations which sponsored the 10th Annual Charlevoix Invitational Field Day on Friday, May 10.

We would also like to thank the people who provided the entertainment at the opening ceremonies and after dinner.

Our thanks also go to the many volunteers who helped make the day such a success.

A different view of Hayes Twp.

Editor,

Edith Gilbert left out a few things when she tried to describe Hayes Township in her article of 5-15-91. She only mentioned the things that appeal to big city and society folk. Let me add a few things to the list that the people who live in Hayes Township see and enjoy.

Hayes Township is: rolling hillsides green in summer; multicolored in fall and sparkling white in winter. Woods, wetlands, blue sky, deer rabbits, raccoons, skunks, horses, goats, sheep, swans, ducks, blue jays, yellow finch, tree swallows, barn swallows, red wing blackbirds, doves, woodpeckers, chipmunks, squirrels, creeks, small lakes with turtles (snapper and painter), frogs, toads, fish, grilling wild mustard, lady slippers, farms, gardens, valleys, trails in the woods, hunting, fishing, swimming, open spaces between houses, small hidden parks, quiet nights, singing birds in the morning, stars at night (northern lights and shooting stars from time to time), hawks, owls, bees, wasps, fruit trees for them to work in, barns, boys working on automobiles, snowmobiles and trail bikes. Casual blue jean living, the sound of crickets and frogs at night, fireflies, private wells, clean fresh air that even feels good. Hay, straw, a chance for a child's imagination to soar. Flora and fauna in conditions that God created and man cannot even begin to duplicate.

What Hayes Township is not: Cement, asphalt, tall buildings, rows of houses with only the width of a paved driveway between, honking horns, industrial parks, factories, city lights that block out the stars, high crime, neighbors that feel or appear nosy even when they are not, parking lots, broken sidewalks, fenced in yards, heavy rules about what you can and cannot have in your yard. Traffic jams, red lights by the score, big resorts that block the view of the hillside and lake, high society, lots of restaurants, cars fighting for a space on the road so they can be first, night clubs, bright flashing lights, high profits to the point where that is all that matters.

The things on both lists have their place. Most people like list two but many people also like list one. Some people who prefer list two think they have to expand all the time into list one as if they are deprived. They call this progress. Too much progress becomes destruction. People who like list one do not bother people of list two. If the things on list one die and fade away, so will the things on list two.

The people of Hayes Township are fighting to keep this from happening to beautiful northern Michigan-Charlevoix County in particular. We have to sacrifice a few things and pay more for some conveniences, but we do so for the privilege of living in the wide open spaces. For the most part we are year-round residents and like it that way. We are working people trying to earn a living. We can't afford $400,000 "condos." We make do with what we can get. Many of us built our own homes or added to and remodeled old ones. The people of Hayes Township have said NO to fast over development. There are places in Hayes where you can build one home on less than 5 acres. Why do developers buy property that they know is not zoned for what they want and then decide they have the right to sue because they can't get their own way later? When is someone going to build homes that people who earn less than $20,000.00 a year can afford?

Sincerely,
George and Robbin Kraft

Charlevoix's Coolman among Annapolis grads

Russell Coolman, a 1987 graduate of Charlevoix High School, will be among the 1991 graduates of the U.S. Naval Academy in Annapolis, Maryland. Commencement ceremonies are scheduled for May 29.

Coolman, the son of John and Dianne Coolman, recently was back in Charlevoix.

"It's been a satisfying experience," he said of his four years at the academy.

Coolman was nominated to the academy by Congressman Bob Davis. Coolman said he would like to see more Charlevoix graduates look into academy appointments. He conceded that many of his Academy classmates came from prestigious private schools, but noted that he made it through and sees no reason why other students from Charlevoix can't do the same thing.

Russell Coolman

Following graduation, Coolman will serve as an Ensign on the U.S.S. Vicksburg, a guided missile cruiser which is still under construction. Prior to reporting to the ship, he will continue his education for nine months in Newport Rhode Island.

School board to discuss bus schedule

The possibility of changing the elementary school's daily starting time and consequently changing the school bus schedule will be discussed again at the school board's June 3 meeting. The meeting will take place at the Public Library on Clinton Street.

Changing the opening time and bus schedule was discussed by the board at an earlier meeting and drew differing opinions from elementary teachers and elementary school parents. Discussion will be continued at the June 3 meeting.

Cruises new, and yet not so new in ways

By Peg Ohle

Three new cruise ships will be offering pleasure trips on Lake Charlevoix and surrounding waters this summer.

The largest, the 105-foot "Voyager," will serve the Lake Charlevoix ports of Boyne City and Charlevoix, as well as Harbor Springs, Petoskey, Beaver Island, Suttons Bay, and Traverse City.

It will accommodate 150 passengers who just want to take a ride or use the boat as a party spot.

"Miss Charlevoix," a custom-built 56-foot double-deck cruiser, will make two-hour day and evening excursions for up to 100 passengers.

The third boat is an 85-foot schooner, the "Appledore," which will offer two-hour windjammer cruises on Lake Charlevoix, driven by pure northern air. The "Appledore" will operate only out of Charlevoix.

The addition of these new lake cruises on Lake Charlevoix brings to mind that once lake travel was the only way to reach Charlevoix.

Rail service did not reach Charlevoix until June of 1892. Before that, travelers to Charlevoix from the south took a Gand Rapids and Indiana train to Boyne Falls, then a stage coach to Boyne City, where they boarded a boat to cross Pine Lake (now Lake Charlevoix) to Charlevoix.

A vivid description of one such trip is contained in "Bob Miles Charlevoix." The description is written by Frank Hines, a young pharmacist who came to Charlevoix in 1879 to open a drug store.

It was a pleasure to step aboard a trim little ship called the "Gazelle." She made the run from Boyne City to Charlevoix in an hour and 20 minutes. The lake was like glass and she cut it so smoothly, leaving waves astern on either side. I spent most of my time on the upper deck up in front, really pleasant. The weather was still muggy hot. We had just passed a busy town to the left called Ironton, where smoke seemed to be pouring out of every building when it cooled off suddenly. The captain explained it was not so unusual for the area all around Charlevoix seemed to be tempered by Lake Michigan, both summer and winter. It seemed so good to get away from that heat. Charlevoix is a sleepy little village, most of the activity seems to be on the water.

It is not known whether the "Gazelle" traveled to other Pine Lake ports, but it is known that by 1887 two other "pleasure steamers," the "Thomas Friant" and the "Lou A. Cummings" were making regular daily trips to East Jordan, Charlevoix, Petoskey, and Harbor Springs. These trips were so popular that a couple of years later, the "Thomas Friant" added an upper deck, increasing its capacity.

But even before boat travel on Lake Charlevoix was directed toward commuter and pleasure trips, there were busy comings and goings of tugboats towing schooners laden with lumber from such ports as Boyne City to Charlevoix for trans-shipment to Lake Michigan cities.

History recalls that in 1866, A. Fox & Co. used a tugboat, the "Commodore Nutt," on Pine Lake to tow their wood from different ports around the lake to their dock on Lake Michigan in Charlevoix. This was said to be the first steam craft to "part the waters" of Pine Lake.

Through the years, other boats played their part in the growth of Charlevoix and the other lake ports. One tugboat, the "Minnie Warren" was instrumental in digging out the Pine River Channel from Lake Michigan to Round Lake so larger boats could be accommodated on Pine Lake.

That made it possible for Lake Michigan steamers like "The Laurence" and the "Champlain" to make side trips to Boyne City, where they did a lucrative business in freight and passenger service.

In later years, in fact in memory of many local residents, even larger steamers like "The North American," "South American," and the "Manitou" brought resorters to Charlevoix and made the city an important stop on their Great Lakes cruises.

Charlevoix is no longer a lumber port, but it is a resort city and the new cruise boats will be a welcome addition to the many vacation "things to do" while in the city.

CHURCH

The Grand Rapids Symphony entertained more than a 1,000 elementary and middle school students at Charlevoix High School last week. The afternoon concert for the students was followed by an evening concert for both students and adults. The symphony was brought to the community by the Charlevoix Council for the Arts.

Alumni band rehearsals begin

The Charlevoix Alumni Band under the direction of Gary Stutzman will begin rehearsals at 7 p.m. Monday, June 3 in the Charlevoix Middle School band room. The band is forming to play at the dedication of the new Odmark Band Pavilion scheduled for July 20.

Music will be chosen to enable everyone who wishes to play to feel comfortable. There will be some instruments available for use or for rent. It should be possible for any and all who wish to participate.

The Odmark Pavilion in East Park is a tribute to former Charlevoix band director Clarence (Odie) Odmark.

For additional information about the dedication ceremony of the alumni band contact Stutzman at 526-2757 or Evelyn Wujcik at 547-6376.

Shupert to give piano recital

Amy Shupert, a piano student who has studied for several years under the instruction of Jeanne Jensen, will give a piano recital at 2 p.m., June 1 at the Community Church of God on Huribut Street.

The recital will be weighted heavily to classical composers including Chopin, Bach, Debussy, Beethoven, Clementi, and others. The recital will last slightly more than an hour. There is no charge to attend and everyone is welcome.

Shupert is a Charlevoix High School senior who intends to further her study of piano at college following high school graduation. She has been studying piano with Jensen for eight years. She also teaches piano lessons to beginning students.

Oh Boix!

A compilation of praises won by Charlevoix people for good deeds, good work and hard work.

Terry Lynn Rosinsky-Ducak, a 1968 graduate of Charlevoix High School recently graduated Magna Cum Laude from Central Michigan University. Rosinsky-Ducak received a Bachelor's Degree with a major in elementary education.

Rosinsky-Ducak currently lives in Saginaw. She is the daughter of Harcy and Dorothy Rosinsky, formerly of Charlevoix. While at CMU, Rosinsky-Ducak was a member of Phi Beta Kappa, the National Teachers Honor Society, Kappa Gamma and the National State Reading Society.

M. Richard Thayer and Brian C. Wilmot are included among the spring graduates at Michigan Technological University. Thayer received a Bachelor of Science degree in metallurgical engineering. Wilmot received a Bachelor of Science degree in electrical engineering.

City elections spark only limited interest

City elections should be quiet this year in comparison to recent years. Only one of four seats up for election is contested.

Second ward council representative Buich Russell is being challenged by Janice McKay. First ward representative Cheri Hoffman and third ward representative Patricia Gaskin face no opposition.

JoAnne Patrick has filed for the position of city clerk. Arlene Staley, the present city clerk, is not seeking reelection.

The filing deadline for city candidates was May 14. Since no more than two people filed for any one seat, there will be no primary election. The general election is scheduled for May 5 with those elected taking office in January for two-year terms.

New cleaning service comes to the area

CHEM-DRY Carpet Cleaning of Acme has opened a northern Michigan office on Pleasant Street in Petoskey and plans on opening another office in Charlevoix in the near future.

Karen Sweet, franchisee for the CHEM-DRY process, explains that it is a totally new cleaning method which uses carbon dioxide to produce carbonated bubbles that penetrate into carpet fibers to dissolve most dirt, grease, and pet stains in seconds, then lift the dirt to the surface for extraction.

"Carpet dry in seconds because only small amounts of water are used and it usually takes less than two hours to clean carpets in an average size house", Sweet explained. CHEM-DRY works in homes, commercial buildings, boats, and hotels and does upholstery as well as carpets.

Further information is available by calling CHEM-DRY at 348-3362 or 1-800-835-1466.

Many plants like the shade

(Editor's note: The following story is one in a series being provided to the Courier by the Charlevoix Area Garden Club in an effort to help the many people who strive to make Charlevoix a greener, more beautiful place.)

Many of the most popular flowers grown here, such as zinnias, marigolds, roses, etc. require a lot of sunlight, but there are many plants that do their best when not exposed to much sunlight.

Shade comes in varying degrees, all the way from the dappled sunlight found under high branching trees with small leaves to the deep shade on the North side of large buildings or in thick groves of mature shade trees.

There are a few plants that will grow even in deeply shaded areas. The evergreen hollyhock, Euonymus radicans vegetus, is about the only shrub that will grow there. It is more a vine than a shrub and has small red and white berries and neat, shiny leaves that stay on the branches until the following spring. A few perennials, such as the various hostas (funkies or plantain lilies) thrive without sunlight. These form clumps of oval leaves and have dainty white or lavender bell-shaped flowers in late summer. Most ferns do well in deep shade as well as some ground covers such as ivy, hellebores, the valley and bishop's goutweed, a fast spreading plant, about 8" high with light green or white-tipped leaves and flowers like Queen Anne's lace.

In areas where the shade is not quite so deep, which receive some dappled sunlight, the choice of plants widens. Virginia Bluebells, forget-me-nots, violets and periwinkle will grow well, also impatiens and begonias, both the fibrous and the tuberous kinds.

In areas that are only shady during part of the day, which receive a few hours of sunlight in the morning or late afternoon a variety of perennials will thrive, such as columbines, daylilies, bleeding heart, bell flowers, coral bells, candytuft and bee balm. These plants are also ideal for all spring flowering bulbs which are grateful for some shade during the hottest part of the summer. Some annuals which will do well in part shade, besides impatiens, are lobelia, flowering tobacco, coleus and some pennants.

Since soil and light conditions vary widely, it is hard to give more than just general guidelines.

If plants grow taller than expected, straggly on weak stems and bloom poorly they do not receive enough sunlight. If they stay very low and short, stemmed and the leaves have dry edges or turn reddish brown, the plants receive too much sunlight.

Day of the Eagle June 1 and 2

The 10th Annual Day of the Eagle Pow Wow, a Traditional Gathering, is being hosted by the Anishinabe Inter Tribal Council, Inc. in East Jordan.

The two day event begins Saturday, June 1 and continues through the late afternoon of June 2.

Head Veteran Dancer is Jack Chambers. Head Male Dancer is Joe Mitchell. Head Female Dancer is Veronica Medicine. Host Drum is Smokey Town.

The public is invited to partake of a bit of the culture of the Native American people of the Great Lakes Region.

Spectators can expect to see some of the finest Native American craftsmanship available at many of the traders' booths. Jewelry, pottery, basketry and beadwork are all a part of the arts and crafts available for inspection and purchase.

The dance arena will be the focal point of the pow wow. In the center of the arena stands the Drum Arbor, covered with a roof of cedar. Under the shade of the cedar boughs, the Drum, the Heartbeat of Mother Earth, can be heard. Dancers, in native dress, listening to the drum for direction, dance as they have for many generations.

The pow wow is just one way to keep the culture of the Native Americans alive. Families travel together and participate in dancing, singing and drumming.

The Day of the Eagle Pow Wow officially starts at 1 p.m. Saturday, June 1 with Grand Entry into the dance arena. Gates will open to the public at 10 a.m. June 1 and 2. Rustic camping is available for traders and dancers.

Admission is $5 for two days, per person, or $3 per day at the gate. There is free parking on the grounds on a first serve basis. Traders fee is $50 for the weekend or $35 dollars a day.

No alcohol, drugs, firearms or pets are allowed on the grounds.

Lexalite: The business of shedding light

Editor's Note: The following story is one of a series of stories on local industries being written for the Courier by Ralph McRae. This story concerns Lexalite International Corporation and is a continuation of a story which began in the May 15 edition of the Courier.

By Ralph McRae
In the business office the figures of $1,875,000 were prominently displayed for every one to see. The figure is a reminder that the factory has many orders on hand.

Leaving the business office, one sees stacks of corrugated shipping paper that will later be used as shipping boxes. A few steps farther and one enters the fast working area. Visitors are overwhelmed by the sight of a jungle of jumbo sized molding machines separated by two wide brick walkways.

At first, it seems that the employees are all gone on a lunch break. But then as you proceed down the walkway, people are seen in front of the machines. The people are dwarfed by the steel monsters.

The machines mold various plastic products. After the machine completes its task, the operator reaches in and pulls out a finished plastic component. Finished pieces are inspected and those which are rejected are reground into plastic pellets for later use. Computer-controlled movements keep the light fixture production in constant motion until a run, or order, is completed.

The plant's work schedule is divided into three daily shifts. Equipment operators show up 15 minutes before taking over their shift responsibilities so that there is a smooth transition from one shift to the next. Most employees prefer the day shift, but the afternoon and midnight shifts do allow for more day time recreational activities.

Coming out of the injection molds are objects of various shapes. Some are round or square. Others are perfectly flat lenses. Other plastic fixtures include huge refractors, various sized tubular shades and some ordinary covers for wall and ceiling lamps. The smallest item produced weighs less than an ounce. The heaviest weighs 10 pounds. Thousands of traffic lights are shipped to every part of the country.

Raw plastic pellets for the plant are shipped in 1,200 pound units. The small colorful products are produced by the oil and natural gas industries. Each year, Lexalite uses approximately 4.5 million pounds of acrylic and 3.5 million pounds of poly-carbonate pellets.

Before entering the forming chambers, pellets are dried and go through a magnetic device that removes all metal fragments. Pellets are then fed into an augering tube that has a thick-walled outer steel casing which can be heated. Heat and friction in the tube generate temperatures between 450 and 800 degrees and melt the pellets into a flowing liquid.

From the tube, the molten plastic is injected into thin spaces between two molding sections. The moving section of the mold is called the core while the stationary section is called the cavity. Hydraulic pressure of up to 1,500 tons is used to squeeze the plastic in the mold.

Water is used to cool the plastic. The moving mold pulls back to reveal a gleaming finished product which a gloved operator pulls from the machine. A $30,000 computerized program reading screen shows allows a person to watch all parts of the process.

Plant operations can be viewed from an overhead tramway. A 40-foot steel beam is suspended at about the same level as the tramway and can be used to move heavy machinery within the work area.

The largest injection molding machine in the plant weighs 250,000 pounds. Just transporting it to Charlevoix cost $25,000. Purchased in 1985 for $650,000, the machine took eight months to assemble. The machine's specialty is making the best selling large optical, light-diffusing ceiling refractor.

Other processes in the plant include: Spraying lamp covers with paint so they resemble metal parts. The paint is dried by using conveyor belts to pass the parts under infrared heat.

Using a small electric molding machine to make postage-stamp sized lenses for the automobile industrial lighting.

A vital factor in all of the manufacturing processes is water. Water in a closed-loop system flows through the plant above the machines and drops down to cool machines as needed. Warm water goes into a surge tank and then into a heat exchanger. Water stays within the plant for less than a minute, then trickles through the atrium and into the fish pond. By the time it hits the fish pond, the water is only five degrees warmer than when it entered the system.

The most precise operation at Lexalite is making the molds. Molds start with identical pairs of chrome and nickel steel blocks. Following engineering designs, tool and die workers lathe, cut and grind the upper halves of the blocks. One block is milled to form the inner, or core, position of the mold. The other block is ground out to form the outer, or cavity, portion. Tolerances are so small and precise that it takes months to complete each mold. All surfaces contacting the plastics are hand polished for 200 hours.

Costing thousands of dollars each, many molds are on standby waiting to fill their own designated job order. Lexalite's mold-making abilities are so highly regarded in the plastic industry that many plastic suppliers send their experimental pellets to Charlevoix to be tested.

Cartons of finished products await shipment on the 12,000 square foot shipping dock. A dispatcher routes the two company owned trucks so that they return with loads of plastic pellets so the process may begin again.

(Writer's note: I am indebted to Dale Toppman, a former plant Operations Manager and currently Vice President. For nearly three hours, he took me through the plant.

Softball team advances with win 7-6 victory

Things got pretty scary, but in the end the Rayders softball team pulled out a 7-6 win over Elk Rapids to advance in district play.

Charlevoix trailed early in the game, but scored all seven of their runs in the fourth inning. Earlier in the season, the Rayders beat Elk Rapids in a fairly handy manner.

But the Elks put up a better fight in tournament play.

Tammy Holm took the pitching win for Charlevoix, allowing seven hits while walking four and striking out one.

The Rayders had eight hits, all but two of them coming in the decisive fourth inning.

Mary Jane Grunch came to bat in the fourth inning with the bases all cluttered with runners. She promptly tidied things up with a triple.

Stacy Tilton had two singles for Charlevoix while Tara Morrow, Heather Keller, Angelina Doan, Lori Darrah and Melissa Cox each had one hit.

Charlevoix now advances to district play and will play Mancelona Saturday, June 1 at Harbor Springs.

Charlevoix's Mike Sevinski clears a hurdle enroute to victory in the 300 meter hurdle race.

Baseball team finishes season with 11-16 record

The Charlevoix High School baseball team started well, but eventually crashed as they lost a 10-3 decision to Elk Rapids in pre-district play.

Wayne Joy got the Rayders off to a good start with a two-run home run in the second inning which gave Charlevoix a 3-0 lead.

But it was to be the Rayders' last run of the season. Elk Rapids, on the other hand, had several more they were yet to score.

Charlevoix managed only four hits in the game. In addition to Joy's home run, Corey Ostrum doubled while Jordan Spencer and Dan Terryberry each singled.

Guy Gengle took the pitching loss for Charlevoix. He struck out two and gave up on walks over 4 and one-third innings. Terryberry struck out five and gave up no walks in two innings of relief. Spencer mopped up the final two-thirds of an inning.

Charlevoix finishes the season with a record of 11-16 overall. The Rayders started the season reasonably well, but faded down the stretch.

With the win, Elk Rapids advances to district play Saturday, June 1 at Harbor Springs.

Boys and girls track teams both win conference titles

Although they won in different fashions, both Charlevoix's boys' and girls' track teams won Lake Michigan Division titles last week.

There was no suspense on the boys' side of the meet as the Rayders placed in every event and finished 74 points ahead of second place Kalkaska.

For the girls, it was a different story. Charlevoix trailed Kalkaska for most of the meet, but won the high jump and 1600 meter relay near the end of the day to overtake the Blue Blazers and win the meet by 10 points.

Charlevoix's boys added the division title to the regional crown they won a week earlier.

Charlevoix also won the 3200 meter relay with B.J. VanLoo; Zacharias, Paul Wakulski and Matt Stargardt, the 800 relay with Lane

Emig, Brian Coolman, Jason Frabis and Jason VanLoo and the 400 meter relay with Emig, Coolman, LaBlance and Jason VanLoo.

The Rayders' other winner was Mike Sevinski in the 300 meter hurdles.

The girls' team set five school records on their way to the division win.

Records were set by:

- The 1600 meter relay team of Kristen Rahville, Michelle Keem, Nicole Moore and Aimee Livingston.
- The 3200 meter relay team of Keem, Julie Bush, Lisa Conlan and Becky Bragg.
- Conlan in the 1600 meter race.
- Sheila Siegwart in the 300 meter hurdles.
- Carrie Wakulski in the discus.

Team totals for the meet were:

Boys

Charlevoix 166; Kalkaska 92; Harbor Springs 69; Mancelona 51; Traverse City St. Francis 47; Boyne City 46; East Jordan 31; Elk Rapids 25.

Girls

Charlevoix 125; Kalkaska 115; East Jordan 74; Elk Rapids 73; Boyne City 45; Traverse City St. Francis 32; Harbor Springs 16; Mancelona 16.

Charlevoix sophomore Matt Smith dominated the 800 and 1600 meter races in the Lake Michigan Division meet last Thursday. His teammate, Matt Stargardt, was the only 800 meter runner to keep Smith within shouting distance.

Michelle Keem ran on two relay teams which set school records during the Lake Michigan division track meet in Charlevoix last Thursday.

IN MEMORIAM 071

IN MEMORY OF BRIGGS
Never have I seen such a tremendous response to caring for a friend.
The giving of help, in every way so many have offered to lend.
For a woman, who in so many ways had given of herself.
To take the time, for all she knew that welcome is how they felt.
She had a warm heart, and so genuine was her never-ending smile.
When people came to visit Briggs she made it worth their while.
So many things remind me of her especially the sun.
Bright and happy, she had a way of reflecting on everyone.
When she was young, she married a man of whom she often boasted.
Together they were, for thirty-eight years. I think he will miss her most.
The gift of life, she gave five times and proud she is of each.
Part of her, in them they will take and to her grandchildren teach.
Let us reflect, and not forget what made her so unique.
Little things, she said or did of which we all could speak.
When she pleased the fun, to have one with the gang and proceeded to get giggly.
It would not be long, before she would say I believe I'm a little bit tickly.
And don't forget, whoever you are, whether having fun or fighting.
Your name may appear, in that mystery book she was forever writing.
Holidays she loved, and showed all of us what Christmas is about.
Every year, she always made sure no one was ever left out.
So many things, we could all mention. God knows that she'll be missed.
What comes to mind is this: We must now take the time, to say good-bye to a friend of many years.
Sadness is left, reality of grief followed by many tears.
There will never be another Briggs who had so much to give.
Though she is gone, I know in our hearts she'll forever continue to live.
The Legerman and Cunningham families.

ORDINANCE NO. 546

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND THE CODE OF THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX BY AMENDING SECTION 10.86 AND 10.91 AND ADDING SECTION 10.92 TO CHAPTER 148 OF TITLE X OF SAID CODE.

WHEREAS, Boats have been permanently moored off of Ferry Beach in waters subject to City jurisdiction for days or weeks at a time and thereby depriving boat visitors to Ferry beach of a place to temporarily moor their boats; and

WHEREAS, The City Council has determined that unobstructed access to Ferry Beach should be maintained, that no boat or vessel should be permitted to anchor off of the beach twenty-four hours a day and that boat mooring regulations should be reasonable consistent with parking lot regulations and the Charlevoix City Council having held a Public Hearing on this matter; and

WHEREAS, This Ordinance amends the current language of Sections 10.86, 10.91 and 10.92 of Chapter 148 of the City Code and replaces it with the language set forth below:

THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX ORDAINS:

1) That Section 10.86 of Chapter 148 of the Charlevoix City Code is hereby amended to read as follows:

10.86. USE OF FERRY BEACH CITY BOAT LAUNCHING RAMPS. It shall be unlawful for any person to moor or tie up at the Ferry Beach City launching docks unless the moorage is associated with the launching of a boat and in no shall said moorage exceed fifteen (15) minutes in length. The Charlevoix City Manager, his designee, or a member of the Charlevoix City Police Department (hereafter referred to as "city agents") shall have the authority to board any boat moored in violation of any provision of this chapter. These City agents may move the boat which is in violation of this chapter themselves or may cause it to be moved by an independent contractor. These City Agents may hold or cause the boat to be held until all costs incurred in the removal and storage have been paid.

2) That Section 10.91 of Chapter 148 of the Charlevoix City Code is hereby amended to read as follows:

10.91. TERM OF MOORING BOATS. It shall be unlawful to moor or anchor a boat or other vessel capable of travel on water within 250 feet from the shore of Ferry Beach between the hours of 2:00 a.m. and 4:00 a.m. The Charlevoix City Manager, his designee, or a member of the Charlevoix City Police Department (hereafter referred to as "city agents") shall have the authority to board any boat moored in violation of any provision of this chapter. Subject to the procedures set forth below, these City agents may move the boat which is in violation of this Chapter themselves or may cause it to be moved by an independent contractor. These City Agents may hold or cause the boat to be held until all costs incurred in the removal and/or storage have been paid. Prior to the removal of a boat which is in violation of this chapter, an agent of the City shall place a violation notice on the boat. If the boat remains in violation of this chapter for 48 hours after the placement of the violation notice, then the boat is subject to removal and storage as described above. The violation notice shall state that the boat is in violation of a City Ordinance and is subject to removal after 48 hours.

3) That Section 10.92 shall be added to Chapter 148 of the Charlevoix City Code and shall read as follows:

10.92. PENALTY. Any person violating a traffic control order regarding the parking of motor vehicles as regulated by this Chapter shall be guilty of a civil infraction with the amount of penalty to be set pursuant to Section 10.86 of Chapter 147 of the City Code. Any person violating a provision of this Ordinance unrelated to the parking of motor vehicles shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be subject to such penalty as is prescribed by State law for a misdemeanor. Every day in which Section 10.86 or 10.91 of this Chapter is violated shall constitute a separate offense and shall be punished as a separate offense. The term "person" as used in this Chapter shall include corporations, partnerships and associations as well as human beings.

Ordinance No. 546 was hereby adopted on the 20th day of May, 1991 by the Charlevoix City Council by the following yeas and nays:

PUBLIC HEARING NOTICE
Charlevoix City Planning Commission
Wednesday, June 26, 1991
City Hall, 210 State Street
7:00 p.m.

The Charlevoix City Planning Commission will hold a Public Hearing on the above date and time to receive public comments, written and oral on the following proposed amendment to the Title V - Zoning and Planning, Chapter 51 of the City of Charlevoix City Code. The amendment is as follows:

 PROPOSED AMENDMENT *****

Section 5.188, Development Plan shall be amended to read:

(1) No building shall be erected or structurally altered, nor shall any grading take place in any zone district, except "R-1," "R-2," and "R-2A," nor shall any change in use as defined by use regulation which requires an increase in parking spaces within the various zone districts be permitted in any portion of the premises, until such a time as a development plan has been approved by the City Planning Commission. "Change of Use" shall also include a re-institution of any use discontinued for a period of three (3) years or more. Such approval shall terminate within twelve (12) months of the granting thereof, unless a building permit is obtained for the development plan project.

The balance of the section shall remain the same.

Gerry Harsch, City Planner

1999 - 200,000

The 1991 Bonds shall bear interest at a rate or rates to be determined on sale thereof, but in any event not exceeding ten percent (10%) per annum payable on October 1, 1991, and semi-annually thereafter on April 1st and October 1st of each year, by check drawn on the Transfer Agent. Interest shall be payable to the Registered Owner of record as of the fifteenth day of the month prior to the payment date for each interest payment. The date of determination of Registered Owner for purposes of payment of interest as provided in this paragraph may be changed by the City to conform to market practice in the future. The principal of the Bonds shall be payable at the principal office of the Transfer Agent. The 1991 Bonds shall be sold at not less than 98% of their par value exclusive of any original issuance discount on the 1991 Bonds.

The 1991 Bonds may be subject to redemption prior to maturity at the times and prices as set forth in Section 33 hereof.

The 1991 Bonds shall be signed by the facsimile signature of the Mayor and countersigned by the facsimile signature of the City Clerk. The 1991 Bonds shall have the facsimile corporate seal of the City printed thereon. No 1991 Bond shall be valid until authenticated by an authorized officer of the Transfer Agent. The 1991 Bonds shall be delivered to the Transfer Agent for authentication and be delivered by him to the purchaser in accordance with instructions from the City Treasurer upon payment of the purchase price for the 1991 Bonds in accordance with the purchase contract thereto when accepted. Executed blank 1991 Bonds for registration and issuance to transferees shall simultaneously, and from time to time thereafter as necessary, be delivered to the Transfer Agent for safekeeping.

Any 1991 Bond may be transferred upon the books of the City maintained by the Transfer Agent by the Registered Owner thereof, in person or by his duly authorized attorney, upon surrender of the Bond for cancellation accompanied by delivery of a duly executed written instrument of transfer in a form approved by the Transfer Agent. Whenever any 1991 Bond or Bonds shall be surrendered for transfer, the Transfer Agent shall authenticate and deliver a new 1991 Bond or 1991 Bonds, for like aggregate principal amount, maturity, and interest rate. The Transfer Agent shall require the payment by the Registered Owner requesting the transfer of any tax or other governmental charge required to be paid with respect to the transfer. The City shall not be required (i) to issue, register the transfer of, or exchange any 1991 Bond during a period beginning at the opening of 15 business days before the day of the mailing of a notice of redemption of 1991 Bonds selected for redemption under this Ordinance and ending at the Close of business on the day of that mailing, or (ii) to register the transfer of or part, except the unredeemed part. 1991 Bonds being redeemed part. 1991 Bonds shall give the Transfer Agent notice of call for redemption at least 29 days prior to the date of redemption. It is to be given.

Section 6: Municipal Bond Insurance. If municipal bond insurance is purchased in respect of the 1991 Bonds, the provisions of this section shall be applicable thereto. If the (5) days prior to an interest or principal payment date the Transfer Agent determines that there will be insufficient funds in the Redemption Bonds on such payment date, the Transfer Agent shall notify the insurance company of such deficiency. Such notice shall specify the amount of the anticipated deficiency, the 1991 Bonds to which such deficiency is applicable, and whether such 1991 Bonds will be deficient as to principal or interest, or both. If the Transfer Agent has not so notified the insurance company five (5) days prior to such payment date, the insurance company will make payments of principal or interest due on the Bonds on or before the fifth (5th) business day next following the date on which the insurance company shall have received notice of nonpayment from the Transfer Agent.

The Transfer Agent shall, after giving notice to the insurance company as provided above, make available to the insurance company all records relating to the funds and accounts maintained under the Ordinance, and the registration books of the City maintained by the transfer agent.

The Transfer Agent shall provide the insurance company with a list of Registered Owners of the 1991 Bonds entitled to receive principal or interest payments from the insurance company under the terms of the policy, and shall make arrangements with the insurance company (i) to mail checks or drafts to the Registered Owners of 1991 Bonds entitled to receive full or partial interest payments from the insurance company; and (ii) to pay principal upon 1991 Bonds surrendered to the insurance company by the Registered Owners of 1991 Bonds entitled to receive full or partial principal payments from the insurance company.

The Transfer Agent shall also notify Registered Owners of 1991 Bonds entitled to receive the payment of principal or interest thereon from the insurance company (i) as to the fact of such entitlement, (ii) that the insurance company will remit to them all or a part of the interest payments next coming due, (iii) that should they be entitled to receive full payment of principal from the insurance company they must tender their 1991 Bonds along with a form of transfer of title thereto for payment to the insurance company, and (iv) that should they be entitled to receive partial payment of principal from the insurance company they must tender their 1991 Bonds for payment thereon first to the Transfer Agent; who shall note the portion of the principal paid by the Transfer Agent; and then, along with a form of transfer of title thereto, to the insurance company which will then pay the unpaid portion of principal.

In the event that the Transfer Agent has notice that any payment of principal or interest on the Bonds which has become due for payment and which is made to a Bondholder by or on behalf of the City has been deemed a preferential transfer and therefore recovered from its Registered Owner pursuant to the United States Bankruptcy Code by a trustee in bankruptcy in accordance with the final, nonappealable order of a court having competent jurisdiction, the Transfer Agent shall, at the time the insurance company is notified that there will be insufficient funds to make payment from the 1991 Bonds, notify all Registered Owners that in the event that any Registered Owner's payment is recovered, such Registered Owner will be entitled to payment from the insurance company to the extent of such recovery if sufficient funds are not otherwise available; and the Transfer Agent shall furnish to the insurance company its records evidencing the payments of principal and interest on the Bonds which have been made by the Transfer Agent, and subsequently recovered from Registered Owners and the dates on which such payments were made.

The insurance company shall, to the extent it makes payment of principal or interest on the 1991 Bonds, become subrogated to the rights of the recipients of such payments in accordance with the terms of the bond insurance policy, and to evidence such subrogation (i) in the case of subrogation as to claims for past due interest, the Transfer Agent shall note the insurance company's rights as subrogee on the registration books of the City maintained by the Transfer Agent, upon receipt from the insurance company of proof of the payment of interest thereon to the Registered Owners of the Bonds, and (ii) in the case of subrogation as to claims for past due principal, the Transfer Agent shall note the insurance company's rights as subrogee on the registration books of the City maintained by the Transfer Agent, upon surrender of the Bonds by the Registered Owners thereof together with proof of the payment of principal thereon.

In the event that the principal and/or interest due on the Bonds shall be paid by the bond insurance company pursuant to the bond insurance policy, the Bonds shall remain Outstanding for all purposes, not be deemed or otherwise satisfied and not be considered paid by the City, and the pledge and security provided in this Ordinance and all covenants, agreements and other obligations of the City to the Registered Owners shall continue to exist and shall run to the benefit of the bond insurance company, and the bond insurance company shall be subrogated to the rights of such Registered Owners.

In an Event of Default, the bond insurance company may discharge the Trustee and appoint a successor Trustee. Notice of any such discharge and appointment shall be given by the bond insurance company to the Bondholders.

Section 7: Payment of Bonds and Interest. The Bonds and the interest thereon shall be payable solely from the Net Revenues (except to the extent payable from the proceeds of bond insurance or other credit enhancement or from the proceeds of Bonds), and to secure such payment, there is hereby created a statutory lien upon the whole of the Net Revenues which shall be a first lien. Pursuant to provisions of Act 94, the City hereby pledges to the repayment of principal of, interest on and redemption premiums, if any, on the Bonds, the funds and accounts established by this Ordinance, and a statutory lien is hereby created on such funds and accounts. The liens and pledge provided above shall continue until payment in full of the principal of Sufficient Government Obligations, Sufficient Municipal Obligations or any combination thereof shall have been deposited in trust for payment in full of the principal of and the interest on all Bonds to be paid or redeemed to their maturity, or, if called or if irrevocable instructions have been given to call for redemption to the date fixed for redemption to the date of the payment of the redemption premium, if any. Upon deposit of Sufficient cash, Sufficient Government Obligations, Sufficient Municipal Obligations or any combination thereof, as provided in the previous sentence, the statutory lien herein created shall be terminated.

Section 8: Management. The operation, repair and management of the System and the acquiring of the Project shall be under the supervision and control of the Council.

Section 9: Charges. The rates to be charged for services furnished by the System and the methods of collection and enforcement of the collection of said rates shall be those permitted by law and established by the Council and in effect in the City on the date of adoption of this Ordinance which rates and methods of collection and enforcement are hereby approved by the Council.

Section 10: No Free Service. No free service shall be furnished by the System to any person, firm, or corporation; public or to any private, or to any public agency or instrumentality.

Section 11: Rate Covenant. The City will at all times fix, establish, maintain and collect rates, fees and charges for the sale of the output, capacity, use or service of the system which, together with other income, are reasonably expected to yield Net Revenues equal to at least 110% of the Aggregate Debt Service Requirement for the forthcoming twelve (12) month period plus such amount as is necessary to comply with all covenants in this Ordinance and to pay all charges and liens whatsoever payable out of Net Revenues in such period.

Section 12: Operating Year. The System shall be operated on the basis of an operating year commencing on July 1st and ending on the 30th day of the following June.

Section 13: Funds and Accounts; Flow of Funds. All Revenues of the System shall be set aside as collected and credited to a fund to be designated ELECTRIC UTILITY SYSTEM RECEIVING FUND (the "Receiving Fund"). The Revenues so credited are pledged for the purpose of the following funds and shall be transferred or debited from the Receiving Fund periodically in the manner and at the times hereinafter specified.

OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE FUND: Monthly, out of the Revenues credited to the Receiving Fund there shall be first set aside in, or credited to a fund hereby ordered to be established, maintained and designated OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE FUND, a sum sufficient to provide for the payment of the next month's expenses of administration and operation of the System including such current expenses as may be necessary to preserve the same in good repair and working order.

The Council, prior to the commencement of each operating year, shall adopt a budget covering the foregoing expenses for each year. During the course of the operating year, the total of such expenses shall, not exceed the total amount specified in said budget, except by a vote of two-thirds (2/3) of the members-elect of the Council. No payments shall be made to the City from monies credited to the Operation and Maintenance Fund except for services directly rendered to the System by the City and its personnel.

BOND AND INTEREST REDEMPTION FUND: There shall be established and maintained a separate depository fund designated BOND AND INTEREST REDEMPTION FUND, the "Redemption Fund" the monies on deposit therein from time to time to be used solely, except for required deposits to the Rebate Fund, for the purpose of paying the principal of, redemption premiums, if any, and interest on the Bonds. The monies in the Redemption Fund (including the Bond Reserve Account hereinafter established) shall be kept on deposit with the Transfer Agent or with one of more of the Transfer Agents for the Bonds.

Out of the Revenues remaining in the Receiving Fund, after provision for the credit or deposit to the Operation and Maintenance Fund there shall next be set aside, monthly, in the Redemption Fund a sum proportionately sufficient to provide for the payment of the principal of and interest on the Bonds as when the same became due and payable, subject to any credit therefor as provided in this Section. If there shall be any deficiency in the amount previously required to be set aside, then the amount of such deficiency shall be added to the next succeeding month's requirements.

There is hereby established in the Redemption Fund a separate account to be known as the Bond Reserve Account. Upon the delivery of the 1991 Bonds, the City shall deposit from funds on hand an amount equal to the Bond Reserve Requirement which shall be deposited in the Bond Reserve Account. Alternately, the City may meet the Bond Reserve Requirement by a letter of credit, a surety bond, or an insurance policy if the provider or issuer thereof shall be rated AAA by Moody's Investors Service and Standard and Poor's Corporation or an equivalent rating. Except as hereinafter provided, the monies credited to the Bond Reserve Account shall be used solely for the payment of the principal of, redemption premiums, if any, and interest on the Bonds as to which there would otherwise be a default. If at any time it shall be necessary to use monies, credited to the Bond Reserve Account for such payment, then the monies so used shall be replaced over a period of not more than 5 years from the Net Revenues first received thereafter which are not required for current principal and interest requirements. If at any time there is any access in the Bond Reserve Account over the Bond Reserve Requirement, such excess may be transferred to such fund or account as the City shall direct. If Additional Bonds (except Additional Bonds used for refunding) from time to time are issued, each ordinance authorizing such Additional Bonds shall provide for additional deposits to the Redemption Fund for credit to the Bond Reserve Account from the proceeds of such Additional Bonds equal to not less than one-half of the maximum annual principal and interest requirements for such Additional Bonds and make additional equal deposits for a period of five years from the dates of issuance of each issue of Additional Bonds in such an amount as will result in the total credited to the Bond Reserve Account being equal to not less than Bond Reserve Requirement. No further payments need be made into the Redemption Fund after the amount of the Bonds have been retired so that the amount then held in the Redemption Fund (including the Bond Reserve Account) is equal to the entire amount of principal and interest which will be payable at the time of maturity of all Outstanding Bonds and the monies so held shall be used solely to pay the principal of and interest on the Bonds including redemption premiums; if any, as the Bonds become due either by maturity or by redemption prior to maturity.

C. JUNIOR LIEN BOND AND INTEREST REDEMPTION FUND: If the City shall ever issue Junior Lien Bonds, there shall be established and maintained a separate depository fund designated JUNIOR LIEN BOND AND INTEREST REDEMPTION FUND, the "Junior Lien Bond Redemption Fund" the monies on deposit therein from time to time to be used solely, except for required deposits to the Rebate Fund, for the purpose of paying the principal of, redemption premiums, if any, and interest on the Bonds. The monies in the Junior Lien Bond Redemption Fund (including the Junior Lien Bond Reserve Account hereinafter established) shall be kept on deposit with the Transfer Agent or with one of more of the Transfer Agents for the Bonds.

Out of the Revenues remaining in the Junior Lien Bond Redemption Fund, after provision for the credit or deposit to the Operation and Maintenance Fund there shall next be set aside, monthly, in the Junior Lien Bond Redemption Fund a sum proportionately sufficient to provide for the payment of the principal of and interest on the Bonds as when the same became due and payable, subject to any credit therefor as provided in this Section. If there shall be any deficiency in the amount previously required to be set aside, then the amount of such deficiency shall be added to the next succeeding month's requirements.

There is hereby established in the Junior Lien Bond Redemption Fund a separate account to be known as the Junior Lien Bond Reserve Account. Upon the delivery of the 1991 Bonds, the City shall deposit from funds on hand an amount equal to the Junior Lien Bond Reserve Requirement which shall be deposited in the Junior Lien Bond Reserve Account. Alternately, the City may meet the Junior Lien Bond Reserve Requirement by a letter of credit, a surety bond, or an insurance policy if the provider or issuer thereof shall be rated AAA by Moody's Investors Service and Standard and Poor's Corporation or an equivalent rating. Except as hereinafter provided, the monies credited to the Junior Lien Bond Reserve Account shall be used solely for the payment of the principal of, redemption premiums, if any, and interest on the Bonds as to which there would otherwise be a default. If at any time it shall be necessary to use monies, credited to the Junior Lien Bond Reserve Account for such payment, then the monies so used shall be replaced over a period of not more than 5 years from the Net Revenues first received thereafter which are not required for current principal and interest requirements. If at any time there is any access in the Junior Lien Bond Reserve Account over the Junior Lien Bond Reserve Requirement, such excess may be transferred to such fund or account as the City shall direct. If Additional Bonds (except Additional Bonds used for refunding) from time to time are issued, each ordinance authorizing such Additional Bonds shall provide for additional deposits to the Junior Lien Bond Redemption Fund for credit to the Junior Lien Bond Reserve Account from the proceeds of such Additional Bonds equal to not less than one-half of the maximum annual principal and interest requirements for such Additional Bonds and make additional equal deposits for a period of five years from the dates of issuance of each issue of Additional Bonds in such an amount as will result in the total credited to the Junior Lien Bond Reserve Account being equal to not less than Junior Lien Bond Reserve Requirement. No further payments need be made into the Junior Lien Bond Redemption Fund after the amount of the Bonds have been retired so that the amount then held in the Junior Lien Bond Redemption Fund (including the Junior Lien Bond Reserve Account) is equal to the entire amount of principal and interest which will be payable at the time of maturity of all Outstanding Bonds and the monies so held shall be used solely to pay the principal of and interest on the Bonds including redemption premiums; if any, as the Bonds become due either by maturity or by redemption prior to maturity.

D. REDEMPTION AND IMPROVEMENT FUND: There next shall be established and maintained a fund designated REDEMPTION AND IMPROVEMENT FUND (the "Replacement Fund"). Except as hereinafter provided, the monies credited thereto shall be used solely for the purpose of making major repairs, replacements and improvements to the System. Upon delivery of the 1991 Bonds the City deposit the sum of seventy-five thousand ($75,000) dollars in the Replacement Fund. If at any time it shall be necessary to use monies in the Replacement Fund the monies so used shall be replaced from any monies in the Receiving Fund which are not required by this Ordinance to be used for the Operation and Maintenance Fund (including the Bond Reserve Account), or the Junior Lien Bond and Interest Redemption Fund.

E. SURPLUS MONIES: Any Revenues in the Receiving Fund at the end of any quarter of any operating year after satisfying all requirements of the Operation and Maintenance Fund, the Redemption Fund (including the Operation and Maintenance Fund, the Bond Reserve Account), the Replacement Fund, Rebate Fund and the Junior Lien Bond and Interest Redemption Fund shall be deemed to be surplus monies, and may, at the option of the Commission, be used for any of the following purposes:

1. Transferred to the General Fund of the City as a payment in lieu of taxes. The amount so transferred to the General Fund in any operating year shall not exceed the total of the payments made by the City to the System for services furnished to the City for street and public safety lighting purposes for the prior operating year.

2. Transferred to the Construction Fund for the purpose of paying the costs of the Project.

3. After completion of the Project, transferred to the Replacement Fund for the purpose of making major repairs, replacements and improvements to the System.

4. After completion of the Project, transferred to the Redemption Fund and used for the redemption, payment, or purchase of Bonds.

If there should be any deficit in the Operation and Maintenance Fund, Redemption Fund (including the Bond Reserve Account) or the Replacement Fund on account of defaults in setting aside therein the amounts required herein, then transfers shall be made from the monies remaining in the Receiving Fund at the end of any operating year to those funds in the priority and order specified herein to the extent of any deficit before any other deposit is made of said monies in the Receiving Fund at the end of any operating year.

Section 14: Rebate Fund. There shall be established and maintained a fund designated the REBATE FUND (the "Rebate Fund"). Monies representing investment earnings or profits shall be transferred annually from all funds and accounts established under this Ordinance and deposited in the Rebate Fund in an amount sufficient to enable the City to rebate investment earnings to the federal government, if necessary, in accordance with the requirements of the Code. Funds on deposit in the Rebate Fund are not pledged as security for the Bonds. Monies shall be deposited in the Rebate Fund and shall be rebated to the federal government if the City has received an opinion of the nationally recognized bond counsel that failure to take such action will not adversely affect the exclusion from gross income for federal income tax purposes of the interest on such Bonds.

Section 15: Depository and Funds on Hand.

(a) Monies in the several funds and accounts established pursuant to this Ordinance, except monies in the Redemption Fund (including the Bond Reserve Account) and the Rebate Fund and monies derived from the proceeds of sale of the Bonds, may be kept in one bank account with the Depository, in which event the monies in said bank account shall be allocated on the books and records of the City or deposited to the funds and accounts therein established, in the manner and at the times provided in this Ordinance.

(b) Upon delivery of the 1991 Bonds, funds of the System on hand shall be deposited in the Receiving Fund and transferred in accordance with the provisions of Section 13 hereof.

Section 16: Priority of Funds. In the event the monies in the Receiving Fund are insufficient to provide for the current requirements of the operation and Maintenance Fund or the Redemption Fund or the Junior Lien Bond and Interest Redemption Fund, the proceeds of sale of the Bonds, shall be credited or transferred first, to the Operation and Maintenance Fund, second, to the Redemption Fund, to the extent of any deficit therein, and third, to the Junior Lien Bond and Interest Redemption Fund.

Section 17: Investments. Monies in the funds and accounts established herein, and monies derived from the proceeds of sale of the Bonds except as provided in Section 19 of this Ordinance, may be invested on behalf of the City in investment obligations, investment of monies in the Redemption Fund being accumulated for payment on the next maturing principal or interest payment on the Bonds or interest payment on the Bonds, shall be limited to Government Obligations bearing maturity dates prior to the date on the next maturing principal or interest payment on the Bonds, investment of monies in any other funds or account, including monies derived from the proceeds of sale of the Bonds, shall be limited to obligations bearing maturity dates of subject to redemption, at the option of the holder thereof, not later than the time estimated by the City when the monies for such investments will be required.

In the event investments are made, any securities representing the same shall be kept on deposit with the bank or trust company having on deposit the fund or funds or account from which such purchase was made. Earnings or profits on any investment of funds in any fund or account established in this Ordinance shall be deposited in or credited to the Rebate Fund to extent necessary as required by Section 14 of this Ordinance and any earnings or profits remaining in the Receiving Fund, Operation and Maintenance Fund, Redemption Fund and the Junior Lien Bond and Interest Redemption Fund, shall be deposited in or credited to the Rebate Fund to extent necessary as required by Section 14 of this Ordinance and any earnings or profits remaining in the Receiving Fund, Operation and Maintenance Fund, Redemption Fund and the Junior Lien Bond and Interest Redemption Fund, shall be deposited in or credited to the Rebate Fund to extent necessary as required by Section 14 of this Ordinance and any earnings or profits remaining in the Receiving Fund, Operation and Maintenance Fund, Redemption Fund and the Junior Lien Bond and Interest Redemption Fund, shall be deposited in or credited to the Rebate Fund to extent necessary as required by Section 14 of this Ordinance and any earnings or profits remaining in the Receiving Fund, Operation and Maintenance Fund, Redemption Fund and the Junior Lien Bond and Interest Redemption Fund, shall be deposited in or credited to the Rebate Fund to extent necessary as required by Section 14 of this Ordinance and any earnings or profits remaining in the Receiving Fund, Operation and Maintenance Fund, Redemption Fund and the Junior Lien Bond and Interest Redemption Fund, shall be deposited in or credited to the Rebate Fund to extent necessary as required by Section 14 of this Ordinance and any earnings or profits remaining in the Receiving Fund, Operation and Maintenance Fund, Redemption Fund and the Junior Lien Bond and Interest Redemption Fund, shall be deposited in or credited to the Rebate Fund to extent necessary as required by Section 14 of this Ordinance and any earnings or profits remaining in the Receiving Fund, Operation and Maintenance Fund, Redemption Fund and the Junior Lien Bond and Interest Redemption Fund, shall be deposited in or credited to the Rebate Fund to extent necessary as required by Section 14 of this Ordinance and any earnings or profits remaining in the Receiving Fund, Operation and Maintenance Fund, Redemption Fund and the Junior Lien Bond and Interest Redemption Fund, shall be deposited in or credited to the Rebate Fund to extent necessary as required by Section 14 of this Ordinance and any earnings or profits remaining in the Receiving Fund, Operation and Maintenance Fund, Redemption Fund and the Junior Lien Bond and Interest Redemption Fund, shall be deposited in or credited to the Rebate Fund to extent necessary as required by Section 14 of this Ordinance and any earnings or profits remaining in the Receiving Fund, Operation and Maintenance Fund, Redemption Fund and the Junior Lien Bond and Interest Redemption Fund, shall be deposited in or credited to the Rebate Fund to extent necessary as required by Section 14 of this Ordinance and any earnings or profits remaining in the Receiving Fund, Operation and Maintenance Fund, Redemption Fund and the Junior Lien Bond and Interest Redemption Fund, shall be deposited in or credited to the Rebate Fund to extent necessary as required by Section 14 of this Ordinance and any earnings or profits remaining in the Receiving Fund, Operation and Maintenance Fund, Redemption Fund and the Junior Lien Bond and Interest Redemption Fund, shall be deposited in or credited to the Rebate Fund to extent necessary as required by Section 14 of this Ordinance and any earnings or profits remaining in the Receiving Fund, Operation and Maintenance Fund, Redemption Fund and the Junior Lien Bond and Interest Redemption Fund, shall be deposited in or credited to the Rebate Fund to extent necessary as required by Section 14 of this Ordinance and any earnings or profits remaining in the Receiving Fund, Operation and Maintenance Fund, Redemption Fund and the Junior Lien Bond and Interest Redemption Fund, shall be deposited in or credited to the Rebate Fund to extent necessary as required by Section 14 of this Ordinance and any earnings or profits remaining in the Receiving Fund, Operation and Maintenance Fund, Redemption Fund and the Junior Lien Bond and Interest Redemption Fund, shall be deposited in or credited to the Rebate Fund to extent necessary as required by Section 14 of this Ordinance and any earnings or profits remaining in the Receiving Fund, Operation and Maintenance Fund, Redemption Fund and the Junior Lien Bond and Interest Redemption Fund, shall be deposited in or credited to the Rebate Fund to extent necessary as required by Section 14 of this Ordinance and any earnings or profits remaining in the Receiving Fund, Operation and Maintenance Fund, Redemption Fund and the Junior Lien Bond and Interest Redemption Fund, shall be deposited in or credited to the Rebate Fund to extent necessary as Ordinance continued from page 25.

be paid over to the Trustee (i) forthwith, all moneys, securities and funds then held by the City in any fund or account established under the Ordinance, and (ii) all Revenues as promptly as practicable after receipt thereof. During the continuance of an Event of Default, the Trustee shall apply all moneys, securities, funds and Revenues received by the Trustee pursuant to any right given or action taken under the provisions of this Section as follows and in the following order:

(a) To the payment of the reasonable and proper charges, the amounts required for operation and maintenance expenses and for the reasonable renewals, repairs and replacements of the System necessary in the judgment of the Trustee to prevent loss of Revenues. For this purpose the books for record and account of the Council relating to the System shall at all times be subject to the inspection of the Trustee and its representatives and agents during the continuance of such Event of Default; and

(b) To the payment of the interest and principal or redemption price then due on the Bonds, as follows:

First: To the payment of the persons entitled thereto of all installments of interest then due in the order of the maturity of such installments, together with accrued and unpaid interest on the Bonds theretofore called for redemption, and, if the amount available shall not be sufficient to pay in full any installment or installments maturing on the same date, then to the payment thereof ratably, according to the amounts due thereon, to the persons entitled thereto, without any discrimination or preference; and

Second: To the payment of the persons entitled thereto of the unpaid principal or redemption price of any Bonds which shall have become due, whether at maturity or by call for redemption, in the order of their due dates, and, if the amount available shall not be sufficient to pay in full all the Bonds due on any date, then to the payment thereof ratably, according to the amounts of principal or redemption price due on such date, to the persons entitled thereto, without any discrimination or preference.

If and whenever all overdue installments of interest on all Bonds, together with the reasonable and proper charges, expenses and liabilities of the Trustee, and all other sums payable by the City under the Ordinance, including the principal and redemption price of and accrued unpaid interest on all Bonds which shall then be payable by declaration or otherwise, shall either be paid by or for the account of the City or provisionally satisfactory to the Trustee shall be made for such payment, and all defaults under the Ordinance or the Bonds shall be made good or secured to the satisfaction of the Trustee or provision deemed by the Trustee to be adequate shall be made therefore, the Trustee shall pay over to the City, all moneys, securities and funds then remaining unexpended in the hands of the Trustee (except moneys, securities and funds deposited or pledged, or required by the terms of the Ordinance to be deposited or pledged, with the Trustee), and thereupon the City and the Trustee shall be restored, respectively, to their former positions and rights under the Ordinance. No such payment over to the City by the Trustee nor such restoration of the City and the Trustee to their former positions and rights shall extend to or affect any subsequent default under the Ordinance or impair any right consequent thereon.

Section 25. Appointment of Receiver and Statutory Rights. In the event of a default in the punctual payment of principal of the interest on the Bonds when due, the Trustee shall have the right to apply in an appropriate proceeding for the appointment of a receiver of the System in accordance with the provisions of Act 94. Subject to the provisions of Section 27 of this Ordinance, the Registered Owners of Bonds representing in the aggregate not less than twenty percent (20%) of all Outstanding Bonds, may protect and enforce the status, lien and pledge of the funds and accounts and Net Revenues created by Act 94, and enforce and compel the performance of all duties of the officials of the City and the Council, including the fixing of sufficient rates, the collection of Revenues, the proper segregation of Revenues, and the proper application of Revenues. In addition to the rights conferred to Registered Owners by the Ordinance, the Registered Owners shall have all the rights conferred by the Act 94; provided, however, that the Registered Owner of each Bond agrees to enforce such right subject to the provisions of Section 27. The statutory lien upon the Net Revenues; however, shall not be construed to compel the sale of the System or any part thereof.

Section 26. Proceedings Brought by Trustee. If an Event of Default shall happen and shall not have been remedied, then and in every such case, the Trustee, by its agents and attorneys, may proceed, and upon written request of the Registered Owners of not less than 20% in principal amount of the Outstanding Bonds shall proceed, to protect and enforce its rights and the rights of the Registered Owners of the Bonds under the Ordinance forthwith by a suit or suits of equity or at law, whether for the specific performance of any covenant therein contained, or in aid of the execution of any power herein granted, or for an accounting against the City as if the City were the trustee of an express trust, or in the enforcement of any other legal or equitable right as the Trustee, being advised by counsel, shall deem most effectual to enforce any of its rights or to perform any of its duties under the Ordinance.

Alights of action under the Ordinance may be enforced by the Trustee without the possession of the Bonds or the production thereof at the trial or other proceedings, and any such suit or proceedings instituted by the Trustee shall be brought in its name.

Subject to the provisions of Section 27, the Registered Owners of not less than twenty percent in principal amount of the Outstanding Bonds may direct the time, method and place of conducting any proceeding for any remedy available to the Trustee provided that the Trustee shall have the right to decline to follow any such direction if the Trustee shall be advised by counsel that the action or proceeding so directed may not lawfully be taken, or if the Trustee in good faith shall determine that the action or proceeding so directed would involve the Trustee in personal liability or be unjustly prejudicial to the Registered Owners not parties to such direction. Upon commencing a suit in equity or upon other commencement of judicial proceedings by the Trustee to enforce any right under the Ordinance, the Trustee shall be entitled to exercise any and all rights and powers conferred in the Ordinance and provided to be exercised by the Trustee upon the concurrence of any Event of Default.

Regardless of the happening of an Event of Default, the Trustee shall have power to, but unless requested in writing by the Registered Owners of not less than 20% in principal amount of the Outstanding Bonds, and furnished with reasonable security and indemnity, shall be under no obligation to institute and maintain such suits and proceedings as it may be advised shall be necessary or expedient to prevent any impairment of the security under the Ordinance or any acts which may be unlawful or in violation of the Ordinance, and such suits and proceedings as the Trustee may be advised shall be necessary or expedient to preserve or protect its interests of the Registered Owners.

Section 27. Restriction on Registered Owner's Action. No Registered Owner of any Bond shall have any right to institute any suit, action or proceeding at law or in equity for the enforcement of any provision of the Ordinance or the execution of any trust under the Ordinance, or for any remedy under the Ordinance, unless such Registered Owner shall have previously given to the Trustee written notice of the happening of an Event of Default, as provided in this Ordinance, and the Registered Owners of at least 20% in principal amount of the Outstanding Bonds shall have filed a written request with the Trustee, and shall have offered reasonable opportunity, either to exercise the powers granted in the ordinance or by Act 94 or by the laws of the State of Michigan or to institute such action, suit or proceeding in its own name, and unless such Registered Owners shall have offered to the Trustee adequate security and indemnity against the costs, expenses and liabilities to be incurred therein or thereby, and the Trustee shall have refused to comply with such request for a period of 60 days after receipt by it of such notice, request and offer of indemnity, it being understood and intended that no one or more Registered Owners of Bonds shall have any right in any manner whatever by his or their action to affect, disturb or prejudice the lien or pledge created by the Ordinance, or to enforce any right under the Ordinance, except in the manner therein provided; and that all proceedings at law or in equity to enforce any provision of the Ordinance shall be instituted, had and maintained in the manner provided in the Ordinance and for equal benefit of all Registered Owners of the Outstanding Bonds; provided, however, nothing herein shall be construed as impairing any right granted to Registered Owners pursuant to the provisions of Act 94.

Section 28. Remedies Not Exclusive. No remedy by the terms of the Ordinance conferred upon or reserved to the Trustee or the Registered Owners is intended to be exclusive of any other remedy, but each and every such remedy shall be cumulative and shall be in addition to, every other remedy given under the Ordinance or existing at law or in equity or by statute on or after the date of the Ordinance.

Section 29. Effect of Waiver and Other Circumstances. No delay or omission of the Trustee or any Registered Owner to exercise any right or power arising upon the happening of an Event of Default shall impair any right or power or shall be construed to be a waiver of any such Event of Default or be an acquiescence therein; and every power and remedy given by this Ordinance to the Trustee or to the Registered Owners may be exercised from time to time and as often as may be deemed expedient by the Trustee or by the Registered Owners.

The Registered Owners of not less than 20% in principal amount of the Bonds at the time outstanding, or their attorneys-in-fact duly authorized, may, on behalf of the Registered Owners of all of the Bonds waive any past default under the Ordinance and its consequences, except a default in the payment of interest on or principal of or premium (if any) on any of the Bonds. No such waiver shall extend to any subsequent or other default or impair any right consequent thereon.

Section 30. Notice to Trustee of Default. The Trustee shall not be obliged to take notice or be deemed to have notice or knowledge of any Event of Default hereunder, unless specifically notified in writing of such Event of Default by the Transfer Agent or by the Registered Owners of not less than twenty percent (20%) in aggregate principal amount of the Outstanding Bonds in default.

Section 31. Notice to Registered Owners of Default. The Trustee shall promptly mail written notice of the occurrence of any Event of Default to each Registered Owner of Outstanding Bonds at the address appearing upon the books kept by the Transfer Agent for each series of Bonds.

Section 32. Acceptance by Trustee of Trust and Duties. The Trustee shall, evidence its acceptance of the trusts and duties imposed upon it by this Ordinance by filing a written acceptance thereof with the City. The Trustee shall execute the trusts and duties imposed upon it by this Ordinance upon the occurrence of an Event of Default but only upon the terms and conditions set forth in, and subject to the provisions of this Ordinance. The Trustee shall, prior to having knowledge of any Event of Default as defined in this Ordinance and after the curing of all such Events of Default which may have as are specifically set forth in this Ordinance. The Trustee shall, during the existence of any such Event of Default (which has not been cured) exercise such of the rights and powers vested in it by this Ordinance and use the same degree of care and skill in their exercise, as a prudent man would exercise or use under the circumstances in the conduct of his own affairs.

No such provision of this Ordinance shall be construed to relieve the Trustee from liability for its own negligent action, its own negligent failure to act, or its own willful misconduct, except that:

(a) prior to any such Event of Default hereunder, and after the curing of any such Events of Default which may have occurred;

(1) the duties and obligations of the Trustee shall be determined solely by the express provisions of this Ordinance and the Trustee shall not be liable except for the performance of such duties and obligations as are specifically set forth in this Ordinance, and no implied covenants or obligations shall be read into this Ordinance against the Trustee; and

(2) in the absence of bad faith on its part the Trustee may conclusively rely, as to the accuracy of the statements and the correctness of the opinions expressed herein, upon any certificate or opinion furnished to it conforming to the requirements of this Ordinance; and

(b) at all times, regardless of whether or not any such Event of Default shall exist:

(1) the Trustee shall not be liable for any error of judgment made in good faith by a responsible officer or officers of the Trustee, unless it shall be proved that the Trustee was negligent in ascertaining the pertinent facts;

(2) the Trustee may consult with counsel (who may be counsel for any Registered Owner) and the written advice of such counsel or any opinion of counsel shall be full and complete authorization and protection in respect of any action taken, suffered or omitted by it hereunder in good faith and in reliance thereon; and

(3) the Trustee may execute any of the trusts or powers hereunder, either directly or by or through agents or attorneys.

None of the provisions contained in this Ordinance shall require the Trustee to expand or risk its own funds or otherwise incur individual financial liability in the performance of any of its duties or in the exercise of any of its rights or powers.

The Trustee may at any time resign and be discharged of the duties and obligations created by the Ordinance, by giving at least sixty days written notice to the City and to any bond insurance company insuring the Bonds. The successor Trustee shall be appointed by the City and shall be a national banking association or a bank or trust company organized under the laws of the United States of America or any state of the United States of America having a reported capital and surplus aggregating at least $50,000,000, and shall be willing and able to accept the office on reasonable and customary terms, and shall be authorized by law to perform all the duties imposed on it by the Ordinance. Appointment of the successor Trustee shall be subject to approval of any bond insurance company insuring the Bonds, if required by such company.

Section 33. 1991 Bond Form. The 1991 Bonds shall be in substantially the following form:

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA
STATE OF MICHIGAN
COUNTY OF CHARLEVOIX
CITY OF CHARLEVOIX
ELECTRIC SUPPLY SYSTEM
REVENUE BOND

Interest Maturity Date of Original CUSIP Rate Date Issue

REGISTERED OWNER

PRINCIPAL AMOUNT: DOLLARS
The City of Charlevoix, County of Charlevoix, State of Michigan (the "Issuer"), for value received, hereby promised to pay, but only out of the hereinafter described Net Revenue of the Issuer's Electrical Supply System (hereinafter defined) the Principal Amount shown above in lawful money of the United States of America to the Registered Owner shown above, or registered assignee, on the Maturity Date shown above, unless prepaid prior thereto as hereinafter provided; with interest thereon from the Date of Original Issue shown above or such later date to which interest has been paid, until paid; at the Interest Rate shown above; payable on October 1, 1991, and the semi-annually thereafter. Principal of this bond is payable upon surrender of this bond at the office of Michigan or such other transfer agent as the Issuer may hereafter designate by notice mailed to the registered owner not less than 60 days prior to the date of any change in transfer agent. Interest on this bond is payable by check or draft mailed by the transfer agent to the person or entity who is, as of the 15th day of the month preceding the interest payment date, the registered owner of record, at the registered address as shown on the registration books of the Issuer kept by the transfer agent. For prompt payment of principal and interest on this bond, the Issuer has irrevocably pledged the revenues of the Electrical Supply System of the Issuer (the "System"), including all appurtenances, extensions and improvements hereto, after provisions have been made for reasonable and necessary expenses of operation, maintenance and administration (the "Net Revenues"), and a statutory first lien thereon is hereby recognized and service furnished by the System as shall be sufficient to provide for payment of the interest on and the principal of the bonds of this issue and any additional bonds of equal standing as and when the same shall become due and payable, and to create and maintain a bond redemption fund (including a bond reserve account) therefor, to provide for the payment of expenses of administration and operation and such expenses for maintenance of the System as are necessary to preserve the same in good repair and working order, and to provide for such other expenditures and funds for the System as are required by the Ordinance.

This bond is transferable only upon the books of the Issuer kept for that purpose at the office of the transfer agent by the registered owner hereof in person; or by the registered owner's attorney duly authorized in writing, upon the surrender of this bond together with a written instrument of transfer satisfactory to the transfer agent duly executed by the registered owner or the registered owner's attorney duly authorized in writing, and thereupon a new registered bond or bonds in the same aggregate principal amount and of the same maturity shall be issued to the transferee in exchange therefor as provided in the Ordinance authorizing the bonds, and upon the payment of the charges, if any, thereon prescribed.

It is hereby certified and recited that all acts, conditions and things required by law precedent to and in the issuance of this bond and the series of bonds of which this is one have been done and performed in required by law.

This bond is not valid or obligatory for any purpose until the transfer agent's Certificate of Authentication on this bond has been executed by the transfer agent.

Section 34. Sale of 1991 Bonds.

Selection of Transfer Agent: Insurance.

The City shall receive bids for the Series 1991 Bonds in accordance with the notice of sale provided by the City Council, award sale of the Series 1991 Bonds to the successful bidder determined in accordance with Act 94 and this Ordinance, and take all further necessary steps to issue and deliver the Series 1991 Bonds.

The City Treasurer is hereby authorized to select a bank or trust company to act as registrar and Transfer Agent for each series of Bonds authorized and issued pursuant to this Ordinance and to insert the name of such Transfer Agent in the appropriate places in the bond form.

If deemed appropriate the City Treasurer is hereby authorized to purchase municipal bond insurance for the Series 1991 Bonds; and the City Clerk is directed to make appropriate changes to the Notice of Sale, if necessary.

Section 35. Amendments, Consent of Registered Owners.

(a) The City, from time to time and at any time, subject to the conditions and restrictions in this Ordinance contained, may enact one or more supplemental or amendatory ordinances or resolutions, or both which thereafter shall form a part thereof, for any one or more of all of the following purposes:

(i) To issue Additional Bonds or Junior Lien Bonds;

(ii) To alter the covenants and agreements of the City contained in this Ordinance, other covenants and agreements thereafter to be observed or to surrender, restrict or limit any right or power herein reserved to or conferred upon the City (including but not limited to the right to issue Additional Bonds);

(iii) To make such provisions for the purpose of curing any ambiguity, or of curing, correcting or supplementing any defective provisions contained in this Ordinance, or in regard to matters or questions arising under this Ordinance, as the City may deem necessary or desirable and not inconsistent with this Ordinance and which shall not have material, adverse effect on the interests of the Registered Owners of the Bonds;

(iv) To increase the size or scope of the System; and

(v) To make such modifications in the provisions hereof as may be deemed necessary by the City to accommodate the issuance of Additional Bonds or junior lien bonds which (a) are "Zero Coupon Bonds" to the extent permitted by law or (b) are variable rate bonds, but only if such modifications, in the written opinion of nationally recognized bond counsel filed with the Council, do not result in materially diminishing the security hereby granted to the Registered Owners of any Outstanding Bonds.

Any amendment or supplemental ordinance or resolution authorized by the provisions of this Section may be enacted by the City without the consent of or notice to the Registered Owners of any of the Outstanding Bonds, notwithstanding any of the provisions of Section 35 (b) below.

(b) With the consent of the Registered Owners of not less than 51% in principal amount of the Bonds then outstanding and with the written consent of any insurance company issuing insurance as described in Section 6 of this Ordinance, which consent shall not be unreasonably withheld, the City may from time to time and at any time adopt an ordinance or ordinances supplemental hereto for the purpose of adding any provisions or to changing in any manner or eliminating any of the provisions of this Ordinance or of any supplemental ordinance, provided, however, that no such supplemental ordinance shall (i) extend the fixed maturity of any Bond, reduce the rate of interest thereon or extend the time of payment of interest, or reduce the amount of the principal thereof, or reduce or extend the time for payment of any premium payable on the redemption thereof, without the consent of the Registered Owners of each Bond so affected; or (ii) reduce the aforesaid percentage of Registered Owners of the Bonds required to approve any such supplemental ordinance, or (iii) deprive the Registered Owners of the Bonds (except as aforesaid) of the right to payment of the Bonds from the Net Revenues, without the consent of the Registered Owners of all the Outstanding Bonds or, (iv) cause any modification or reduction of the lien on or pledge of the Net Revenues or the funds or accounts established hereunder. No amendment may be made under this Section 35(b) which affects the rights or duties of the insurer of any of the Bonds without its consent.

It shall not be necessary for the consent of the Registered Owners under this Section 35(b) to approve the particular form of any proposed supplemental ordinance, but it shall be sufficient if such consent shall approve the substance thereof.

Promptly after the enactment by the City of any supplemental ordinance pursuant to the provisions of this Section 35(b), the City shall cause the Transfer Agent to mail a notice by registered or certified mail to the Registered Owners of all Outstanding Bonds at their addresses shown on the bond registered or at such other address as is furnished in writing by such Registered Owner to the Transfer Agent setting forth in general terms the substance of such supplemental ordinance.

Section 36. Ordinance to Constitution Contract. In consideration of the purchase and acceptance of any and all of the Bonds authorized to be issued hereunder by those who shall hold the same from time to time, this Ordinance shall be deemed to be and shall constitute a contract between the City and the Registered owners from time to time of the Bonds; and the lien and pledge made in this Ordinance and the covenants and agreements therein set forth to be performed on behalf of the City shall be for the equal benefit, protection and security of the Registered Owners of any and all of the Bonds, all of which, regardless of the time or times of their authentication and delivery of maturity, shall be of equal rank without preference, priority or distinction of any of the Bonds over any other thereof except as expressly provided in or permitted by this Ordinance.Section 37. Severability and Paragraph Headings. If any section, paragraph, clause or provision of this Ordinance shall be held invalid, the invalidity of such section, paragraph, clause or provision shall not affect any of the other provisions of this Ordinance. The paragraph headings in this Ordinance are furnished for convenience of reference only and shall not be considered to be a part of this Ordinance.

Section 38. Publication and Dissemination. This Ordinance shall be published in full in the Charlevoix Courier, a newspaper of general circulation in the City qualified under the State law to publish legal notices, promptly after its adoption, and shall be recorded in the Ordinance Book of the City and such recording authenticated by the signatures of the Mayor and the City Clerk.Section 39. Effective Date. This Ordinance is hereby determined by the City Council to be immediately necessary for the preservation of the public peace, property, health, and safety of the City and shall become effective immediately upon its adoption.

EXHIBIT A

The Project

Part of the proceeds of the 1991 Bonds will be utilized to finance the construction of improvements to the system. These improvements consist of several projects, each of which is delineated below.

1) Engineering and construction of a new electrical substation and all necessary appurtenances.

2) Improvements to the existing system including upgrade of existing circuits, together with all necessary appurtenances and attachments; and all expenses related to the improvements.

This bond is one of a series of bonds if even date of original issue aggregating the principal sum of $3,300,000, issued pursuant to Ordinance No. 544, duly adopted by the City Council of the Issuer, and under and in full compliance with the Constitution and statutes of the State of Michigan, including specifically Act 94, Public Acts of Michigan, 1933, as amended, for the purpose of paying part of the cost of acquiring and constructing additions and improvements to the System.

For a complete statement of the revenues from which this bond is payable, a statement of the conditions under which additional bonds of equal standing may hereinafter be issued and the general covenants and provisions pursuant to which this bond is issued, reference is made to the above-described Ordinance.

Bonds of this issue maturing in the years 1992 to 2006, inclusive, are not subject to redemption prior to maturity. Bonds or portions of bonds in multiples of $5,000 maturing in the year 2001 and thereafter may be redeemed at the option of the Issuer, in such order as the Issuer shall determine and within any maturity by lot, on any interest payment date on or after April 1, 2001 at par and accrued interest to the date fixed for redemption plus a premium expressed as a percentage of par as follows:

1/2 of 1% of the par value of each bond or portion thereof called for redemption on or after April 1, 2000, but prior to April 1, 2004.

No premium shall be paid on bonds or portions thereof called for redemption on or after April 1, 2004.

Notice of redemption of any bond or portion thereof shall be given by the Transfer Agent at least thirty (30) days prior to the date fixed for redemption by mail to the registered owner at the registered address shown on the registration books kept by the Transfer Agent. Bonds shall be called for redemption in multiples of $5,000 and any bond of a denomination of more than $5,000 shall be treated as representing the number of bonds obtained by dividing the denomination of the bond by $5,000 and such bond may be redeemed in part. Notice of redemption for a bond redeemed in part shall state that upon surrender of the bond to be redeemed a new bond or bonds in aggregate principal amount equal to the unredeemed portion of the bonds surrendered shall be issued to the registered owner thereof. No further interest on the bond or portion thereof called for redemption shall accrue after the date fixed for redemption, whether presented for redemption or not, provided funds are on hand with the Transfer Agent to redeem the bond or portion thereof.

The Issuer has covenanted and agreed, and does hereby covenant and agree, to fix and maintain at all times while any bonds payable from the Net Revenues of the System shall be outstanding, such rates for service furnished by the System as shall be sufficient to provide for payment of the interest on and the principal of the bonds of this issue and any additional bonds of equal standing as and when the same shall become due and payable, and to create and maintain a bond redemption fund (including a bond reserve account) therefor, to provide for the payment of expenses of administration and operation and such expenses for maintenance of the System as are necessary to preserve the same in good repair and working order, and to provide for such other expenditures and funds for the System as are required by the Ordinance.

This bond is transferable only upon the books of the Issuer kept for that purpose at the office of the transfer agent by the registered owner hereof in person; or by the registered owner's attorney duly authorized in writing, upon the surrender of this bond together with a written instrument of transfer satisfactory to the transfer agent duly executed by the registered owner or the registered owner's attorney duly authorized in writing, and thereupon a new registered bond or bonds in the same aggregate principal amount and of the same maturity shall be issued to the transferee in exchange therefor as provided in the Ordinance authorizing the bonds, and upon the payment of the charges, if any, thereon prescribed.

It is hereby certified and recited that all acts, conditions and things required by law precedent to and in the issuance of this bond and the series of bonds of which this is one have been done and performed in required by law.

This bond is not valid or obligatory for any purpose until the transfer agent's Certificate of Authentication on this bond has been executed by the transfer agent.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the City of Charlevoix, County of Charlevoix, State of Michigan, by its City Council has caused this bond to be executed with the facsimile Signatures of its Mayor and its City Clerk and its corporate seal to be printed on this bond, all as of the Date of Original Issue.

Memorial garden growing

Charlevoix Area Garden Club is in the process of "spring cleaning" its Memorial Garden.

This Memorial Garden was established in 1977. It has been enlarged considerably since then.

Garden Club members invite the public to view the garden which is located on the northern island near the intersection of East Dixon Avenue and Mercer Boulevard.

The garden is a free-form garden and contains weeping mulberry, purple-leaf plum, variegated dogwood, burning bushes, tamarx, junipers, mugho pines, zuni crabap-ple trees, catanestars, migelas and golden vicary primets.

The club also invites people to remember loved ones with a contribution to the living memorial garden. People need not be a Garden Club member to make a memorial gift. People interested in adding to the garden may write to Nancy Fowler, 409 Dixon for additional information.

The Garden Club would like to create a garden on the island to the south of the present garden. Last fall the City of Charlevoix made the first new planting in this area, planting a red maple donated by the city in memory of Faye Erdman.

Health care seminar scheduled

A seminar on the costs of long term health care will be presented at 2 p.m. May 30 at the Weatherlane Hotel by Merrill Lynch of Traverse City. The guest speaker for the seminar will be Janice Andrews, a marketing consultant for John Hancock Financial Services. There is no charge to attend the event, however people are asked to preregister by phoning 922-0707 or 1-800-937-0929.

Grandvue has week of activities

This year, as in past years, Grandvue Medical Care Facility celebrated Nursing Home Week with a full week's worth of activities. These activities involved residents and their families, staff, and the community in addition to many other people and groups who gave of their time and services.

Activities began Sunday, May 12 with a Mother's Day Social followed by a country picnic; the Morris Dancers; Tommy Tropic;

Farm Day sponsored by the 4-H Club; department day; and other programs.

Culminating the week's events was an awards and recognition ceremony for Grandvue's employees who have been employed five years or longer.

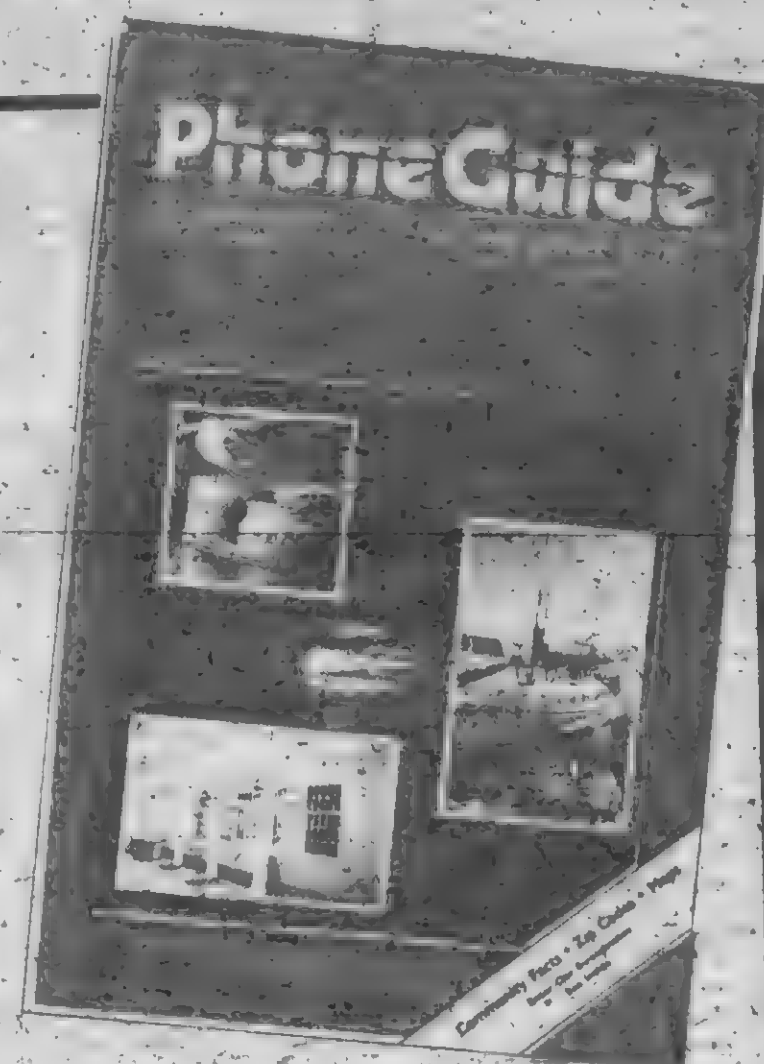

Receiving pins were:
Five years: Lucille Vanderlaan,

Sharon Brewer.
Ten years: Beisy Warren, Phyllis Sumter, Marie Richards, Diane Amou, Donna Kline, Cara Birdall.
Twenty years: Elizabeth McDermott, Marian Hanson.
Carol Banfield, R.N., was selected as Employee of the Year by her co-workers and was honored with a "roast" and presented a plaque.

Top students of 1991 class have varied interests

You're invited to play a little game and find out just how much you actually do know about some of the students who will be graduating from Charlevoix High School in 1991.

Using information provided by the ten 1991 graduates with the highest grade point averages in their class, the following game was put together. Playing is simple. Match the brief description in the left column with the appropriate name in the right column.

The answers are in the lower right hand corner of the page with the accompanying story.

1. Not only has planted petunias, but can throw a football accurately enough to hit a petunia from 20 yards away. A. Sandy Fershee
2. Speaks Spanish. Enjoys playing in the band. When it comes to academics, he proves that a student doesn't necessarily have to stand tall to stand out. B. Mark Newman
3. Not only can shoot a basketball, but also could probably design and rebuild the bleachers. C. Scott Campbell
4. Teaches beginning piano students - certainly an accomplishment of some note. D. Mike Ochs
5. Not only writes her own term papers, but also edits them and can translate them into French. E. Darcie DeGrow
6. Holds school high jump record. F. Dan Terryberry
7. Golf might be something he sees on a miniature scale, but law, politics, government, social services and education are something he intends to study on a larger scale. G. Ryan Smith
8. By land, he can outrun most people. By sea, he may someday be designing boats which outpace others. H. Ed McLendon
9. A trip to the Soviet Union was only one of many things he tackled successfully during his high school years. I. Angela Levengood
10. Learning to be bilingual is considered a large enough challenge by most people. This student wants to become multilingual and speak at least four different languages. J. Amy Shupert

Scott W. Campbell (3.98), son of Larry and Kay Campbell. School and community activities included: Student Ambassador to the Soviet Union through People to People; Freshman class president; Sophomore class vice president; Junior and Senior class representative; French Club; National Honor Society; Church Youth Group; Football, baseball, basketball; Red Cross Blood Drive. Honors and awards include: Academic All State for football; All Conference Honorable Mention for football; Student Leadership Forum; Operation Bentley at Albion College; His plans for next year are to attend the University of Chicago where he is considering majoring in International Relations.

School and community activities included: Volleyball, cheerleading and performing arts; Band; Honors Band and Sol & Ensemble Festivals; Youth Group and playing piano for church; teaching piano to beginning piano students; Campus Life Singers; Michigan Singers. Honors and awards included: Medals from Solo & Ensemble Festivals; First chair flute; Honor student; Academic Scholarship to Hope College; Music Scholarship to Hope College. Her plans for next year are to attend Hope College where she plans to double major in Piano Performance and Education with an emphasis in English and music.

Darcie Lynne DeGrow (3.76), daughter of Lynn and Linda DeGrow. School and community activities included: French Club; Volleyball; National Honor Society; Church Choir; Hosting French German and Japanese exchange students during the summer; 4-H; Teen Club; French Club. Honors and awards include: Albion College Scholarship; Albion College Grant; Michigan Scholarship. Her plans for the future are to attend Albion College and to become fluent in

Senior citizens earn diplomas

By Peg O'Neil

Three senior citizens will don caps and gowns to receive their diplomas at Charlevoix High School graduation ceremonies Sunday, June 2.

Frank and Emma Zednick and Bea Warner went back to school in the Community Education program two years ago and completed their work for graduation, following in the footsteps of children and grandchildren.

The Zednicks moved to Charlevoix from Saginaw in 1962 when Frank was transferred to the Big Rock plant of Consumers Power Company. He is a certified welder who learned his trade in the Army during World War II and spent the last 34 years of his career as a welder at Big Rock.

Frank worked his high school classes around his hobbies of gun collecting, working on race cars and participating in activities at the Senior Center. He had gone to high school for two years before joining the Army and had two years of work to complete.

"I enjoyed school very much," Frank said of his experience in Community Education. "I especially liked math and geography." Frank played the part of the Scarecrow in the Senior Center's production of "The Wizard of Oz" and is a regular member of its chorus.

Frank and Emma have one son, Ronald, who lives next door to them in Charlevoix, and two grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Emma also attended high school for two years before entering the work force and getting married. In recent years, she has spent much of her time collecting dolls and making clothes for them. Kaypie dolls were the subject of a paper she wrote for her English class. In fact, Emma is just a collector at heart. She also collects plates and pencils with advertising messages.

Emma says it was her idea to go back to school. "Frank didn't want to go at first, but finally he decided he would, and he's happy he did," Emma explained.

"I liked English and math the most," she added. And in answer to a question about studying, she said, "We had regular study hours, but we studied in different parts of the house."

Emma and Frank have been married 55 years. High school graduation will be an important occasion for them, as it will be for their family members who attend the ceremony.

Bea Warner came to Charlevoix from Detroit as a young girl, met Doyle Warner, married him a short time later and proceeded to raise six boys and three girls.

Now, 42 years later, Bea has completed her high school studies and is looking forward to receiving her diploma. "I really didn't want to go back to school, but my sister-in-law, Leona Habel, graduated from Community Ed a couple of years ago and encouraged me to try it," Bea said. "I'm glad I did. I liked the classes in psychology, English and current events the best."

Through the years, Bea has worked at several places around town, including Hoskins-Manufacturing, Brumby's Studios, the Lodge, and now at The Village Pub, which is run by her son-in-law, Terry Left.

But Bea has always had time for at least one big hobby—that of working with beauty pageants. "I've worked with the Chamber of Commerce on several pageants and have done art work for the 'Venevian Festival'," she explained.

Drawing is another hobby, although about all the drawing Bea does now is for her grandchildren, who number 17, including three great grandchildren.

Bea also used to sing for weddings, but now her only musical activity is with the Senior Center chorus.

When asked if her house was not a bit quiet now that the children are all grown, Bea said, "Oh, no, some of them still live in the area and they come by on weekends."

Doyle Warner was the youngest of 14 children and he and Bea will live on the Warner family farm on Beck Road, from which he travels to work at the East Jordan Iron Works and she comes to Charlevoix to school, to work and to spend time at the Senior Center.

School seeks .59 mills for computers and technology

Charlevoix School District voters will decide upon a .59 mill request for new computers and select two board members at the June 10 school election.

There is no competition for the board seats. Incumbent Ken Boss is seeking to fill out one year remaining on a term and incumbent Ben Cunningham is seeking a four-year term.

The millage request will draw the most interest in the election. The request is for .59 mills for three years. In dollars, that will total about $300,000.

A mill is $1 per every $1,000 of a property's State Equalized Valuation (SEV). A property's SEV is theoretically half of what it would sell for.

The $300,000 would buy several computers and other technological equipment for all three schools: K-5, middle and high school. A school system technology committee and a community advisory committee have developed a list of things to be purchased with the money.

Following is a brief synopsis of what each school has and what they would like to add:

The K-5 school currently has a small computer lab. What they would like to do is continue to maintain equipment in that lab to instruct students and faculty members. They would also like to put computers in each classroom. Ideally, there would be one computer for the teacher to use for instructional and book keeping purposes and an additional computer for students to use for various learning exercises. The K-5 school would also like to purchase additional projection units, a modem and related software and electronic cataloging equipment for the library.

The Middle School currently has 13 old Apple II 128K computers. They would like to have a lab with 24 or 25 new computers and at least one computer in each classroom and two computers in classrooms where it is appropriate. They would also like to have some additional equipment in the library and office to help with student research, cataloging and book keeping.

The high school computer lab currently has some old Apples and Commodores in addition to 29 new IBM computers (see related story elsewhere in the paper). The computer lab provides a foundation for a broader program. The next step for the high school is to put computers in the business education department so those students can be trained in more of a real-world business atmosphere. The high school would also like to put four to six computers in the drafting classes and put computers in the English Department. In addition, the high school would like to have at least one computer in every classroom and put computer equipment in the library that would tie into University Libraries and other information systems.

A previous millage request for computers and other expenses failed. The previous request did not specify how much of the money would be spent on computers and how much would be spent on other things. Unlike the previous request, the June 10 request specifies the amount of money to be spent on computers and technology. All of Charlevoix's fog horn and light house have been a part of the community for so long that they often go unnoticed.

The fog horn's blast: a sound you get used to Charlevoix's fog horn is attached to the light house on the south pier. On a foggy day, it sounds one blast every 30 seconds. The volume of each blast is between 95 and 110 decibels. According to one Coast Guardsman, it's "enough to give you a headache if you stand in front of it."

In recent weeks the fog horn has been blowing a lot. There have been a lot of foggy days and nights on the Lake Michigan shoreline. The fog horn can be heard in most of Charlevoix's downtown area, even in the middle of the night. But it doesn't keep many local people awake. You get used to it. It's kind of like a car going past on the street. The only time you hear it is when you make a point of listening for it.

The fog horn and light house are cared for by the U.S. Coast Guard Aids to Navigation station out of St. Ignace. The St. Ignace post takes care of navigational aids in the Great Lakes ranging from Leland to Nobinway to Tawas. It is the largest geographic area to be covered by any single Coast Guard post in Michigan.

City purchases property for public works complex

In voting to fund the purchase of a piece of property for a public works complex, the city council resolved a fouled up situation which has dangled awkwardly for several months. According to former city councilman Bob Timms, the council also may have set in motion a chain of events which could lead to what he deems an unnecessary multimillion expenditure.

The situation began last fall when the city council agreed to purchase a 4.96 acre parcel of land from Manthei Development Corp. for $90,000. The property is located off of U.S. 31 just to the south of the city limits.

A major snag in the deal developed when in January new members on the council balked at allocating funds to go through with the purchase. Essentially what happened as the 1990 city council voted to purchase the property, but the 1991 city council voted against budgeting the funds necessary to make the purchase. Councilman Butch Russell, who was on the council during both years, voted against the purchase both times. In January of 1991 he was joined by newly elected council members Ted Pelter and Jackie Cross in voting down the budget allocation. All three councilmen cited the $90,000 price tag as one of the reasons for voting against the budget allocation.

Additional negotiations between the city and Manthei Development took place between January and Monday evening. As a result of those negotiations, the price was lowered to $80,800 plus an additional $4,800 for a 23-foot-wide easement.

Charlevoix's fog horn and light house are inspected twice each year. The horn is inspected and the bulb in the 300 millimeter red light is changed and refocused. The horn sits at the northwest corner of the light house platform. Its technical name is an FA 232 Fog Signaling Apparatus. It is manufactured by a company called Automated Power based in Houston, Texas.

Every fog horn in a geographic area has different characteristics. In other words fog horns make different sounds at different intervals. Some people may recall the sound the fog horn used to make...a deep oooga sound...more like a cow in misery. The old fog horn made its sound by blasting compressed air through a reed system. The old fog horns have been replaced with horns that make their sound by electronic vibrations on a diaphragm system. Even older than the bellow and reed systems were fog bells.

According to Bob Miles book on the history of Charlevoix, the first light house on the pier was a simpler arrangement. A fisherman hung a lantern from a small step-ladder like structure.

Charlevoix's light house is scheduled to be repainted later this summer. Although the light house is normally kept up by the St. Ignace station, it will be repainted by the crew of the Acadia. They wanted to do it because they're in the neighborhood and also as a kind of public service project. It cost several thousand dollars to repaint the light house.

The city's motive in purchasing the property is to secure land as the future site of a new public works complex. The complex would house the city's street, water and electric departments. Currently the departments are located near the corner of Ferry Avenue and Stever Roads.

City officials maintain the departments are cramped for space as the current site and that the present location could be put to better use, perhaps as park land.

Timms voiced opposition when the purchase plan was first discussed and reiterated his opposition Monday evening. Timms called the price of the property "outlandish" and said there's no need to move the public works departments from their present locations.

"The taxpayers and ratepayers have nothing to gain," Timms said. Timms claimed that buying the property will lead to spending possibly as much as $3 million to build a new public works complex.

"By buying this property, you're going to set this whole thing in motion," he protested.

Felter, who along with Cross voted for the budget allocation and purchase Monday evening, indicated that he views the property purchase and building of a new public works complex as related, yet separate matters. He said by not going through with the purchase, the city leaves itself in breach of the original contract and could end up going to court, paying thousands of dollars in court costs and then being forced to buy at the original price. He said that through negotiations the city got the price down and that ...millage sought for computers

Whether or not the .59 mill increase passes, Charlevoix School District taxpayers will have a net decrease in the amount of millage they pay in the coming year. A two-year .79 mill increase for school buses is expiring, and the school is not seeking to renew that.

Superintendent Gordon Van Wieren explained that rather than bonding, which is in essence borrowing, buying and then paying back both principal and interest, the computers and other equipment will be paid for in cash. That will allow the school system to avoid legal fees and interest costs associated with bonding.

If the millage request passes, vendors will be asked to come in and make presentations. The technology committee will consider what the products can do and the prices asked and then make purchasing recommendations to the school board.

Space and training accommodations for the new equipment are already being made.

When asked if new computers would require more room, Van Wieren said, "They'll (the staff) find the room."

Middle school teacher and computer coordinator Vince Chew noted that in the past year four middle school teachers took computer courses. "Teachers are showing the willingness to get the training," Chew said.

Chew is one of the teachers who has been involved with the technology committee. Earlier this year, he attended a teaching technology seminar and later made a report to the school board.

The days of film and video tape are numbered, Chew explained. Class room teaching materials are being put on video discs and compact discs. The middle school is prepared to order a science program which incorporates information on video discs.

Chew and Van Wieren both said Charlevoix hasn't been particularly active in technology purchases in recent years. Chew said he feels the school board took a conservative wait-and-see approach, but now the computer market is settling down and it's obvious that technology in the classroom is something that's here to stay.

When asked why he feels the investment in computers and technology is needed, Chew responded, "The need is to do the best job we can educating students. We need to use the best tools available to us. If we ignore technology, we're not using the best tools."

Chew said the computer is being called the best teaching tool since the chalkboard.

Parents address school board concerning curriculum

by Wendi Wright

Parents filled the audience at the regular meeting of the Charlevoix Board of Education Monday night voicing concern over the current curriculum, and the board's consideration of a proposal to change the current bus schedule.

Following presentation of the school-wide annual report by Gordon VanWieren, school superintendent, parents raised several questions about the current curriculum in the three schools. Most focused primarily on the emphasis placed on sports, while they felt the fine arts were being neglected in the Charlevoix system, especially in the middle school.

The discussion began when one parent stated that a Performing Arts class be added to the curriculum at the middle school, or at least that it be offered as an extra-curricular activity with a paid coach. The parent stated that she felt such a class or after school activity would meet the needs of students who are not athletic, offering them an outlet and the satisfaction of involvement that students involved in sports receive.

Dennis VanGuilder, middle school principal, answered by stating that the problem with the proposal was finding the time and the staff member qualified to teach such a class. He said that if Performing Arts was added, something else would have to be removed from the curriculum. VanGuilder added that he felt that the curriculum must be viewed as a school-wide plan, and that every school could not offer the same things, or the plan would be deficient in other areas.

Further, he said that offering Performing Arts as an extra-curricular activity would present the same problems. He said the middle school gym is currently being used full time, and that finding someone qualified to coach a team might be difficult. He did say, however, that he would be willing to explore the possibilities.

This spawned discussion about the arts in general in the Charlevoix school system, and most parents and teachers present seemed to feel that the fine arts are neglected in the middle school especially, and in the high school as well, as students are forced to choose between art or music, or may not be able to continue either course of study because of scheduling conflicts with required classes.

VanWieren asked that the concerns raised be put on the agendas of the Curriculum Council and the Extra-Curricular Activities Committee for further discussion. He added that if the parents had not had their questions answered to their satisfaction by September, they should return to the school board.

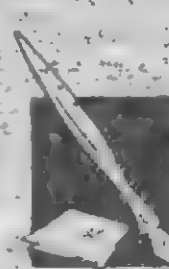

Finally, one parent raised an issue that seemed to illustrate the concerns voiced earlier. She was concerned about the school board's failure to honor a promise to the art department to provide matching funds to purchase a graphic design computer. She said it was her understanding that the art department raised $2000 toward the computer, but that the school board transferred the $2000 promised as matching funds to the athletic department at the end of the year.

Richard Kelly, school business manager, explained that the funds were not "transferred" from one department to another, but that the athletic department ran over budget, thus putting the entire budget in the red. Kelly said that in recent years, the school board has put a great deal of emphasis on operating within budget; therefore, in an attempt to balance the total budget at the end of the year, several capital expenditures were put on hold, including the art department's computer. He added that the money for the computer is in the '91-'92 budget, which begins July 1, 1991, and that the computer would be ordered and in place by September 1.

Another topic of discussion was the proposed change in the bus schedule, raised at a meeting in May. VanWieren opened the topic for discussion by telling the audience that it was he who originally raised the issue in the school

Letters to the Editor:

Computers supported

Editor,

My wife Emma and I have just completed a high school completion program at the Charlevoix adult Learning Center. As part of the requirement for graduation, we were required to take a class in computers, needless to say this was a scary proposition for two older folks like us. What do we know about computers and what will we ever do with them? Thanks to Ken Bartley, the computer teacher at the high school, this line of thinking has changed.

The class was interesting, informative, and it showed how computers can be an important part of a person's life.

We firmly support the expansion of this program in our schools and urge the citizens of Charlevoix to give a "YES" vote for the proposed millage on June 10.

although he's still not entirely happy with the new price, he views it as a compromise.

Feller said that if and when the city council looks to begin building on the property, he feels that a building proposal should be placed before city voters.

Later, when a motion was made to purchase the property, Feller included a provision that the city sell a piece of city-owned property on M-66 and put the money from the sale toward the purchase price of the U.S. 31 property.

Gross still didn't sound thrilled with the purchase, but said he felt this year's council was burdened by the decision to purchase which was made last year.

Russell cast Monday evening's only vote against the purchase. He referred to an appraisal of the property which the city paid for.

"I've had a problem all along with spending taxpayers' money for an appraisal and then not listening to the appraisal," he said.

According to the appraisal, the property $8,500 to $10,000 per acre. At the $80,000 price, the city is paying close to $16,000 per acre.

In a related matter the city is purchasing a small parcel of property adjoining the Manthei parcel for $13,000. That figure was closer to the appraised value.

O.M. says thanks

Editor,

The Charlevoix Odyssey of the Mind teams have completed a successful 1990-91 season. I am writing to thank the volunteer coaches Kay Beatty, Eileen Heck, Phyllis Hess, Cathy McCann, Julia Morrow and Cindie Vandergriff for all the time they spent helping these middle and elementary students prepare for competition. These volunteers guided the 24 team members to first, third, seventh and tenth places at regional level. One of the teams, Transformation Division II, earned a seventh place at the competition at Central Michigan University.

Thanks also goes to the many community businesses who supported the teams by donating paint, cardboard boxes and lumber for building props and by giving souvenirs for the youth to trade with other schools.

On behalf of the young people involved, the community's support of this creative problem solving activity was appreciated.

FAMILY

Ritsema - Drenth

Carol J. Ritsema and Allen J. Drenth exchanged marriage vows Saturday morning, May 18, at the Norwood Methodist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Ron and Nancy Ritsema of Norwood, and the bridegroom is the son of Jerrold and Marilyn Drenth of Ellsworth.

Approximately 100 guests were present as the Reverend Len Riemersma of the Ellsworth Christian Reformed Church officiated at the ceremony. For the occasion, the church was decorated with lilacs and other spring flowers.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white brocade over a pink underskirt. It was fashioned with a fitted bodice and featured a sweetheart neckline, short sleeves, and a bow at the back waistline. The bride's fingertip veil was attached to a headband of bluish-colored brocade roses, and she carried an arm bouquet of bluish tulips.

Katy Ritsema, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor, and Mary Gorney, another sister, served as bridesmaid. They wore print dresses of rose, green, and pink, and carried bouquets of white tulips.

Angie Halfman was flower girl, wearing a full-skirted white dress and carrying a basket of flowers. Christopher Drenth was ringbearer.

Gary Coolman served as best man; Dwight Ritsema, brother of the bride, was groomsman, and Steve Courtright and Jim Courtright were ushers.

Music for the ceremony was provided by organist Virginia Rubingh, vocalist Yvonne Riemersma, and flutist Kristi Drenth.

A reception, hosted by the bride's parents at the Edgewater Inn, followed the wedding ceremony. The rehearsal dinner was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents.

The newlyweds have returned from a wedding trip to Canada and are now at home in Ellsworth, where the bridegroom is employed by Drenth Brothers. The bride is employed in Petoskey as an orthodontic assistant.

Landscaping should include shrubs

(Editor's note: The following story is one in a series being provided to the Courier by the Charlevoix Area Garden Club in order to help the many people who strive to make Charlevoix a greener place.)

All landscape plans should include a good look at shrubs. While they are relatively expensive, they are for the most part easy to grow, provide long lasting beauty and fragrance, screen unsightly views, give privacy, form a background for flower borders, provide shelter for birds and have many other uses. From earliest spring forsythias, through May lilacs, flowering quince and bridal wreath, to early summer mock orange, viburnums, beauty bush, then weigelas into August and hydrangeas and altheas (Rose of Sharon) provide colorful flowers all season long, year after year with a minimum of care.

Various other shrubs provide color or interest in other ways. Privet, extremely fast growing in a minimum of time and not particular as to soil and light conditions, will hide an unsightly view and give privacy in a very short time. Various cotoneasters are grown for their bright berries and interesting shapes and the cymonius alatus, or burning bush, is popular for its bright fiery red leaves in the fall. Our climate is too cold for the Christmas holly, but now there are hardier varieties on the market and there is a native holly that has bright red berries in winter although it loses its leaves in the fall. Oregon holly, or mahonia, is another good substitute. Its leaves are shiny, dark green and spiked like the real holly and stay on the bush almost until spring. They do turn brown in the late fall, but when cut before real cold weather sets in and kept in water in a protected place, like a garage, they make wonderful Christmas decorations. In the spring there are clusters of small yellow flowers which turn into dark blue berries in the fall. Mahonia does well in light shade, as do most of the cotoneasters, viburnums, altheas, forsythias and hydrangeas.

Since shrubs are a long term investment, their place should be selected with care so that they will have adequate light and good soil and have plenty of room to grow. At least 3 feet of space should be allowed between shrubs and a wall or building or any other plant.

Shrubs, or any other plant, should never be planted under an overhang or eaves; they are either smashed during a downpour or they don't get enough moisture and light to survive.

For container-grown shrubs a hole should be dug slightly larger than the container. The container should be carefully cut or peeled away and the shrub put in the hole, soil should be filled around it and firmed down. A thorough watering will help eliminate any air pockets left in the ground.

Bare-root shrubs should be planted in holes big enough to spread out the roots in the bottom. A spadeful of compost or good humus added at this time will get the shrub off to a good start.

After firming down the soil a little ridge should be built at the edge of where the hole was dug, to hold in the water not only when watering the shrub after planting but also to catch and hold the rain water. This is particularly important when planting shrubs, trees or other plants on a slope, where rainwater will run off before it has a chance to seep into the ground to reach the roots.

Warner to compete for Ms. Senior Michigan

Marge Warner of Charlevoix will be a contestant in the Ms. Senior Michigan contest, scheduled for June 6 in Harbor Springs.

Contestants will be judged on poise and philosophy of life, as well as on their talents, be it singing, dancing, painting, writing, telling a story, or even stitching a fine seam.

Friends of Warner's say she does a fine rendition of "Minnie Pearl."

Do you enjoy music? (All kinds?)

Can you play a musical instrument (even a little)? If the answer to these questions is "YES," you can perform a community service and have fun at the same time by joining the Charlevoix City Band.

The first meeting will be on Tuesday, June 11 at 7:00 p.m. in the Charlevoix High School Band Room.

Two local students receive art scholarships

By Peg Ohle

The Charlevoix Council for the Arts has announced the awarding of $1,000 scholarships to two young Charlevoix artists.

Allison Boyer, who graduated from Charlevoix High School last Sunday, and Chrissy Dillon, a 1990 graduate, are this year's recipients of the scholarships, which are being awarded for the tenth year.

Suzi Reis of the Charlevoix Council for the Arts explained that the scholarships are funded by proceeds from the Waterfront Art Fair and are awarded only to Charlevoix students who intend to pursue studies in a field of art at a college or university.

Boyer was in the "troops" of "pulling things together" for high school graduation when interviewed last week, but her enthusiasm for her art work and the prospect of studying art at Albion College was boundless.

Boyer seems to like everything about art. She has done paintings, drawings, and sculpturing, mostly in the abstract. She says her interest in art blossomed at the end of eighth grade, following a special art class. That's when she learned to really like art, she recalls.

Her high school graduation party will be a showing of much of her art work for friends and relatives. Grandparents and aunts and uncles are coming from downstate to attend the party and to view the oils, acrylics, and charcoals Boyer has produced during her four years of studying art at Charlevoix High School.

"My mother wants to get it all out and hang it up," Boyer explained of her collection. "She and my whole family have been very supportive of what I'm doing."

While Boyer knows she will study art at Albion, she does not know what particular field will eventually become a career. "I'm open to anything," she declared, "it might even be photography, which has become a recent interest she will learn more about at school next year."

Boyer received an art scholarship to Albion and was also accepted by Kendall School of Design and Western Michigan University. This summer she will work at The Bahnhof as she has for the past three summers.

Boyer is the daughter of Doug and Kathy Boyer. She has a younger brother, Scott, and a younger sister, Kami. She was born in Grosse Pointe but moved to Charlevoix as a young child and attended Charlevoix schools for 13 years. Boyer's interests are diversified. In addition to art, her favorite studies in high school were math and United States history. She also likes to ski and was on the ski team for four years.

Chrissy Dillon graduated from Charlevoix High School last year and just completed her freshman year at Western Michigan University, majoring in art.

"I just love it," Dillon says of the school and her art work. She is particularly glad she has been able to do some work in a field in which she has a special interest: Using art as therapy in dealing with persons who have social problems.

"I decided about my junior year in high school that I could help people by using art works and I've found it very satisfying," Dillon explained.

During her senior year, Dillon worked with some of the people at the Chip Counseling Center under the supervision of her art teacher, Mary Mathers. This past year, she has worked with residents of a shelter for abused women and children in Kalamazoo.

...art scholarships

Teaching these people to use a paint brush or a piece of chalk can be a challenging job. They have to be activated, taught to follow through, but when they can draw a picture or make some little thing, the accomplishment does wonders for them," Dillon explained.

It was her desire to help people and knowing she could do it through the medium of art that led Dillon to choose her life's vocation. When she graduates from Western, she will enter a program at the Art Institute of Chicago to work toward a master's degree in art therapy.

Dillon says she began drawing at an early age and her family has always been most cooperative in helping her along the way. She works in oils, acrylics, and water colors and has also done some sculpturing in body casts. However, she really likes drawing the best because "you can do such fine work with a pencil." Most of her work is realistic in form.

Dillon is the daughter of John and Patricia Dillon and grew up in Charlevoix with her older sister, Katherine. While in high school Dillon participated in basketball, track, student council, performing arts, and the Honor Society. The latter was a prelude to her making the Dean's List at Western.

In past summers, Dillon has worked at a clothing store, but this summer she is employed by Bier Pottery, south of Charlevoix.

Chrissy Dillon displays one of her drawings. Dillon and Allison Boyer have received art scholarships from the Charlevoix Council for the Arts.

Transportation Week awards presented to several people

National Transportation week, May 13 through 17, was a busy one for the Charlevoix County Transit System.

On May 14, 59 senior citizens were transported for 10 cents a ride, including nine new people who had never before ridden a Transit System bus. Also, during the week, 12 residents from foster care homes were given free rides to a Senior Center for lunch.

Several area residents were awarded passes as prizes in daily drawings. They were Helen Rothenberger, Gail Denny, and Bud Scott of East Jordan; Louis McSaubey of Charlevoix; and Dale Cosier and Jerry Harford of Boyne City.

Other passes were awarded the 150th bus rider each day. These winners were Flora Reese, Ian McKay, and Taylor Martin of Charlevoix; Kristin Hansen of Boyne Falls; and Karen Mills of Boyne City.

Lucille Starkey of East Jordan received a pass for making the closest estimate of bus ridership last year.

1991 graduates see better things ahead

by David Salmonson

It was Sunday both literally and figuratively for the 89 Charlevoix graduates who packed into the high school gym at 3 p.m. for the annual commencement exercises.

According to salutatorian Amy Shupert, the hope brought by the graduation of her class was not unlike the hope of Jesus' Easter morning resurrection. She explained that, having been through various events such as recent murder charges against a classmate, the class of 1991 had seen its share of not-so-Good Fridays.

"But Sunday's a-comin'," she said repeatedly to underscore the fact that tough times do end eventually.

Shupert didn't fail to mention her classmates' successes either, pointing out awards earned by the performing arts group and the cross country team. She also had students fishing in their memory pools to recall amusing mishaps and the antics of class clowns.

The valedictory address by Scott W. Campbell was brief. In fact, it lasted just seconds. "We made it and we're out of here! Once delivered, the exclamation received a standing ovation from the seniors and considerable laughter from friends and family present."

Following the valedictorian's statement, high school counselor and senior class advisor Charles A. Bentley addressed the departing students, offering a list of "Bentley's axioms." He advised the graduates to not shy away from high expectations for themselves, to take risks, but take nothing for granted, and to accept change as it comes.

In the final minutes of his talk, Bentley stressed to the seniors how they should "take time to care." He read the poem, "Hug-o-War," by the popular children's writer Shel Silverstein and spoke of the importance of the embrace.

He finished with one last axiom, the title of his speech: "When the circus comes to town, be there."

Some of the graduates put their destinations on their hats. That's so you'll know where to find them later - if you happen to be looking for them.

That little march step is the trickiest part of commencement: Jerrett Moreno watches Janice Leadabrand's feet and attempts to follow her lead.

Students enjoying new computers

Although it's sometimes difficult to get high school students to open a text book, Ken Bartley has had no such problems with 20 new IBM computers at the high school. The students are keeping the machines hot both during and after school.

Earlier this year the school board decided to participate in an IBM program. The program boiled down to IBM agreeing to set up Charlevoix High School with a classroom computer system for six months at no cost. At the end of that time, the school can decide if it wants to buy the system or return it. Based on student response to the new computers thus far, by the end of six months it might be difficult to persuade the students to part with them.

"The kids love them," Bartley said. The computer room is occupied not only during regular class hours, but students also come in after school and dabble on the computers for as long as they can persuade Bartley to keep the class open. As Bartley described it, "They come in any time they can." Keeping the system will cost approximately $45,000. The purchase of this system is not related to the June 10 millage vote (see story elsewhere in paper), but this system will be able to tie in with additional equipment which will be purchased if the millage request passes.

The new system includes 20 IBM PS 2 25-286 computers, a laser printer, a dot matrix printer and a hard drive.

The entire system is networked together. In fact, Bartley can sit at one of the computers and use it to check in on what any student is doing on any of the other computers. He can also send messages to all of the other computers. A message he sent the other day indicated which students were paying close attention at that particular moment. The first groans came from the first students to notice the message that they were about to receive a surprise quiz.

Bartley said that even though it's possible for him to sit at one computer and deal with the students by sending computer messages, he spends most of his time walking around from computer to computer, helping the students get over what

J.H. Beck works at one of 20 new computers which were recently installed at Charlevoix High School. The IBM computers were set up at the school by the company for a free sixth-month trial period. At the end of six months, if the school decides it likes the computers, it will cost approximately $45,000 to keep the system. Judging by the initial response, at the end of six months, the students probably won't want to part with the computers.

7th Annual Lake Charlevoix Area Trout Tournament

By L. Scott Swanson

Between 700 and 900 fishermen will all be out on the water this weekend trying to catch the same kind of fish - whoppers!

The Seventh Annual Lake Charlevoix Area Trout Tournament will take place June 7 and 8 on the waters of Lake Charlevoix and Lake Michigan. A total of $20,000 in cash and prizes is at stake.

The registration deadline for the tournament is 10 p.m. Thursday June 6. Fishermen may sign up in the lobby of the Market Mall. The entry fee is $20 per adult and $5 for fishermen ages six through 14. There is no charge for fishermen age five and under.

Jeff Lutz of Lasting Memories: A $1,000 bond if the largest fish of the tournament is caught on a Stinger lure; the Rex Blanchard Memorial Trophy awarded to the fisherman catching the largest Lake Trout; a pot prize for the largest entry caught each day.

STEELHEAD TROUT

Fishermen are advised that they may be disqualified for the following reasons:

1. Passing objects from boat to boat.
2. Not having everyone on board registered.
3. Fishing alone without a registered witness on boat or on shore.
4. Registering fish that contain foreign matter, or a fish that has been frozen.
5. Being cited by a peace officer for any fishing violation.
6. Not abiding by all rules of the tournament.

The Trout Tournament is designed to be a fun, family-oriented tournament. Traditionally, a share of the entrants are parents and their children. Tournament board members report that organization of the tournament gets smoother and more efficient each year and that also helps make the tournament more pleasant.

ATLANTIC SALMON

There will be four divisions in this year's tournament: brown trout, lake trout, steelhead, and salmon. The top fish in each division will be worth $1,000. Second place is worth $500. Third place is worth $200. Fourth place is worth $100. Fifth place nets $75. Sixth through 10th place finishers each bring home $50. And 11th through 15th place fish clear entry fee, plus $5 i.e. $25.

A popular attraction which is returning to the Trout Tournament this year is the kid's fish pond and tournament. From 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, children will be able to catch one of 500 trout which will be planted in the fish pond in front of the new band shell. The cost is $1 per fish. The kid's pond was popular in the early years of the Trout Tournament, but has been absent in recent years because the old pond was torn out and was in the process of being replaced.

Fishermen and spectators will be coming and going throughout the weekend in East Park. The weigh station will be set up and many of the larger fish will be on display.

BROWN TROUT

Once again there will be a food trailer in the park.

The grand prize drawing and awards ceremony will begin at 1 p.m. Sunday. Tournament and raffle prizes will be awarded at that time. Tickets for a 50-50 raffle will be on sale at the park throughout the weekend.

Special bonus prizes at the tournament include: Mounting of the largest fish of the tournament by

Free fishing weekend

More than 70 fishing derbies, contests and "how-to-fish" clinics for beginning anglers will be held around the state in conjunction with Michigan's Free Fishing Weekend, June 8-9.

"This will be the state's sixth annual Free Fishing Weekend, with no fishing license or trout/salmon stamp required of anyone fishing in Michigan waters," said Fisheries Division Chief John Robertson of the Department of Natural Resources (DNR). "The fishing events sponsored by local businesses, groups and chambers of commerce have been the highlights of this statewide effort to promote the enjoyment of fishing, the conservation ethic and angler sensitivity to the environment."

"Last year there were more than 10,000 first time anglers taking advantage of free fishing weekend to enjoy the wonderful bounty of Michigan's resources," he added. "Our focus is primarily on young people, the future guardians of this bounty."

Michigan boasts a world renowned fishery and more than two million anglers fish for more than 50 species of game fish in the state's 38,000 square miles of Great Lakes waters, 11,000 inland lakes and 36,000 miles of rivers.

ever programming or application wrinkle has them hung up.

The new computers arrived the first week in May. Bartley originally planned to start teaching on the new computers next fall at the beginning of the school year. But neither he nor the students could wait that long. They fired up the computers and went to work. Prior to getting the IBMs, the high school had some Apple II-Is and some 10-year-old Commodores.

Each student has his own file and pass word. Bartley said that allows the student system to operate much the same as a business computer environment.

Although there are additional things Bartley would like to see in the high school computer students exposed to, he says, "At least it's a modern system now that is similar to a business situation or a college situation that they're going to be confronted with."

Presently, all of the high school students are required to take a computer literacy class. Beyond that, they may also study computer programming and the use of applications. One of this year's graduates, Chris Burge, took three years of programming. Although the high school really doesn't have a third-year computer class, Bartley and Burge kind of improvised one so that Burge could pursue his interest in computers.

In addition to programming and applications, the computer system also includes course work for algebra, biology, chemistry, introductory calculus. Bartley says there are programs available to teach about any class you would want to, but that can't be done at the high school right now because the computers are almost constantly occupied.

The students have quickly discovered that the computers can be used for more than just academics.
They've brought in a wide variety of computer games, many of which they got from their parents' computer systems. Bartley's rule in the classroom is - first you do your work and finish your assignment and then you can play with the games. The time the students spend on the games isn't necessarily wasted.

"They learn a lot of things about the system just moving games around," Bartley said.

As an adult watching the students work with the new computers, it's easy to start feeling envious. But that need not last for long. With any luck the new computers will be used in adult and community education classes next year.

obituaries Ione J. Tripp

Ione J. Tripp, 89, of Charlevoix, died May 26, 1991, at Bortz Health Care of Petoskey.

Funeral was Wednesday, May 29, at the Winchester Funeral Home, Charlevoix. The Rev. Benton Heisler of the Charlevoix United Methodist Church officiated with burial in Brookside Cemetery, Charlevoix.

The former Ione J. Struble was born March 1, 1902, in Shepherd, the daughter of Allen J. and Maude E. (Knapp) Struble. She moved to the Detroit area as a young girl and attended and graduated from Detroit schools. She worked in a jewelry store in the Detroit area at one time.

On May 1, 1945, she married Lester Tripp in Detroit. Following their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Tripp moved to Northern Michigan where they owned and operated the Burgess store in Hayes Township for several years. Mrs. Tripp also taught and made ceramics.

Mr. Tripp preceded her in death on April 29, 1978.

Mrs. Tripp was a member of the First Baptist Church of Charlevoix, a member of the Charlevoix Rebekeah Lodge and had received her 40-year pin from the lodge. She was also a member of the Maple Grove Grange.

She is survived by one son, Robert Tripp of Charlevoix; two grandchildren, Duane and Charlene; four great-grandchildren, one niece, Beverly Hiltz of Cape Cod, Mass.; two nephews, Dale Struble of Moody, Maine, and Robert Struble of Deerfield, Fla. Memorial contributions are suggested to the First Baptist Church of Charlevoix or to a charity of choice.

Freda V. Stewart

Freda V. Stewart, 81, of Charlevoix, died May 29, 1991, at the home of her son, F. James Stewart, in Charlevoix.

Funeral was Saturday, June 1, at the Charlevoix United Methodist Church. The Rev. Benton Heisler officiated with burial in Brookside Cemetery.

The former Freda M. McMillan was born Aug. 23, 1909, in Indian River, the daughter of Dr. F.F. and Hazel (Dagwell) McMillan. At the age of 7, she moved with her family to Charlevoix where she attended school. She was salutatorian of the Charlevoix High School graduating class of 1926 and then attended and was graduated from the University of Michigan with a bachelor of arts degree.

She then toured with the Bonstelle Theater Group of Detroit and later attended Kalamazoo College where she received a teaching certificate.

Mrs. Stewart was an English teacher at Charlevoix public schools and also taught elementary school in Boyne City.

On July 4, 1943, she married Harry A. Stewart. He died on April 6, 1968.

Mrs. Stewart was member of the United Methodist Church of Charlevoix; a member of the Order of Eastern Star Chapter 72 in Charlevoix; a member of the United Methodist Church women's circle; a member of the Charlevoix Historical Society and Retired Teachers Association.

Survivors include three sons, Jon A. Stewart and his wife Avril of Berkeley, Calif., F. James Stewart, M.D., and his wife Tansley of Charlevoix, and Jerry R. Stewart and his wife Suzanne of Gaylord; nine grandchildren; one sister, Lyla Arvilla of Charlevoix.

She was preceded in death by a daughter, Jill, on March 18, 1991 and a brother, Albert McMillan, during World War II.

The family suggests memorials to the Charlevoix Area Hospital. Envelopes for that purpose are at the Winchester Funeral Home.

Health Department offers food safety tips

Brian L. Youngs, M.D., Medical Director/Health Officer for District Health Department No. 3, believes that the public should be provided information about prevention of foodborne illnesses. Residents should be aware that the potential for illness exists all the time whether they are camping, at home, on a picnic, or eating in a restaurant. People should also know that foodborne illnesses are uncommon, that food and water supplies are generally safe, and that the chance of acquiring an illness while eating in a licensed restaurant is unlikely.

Recently, foodborne illness has been reported in the District. The agents causing disease can be due to a variety of microbes and toxins. Most foodborne diseases are caused by a failure to follow basic food safety measures or to implement proper food handling techniques.

The basic food safety measures and food handling techniques which everyone should abide by include the following:

1. Choose foods processed for safety. Many foods are best in their natural state, such as fruits and vegetables, others are not safe unless they have been processed. Certain foods eaten raw, such as lettuce, need thorough washing.
2. Cook food thoroughly. Many raw foods, notably poultry and meats, are very often contaminated with disease causing agents. Thorough cooking will kill the pathogens, but the temperature of all parts of the food must reach at least 140 degrees Fahrenheit, except for poultry, poultry stuffing, stuffed meats, and stuffing containing meat must reach 165 degrees Fahrenheit, pork 150 degrees Fahrenheit, and rare roast beef of at least 130 degrees Fahrenheit. Frozen meat, fish, and poultry must be thawed before cooking.
3. Eat cooked foods immediately. If you must prepare foods in advance or want to deep leftovers, be sure to store them under either hot (140 degrees Fahrenheit or above), or cool (45 degrees Fahrenheit or below) conditions. This is important if foods are stored more than three hours.
4. Reheat cooked foods thoroughly. All parts of the food must reach at least 165 degrees Fahrenheit.
5. Avoid contact between raw foods and cooked foods. Safely cooked food can become contaminated through even the slightest contact with raw food.
6. Wash hands repeatedly. People should always wash their hands thoroughly before working with ready-to-eat foods and after using the bathroom, using the handkerchief, touching any soiled object or surface, handling raw food (especially meat and poultry), eating, smoking, and touching or scratching any area of the body (ears, mouth, nose, or hair).

7. Do not prepare food if ill. Individuals should not prepare food if they have an acute respiratory illness, sore throat, fever, diarrhea, vomiting, an infected cut or sore, or a boil.

8. Maintain adequate hand washing facilities. This includes hot and cold running water, soap, and sanitary towels.

9. Do not touch ready-to-eat foods served to others with your bare hands. Food handlers should use either clean plastic gloves or utensils such as tongs, deli wrap, napkins, or other suitable barriers are recommended to be used when dispensing all foods to the consumer. Hand contact with food is acceptable only when the food will be cooked prior to serving.

10. Keep all kitchen surfaces meticulously clean. Since foods are so easily contaminated, any surface used for food preparation must be kept absolutely clean. Every food scrap, crumb, or spot is a potential reservoir for germs.

11. Protect foods from insects, rodents, and other animals.

12. Use water and ice from approved sources. Ice should be considered a food product.

13. Ask questions. Contact the health department if you have questions or concerns about food safety or food handling.

For further information contact your local health department, Gordon Block, R.S. at (516) 547-6523 or Penny Massey, R.S. at (517) 732-1794.

BEACONS

OF BLESSINGS

by Bruce Hamilton

Did you get a little confused when you first touched the cable television control on Monday? Our local company added three channels and did some rearranging over the weekend. While I'm glad to see the additions, I was sorry that one particular channel was dropped from the line up.

CBET-TV, Channel 9, in Windsor, Ontario, got lost in the shuffling of stations. Why should I lament the loss? I admit I loved its hockey coverage a lot. But Windsor Nine did something that I don't think most of you thought about. It let us see ourselves through the eyes of another country.

Too many of us don't realize that there are some very real differences between us and our Canadian neighbors. The culture is not an English speaking duplicate of our own. Its news, humor, and theater all are quite different. Where we made it a point of breaking with our European heritage, the Canadians honor and value it as a part of the foundation on which their nation was built.

Now what does this have to do with a devotional column? Simple. The Lord's commission to us was to go into all the world. We need to recognize that there is indeed a world far beyond the borders of the United States of America. It is populated by peoples who have never known the blessings of freedom and the opportunities to worship, study or have fun that we take for granted every day.

I am often troubled by the Bible verse that says, "to whom much is given, much is expected." When I look at our abundance, and our ability to multiply it even further, I wonder if we really are living up to God's expectations.

There is not a pastor in town who doesn't want to see our version of Jerusalem reached. Every church hopes to touch every life that it can in Charlevoix with the life changing message and ministry of Jesus. Most churches are affiliated with others across the state in hopes of together reaching our version of Judea. In the case of the Church of God (Anderson), there are only six of our congregations in northern Michigan and one in the U.P. We're looking to grow. Others are too.

Don't forget Samaria and the ends of the earth. We are called to be a church on the move constantly looking for new areas to spread the good news we hold so dear. We cannot take our neighbors, whether on the same street or half way around the world, for granted. They may be different but they also have the same heart felt needs. We need to listen and learn from them so we can reach out with God's best.

BUSINESS

Ionex: a small, yet complex business

By Ralph McKee

Ionex. The name of the plant makes it sound like it's very high-tech and into things beyond the ordinary. In some ways that may be true, but the company located near the west end of Carpenter Street is small and very sincere about wanting to give its customers personal service and good quality at a low cost.

Ionex specializes in two products: vacuum heat treating of finished items and the manufacture of high temperature vacuum furnaces. A start-up company, barely two years old, Ionex is already having an effect on various other area industries.

Jim Barnard, a metallurgical engineer from Bellaire, founded Ionex in 1989. He had been working at a small Bellaire manufacturing plant which closed down. Some of Ionex's employees are Barnard's former coworkers from Bellaire.

Ionex's most crucial and technical operations involve building compact vacuum furnaces. Finely designed air pumps are used to reduce pressure inside the furnace to one 500,000th of normal atmospheric pressure. The vacuum, combined with high temperatures from electric heating quickly melts alloys such as nickel and chrome.

Some of the electric cables wrapped around the furnaces are made by blocking wire plant. Stainless steel tanks in the furnaces are made by Viatec.

The tanks are split vertically. They can be opened to insert items and then sealed to maintain a vacuum.

...Ionex: small, but busy

um. Pressurized helium is used to check the seal.

Ionex not only designs and builds furnaces from scratch, but also repairs and retrofits used furnaces, in effect giving them a second life. These retrofitted furnaces can often save a purchaser half the price of a very expensive piece of equipment. For example, a retrofitted furnace rather than a new one might mean an expenditure of $100,000 rather than $200,000.

Electronic panel boxes, some as big as eight feet high and ten feet wide, control the furnaces. Thoroughly trained and experienced workers are necessary to deal with the complex control systems which contain countless circuits, switches, dials and terminals.

Uses for the 2,000 degree furnaces vary with the customer, but often are quite intriguing. One furnace plays a role in making ceramic tiles on the space shuttle more heat resistant. Another furnace melts down alloys so they can be rolled into thin strips which are cut into microchips for computers. Another furnace has half-inch thick graphite walls and is used to make carbide tips for the blades of concrete cutting saws.

Ionex customers include several large corporations such as Lockheed and Pratt and Whitney along with research and development laboratories affiliated with corporations and universities from around the world. Customers also include many northern Michigan firms.

Presently, Ionex doesn't have a marketing program or sales representatives. Sales have come through referrals and word of mouth in a large network of related industries.

Ionex is a closed corporation, mostly family owned. It is located in an industrial building which had been vacant for two years prior to 1989. Fortunately, the building was designed for heavy industrial use, with high walls and high voltage service.

Barnard started the business with plans and ideas for providing what he felt was a needed service in northwestern Michigan. He also believes that Charlevoix is a place that offers many advantages to himself and his employees. What was an empty building two years ago is now filled with equipment and a dozen employees. It is now home to a business which produces products that help projects throughout the world and also produces a $300,000 payroll which boosts Charlevoix's local economy.

Getting your just desserts
You can even eat the cup

Jerry Pease samples one of the new desserts his shop is now selling.

Charlevoix Courier, Wednesday, June 5, 1991 - PAGE 21

Jerry's Meats adds new line of desserts

Jerry Pease of Jerry's Meats on Lincoln Street is selling a line of desserts to tempt even the most diet-conscious.

How about a chocolate mousse served up in a champagne "glass," made of edible chocolate, to be eaten right down through the stem of the glass? Or a raspberry mousse served in an edible white chocolate champagne glass?

Or what about one or more of the 16 varieties of cheesecake Jerry is promoting? They come in whole cakes pre-sliced or unsliced, in one-half and one-quarter cake sizes, in cup cake sizes, in bite sizes, and even on a stick.

Other teasers are eight different varieties of brownies and three-layer carrot cakes.

These are homemade gourmet desserts made of the very best ingredients by the Underground Cheesecake Company in Traverse City. They're great for entertaining," Pease says proudly.

Orders must be made in advance. Phone 547-5704.

City considers purchase of railroad right of way

A portion of railroad right of way near Lake Charlevoix at the north end of the city limits is the focal point of discussion by the city council, planning commission and recreation commission.

The state owns the piece of land, but intends to sell it. The land also is currently unzoned.

Members of the three political bodies face two questions: 1. Should some type of zoning restrictions be placed on the property, and if so, what should they be? 2. Should the city consider purchasing the property?

At a joint meeting of the three boards Monday evening, mayor Dave Novotny and city council member Ted Felier indicated that they want to see some type of zoning in place for the property as soon as possible. They expressed concern that if there are no zoning restrictions, someone might purchase the property and be free to build whatever they wish.

The property is currently owned by the state, but the state is offering it to Consumers Power Company for $270,000. The power company is receiving the first opportunity to buy the property because it has power lines across the property.

If Consumers chooses not to buy the property, or to buy the property and resell it, then the city may have an opportunity to purchase all or a portion of the property.

Clem Olach and Bud Kohler of the planning commission as well as Ken Boss of the recreation commission were among those to speak in favor of the city acquiring the property.

Kohler said that even if the city buys and later decides to sell the property, the only way the value of property that close to the lake is likely to go is up.

Jane Cross and Nancy Wood of the planning commission spoke against buying the property.

Cross referred to the burden of property taxes and said, "I think we can do better elsewhere with our money."

City manager Mike Wiesner said that according to the state, the city will be able to get an easement to place utility lines across the property whether or not the city purchases the property.

When does a siren mean disaster?

Charlevoix residents were jarrred from their sleep by not one, but two fire whistles at about 4 a.m. June 5. The first whistle called the city fire department to a fire at the Boyne Machine manufacturing plant on Boyne City Road. The second whistle called the township fire department to bring additional water.

When the incident occurred, some residents wondered if all of the sirens might have been a warning of some disaster other than a fire. They also wondered how you would be able to tell the difference between a whistle blowing for a fire or for some other problem.

In a phone conversation with the Courier, Charlevoix County Emergency Services Director clarified the situation.

Muma said that if there is a problem at the nuclear plant, there will be a siren which has more of a wailing sound than the sound emitted by the fire whistles. That wailing siren will be followed by a message. The nuclear plant warning system is tested on the first Sat-

7th Trout Tournament is most successful yet

The Seventh Annual Lake Charlevoix Area Trout Tournament went just as slick and smooth as the sides of a freshly caught Steelhead. The weather cooperated, the fish bit, the organizational aspects went like clockwork and a record number of fishermen young and old had a fine time.

There were 825 fishermen registered for this year's Tournament. "That's the best year we've had so far," said Sherry Withers of the Trout Tournament board of directors. "We had great weather and a lot of big fish turned in."

Gary Crain of Charlevoix hooked the top prize in the Brown Trout division. His 12-pound 6-ounce fish was good enough to catch $1,000 and a trophy to boot. Prize money went down to 15 places. A 7lb. 8oz. fish was the smallest Brown Trout in the money.

Tony Esson of Gaylord took the Lake Trout division with the tournament's biggest fish, a 12lb. 13oz. entry. Prize money went down to 15 places with the smallest money fish weighing 9lbs. 13oz.

Bob Korn of Boyne City took the Steelhead division with an 11lb. 2oz. fish. Only nine fish were entered in the Steelhead division. The smallest weighed 2lbs. 3oz.

Dave Tarchuk of Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario won the Salmon division with a 7lb. 2oz. fish. Only two salmon were entered. The second place fish weighed 5lbs. 10oz.

The majority of fishermen in the tournament were from northwestern lower Michigan. Withers said 490 fishermen were from Charlevoix and towns surrounding Charlevoix. There were also 78 Canadian fishermen and 236 downstate fishermen in addition to fishermen from Ohio, Colorado, Wisconsin, Florida, Kentucky, Indiana, Illinois and Massachusetts.

There were 82 fishermen younger 14 years old and under in the tournament. The kids fish pond was back this year was back this year after being absent for a few years.

"The kids' fish pond went excellent," Withers reported. "The little kids just had a blast."

Last week 500 small trout were planted in the pond. For $1 per fish, children (many of them coached by parents and grandparents) fished out about 400 of them Saturday.

Daily port prizes for the biggest fish caught on a given day went to Esson with a 12lb. 13 oz. Lake Trout.

Entries sought for 61st Venetian Street Parade

Organizers of the Venetian Street Parade are getting a good response from local businesses, but would like to remind other people in Charlevoix and the surrounding area that they are welcome to participate. The 61st Annual Venetian Parade will take place Saturday, July 27. For additional information, contact the Chamber of Commerce at 547-2101.

Organizers of the Venetian Queen Pageant are also seeking additional candidates. Currently there are four and pageant organizers would like to have at least six. For additional information, phone 547-2101.

Beach project nears completion

It's taken a long time and it hasn't been accomplished without its share of controversy, but after more than six years and at a cost of between $1 million and $1.3 million the Ferry Beach project is nearing completion...and the end result is quite a versatile and appealing recreational complex.

Among the improvements are: 300 additional feet of beach area; three new pavilions which include a concession stand; new restrooms; grills and picnic tables; a sand-bottomed swimming area to the north of the pier; new boat launching ramps; and a 156-space parking lot.

The items listed above are already in place. Within the next few weeks, finishing touches will include: basketball, volleyball and horse shoe areas; a dock for boats to temporarily tie up at; a pumpout station and floating breakwall; playground equipment; and additional picnic tables and grills.

City manager Mike Wiesner said planning and groundwork for the project began sometime prior to 1985. One of the first steps was acquiring a state grant to purchase the additional property to the north of the old beach area. Purchasing the property cost approximately $250,000. A state land and water trust fund grant paid about $135,000 of that cost.

Improvements to the beach area have cost about $700,000. A second state land and trust fund grant paid $215,000 of that cost.

The city's share of the project has come from the Tax Increment Financing Authority (TIFA) funds. TIFA funds are property tax revenues derived from increased State Equalized Values (SEV) over a period of years. TIFA funds are earmarked for improvements in a certain area. In this case Ferry Beach. Were they not earmarked, the funds would go into the general tax pool and be distributed to the school district, city, county and intermediate school district as normal property tax revenue.

"I'm very pleased with the whole project," Wiesner said. He noted that although there was repeated debate over various aspects of the project he feels the final project is something he's very satisfied with.

In addition to the work on the beach and park, Ferry Avenue was moved to the site of the former railroad bed and work was done on Eaton and Terrace Streets. Utility line work was also done in the area.

Two fires being investigated as arson

Two fires which took place around 4 a.m. June 5 on the Boyne City Road are being investigated as cases of arson.

The first fire occurred at the Boyne Machine plant and destroyed the office area of the complex. Investigators believe that someone broke into the shop and then set the fire.

The Charlevoix City Fire Department responded to the fire and then called the Boyne City Fire Department to request assistance and additional water. As the Boyne City Fire Department was enroute, they discovered a second fire in a small out building at the Stephens Farm.

The Boyne City Fire Department began fighting the fire at the farm and the Charlevoix City Fire Department called the Charlevoix Township Fire Department for assistance and water at the Boyne Machine fire.

Firemen were at the scene of the fires until well after sunrise.

The fires were investigated cooperatively by the city fire department, Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department, Boyne City Fire Department and State Fire Marshall's post. Investigators determined that an accelerant was used to start the fire on the farm. Samples have been sent to the lab to determine how the Boyne Machine fire was started.

...sirens of disaster

A tornado or other weather related disaster will result in sirens sounding for three minutes straight. The emergency services department also has the capability to broadcast voice messages over the siren system. When a weather emergency occurs, people are advised to tune to a local radio station for information on recommended courses of action. The emergency services department also has the ability to put message on cable TV stations in the area.

Withers said she felt the fishermen brought in a lot of big fish this year, but they had to work for them.

Department of Natural Resources (DNR) officials from the local fish station took advantage of the tournament to do some research on the local fish population. DNR staff members were particularly interested in how many of the fish had been victimized by lamprey. All in all this year's tournament went extremely well.

"Everything went as smooth as possible," Withers said. She added that the new bands belt made an ideal place to operate from.

OPINIONS

EDITH

by Edith Gilbert

It's always fun to play Sherlock Holmes, but I never expected the mystery trail to unravel by winding through my private collection of paintings.

It all started with a call from Rex McCarthy. He and his wife recently opened the new North Seas Gallery downtown. They acquired a lovely 8" x 10" watercolor in its original frame, dated 1905. The scene is identified as the Balch Summer Home, Charlevoix. Am I familiar with the cottage?

The artist is Detroit-born Jane C. Mahon Stanley. She studied under some outstanding teachers from California and Boston including British landscape artist Leonard Richmond. She is listed in "Who Was Who in American Art", "Mallet's Index of Artists" and the "Dictionary of American Painters, Sculptors and Engravers", and the "Dictionary of Art and Artists in Southern California before 1930."

Very impressive, but the information doesn't ring a bell.

Another call from Rex informs me that he has learned that the Balch Summer Home is presently cottage #15 at the Belvedere Club, which is now owned by the Claggett family. Barbara Claggett, strolled by the North Seas Gallery and noticed the watercolor in the window and cried, "That's my house!"

Now we're getting somewhere! It seems that Jane Stanley was born in 1863, the daughter of artist Mrs. Sarah Mahon, who also lived on the Belvedere resort at cottage #122. Jane is the mother of Sarah Franz.

Sally Franz! Of course. Many of us remember that gentle soul. I cherish one of her whimsical primitive paintings. Her work showed a strong Persian (Iraq) influence, due to her long residence in the Near East. This popular artist usually set up her work on the bandstand when she exhibited at the Charlevoix Waterfront Fair in the '60s. Her local scenes were quickly bought up by many enthusiastic art lovers in this area. A graduate of the University of Michigan, she was an accomplished artist whose work hung in the Detroit Institute of Art and was shown in several New York Galleries.

In the book "The Belvedere Club," Sally recalls that her mother liked to paint such familiar old schooners, as the "Black Hawk" and "Rosalie," anchored in Round Lake. Sally also remembers that renowned sailor, Allie Moody, expressed surprise when he saw her mother's watercolors — he couldn't believe that a woman had gotten the rigging right!

You may well wonder now what is going to become of the little watercolor in the North Seas Gallery? There's a good chance it may end up in the Belvedere Casino. In the meantime, it will be on display briefly at the North Seas Gallery on Mason Street for the public to enjoy.

Editorial

Although there was debate over whether or not United States military involvement in the Persian Gulf War began too soon and now there's debate over whether the military involvement ended too soon, one thing which hasn't generated many objections is the resurgence of patriotism.

The resurgence of pride in the flag and the military which protects it have been evident in several instances locally. When the Traverse City based National Guard unit rolled through town last week, people lined Bridge Street to cheer for them. Many of the same people cheered a few weeks earlier when family members of local military personnel carried a large flag in the Memorial Day parade.

And speaking of flags, lately you see them all over. Flags wave on poles up and down Bridge Street and on homes throughout the community. Were there so many flags displayed in recent years? If there were, did we notice them?

People may debate the timing and tactics of the Persian Gulf War, but it would be difficult to argue that rejuvenating the pride we take in our country, our flag and our way of life and its freedom can do anything but make us a stronger nation.

...Ferry Beach project nearing completion and a sidewalk was constructed up the hill alongside Eaton Street. That work cost approximately $350,000 and was TIFA funded.

Another project which was separate and yet compliments the Ferry Beach project as a whole was the construction of a fish cleaning station at the boaters parking lot. The fish cleaning station was funded with revenues from the Lake Charlevoix Area Trout Tournament and also received a boost from donated labor.

Recent warm weather has made the beach a popular place. However with the added space, it hasn't necessarily been a crowded place.

Wiesner said the city hopes to have the new restrooms and concession stand open by next week.

Groups of people can reserve the sheltered picnic areas by phoning the city recreation department at 547-3253.

New docks, new cement work and a pumpout station have been or being put in place at the launch ramp.

This is the largest of the three new pavilions. It has a concession stand, restrooms and sheltered picnic area.

Do you enjoy music? (All kinds?)

Can you play a musical instrument (even a little)? If the answer to these questions is "YES," you can perform a community service and have fun at the same time by joining the Charlevoix City Band.

Rehearsals held Tuesday evenings at 7:00 at the Charlevoix High School Band Room.

Thorman - LaVanway

Holly Mae Thorman and Kevin Thomas LaVanway exchanged marriage vows Saturday afternoon, April 27, at the East Jordan Missionary Church.

The bride is the daughter of Thelma Thorman of Ellsworth, and the bridegroom is the son of Richard and Marysue LaVanway of East Jordan.

The Reverend Henry Smith officiated at the double ring rites before approximately 200 guests.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Larry Thorman, wore a gown of ivory satin decorated with pearls and lace. It was fashioned with a scalloped train inlaid with lace hearts and sequins and bows on the sleeves and at the back waistline. The bride carried a bouquet of white roses and baby orchids.

Linda McFall attended her sister as matron of honor, and Kelly Dionne, Robyn Reber, and Kristen LaVanway were bridesmaids. They wore dresses of forest green satin taffeta in an off-the-shoulder style with jackets to match. The attendants' bouquets were arrangements of pale yellow carnations interspersed with baby orchids and they wore ivory roses attached to green ribbons in their hair.

Jessica Vallance, niece of the bride, served as flower girl. Her dress was of the same fabric as the other attendants and she wore a ring of ivory roses with green lace in her hair. She carried a basket of ivory rose petals which she dropped along the aisle.

Carter (Bub) McFall, nephew of the bride, was ringbearer.

Glen Thorman, brother of the bride, served as best man, and Bill Truscott, Bob Davis, and Ben Mulens were groomsmen. Kim Thorman and Travis Dishrow were ushers.

Holly & Kevin LaVanway

For the occasion, the church was decorated with candelabra, white roses, and ivy. There were emerald green and ivy bows on the chairs and roses and ivy filled the archway. Music for the ceremony was provided by organist Ginny Carey, vocalist Cheltie Thorman, who sang "Just at the Right Time"; Don Trojanek, who sang "The Wedding Song"; and Laura Kenney, who offered an acappella rendition of "The Lord's Prayer."

A reception at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Boyne City followed the wedding ceremony, hosted by family and friends. The band "Rumors" provided musical entertainment. The rehearsal dinner was also held at the Knights of Columbus Hall.

Special guests at the wedding were Berna Knowles and Mac LaVanway, grandmothers of the bridegroom.

The newlyweds are living in East Jordan, where the bridegroom works with his father at Jordan Valley Concrete. The bride is employed as a secretary for Financial Strategies Corporation in Charlevoix. (Photography by Larry Thorman).

Rozema - Drost

Lori Rozema and Deano Drost

Lori L. Rozema and Deano D. Drost have announced they will be married on October 5.

The bride-to-be is the daughter of Janet Huisjen of Portage and Robert Rozema of Charlevoix. She is a graduate of Charlevoix High School and received an associate's degree in dental technology from Ferris State University. Presently she is employed in Traverse City.

Her fiancé is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Drost of Charlevoix. He attended Charlevoix High School and is employed as a carpenter by the Marqu Construction Company.

Grandma has a doll collection

By Peg Ohle

Emma Zednick didn't have any daughters but she has two great-granddaughters whose eyes light up every time they come to visit her.

Although it's always nice to see grandma, the real reason they like to visit is grandma's doll collection. It's a fairyland for any little girl.

Zednick started collecting dolls a few years back after buying several and giving them to a friend who was an avid doll collector.

"I just saw how much fun she was having and decided to keep the dolls I found at flea markets, rummage sales, and antique shows. Then my friends started giving me dolls they had kept for years," she explained.

Zednick is not sure how many dolls she has but thinks they number between 400 and 500. The reason she's not quite sure is that many of them are packed away in boxes awaiting births and new clothes from her sewing machine.

Zednick's dolls are displayed in a special room of her Charlevoix home on shelves, in bookcases, in cribs, in buggies, in strollers, in rocking chairs, and in high chairs. There are baby dolls which cry and talk and well, there are dolls with blue eyes, brown eyes, and green eyes, some of which open and close or wink and blink; there are little girl dolls with long curly hair or ribboned braids; there are teenage dolls with most clothes; there are bride dolls in the best of wedding finery; there are dolls from the past and dolls from the present.

The oldest doll in Zednick's collection dates back to 1936, a Byelo-baby doll given to Zednick by a friend. She is dressed in a long white baby dress decorated with ribbons which Zednick made. The newest dolls are the familiar soft (and ugly?) Cabbage Patch dolls and Barbie and Ken dressed for their many activities.

Many of the dolls are representative of a period in history: Shirley Temple dolls, Howdy Doodie dolls, Charlie McCarthy dolls, and kewpie dolls, which once were sought after prizes at carnivals. For the uninitiated, kewpie dolls don't have hair and they don't wear clothes.

The smallest doll in Zednick's collection is a tiny German porcelain doll which a friend found up in her back yard and gave to Zednick.

A large bookcase in the doll room is filled with magazines and books about doll-collecting. The room is also full of patterns for doll clothes and pieces of fabric, ribbons, lace, veiling, flowers, and buttons and hooks for use in making the clothes. There is also a short clothes line hung with extra doll clothes, and in one corner, Zednick's sewing machine.

It is evident that Zednick thoroughly enjoys her doll collection and she sometimes talks about the dolls like they were part of her family. "They all have different expressions," she pointed out.

Zednick is also a professional knitter and in another of her rooms she has an assortment of baby clothes and afghans which she makes for sale. Every year she has a sale in her home on the day of the Charlevoix Hobbycraft Show.

Ruth J. Russell

Ruth J. Russell, 78, of Charlevoix, died June 9, 1991, at the Charlevoix Area Hospital. Funeral was Tuesday, June 11, at the Winchester Funeral Home, Charlevoix. The Rev. Clarence E. Fretz of the First Baptist Church of Charlevoix officiated. Burial will be in Brookside Cemetery, Charlevoix.

The former Ruth J. Frasier was born Jan. 19, 1913, in Gaylord, the daughter of John and Laura (Wright) Frasier. She grew up in Gaylord and Petoskey and married Milton Carl Russell in 1930 in Petoskey. They made their home in Charlevoix after their marriage and in 1951 moved to Grand Rapids. Mrs. Russell worked for the S.S. Kresge Co. in Grand Rapids and retired after 20 years. Mr. Russell died Aug. 8, 1975, and Mrs. Russell moved back to Charlevoix in 1985. In 1985, Mrs. Russell completed high school through the adult education program in East Jordan.

She has been a resident of the Country Haven Adult Foster Care Home in Atwood for the past two years.

Mrs. Russell was a member of the First Baptist Church of Charlevoix and a member of the Charlevoix Rebekah Lodge.

She is survived by six sons, Gerald, Jack, Richard and Ron, all of Charlevoix; Douglas of Wyoming, Mich., and William of East Jordan; one daughter, Mrs. Elaine Parson of Grand Rapids; one brother, Paul Frasier of Punta Gorda, Fla.; 30 grandchildren; 30 great-grandchildren and two great-great grandchildren.

She was preceded in death by a son, Donald.

Lutheran Church announces new service time

Bethany Lutheran Church of Charlevoix is changing the starting time of its Sunday morning worship services to 8 a.m. as of Sunday June 16.

The church is now being served by interim pastor Daniel McVey of St. Matthews Church in Mancelona.

Church plans craft fair

The Charlevoix Community Church of God on West Hurbit Street is planning a Community Craft Fair for June 29. Craft people interested in registering to exhibit and sell their work are asked to contact Mimi Rothchild at 547-0772.

In conjunction with the sale, which will take place from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., women from the church will have a bake sale and sell hot dogs and lemonade.

Flags to fly June 14

By Peg Ohle

The Stars and Stripes, The Star Bangled Banner, Old Glory.

All are affectionate names for the flag of the United States of America, which will be celebrated June 14 in commemoration of that date in 1777 when the Continental Congress adopted the red, white, and blue banner as its official emblem.

Flag Day was not designated until 1877, on the 100th anniversary of the flag's adoption, but its configuration had been changed many times to that date.

And today's flag of seven red stripes and six white stripes with 50 stars on a field of blue which accompanied American troops to the Viet Nam Conflict and Operation Desert Shield has changed even more since that first celebration.

The first flag, which is said to have been stitched by Betty Ross in 1776 in Philadelphia and later adopted by the Continental Congress, was designed with 13 stripes and 13 stars arranged in three rows (one stripe and one star for each of the 13 original colonies); a new flag adopted in 1795 had 15 stripes and 15 stars (one stripe and one star for the then 15 states).

It was this 15-star, 15-stripe flag that was flying over Fort McHenry in Baltimore Harbor during the War of 1812 that inspired Francis Scott Key to write The Star Spangled Banner following a night of shelling the fort by British troops.

Another flag adopted in 1818 went back to 13 stripes, with 20 stars (there were then 20 states in the Union); the flag adopted in 1861 which carried the Union troops through the Civil War featured 24 stars (one for each state including the southern states); the flag adopted in 1912 with 48 stars for 48 states served the country for the longest number of years and is the flag which most of today's adults learned to salute, then, following the admission of Alaska and Hawaii to the Union, the 50-star flag was born in 1958 and today is being flown throughout the United States and on its possessions all over the world.

There is a definite upsurge in the demand for American flags, according to a spokesman for the Spartan Flag Company, a flag wholesaler in Northport. "Operation Desert Shield seems to have brought about a new respect for the flag and people are buying more of them," she said.

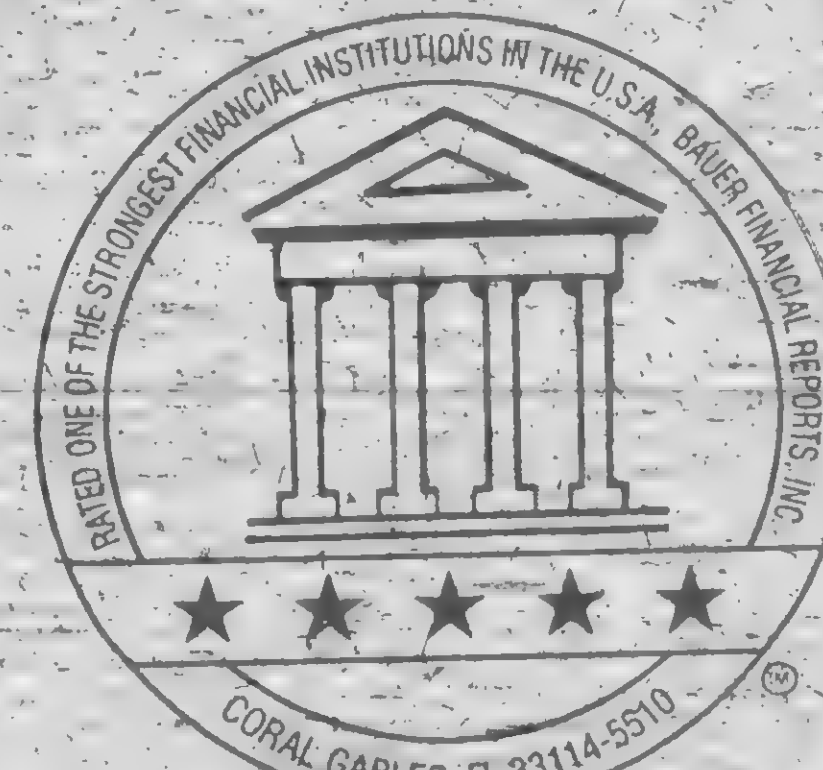

Flag Day will be celebrated June 14. With the recent Persian Gulf War, flag sales have picked up in recent months and more flags, such as this one on Bridge Street, are being flown.

Sparran sells flags in a wide range of sizes: four inches by six inches on a stick; eight inches by 12 inches on a stick; three feet by five feet (the most popular), and up to 20 feet by 30 feet. Most of today's flags are made of nylon or polyester, replacing the cotton fabrics that were used for so long. Except for the larger sizes which often have to be ordered in advance, American flags can be bought in almost any shop selling general merchandise: department stores, variety stores, drug stores, supermarkets, even service stations. Although June 14 is the designated day to honor the American flag, other days of the year account for more sales, according to the Spartan spokesman. Memorial Day still accounts for the greatest number of sales, mostly because of the custom of decorating veterans' graves with flags on that day, and the Fourth of July is a close second. Perhaps the fact that Flag Day is not a legal holiday and most people work on that day accounts for this seeming incongruity. However, this year with the renewed interest in the American flag and the current slogan, "Show Your Colors," there probably will be more flag flyings on June 14 than on Flag Days in the recent past.

Rayders lose by a run in softball regionals

Any loss is a tough loss, but the Charlevoix girls' softball team's 4-3 loss in regional play was particularly tough. Had things gone just slightly different, the Rayders could have found themselves in the state finals.

Charlevoix took an early lead against Leroy-Pine River in regional semifinal play, but ended up losing when the opponents scored two runs in the bottom of the sixth inning.

Charlevoix created a run in the opening inning when Melissa Cox reached first on a bunt and worked her way around to score.

Pine River matched that run in the bottom half of the first with the assistance of back-to-back illegal pitch calls against Rayder pitcher Tammy Holm.

Charlevoix promptly regained the lead in the top of the second when Holm singled and was driven home by Heather Keller.

The Rayders extended the lead to 3-1 in the fifth inning. Angelina Doan singled and eventually scored on a fielder's choice.

Pine River drew within one again later in the inning, scoring on a triple and a wild pitch.

Pine River scored the winning runs in the sixth inning with the help of a quirky play. On a force out attempt at third base, the base popped out of its holder and dropped Rayder third baseman Stacy Skeel.

Pine River won 4-3 without the benefit of an earned run. After defeating Charlevoix, Pine River advanced to the regional finals and clobbered St. Louis 21-4.

Charlevoix had seven hits against Pine River. Holm had two while Cox, Doan, Mary Jane Grunich, Skeel and Keller each had one.

Holm took the pitching loss allowing seven hits and six walks while striking out two in pitching a complete game.

The Rayders finished the season with a 20-10 record. The majority of the team will be back next year. The only losses to graduation are Skeel, Keller and Heather Radle.

Summer activities planned

It's summer time and the children are out of school. But once they're out for a few weeks, they can discover that summer can be pretty boring. That need not be the case. The Charlevoix Recreation Department has a number of programs planned to keep young people active this summer.

First, there are tennis lessons. The first session begins June 17 and lasts through July 12. The second session will begin July 15 and end August 9. The fee is $25 per child.

Next, there are swimming lessons. Sign-up day for swimming lessons is Wednesday, June 12 all day at City Hall. The first session of swimming lessons begins June 24 and ends July 19. The second session begins July 22 and ends August 16.

There will also be two sessions of golf lessons. The first session begins July 8 and ends July 11. The second session begins July 15 and ends July 18. Monday, July 22, there will be a Junior Golf Week Tournament.

Camp McSaba will host several sessions this summer.

There is also a Youth Softball Program. More volunteer coaches are needed.

For additional information about any of the activities, contact the Recreation Department office at 547-3253. The office, which is in City Hall, is open Monday through Friday from 8:30 to noon and 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.

BUSINESS

Midwest International is truly international

By Ralph McRae

Supplying the world markets many industries requires huge masses of raw materials. Mines, factories and farmlands must be able to transport gigantic mountains of raw materials from source to user. Most of the material is carried by trucks, railcars and ships. Many of the products are common to everyone: products such as cement, coal, corn, flour, iron ore, peanuts, sand and sugar. Some products which aren't so familiar include bauxite, dolomite, lignite, potash, soda ash and vanadium oxide. All of these products must be handled in large volumes by specially designed loading equipment.

Ron Pair saw a need for better bulk loading systems and sold his first labor-saving loading equipment in 1965. Pair's business was originally called Ron Pair Enterprises, Inc. That business was a forerunner to Midwest International Corporation which Pair founded in 1970. Midwest International moved from St. Clair Shores to Charlevoix in 1974. Pair's personal involvement in the business has resulted in numerous patented products and products bearing trade marks and trade names all related to the bulk handling business.

Before the development of loading equipment such as that produced by Midwest, the loading of trucks and railroad cars was a lung-damaging occupation and a dust-filled nuisance. Midwest International pioneered clear vision loading areas, making adherence to environmental requirements the most important selling feature of its installations.

As the name implies, Midwest International is truly international, perhaps more so than any other manufacturer in northern Michigan. Midwest International has done, or currently is doing, business in more than 40 nations. Midwest International is selling its material handling know-how to seaports scattered around the various oceans and seas of the world.

The company has a flag cabinet filled with flags of the 40-some nations that are using components built in Charlevoix. In front of the firm's office stand three flag poles. On the center and highest pole flies the American flag. On its right, the flags of foreign visitors to the plant are displayed. To the left waves the ecology flag, dedicated to the environmental movement.

Recently Midwest International completed a $600,000 contract with the port of Ventspils, Latvia. It required three huge cranes to transport a dust-control ship loading system. Potash from mines in the north Urals leaves the Soviet Union through the Baltic seaport of Ventspils. Its port authorities insisted on dust-free loading conditions. This equipment is currently being assembled in Ventspils. Daniel Swan, Midwest International's chief mechanical engineer, and Doug Poltice will soon go to Ventspils and supervise the start-up operations.

Pair made three trips to the port and to Moscow to negotiate the sales agreement. All such agreements go through Moscow. An unusual aspect of the agreement was that all payments were made in U.S. dollars. A consultant and a port representative from the Soviet Union visited Midwest International in Charlevoix this past April.

Presently, Midwest International is about to conclude a $1 million contract with the Moroccan government for a second installation in the port of Casablanca.

Midwest International's sales are generated by advertising in all languages in journals directed to bulk material handling industries. The company has five sales engineers and numerous factory representatives throughout the world. Poltice, the company's communications engineer, has taped various installations for video presentations to potential customers. Without the fanfare of a sales pitch, the video presentations show Midwest International systems in actual operating situations.

Sales people, research and development staff, design personnel, electrical and mechanical engineers, accountants and production operators all strive to make Midwest International the leader in a highly specialized industry. The company's continuing progress comes from design improvements, high technology standards and a sincere commitment to excellence. Midwest International has exceeded $6 million in annual sales figures. The 40-some employees receive profit sharing bonuses.

Computers and other technological equipment play an important role in managing the business.

Computer Aided Design (CAD) equipment is tremendously helpful to the company's engineering and drafting departments. Dan Allore demonstrated how the CAD system functions. First, draftsmen create outlines of a proposed new component on a small computer screen. The computer assures precise measurements. From the computer screen the line drawings are transferred to the CAD machine, which places the drawings on large sheets of paper. Using as many as ten colors to emphasize details the machine completes its work in a matter of seconds. It is more than 10 times faster than draw and erase drafting by hand. Working drawings for the shop are available in hours instead of days.

Pair, like all of the other owners of manufacturing plants interviewed for this series, believes the State of Michigan's single business tax (SBT) is detrimental to Michigan's economy. Business owners contend the SBT is a tax burden which has caused some manufacturers to move out of the state and discouraged others from coming to the state.

Midwest International's monthly payroll averages $100,000. (Next week's story will look at the technical side of Midwest International. It will offer insight into how Midwest International goes about creating loading systems that can load a 100-ton box car in a minute or gently deposit 4,000 tons of material in a ship's hull.)

Big Rock declared a landmark

Consumers Power Company's Big Rock Point nuclear plant has been designated a "Nuclear Historic Landmark" by the American Nuclear Society. Announcement of the designation was made June 4 at the Society's annual meeting in Orlando, Florida.

"This is a tremendous honor that recognizes Big Rock Point's important contributions to the development of the commercial nuclear power industry in the United States," said William L. Beckman, plant manager.

Completed in 1962 as part of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission's Power Reactor Demonstration Program, Big Rock Point was the world's first high-power-density boiling water power reactor and only the fifth commercial nuclear plant in the United States. The plant's successful start-up and operation allowed researchers to confirm that the amount of energy obtained from a unit of fuel could be increased significantly from levels obtained at earlier plants.

Big Rock Point also served for a number of years as a research site for the testing of various nuclear fuel designs. These testing activities, involving General Electric, Exxon, the U.S. Department of Energy, Battelle-Northwest Laboratory, the Electric Power Research Institute and other foreign and domestic agencies, played a role in improving the performance and reliability of fuel used in nuclear plants worldwide.

The American Nuclear Society was founded in 1954 as a not-for-profit international scientific engineering and educational organization.

Hospital begins funding campaign

A $3 million building and remodeling project will be announced at Charlevoix Area Hospital's annual Lighthouse Club contributors reception June 13.

The presentation will include plans for a hospital addition combining new surgical suites with an ambulatory care focus. Remodeling of the Admitting, Emergency and X-ray waiting areas will provide improved patient convenience and privacy. The addition will be placed near the current hospital entrance in close proximity to laboratory, X-ray, and waiting areas to better accommodate the growing number of outpatient services.

The addition will include relocation of the central sterile supply and recovery rooms. Formerly, these areas were across a busy public corridor from the operating rooms.

A major remodeling of the Obstetrical Unit will allow mothers and fathers to share the joy of childbirth in a homelike setting. Mother and baby will remain in this same room throughout the entire hospital stay. These labor, delivery, recovery and post-partum rooms provide the most modern concept of childbirth and will be the first to be available in northern Michigan. Remodeling will also provide needed roof and structural improvements to this unit.

Hospital administrator Richard Krueger comments, "There is a real need for this construction. Over two-thirds of our surgery procedures are done on an outpatient basis. This increases traffic through the hospital and requires us to provide better patient convenience and privacy for these patients. This project will put Charlevoix Area Hospital in step with the present focus of far-sighted rural hospitals — outpatient services."

The reception will also kick off the first major building campaign for the hospital in a decade. Total estimated cost for the modernization program including equipment is $3 million. Although part of the project will be financed through equity and long term debt, about half will be raised in this capital campaign. The campaign will be coordinated by Chuck Mullin of American City Bureau, a fund-raising firm from Chicago.

The Boulder Park Terrace nursing home announced earlier this year is not a part of this campaign.

A campaign office has been established at 142 Mason Street across from the Charlevoix Post Office. This will be hub of activity as volunteers are recruited and begin soliciting funds. Office hours are: Monday through Friday 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. For further information call 547-4459.

Police recover hood ornaments

City police chief Dennis Halverson reported that he was "up to my armpits in hood ornaments" Monday afternoon. Earlier in the day city police recovered approximately 25 stolen hood ornaments.

As of Monday afternoon, police were preparing charges against three juveniles. In addition to the hood ornaments, police recovered a spot light which had been taken from the Pine River Place and three calculators.

Halverson said that police weren't sure who owns many of the hood ornaments. He said that if anyone has had a hood ornament stolen within the past few weeks, they might want to come into the police station and identify their property. Halverson said that some of the ornaments are broken, but many of them are still usable. The ornaments came from a wide variety of vehicles.

Beach access spurs debate

The Beachouse development to the north of the Pine River Channel currently extends almost to the water's edge. Some people have voiced concern that the building will block the beach to walkers. People associated with the project say it is not their intention to cut off walkers, but changes in the water and sand levels are not something they can control.

The recently constructed Beachouse development has no beach, according to Josh Barnes of the neighboring Dunes Condominium Association.

But according to John Campbell, president of Beachouse Development Corporation, the Beachouse had a beach last fall and this spring, but nature keeps the beach in constant flux and that's not something he can control.

In a prepared statement issued to the city council Monday evening, Barnes said that even though Beachouse developers agreed last year to move the project 25 feet shoreward, and did do that, the project blocks, or nearly blocks the beach to walkers.

Barnes explained that although riparian owners may have the right to block the beach, it has been a long standing policy to leave the beach from the north pier to North Point open as a public thoroughfare.

Campbell and others associated with the Beachouse maintain that never had, and still don't have, any intention of blocking the beach to walkers.

City council members Pat Gaskin and Bill Haggard and city staff members Mike Wiesner and Gerry Harsch will sit down with Barnes and Campbell to try to work out a solution.

MSU and Charlevoix are changing science

By L. Scott Swanson

On the whole, the science program in the Charlevoix School System is similar to what you might find in most other school systems. Unfortunately, given the state of science education in America's school systems, that's not necessarily something anyone should find comforting.

"It's very clear that we've got to get better at this or our futures are in jeopardy," says Dr. Bruce Cheney from the Michigan State University (MSU) Department of Teacher Education. "We think it's pretty much a bread and butter issue."

That's the dark side. The bright side is that Charlevoix's school system is cooperating with MSU in a program designed to give the school system's science program a shake up to make it better.

According to Cheney, the program is going to put Charlevoix a year or two ahead of most school systems in adopting teaching philosophies which are expected to become prevalent throughout the state. The program isn't anything radical or revolutionary. It's just a matter of taking some common sense ideas which are backed by research and putting them into effect in the classroom.

An example of one of the philosophies is that all learning begins with what you already know. Cheney said one of the first steps in teaching is finding out what a student already knows, or at least thinks he knows. Cheney said misconceptions are difficult to straighten out. Research indicates that even though a young student may memorize the right answer and feed it back on a test, if the student is never convinced that he was laboring under a misconception, he will still be clinging to it. The teaching technique used to overcome that involves using multiple educational exercises that result in the accumulation of enough information to convince the student of the logic of the correct conception.

Using hands-on exercises to help students learn isn't anything new. What is somewhat new is the realization that a hands-on exercise without appropriate explanation is from a student's perspective, not much more than a clever magic trick. It's fun to watch, but the audience can only speculate as to exactly what happened.

To use hands-on learning effectively, the emphasis has to be shifted away from simply telling kids what's right to getting children to ask questions so they can figure out for themselves what's right and why what's right is right.

As Cheney describes it, you've got to get kids thinking about what they're learning.

Charlevoix teachers experiment with one of the hands-on teaching techniques which is part of a cooperative teaching program the school is participating in with Michigan State University. From left are: Sue Tillotson, Kaye Britton, an instructor with the MSU group, Pat Carland, Irene Cohen and Dianne Priess.

...school and MSU change science

A hands-on exercise will be followed by questions such as "What did you see? What do you think that means? Did you notice this?" The object is to get children to begin asking themselves those questions.

The problem with much of the current effort in science education, according to Cheney, is that students are remembering science, but not understanding it.

In addition to the quality of the hands-on exercises, the students will also be doing more of them. The goal is to approach learning from a variety of different directions until you find the one that clicks with a student's mind. Another point of emphasis is finding practical applications and relating what is taught to the real world.

For the past year a team from MSU and a team of administrators and teachers from Charlevoix have been evaluating Charlevoix's science program. For three days last week and two days this week members of the MSU group were in Charlevoix working with teachers to develop science units which will be taught next year. During the next year the MSU and Charlevoix members will stay in touch to monitor the program's progress. Cheney said he hopes another advantage of the program will be the establishment of an on-going rapport between Charlevoix teachers and MSU faculty members.

Cheney said Charlevoix's teachers have been receptive and enthusiastic. He said formulating and using the teaching concepts being presented is a lot of work for the teachers, but they also find that it makes teaching more interesting for them. While simple memorization from a textbook may be dull for students, it's no great thrill for teachers either. Cheney said he's not particularly enthused about the science textbooks currently on the market. He hopes that teaching initiatives such as Charlevoix's will eventually force an improvement in textbooks.

Much of the cost of the science teaching program is being picked up by an MSU Lifelong Learning Grant. The cost to Charlevoix has for the most part just been the cost of teacher staff time. Charlevoix is the first school system MSU has worked with under the grant program.

A conversation between Charlevoix superintendent Gordon VanWieren and Dr. Clarence Sneller from MSU brought about Charlevoix's involvement. Charlevoix teachers and administrators were concerned about the elementary science program and had been considering constructing a science lab. To get grant funding for a science lab, Charlevoix needed an assessment. VanWieren contacted Sneller to see what a science lab assessment entailed. It just so happened that MSU had recently received the grant for the teaching program and Sneller recommended that VanWieren do something which might benefit Charlevoix. Charlevoix elementary school principal Vane Smith has served as one of the primary program coordinators on the Charlevoix end. He said that kids have become turned off to science because standard teaching techniques have made it seem difficult.

Members of the Charlevoix Area Hospital Lighthouse Club toured the facility last Thursday evening to get a first-hand look at hospital remodeling plans. Putting on caps and gowns the people taking the tour saw places seldom visited by healthy people who aren't staff members.

Lighthouse Club tours hospital

Several members of the Lighthouse Club toured Charlevoix Area Hospital last Thursday evening to learn more about the hospital's planned fundraising drive and remodeling proposal. The Lighthouse Club is a group of people who have been active in helping the hospital financially. Hospital administrators and staff members served as tour guides.

Concessions of the planned improvements are: new operating and recovery rooms; an upgraded obstetrics unit; and expanded admitting and emergency room areas.

The proposed surgical suite will make the outpatient surgery area more accessible and closer to x-ray and laboratory areas. It will also place the central sterile supply and recovery rooms closer to the surgery rooms. The area currently used for surgery will be used for an expanded Physical Therapy Department.

Modernizing the obstetrics area will allow mothers to labor, give birth and recover all in the same room. When the modernization is completed, Charlevoix Area Hospital will have the most up-to-date obstetrics rooms in northern Michigan.

Increased demand for outpatient and emergency medical services are straining the confines of the present admitting and emergency area. Plans call for the area to be expanded and reconfigured to improve traffic flow, patient convenience and privacy.

The total cost of the project is estimated to be $3 million. Some of the money will come from other sources, but the hospital would like to generate a significant portion of the money through fundraising.

Editorial

A program to revise Charlevoix School System's science program is healthy and utilizes the kind of thinking the American educational system needs more of. (See story on page 1.)

The program, which is a cooperative effort between Charlevoix Public Schools and Michigan State University (MSU), emphasizes thinking and the learning of concepts as opposed to simply memorizing words from a textbook.

Perhaps more importantly, it shows a willingness on the part of the school faculty and administration to break away from conventional and stagnant ideas and bring new ideas and new life to the classroom.

Nobody said teaching and learning are the easiest things in the world. There's a certain amount of work involved. But that work doesn't have to be a mundane and frustrating chore with no sense of fulfillment. The work that goes into teaching and learning can be a challenge, with rewarding accomplishments.

The proposed program emphasizes some common sense teaching methods and philosophies, which aren't necessarily the norm yet, but probably will be in a few years. In other words, Charlevoix's school system is taking an educational step forward. They're breaking formation and moving ahead of the pack.

America's educational system cries out for change. It's difficult to look at the system and not conclude that things could and should improve. When you look at American business as compared to American education, you can't help but get the feeling that for whatever reason, the educational system has grown into a great stagnant morass, which resists needed change. The Charlevoix and MSU effort is a step toward breaking the bonds of stagnation.

Stepping to the front in a situation that needs to be changed is not without risks. Some of the new teaching techniques may not work. But so what? With the massive research base behind the people from MSU, indications are that the majority of the new techniques will significantly improve science education for Charlevoix's students and teachers. If there are a few aspects of the program that don't work, we'll throw them out and keep the good stuff.

The worst thing that could happen for Charlevoix students is to have the opportunity for a quality education pass them by because the school system and community were afraid to try new techniques. We want a school system that dares to use teaching methods that encourage our children to be inquisitive and creative.

The Charlevoix and MSU cooperative effort is a step in that direction.

Antique Boat Show

The Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce will host the Third Annual Antique and Classic Boat Show June 29 at the city docks in Round Lake.

The chamber hopes that this year's show will include sailboats, launches, rowboats, outboards, canoes and any other interesting old boats that are in working condition, even if not perfectly restored.

Anyone who knows of boats that would be an addition to the show are encouraged to call the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce at 547-2101.

Prior to school getting out, Nikki Wheat's dad, Mike, brought their pony Shasta, to visit the kindergarten classes for the children to see.

The fathers of kindergarten students Brianna Chapais and Brad Snyder invited kindergarten students to take a tour of the U.S. Coast Guard cutter Acacia. The children were treated to cookies and posters before leaving the ship.

Plant perennials now

(Editor's note: The following story was supplied to the Courier by the Charlevoix Area Garden Club. It is one in a series of stories designed to help the many people who strive to make Charlevoix a greener place.)

They come back every year, bloom in spring, summer or fall, often well before the annuals and increase in size every year. But perennials are expensive to buy at established plants.

A large number of perennials can be quite easily grown from seed. Late spring or early summer is a good time to get them started. The seeds can be sown directly in the ground but it is easier to take care of the seedlings if the seeds are sown in pots or a deep flask. Then they can be carried to where they get the best growing conditions.

After the seeds are sown they should be covered with newspaper or burlap to keep them moist and dark. As soon as the seedlings appear the cover should be removed and they should receive some light, possibly dappled shade. As the plants get bigger they can be moved into full sunlight, but kept well watered. At the end of the summer the plants should be ready to be set out in their permanent place.

Perennials will germinate more slowly and will not grow as vigorously as annuals, so there is no need to transplant them if they were grown in pots or flats at least 6 inches deep, but they may need to be thinned out if too many have germinated and crowd each other out.

Most perennials will bloom the following year, some even the first year if sown early.

The procedure works well with yarrow, columbines, perennial alyssum, rock cress, aubrieta, baby's breath, (not the florist variety, it is grafted), bellflowers, candytuft, pinks and carnations, coreopsis, painted daisies, delphiniums, forget-me-nots and lupines.

Since raising perennials from seed is a long-term project, it is best to get good quality seeds from a reputable seed company. They have ways of controlling pollination which guarantees to some extent the quality of the plants raised. It is not a good idea to take seeds from garden plants to raise. The outcome is not always predictable.

Warner advances in senior citizen pageant

The Charlevoix Senior Citizens Center will be represented by Marge Warner in semi-final competition for Ms. Senior Michigan, scheduled for Aug. 6 in Rochester.

Warner won her way to the semi-finals after being selected as one of two winners in local competition June 6 in Petoskey with a Minnie Pearl skit. She is a native of the Charlevoix area, born in a farmhouse next to the Barnard Church. A former cook at the Charlevoix County Jail, she now spends her time doing volunteer work for her church, the Barnard Grange, the VFW Auxiliary, and the Senior Center.

Warner, the widow of Harleigh Warner, is the mother of four grown children. Dawn Norris lives in Florida, Stanley lives in Spring Lake, Paxton lives in San Diego, and Robert lives in Port Royal, South Carolina. There are also seven grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

"The competition in Petoskey was fun," Warner commented, and she hopes to have more fun in Rochester.

Addiction education series scheduled

Chip Counseling Center is offering a series of six programs in an Addiction Education Series.

The programs are scheduled for the last two Wednesdays in June and the four Wednesdays in July from noon to 1 p.m. at the Alamo Club, 104 Mason Street, Charlevoix.

D. Scott Kelly, Prevention Specialist for Chip, will conduct the programs, which will cover six topics relating to addiction, as follows:

June 19, Bio/Pscho-Social Disease. This program will consider the components of addiction: hereditary, genetic, psychological, and social. The program will explain why persons who come from addictive families, but are not addicts themselves, often produce addictive children.

June 24, Addiction System. This program will be devoted to mistaken beliefs passed along from generation to generation, the specifics of addiction which lead to compulsive behavior.

July 3, Addictive Relationships. This program will explain how people develop counter-dependent and co-dependent personalities.

July 10, Developmental Model of Recovery. This program will cover the six different phases leading to full recovery from addiction, noting that it usually takes eight to 12 years. (It's like going from grade to grade in school).

July 17, Relapse Prevention. This program will discuss the 37 warning signs leading to drinking or drug episodes, how to identify and manage these warning signs.

July 24, Recovery Planning. This final program will deal with the specific tests for recovery, addiction and psychological core issues. The program will also consider how to manage post-acute withdrawal in high risk situations brought about by high stress; how to develop coping skills.

Kelly spends the school year conducting prevention programs in schools in a four-county area. He suggests that parents who would like to know what their children are hearing in school attend some or all of these programs.

Kelly is also available for programs before community groups. He may be reached at Chip Counseling Center. He holds a bachelor of science degree in social work from Ferris State University and is a candidate for Certified Relapse Prevention Specialist from Terri Gorski, who runs CENAPS in Chicago.

Feindt appointed

Gov. John Engler has appointed Charlevoix County Surveyor Mary Feindt to serve on the State Survey and Remuneration Commission.

She will represent the northern lower peninsula on the Commission for a term ending in June, 1995.

The Commission consists of four members in addition to Feindt. They will hold their first meeting June 26 in Lansing.

County monitors prisoners electronically

By Peg Ohle

Electronic science has found another place in the world of criminal justice.

A new system, called the Electronic Home Monitoring System, is being used in Charlevoix County as an alternative to jail time for some offenders.

This system of electronic monitoring provides surveillance of the offender's presence within an assigned area. This is done by installing a visual telephone device in the offender's home, work place, or other assigned area.

Through a central monitoring system, a computer randomly calls the offender, asking him or her to perform a specific task and send a picture, which is immediately verified with a reference photo in the computer's files.

Offenders who have alcohol problems which call for alcohol level monitoring are monitored with a special breathalyzer unit. This unit reports the offender's breath alcohol level, which is documented, and where called for, notification of violation is made.

Thus, the offender who is sentenced to a restricted area of work and living and who is required to be alcohol-free can be "watched" almost as readily as if he were spending time in jail.

Offender participation in this program is voluntary and is offered as an incarceration alternative to some offenders provided the offender signs an agreement which reads, in part:

"I agree to remain in the home or on the immediate property, with the only exceptions being my actual work hours and my travel to and from work."

"I understand that during the hours I am assigned to be at my residence, I must respond to my telephone calls from the monitoring agency staff or electronic monitoring equipment within (specified number) of rings and properly identify myself."

"I understand that home visits from the supervising agency staff are to be expected."

The offender also agrees to pay $7.50 a day for the length of his or her time on the program or $10.50 a day if breathalyzer tests are included.

At the present time, two Charlevoix County offenders, both sentenced for alcohol abuse offenses, are being electronically monitored. One sentence is for 360 days for operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol, second offense; and the other is for 60 days for impaired driving, second offense.

Joe Bollenhorn of the Private Industry Council appeared before the County Board of Commissioners last week to explain the electronic monitoring system. He told them the program will save the county an estimated $10,000 a year (the cost of keeping an offender in jail) because those on the monitoring system pay for the monitoring.

He also noted that electronic monitoring was not an easy sentence. "Imagine being on call 24 hours a day for weeks on end," he suggested.

Electronic Home Monitoring is a program of the Private Industry Council in Traverse City. It is funded by the State under Public Act 511 and is known in criminal justice circles as the 511 Program.

Offenders remain under the supervision of the local Probation Officer but the actual monitoring is being done by Midstate Security in Grand Rapids, who have entered into a contract with Charlevoix and Emmet Counties to operate the program.

District Court Judge Harvey C. Varnum is enthusiastic about the system. He says that although the program has just started, he can see several benefits from it. First, it will save county taxpayers a lot of money; second, it will give the offender more time to spend with his or her family and promote family unity; third, the Sheriff does not have to count these offenders as inmates as he does those on work release, thus freeing up jail space.

Varnum added that two more offenders are now being readied for participation in the monitoring program.

City police are advising rollerblade wearers that they are not allowed to skate on the sidewalks in Charlevoix's central business district.

Police chief Dennis Halverson says the rollerblades, also known as in-line skates, are creating a lot of concern for pedestrians on Bridge Street sidewalks.

Ordinances on city books allow police to ticket rollerbladers in the business district, Halverson says.

That currently police are in a public education period, but could begin issuing citations.

In-line skaters are allowed to skate on sidewalks outside of the business district.

In-line skates become problem

Obituaries

Alma D. Plagge

Alma D. Plagge, 89, of Charlevoix, died June 16, 1991, at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Memorial service will be 11 a.m. Wednesday, June 19, at the First Congregational Church, Charlevoix. The Rev. Philip G. Scharbaum will officiate.

Mrs. Plagge was born July 28, 1901, in Chicago, Ill., the daughter of Otto and Augusta (Wichman) Dovenmuehle. She grew up in the Chicago area and graduated from a Chicago high school and then attended a Chicago business school.

On June 3, 1933, she married William H. Plagge in Chicago. They resided in Chicago until 1943 when they moved to Riverdale, Ill. For many years, Mrs. Plagge worked as a secretary-bookkeeper for Marshall Fields in Chicago and then for the Chicago and Riverdale Lumber Co. where she retired in 1965. At that time, Mr. and Mrs. Plagge moved to Mountain Home, Ark., and then moved to Charlevoix in August, 1990.

As a young girl, Mrs. Plagge enjoyed singing and she sang in church choirs.

She was a member of the Levanhoe Reformed Church in Riverdale, the First Presbyterian Church in Mountain Home and the First Congregational Church in Charlevoix.

She is survived by her husband, William, of Charlevoix; one son, Merle G. Plagge, M.D., of Charlevoix; three grandchildren, Mary Gale of Kalamazoo; Tim Plagge of Ypsilanti; and Peter Plagge of Chicago.

The family suggests memorial services to the Charlevoix Area Hospital. Local arrangements were handled by the Winchester Funeral Home, Charlevoix.

Ross Alexander

Ross Alexander, 91, of Ironton, died Jan. 16, 1991.

Funeral service took place at 2 p.m. Sunday, June 16, at Brookside Cemetery, Charlevoix. The Rev. Harold E. Kruse Jr. of the Ironton Congregational Church officiated. Arrangements were handled by the Winchester Funeral Home.

Church plans craft fair

The Charlevoix Community Church of God on West Butler Street is planning a Community Craft Fair for June 29. Craft people interested in registering to exhibit and sell their work are asked to contact Mimi Rothchild at 547-0772.

In conjunction with the sale, which will take place from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., women from the church will have a bake sale and sell hot dogs and lemonade.

Guest choir to perform

The choir of the Joy United Church of Christ, (Joy Rd., Detroit) will present "An Evening of Sacred Music," Saturday, June 22 at 8 p.m. at the First Congregational U.C.C. of Charlevoix.

The concert will include traditional anthems, gospel music, black spirituals and contemporary selections.

This choir is well known in the Detroit Metropolitan area and is coming to Northern Michigan for concerts in Charlevoix and Traverse City.

Admission to the concert is free, but people are advised to arrive early to be assured of a good seat.

BEACONS

by Rev. Bruce Hamilton

A little later this month, I have to spend an afternoon up at Northern Michigan Hospital for a stress test. A smiling technician will greet me and then proceed to attach twelve electrodes to my chest to monitor my heart's function.

Once the doctor arrives and we exchange a few opening comments, he'll ask me to climb aboard the treadmill. It begins at a brisk pace with a gentle grade. The challenge comes when every three minutes a little more speed and a little more hill is added.

All the while, they are watching your heart's action on a monitor and checking your blood pressure every step of the way. In my case, they will be checking to be sure the artery they unblocked in December is still clear in June. I trust it will be. I'd sort of like to cut back on some of the pills they are giving me.

For most of us, health issues are never a question. If the doctor advises us to take certain medicines or start on a special program, just about all of us will do what we are told. No one likes to be physically sick. No one likes to hurt. If we are so easily aware of the importance of tending to our bodies, don't you think it only makes sense to turn to tend to our spiritual side as well?

God knows both the physical and spiritual sides of our nature intimately. The vast majority of Charlevoix's physicians would undoubtedly even tell patients who ask that the two work hand in hand. It's not enough for the body to be well if the spirit that lives in it is hurting.

Jesus gave us an open invitation: "Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden and I will give you rest." You freely tell your doctor about all your body's aches and pains. Why not tell the Lord those things that afflict your heart and soul?

There is a treatment plan for the spirit just as there is a treatment plan for the body. It involves confession, repentance, forgiveness, and healing. The doctor's sole aim in treating you is to restore you to physical wholeness. God's whole aim is to unite the wellness of your body with a wellness in spirit that lets you truly enjoy the blessings of each new day.

The next time you take some prescription medicine think about more than just the ache or pain you are treating. Think about your spirit as well. You never question the doctor. Isn't it time you trust that God knows what is best for you as well?

By John Schaller

While antiquing the other day I came across a bottle. I'm usually not much for collecting bottles, but this one really caught my eye. I asked about the bottle and was told it was called a "Codd" bottle or referred to as a "marble" bottle.

A small marble inside the bottle serves as a stopper. Pressure created by gas inside the bottle holds the marble against the opening. To open the drink, you push the marble into the bottle. On the inside of the bottle, attached to the neck, is a holder for the marble so when you tip the bottle back the marble catches on the holder and won't roll back into the neck blocking the fluid.

and named after, Hiram Codd, an English inventor born in 1839. Codd worked in the bottling industry and developed better ways to cut cork, measure the flow of liquids and to bottle effervescent drinks. Codd's marble bottles were made in England, beginning in 1872 through 1889. The manufacture of the bottles was discontinued because of the expense.

Remaining bottles are difficult to find because children broke the bottles to get at the marble inside. The rest of the bottles from the manufacturer were used for drainage around buildings in England. To find one today you must dig deep in the ground, or make a rare find in an antique store.

If you're interested in seeing this Hiram Codd bottle, it can be seen at the Charlevoix Antique Mall, just south of Charlevoix on US-31.

The story of Hiram Codd and his marble bottles is one of the many stories that drives me and possibly all antique collectors to collect cherished antiques.

It's not so much the objects, but their history...

A black and white photograph of a two-story wooden building with horizontal siding. The building has a gabled roof, a small square window on the upper floor, and a large rectangular window on the ground floor. A person is standing to the right of the building.

This new multipurpose building is one of the main improvements made to the city softball complex this summer. A third softball field has been added for the T-ball league which continues to grow more popular.

Basketball camps scheduled

Boys in grades 4 through 10 are invited to participate in the Charlevoix's Fourth Annual Summer Basketball Camp under the direction of Rayder coach Jim Kanne.

The camp for grades 4, 5 and 6 will be from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. June 24 through 28. The camp for grades 7 and 8 will be from 8 a.m. to 10 a.m. July 8-12. The camp for grades 9 and 10 will be from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. July 8-12.

The cost of the camp is $35 per player. Each player will receive a pair of basketball shorts. Make checks payable to Charlevoix Basketball Program.

Camp features include refreshments, a shooting contest, three-point shooting contest and a 3-on-3 tournament. To register, phone 547-3706 or 547-9495.

A Michigan Pleasure Boating Safety Course being sponsored by Charlevoix County 4-H and the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department will be offered free of charge and is open to all - young and old.

If you are between the ages of 12 and 16 years old, you will receive a Pleater's Safety Certificate upon successfully completing this course. Dates for these classes are Tuesday, June 25 and Thursday, June 27. The class will be held from 9 a.m. to noon at the Cooperative Extensions Service Office located at 319B North Lake St., Boyne City. (Right at City Hall Building). Registration is needed by June 21.

You must attend both sessions to receive your certificate.

If you have any questions regarding this two-day session, please feel free to call either 547-4461 or 582-6232.

Charlevoix County State Bank has opened a new branch office in East Jordan.

The East Jordan branch will be managed by Kathy Meggison. Meggison has been with Charlevoix County State Bank for 17 years. The branch has almost 2,000 square feet of working space and features a 24-hour automatic teller machine, two drive-up lanes, three teller stations inside, eight deposit and a full walk-in vault with safe deposit boxes.

Lake levels continue to rise

Although precipitation over the Great Lakes Basin continued a trend which began in March and remained above average in May, the 30-day outlook published by the National Weather Service projects light precipitation for the month of June.

The Great Lakes forecast, published in the Monthly Bulletin of Lake Levels for the Great Lakes, shows that Lake Superior is expected to remain below its long-term average levels during the next six months. Lakes Michigan-Huron, St. Clair, and Erie are projected to continue above their long-term averages throughout the forecast period. Lake Ontario is projected to decline to a point slightly below its long-term average in November.

Lakes Michigan-Huron at the end of May were at elevation 578.91 feet (176.45 meters) above the mean water level at Father Point, Quebec, or 25 inches (64 cm.) above Chart Datum. This was about 17 inches (28 cm.) above what it was a year ago.

An exhibition of nearly 50 prints and photographs produced by internationally renowned artists entitled "City of Ambition" will be open to the public Friday June 21 through July 20 at the McCune Arts Center in Petoskey.

Co-sponsored by the Crooked Tree Arts Council and the Detroit Institute of Arts the works displayed are about big cities and their impact, reflecting the power of the metropolis.

The show, which has a time focus on the first half of this century, includes Alfred Stieglitz 1910 photograph "City of Ambition" which lends the exhibition its title. Other outstanding works are by John Sloan, Edward Steichen, Berenice Abbott, Edward Hopper and Lewis Wickes Hine. Exhibition curator Sarah Towne Hufford made the selections included from public and private collections as well as the Detroit Institute of Arts permanent collection.

The exhibition is organized and circulated by the Detroit Institute of Arts. It is one of 12 major art exhibits featured this year by the Crooked Tree Arts Council as part of a program to make visual arts and their enjoyment available to the residents of Emmet and Charlevoix counties.

The event is open to the public free of charge Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. in the McCune gallery at 461 E. Mitchell St.

Still looking for contestants

The Venetian Queen Pageant would still like to have some additional contestants for this year's pageant. Currently, there are five contestants, but pageant organizers would like to have at least six. The winner of the pageant is eligible for prizes and qualifies for other competitions. Girls interested in entering the pageant are asked to contact the Chamber of Commerce at 547-2101.

Additional help is also needed for the Venetian Boat Parade. People interested in working on the parade are asked to contact the Chamber of Commerce at 547-2101.

Meet here

Hotels join forces, Convention Bureau touts Charlevoix

By L. Scott Swanson

Charlevoix may seem like a natural and logical place to host conferences and conventions, but just seeming like a nice place isn't enough to draw business. In order to attract conferences and conventions and the dollars they bring, Charlevoix is going to have to undertake a cooperative and aggressive effort to market the community and its facilities. And that's what's happening.

As of June 1, Weathervane Rental Services Company, the management company for the Weathervane Terrace Hotel and Pointes North Inn of Charlevoix entered into a joint management contract. In addition to that, Stafford's Weathervane Restaurant has agreed to a contract to provide all food services to the Pointes North hotel and conference center. Weathervane Terrace general manager Harold Kruttsch is now managing both the Weathervane and Pointes North Inn of Charlevoix. Kruttsch is also president of the Charlevoix Convention and Visitors Bureau.

"It was really a natural for us to take it over," Kruttsch said of the Pointes North management. "It fit in with our plans and we had the staff."

By working together, the Weathervane and Pointes North are able to go after more business meetings, small conventions and weddings. Kruttsch explained. He noted that up until now, nobody in town has aggressively gone after that business.

Kruttsch and his sales staff are now able to offer a package which includes 94 rooms and suites, a banquet room for 125 people, an executive conference room for 40 people, two outdoor pools, an indoor pool, an eight-person enclosed hot tub, and food services from one of the most highly acclaimed restaurant operations in northern Michigan. The two facilities together can easily handle a group of 200 people without any problem.

"It's a matter of having the facilities and having the people there to go after it," Kruttsch says.

While the joint management agreement covers the Weathervane Terrace and Pointes North, cooperation in accommodating large groups extends to the Edgewater, the Lodge, and the several smaller motels and bed and breakfast facilities in town.

You can visit by land or sea, but do visit

Convention and Visitors Bureau President Harold Kruttsch stands against the backdrop of a view from a Pointes North balcony. Such views are only one of many things the Convention and Visitors Bureau are touting nationwide in an effort to bring more conventions to Charlevoix.

That cooperation is reflected in the make up of the Charlevoix Convention and Visitors Bureau board. Board members include: Kruttsch from the Weathervane and Pointes North as President; Jack Uhrick from the Lodge as Vice President; Sandy Alward from the Archway Motel as Treasurer; Jacqueline Merta from the Chamber of Commerce as Secretary; John McKown from the Bridge Street Inn as a board member; and Tracy Sell from the Edgewater Inn as a board member.

The Convention and Visitors Bureau has been a leading group in promoting and marketing Charlevoix.

"We're active," Kruttsch says. "We're not an organization that just sits down and meets once every three months."

The bureau has hired Trish Wright to attend shows around the country on Charlevoix's behalf to drum up convention and group

Boyne industrial loss raises questions in Charlevoix

Industrial Development Committee helps retain local industry

By L. Scott Swanson

The announced closing of the Boyne City United Technologies plant and accompanying loss of almost 300 jobs not only shocked Boyne City, but has also caused Charlevoix to take a look at its own industrial job base.

As city manager Mike Wiesner put it, "You do some soul-searching when you see the Boyne City situation and wonder, could that happen here?" Fortunately, the answer is, probably not. "We're more balanced. There's not any one big industry," Wiesner explained.

"You do some soul-searching."

City manager Mike Wiesner

Despite that balance, Charlevoix is not taking its industrial community, and the jobs that come with it, for granted. Charlevoix has an Industrial Development Committee

(IDC) which is actively working to retain established industries and help them grow while also aggressively seeking new industries.

Robert Kern of Real Estate One is one member of the IDC. He is also the Chamber of Commerce President and has the real estate contract for the city industrial park.

"I'm excited about what's happening here in Charlevoix," Kern says. "Things are looking pretty

OPINIONS

EDITH GILBERT

A lot of people are plenty upset over what has happened to the Michigan Avenue Beach.

The once graceful arc of beach starting at West Dixon Avenue and ending at North Point has been violated, and all the peonias of Charlevoix can't outweigh the blight.

If you descend the recently built public steps on Dixon and head toward North Point, your way will be blocked by a mini Berlin wall that cascades down from the newly built Beach House like a running sore. It forces strollers into the water in order to pass. It is environmentally obscene and an intrusion on Mother Nature because it disturbs the natural beach grasses and wild flowers. The obstruction thumbs its nose at the neighbors.

We're not sure as to the riparian rights of the developer who claims he has no control over the rise and fall of Lake Michigan. O.K. What he does have control over is good citizenship, good neighborliness, and what the British call "a fitness of things." One shouldn't step on toes.

Before we had law and order in the west, this intrusion would call for action. Watch any rerun of an old cowboy movie and the sheriff would gather a posse together and in an hour and ten minutes the good guys would always win.

That was then and this is now. Now we have committees and zoning and planners to what avail? Charlevoix has suffered enough from some industries, architects, homeowners and promoters who create visual havoc. Let's not be wimps this time around. Let us say, "No, you have gone too far!"

Then again, maybe Mother Nature will flex her muscle, revenge herself and say it for us this winter.

Sheriff warns public to beware of traveling operators

Each year, traveling criminals come to Northern Michigan to do hit-and-run paving work. Homeowners and business owners are urged by the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department to be especially cautious when approached by people selling asphalt paving and sealing products. Traveling criminals were especially active in Northern Michigan last year. They are expected to return in force during the spring, summer and fall of 1991. If suspicious of fraudulent activity, consumers should call the nearest local law enforcement agency.

Traveling criminals usually leave their customers with a driveway or parking area that will eventually reveal poor workmanship. Poor work is not always evident immediately. Problems may not appear for several weeks or months. The traveling criminal paver will be long gone when the pavement begins to break up, making legal action difficult or impossible.

Traveling criminals traditionally have no real local business address. They are even known to use the name of a reputable local asphalt supplier in order to win customer confidence. They may use business cards and truck signs that appear legitimate. Addresses and telephone numbers are frequently those of an answering service in another city.

Traveling criminals sell asphalt paving material door-to-door after having scouted neighborhoods for their best targets. Their sales pitch is designed to appeal to those who are especially susceptible to the offer of a so-called bargain. Their victims are often Northern Michigan senior citizens.

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department is presently investigating several complaints of this nature. In one instance, a senior citizen in Charlevoix county paid $560 for a $88 job that turned out to be of inferior material and workmanship.

If suspicious of fraudulent activity, please contact the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office or any police agency so we can assist you.

Editorial

This is just to plant a seed in the back of your mind for something that's going to come up again somewhere down the road...or somewhere down the channel. It concerns tightening restrictions on the number of times the bridge goes up and down during the day.

The CMU Public Television Station has recently been airing a travel documentary called "Driftwood." This documentary is a series of shows about a sailboat and its crew and their travels around the world. The Great Lakes are included in these travels. In fact, the documentary included a segment on commercial fishing in the Grand Traverse Bay area.

After leaving northwestern lower Michigan, the Driftwood worked its way down Lake Michigan and ended up in Chicago.

Now in Chicago, the boat encounters an interesting situation. There are several rivers and channels running through Chicago. Crossing these channels are several bascule bridges. When a boat wants through, a bridge tender must raise the bridge to let the boat pass. Raising the bridge blocks off automotive and foot traffic and leads to a fair amount of cursing and swearing on the part of drivers and pedestrians.

There are several people who would like to set tighter restrictions on the number of bridge openings in Chicago, but there are some old federal laws which say boat traffic takes precedence over automobile traffic. Decreasing the number of openings would literally take an act of Congress.

If you live in Charlevoix, this scenario has a familiar ring to it.

This year, it's still early in the summer and complaints about the bridge creaking up traffic are still just murmurs of discontent. But wait a month or two and the muttering will be replaced by full-blown outbursts of profanity.

Currently the bridge opens on the half hour and the hour for pleasure boats. For commercial and Coast Guard traffic, it opens on demand.

Commercial and Coast Guard traffic are only minimal. Pleasure boating has been, and probably will continue, increasing.

It takes time for the bridge to go up, time for boats to pass underneath and time for the bridge to go down. When that whole process happens twice in an hour, that time adds up. As boat traffic increases, the time that street and sidewalk traffic is stopped will also increase. It could easily reach the point where the bridge is opened and traffic stopped for about half an hour out of every hour. When that happens, things are going to have to change.

The law giving boat traffic precedence over auto traffic is archaic. It reflects the thinking of a time when cars were started with a hand crank and people wore goggles when driving. But changing even a backwards federal law will take some intense lobbying of Congress. Just the first step - getting the federal government to understand Charlevoix's problem - is daunting. Getting Congress to act is another challenge beyond that.

But the time will come when local people get frustrated enough to demand that an effort be made to decrease bridge openings. That may not happen this year. It may not happen next year or even for several years after. But the time will come.

And when it comes, it might be in our best interest to contact some people in Chicago. All along, we've thought the only problem Charlevoix and Chicago shared was volatile local politics. Now we've found another common problem. And through a united effort, we might have more luck getting the problem corrected.

It's just something to keep in mind for when it comes up...somewhere down the road or somewhere down the channel.

A compilation of praises won by Charlevoix people for good deeds, good work and hard work.

Susan Bieke Neilson, a woman with Charlevoix connections, has been appointed by Governor John Engler to fill a vacancy on the Wayne County Circuit Court. Neilson is the daughter-in-law of Ruth and Howard Nielson of Charlevoix. She and her husband normally visit Charlevoix every July 4. Engler appointed Neilson to take the place of retired Judge Thomas Foley. Neilson is a partner in the Detroit law firm of Dickinson, Wright, Moon, Van Dusen & Freeman. She and a co-attorney were recently featured in a lead story of the Detroit Free Press Sunday Magazine.

Summer series of entertainment in East Park pavilion

A July 2 performance by the Charlevoix City Band will kick off a summer of music at the Odmark Pavilion in East Park. Thanks to a $3,000 contribution by the Charlevoix Convention and Visitors Bureau, the city band will be only one of many talented groups to perform this summer in the pavilion.

Harold Krusch, President of the Convention and Visitors Bureau, said funding the entertainment is a means for the bureau to return member contributions to the community and add an attribute to Charlevoix.

Performances scheduled follow:

Everything could come up roses

There is a large variety of roses on the market and each year new ones are added by hybridizers. Most newer roses are grafted, which means that the top growth has been attached to roots of an older, often wild, variety. This joint, or graft, is the thicker part between the roots and the top growth and a new rosebush should always be planted with this graft below the soil surface.

The most widely known group of roses is known as hybrid-tea roses, with large well-formed flowers in a wide variety of colors. The best known rose in this group is "Peace," yellow with pink edges.

Another well known group are the floribunda roses - lower plants with large clusters of smaller flowers, mostly double. These are best in groups, planted fairly close together.

A cross between hybrid-teas and floribundas is known as grandiflora, with large flowers growing in clusters. Not very many of those are available; the best known is pink and is called "Queen Elizabeth."

Tree roses or standard roses have been grafted on one stem about 3 feet above the ground. They are very decorative on terraces or decks, but are not hardy here and must be taken indoors or buried entirely in the fall.

Lately, rose fanciers have taken an interest in old roses and professional rose-growers have featured some fine old varieties and some new ones. There are mostly shrubs, larger, sturdier and often not so susceptible to the usual rose troubles as the newer varieties. Aphids, powdery mildew and black spot are the main troubles bothering roses. There is a variety of products on the shelves of garden centers to fight these conditions, none of them desirable from an ecological point of view. One way of preventing the spread of black spot is to strip the leaves from the ground up to about 18".

All roses need at least 6 hours of sunlight and prefer a heavy clay-type soil. They all need some sort of winter protection. While there are various hoods, etc., in the market for this purpose, most experts prefer to hill up their roses with soil, removing it very gradually in the spring when new growth appears.

Grange will be busy June 29

The Barnard Grange promises to be a hopping place Saturday, June 29 as four events are scheduled during the course of the day.

The annual Arts and Crafts Fair will start the day at 9:30 a.m. Several area crafts people will be selling their creations.

A new event this year is a children's fishing pond, sponsored by the Junior Grange. Fishing will begin at 10:30 a.m.

The traditional salad luncheon will begin at 11 a.m. and continue until 1:30 p.m. The cost for the luncheon is $4 for adults and $2.50 for children 10 years old and under.

The fourth, final and likely the tastiest event of the day will be a pie sale during the salad luncheon.

Children's reading program begins

The annual summer reading program at the Charlevoix Public Library begins at 1 p.m. Thursday, June 27.

Since the library has purchased two new sets of geography books this year the theme is going to be "Read Around the World."

The opening party will feature games, cartoons and treats. A book log will be issued to keep track of books read over the summer.

This is not a contest, but rather is meant to encourage reading during the summer vacation as reports show that if a kid keeps reading anything over the summer their reading skills do not regress as much as if they don't read.

The reading program is open to all elementary school age children.

For pre-school children, the library has a story hour on Tuesday mornings at 10:30 for 3 to 5 year olds.

City band is ready to play

The Charlevoix City band will present the first of six summer band concerts Tuesday, July 2 at 8 p.m. in Charlevoix's East Park. The band, under the direction of Tegy Isenberger, will give concerts in the new band shell in the Odmark Pavilion on Tuesday evenings throughout the month of July and in the first week of August. The concerts, which are generally about fifty minutes in length, will feature a variety of music including marches, overtures, and selections from Broadway musicals.

The Charlevoix City band is a tradition which has existed in the community for more than fifty years. Its members are volunteer musicians of all ages and abilities who live in Charlevoix and surrounding communities. Rehearsals of the group begin in early June and continue until the end of the concert season. The band is always looking for new members and anyone who plays an instrument is invited to come and rehearse with the group. There is no admission charge for the concerts.

Bergmann Center: an industry of care

(Editor's note: The following story is one in a series of stories concerning area industries being written for the Courier by Ralph McRae. McRae is a retired building contractor. He is also a former council member and mayor and is currently a member of the Charlevoix Industrial Development Committee.)

By Ralph McRae

In 1954, school nurse Jean Miles was assisting five local families with mentally retarded children. She encouraged and assisted the families in starting an Association for Retarded Children. That association was the forerunner of what is today called the Bergmann Center.

For the past 25 years, the Bergmann Center has had working agreements with many industries in northern Michigan. The Bergmann Center is a workshop which trains and employs mentally handicapped people. The center is a Charlevoix industry with a long and interesting history.

In the fall of 1954, Bob Cook and Frank Oleksy traveled to Lansing to attend a convention of Associations for Retarded Children. While in Lansing, Cook and Oleksy talked to and gathered information from, among other people, former governor G. Mennen "Soapy" Williams.

Marian Oleksy became the local association's first teacher. In the early years operation was well traveled. Initially, the association operated out of some space in the abandoned Washington School building which is now the site of the Charlevoix Credit Union. When the Washington School was sold and demolished, the association moved into the basement of the old Carnegie Library which is now the site of First State Bank. Later, the association moved to a building on Huribut Street.

Lillian Bergmann became the Association's fourth director in 1958. In 1960, Bergmann, Miles and Peggy Watts located a vacant lot on Garfield Street and proposed to build a permanent home for the center on the lot. Using proceeds from a silverware raffle for a down payment, the three women were able to persuade Pat Hawley of the Charlevoix County State Bank to approve a loan application. Using its own resources and donations from service clubs and individuals the Association forged ahead and by 1962 was able to move into its new building.

At the time, the Charlevoix Association was the only facility of its kind in northern Michigan. Hand-capped students from several counties attended the facility. Bergmann taught students basic skills needed to cope with everyday life. She taught them things such as counting, recognizing public signs and the necessity of eating nutritional meals.

In 1965 the State Department of Education took control of all institutions dealing with handicapped students younger than 22 years old. That meant the Charlevoix Association lost almost all of its students to the state. The Association had only four students who were more than 21 years old.

The Association building was leased to the State Department of Education while the Charlevoix Association of Retarded Children was renamed the Charlevoix Association for Retarded Citizens. In 1966, the new association moved out to Bergmann's home on Old U.S. 31 North.

Lillian Bergmann and her husband Robert initiated the workshop and received numerous contracts from area industries. Paid by the piece, the handicapped workers earned their first paychecks. Many local factories, including Weather-shield and Freedman Artcraft, farmed out their small, but important assembly jobs to the workshop for the handicapped.

In 1970, the state turned over responsibility for handicapped students to the intermediate school district and moved out of the building on Garfield Street. At that time, the workshop moved back to its former home.

In 1973, the workshop was renamed the Bergmann Center in honor of Lillian Bergmann. Through the years Bergmann has been recognized and honored on several occasions for her pioneering work to help handicapped people.

By 1980, the Bergmann Center had outgrown the Garfield Street building. The Garfield workshop was sold and a much larger building was purchased on Martin Road.

The Bergmann Center now has 45 clients and for the past 12 years has been directed by Ken Brill. Among those who have been active in the development and growth of the center are Jan Buhke, Jesse Cunningham and Robert Cook.

The Bergmann Center presently has a staff of seven people and breaks its efforts into three categories: educational, social activities and work shop operations.

In the educational section, Marilyn Hughes teaches daily classes. Hughes' students attend class on a rotating schedule. They range in age from 21 to 69. All are in some manner handicapped. Hughes' salary is paid by the Straits Area Community Education consortium out of St. Ignace. Her classes include courses such as language and simple math.

Mark Meier also teaches at the Bergmann Center through a federal program. Meier has seven classes and teaches skills such as community survival, telling time, saving money, using the phone, personal hygiene, and values of coins.

Sue Muma teaches cooking classes for clients who have the use of a kitchen.

Peggy Borowiak heads the Bergmann Center crafts department. She helps the clients make stuffed toys and story book animals.

Jim McCathum is the work manager and supervises clients in the work area. The clients are paid on a per piece basis, the more capable making as much as $30 per week.

Funding for the Bergmann Center comes from many sources including: the Michigan Department of Mental Health; Charlevoix County; the Mental Health Services Board; and contributions from the Charlevoix and Boyne City United Way, several service clubs, veterans' organizations, local churches and private donations.

Most of the clients live in group homes. Only a few live with their parents. Clients are transported to and from the Center on County Transit buses. The Center is closed for two weeks at Christmas and on national holidays. A monthly newsletter is also printed.

Last Friday was one of the most important days of the year at the Bergmann Center. It was the day of the Completion Ceremony which is kind of a graduation affair for students completing their assigned lessons. The atmosphere was festive with songs, recitations and special demonstrations. It was a very special day for the 45 clients.

Teens offered a place to hang out

Paul Bunyan Lates is offering area teenagers a place to hang out on Friday nights. John Fiedorek, the bowling alley's owner, says he just wants to give the kids some place to go that's a supervised, alcohol-free environment where they can hang out and have their parents feel comfortable about it.

He said that obviously it's some business for the bowling alley during a slow time of the year, but primarily it's just something he feels the community needs.

"We do a cut rate on bowling and have pop etc.," Fiedorek said. "It's nothing fancy."

The Friday nights for young people began about the time school got out. Thus far, attendance has been so-so. On some nights between 20 and 25 young people have stopped in during the course of the evening. Fiedorek plans to continue the program throughout the summer months.

Charlevoix Courier SUMMER TIMES

FUN AND FOOD

Area has lots to do on July 4th

By Peg Ohle

Charlevoix Area residents who want to celebrate the Fourth of July will have several choices. Of towns to visit this long holiday weekend, Petoskey will have its regular festivities and Boyne City, East Jordan, Horton Bay, and Central Lake have scheduled parades and other activities. It should be noted that East Jordan is not celebrating on Thursday, the Fourth, but on Friday, Saturday, and Sunday with its Freedom Festival.

Boyne City

Fourth of July activities will last all day in Boyne City. From the start of the foot races at 8 a.m. until fireworks light up the sky at dusk, the town will be alive with people going from event to event.

Decorated bikes and costumes will be judged at 9:30 a.m., before the parade begins, and Eta Nu Sorority will be selling flags and balloons to paraders and spectators.

The theme of the parade, which begins at 10 a.m., is a patriotic "Let Freedom Ring," and honored citizens will be "all service men and women, past and present, who have made this country what it is...proud and free."

John Talboys, who retired recently as Chief of Police in Boyne City, will be the Grand Marshall.

As the parade winds down, spectators will be able to turn their attention to the Art and Craft show which will just be opening in the park. A little later, the Rotary Club will start serving its chicken barbecue, and the Boyne Valley Garden Club will put its homemade pies on sale.

During the early afternoon, there will be a dunk tank, children's games, and a petting zoo in Sunset Park. Across town, at the old City Park, Chris Martin from Willie's Up North will provide musical entertainment beginning at 1 p.m. At 2:30 p.m., the third annual Duck Race will take place, followed closely by a concert by the Jelly Roll Blues Band and Chris Martin at Veterans Park.

The popular Frog Jumping contest is scheduled for 4:30 p.m., after which spectators may watch the Yacht Club Boat Parade in the harbor.

There's a little catch-up time before going to the Eagles Dance featuring the Miller Brothers Band. Fireworks will begin at 10 p.m. at the waterfront.

East Jordan

Fourth of July activities in East Jordan are scheduled for three days, Friday, July 5; Saturday, July 6, and Sunday, July 7, all part of the comprehensive Jordan Valley Freedom Festival.

However, there will be a Fourth of July parade. On Saturday, the Grand Parade, with the theme "Proud to be an American," will begin at 4:30 p.m., led by local military personnel as Grand Marshalls.

The parade will feature plenty of "oom-pah" as the East Jordan High School Band, the Newman Navy League Cadet Corp Band, the Saint Ste. Marie Elks Drum and Bugle Band, the Scousville Clown Band, and the Grand Traverse Highlanders all join in to entertain the crowds.

Friday, the East Jordan Public Schools will honor 100 years of graduates with a reception. The Farmers Market will open up at 8:30 a.m. Flea Market, Hobby-craft Show, and Art Fair operations will begin at 10 a.m. and continue through to 6 p.m.; the Orange Crate Race will begin at 5:30 p.m.; the 3-on-3 Basketball Tournament will start at 6 p.m., and the Men's Fast

Third Annual Antique Boat Show this Saturday

In the old days, before people ever thought to harvest fiberglass trees, boats were made out of wood real wood from real trees. These boats were varnished and painted with glistening chrome and inboard motors that went chug, chug, chug when sitting at the dock or putting across Round Lake and roared to life on the high seas of Lake Charlevoix and Lake Michigan.

People who can remember that era will have a chance to rekindle memories at Charlevoix's Third Annual Antique and Classic Boat Show scheduled for Saturday, June 29, at the Charlevoix Municipal Docks on Round Lake.

Chamber of Commerce executive director Jacqueline Mera says this year's show is coming together nicely.

"I'm sure we'll have at least as many entries as last year," Mera said. Last year there were 30 boats in the show, many of them perfectly restored mahogany runabouts.

Top boats entered in the show will receive "Skipper's Choice" and "People's Choice" awards. The People's Choice award winner will be featured as the Poster Boat for the 1992 show.

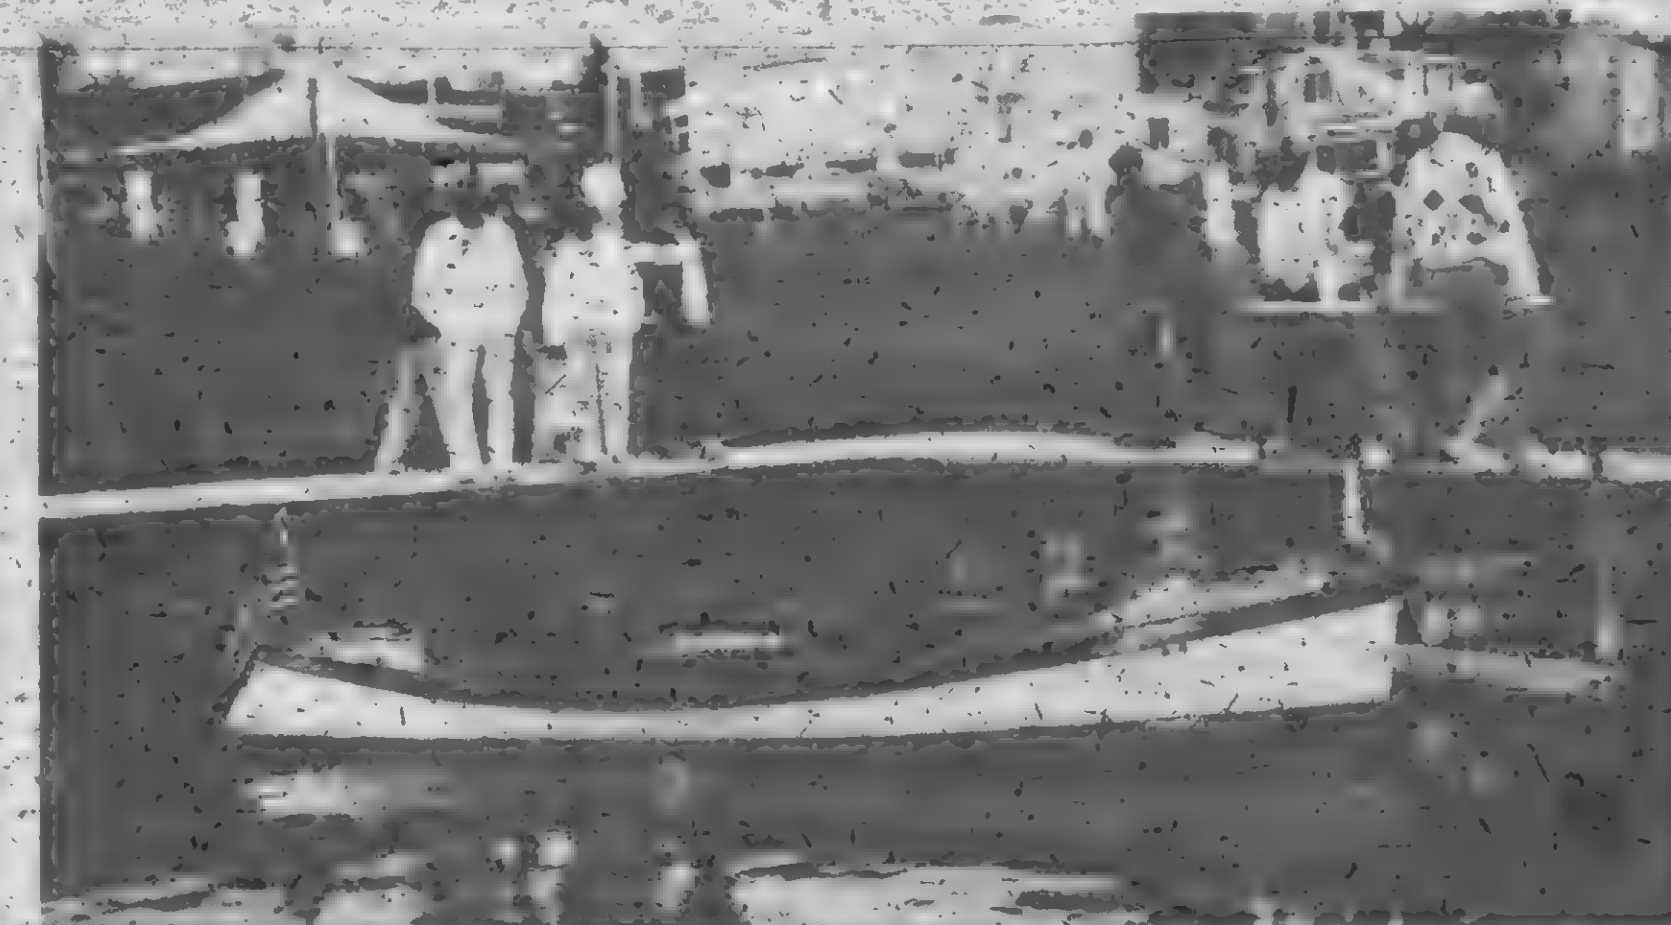

Although many of the boats entered in the show are runabouts, show directors also would like the show to include sailboats, launchers, rowboats, outboards, canoes and any other interesting old boats that are in working condition, even if they aren't completely restored.

Boats with a history in the Charlevoix area are especially desirable for the show. A special award will be given to the "Most Historically Significant" boat.

Anyone wishing to display their boat in the June 29 show is asked to contact the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce at 547-2101.

The Charlevoix Antique and Classic Boat Show is in its third year. The show was started as a June event to replace the Michigan Amateur Golf Tournament. Both the crowds and number of boats on display have been growing.

Not all of the boats at the antique and classic boat show are associated with roaring engines.

The old mahogany runabouts always draw an audience when they're displayed.

No doubt, boats like the Chickie IV were considered to be high-speed machines in their day.

Pitch games begin at 6:30 p.m. Other activities during the day include a petting zoo, entertainment by Willie's Up North, a gymnastics exhibition, bingo games, and a lip sync contest.

On Saturday, the Flea Market, Hobbycraft Show, and Art Fair open at 8 a.m. There will be a triathlon at 10 a.m. and a Youth Parade at 10:30 a.m. A Talent Show will run from 10 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Bingo games will begin at 11 a.m. and go on to 6 p.m. As noted above, the Grand Parade starts at 4:30 p.m. and at 6 p.m. the Jordan River Arts Council will hold a showing and sale of works of local artists.

"Mainstreet," featuring singers, dancers, and instrumentalists will again present a "Fantastic evening show in memorial Park, beginning at 8 p.m. During the intermission there will be a Lotto drawing with prizes totaling $1,000. Saturday's festivities will end with sky-shattering fireworks beginning at dusk.

Sunday's activities include open house at the Portside Art and Historical Museum, Bingo, and the "Mud Bog" from 2 p.m. to 7 p.m.

Horton Bay

From a Detroit Pistons playoff game to the Horton Bay fourth of July Parade. That's the path of nine-year-old Marie Essenberg of Ellsworth.

Marie, who has gained a reputation for bringing tears to the eyes of those who hear her belt out patriotic songs, will sing "God Bless the U.S.A." from the porch of the Horton Bay Store before the start of the parade.

This year's parade will again feature a variety of original homespun entries. The slogan, "Make Horton Bay the 51st State," will be reflected in such entries as "The 51st State's Sock Exchange," with Betty Kells as the "Sockbroker," the Horton Bay Pony Club coming to the defense of the 51st State, Corky Price's Clydesdales pulling a classic car with the slogan "Horton Bay will never go to War for Oil," the Bradley family float calling "Horton Bay, the 51st State of Confusion," showing everything upside down of backward, the Ripstra family and friends with their "51st State All-Star Ball Team," and the campaign to "Elect Inna Wall as the Horton Bay Border Patrol Commissioner."

Add to these the Jelly Roll Blues Band; Charlevoix Seniors with Frank Zednick portraying the Wizard of Oz, the Grand Marsh-mellow, the llama-drawn "Bay Area Nox So Rapid Transit," the Rocking and Rolling Chickens, the Petoskey Firebellies with their Clown Precision Lawn Chair Drill Team, and many more.

While most entries will be vying for a ribbon prize, many of the old-timers will "just be there" to add to the fun of the day. These include Bill Price and his Department of Sanitation equipment, Horton Bay's Hell's Angel, the Harmeling Brothers, and the Singing Fat Lady announcing the end of the parade.

The parade begins at 1 p.m., but because the road through Horton Bay is closed off shortly after noon, early arrival is suggested. Last year, there were 60 separate parade entries with 310 individuals taking part. Sheriff George T. Lasater estimated the crowd of onlookers at approximately 7,000.

Sheriff Lasater will again lead the parade and some of his deputies will be on hand to handle any problems that might arise. So will Dr. Michael Engel, and an ambulance will be "at the ready" next to the Red Fox Inn.

The Horton Bay Store will be open before, during, and after the parade providing refreshments, balloons, and souvenirs.

Central Lake

For those who would like a quieter, smaller Fourth of July celebration, Central Lake might be the place to go. There, the parade starts at noon on Main Street. That will be followed by Midway activities in Thurston Park and fireworks there at dusk. During the day, there will be a chicken barbecue and musical entertainment.

Central Michigan University theater group performs at McCune

Central Michigan University opens its summer theater season in Petoskey July 3-6 with the Woody Allen comedy "Don't Drink the Water." All shows begin at 8 p.m. in the Virginia M. McCune Community Arts Center.

The play is about a New Jersey caterer, Walter Hollander, and his family. They are mistaken for spies while vacationing behind the Iron Curtain in the summer of 1967.

"The comedy follows their attempts to escape and the problems they run into," said Timothy Connors, director and CMU theater faculty member.

Woody Allen's humor and the summer setting make "Don't Drink the Water" a light-hearted comedy with an intriguing plot, Connors said.

"It should be an interesting play given that the Berlin Wall has come down and the Iron Curtain has been pretty much ripped apart," said Connors. "Now, looking back, it's interesting to watch how the Cold War mentality is spoofed and parodied in 'Don't Drink the Water.'"

The play, which was later turned into a film, is typical of Allen's earlier works. Unlike his later films, and plays, such as "Annie Hall" or "Scenes from a Marriage," "Don't Drink the Water" doesn't have the typical Allen character in it, said Connors.

CMU theater members also will perform Neil Simon's "The Odd Couple" July 10, 12, 18 and 20 and Agatha Christie's "The Mouse Trap" July 11, 13, 17 and 19.

Admission is $7 for the general public and $5 for students and senior citizens. For ticket information, call 347-6647 after June 30.

Lakeshore provides tires and service

As the name implies, Lakeshore Tires/Pennzoil Quik-Lube and Brake Center works in tires, but also services cars in several other ways.

Lakeshore has been in Petoskey for decades and, recently, opened a Charlevoix branch on South Bridge Street in what used to be the Parcel garage.

"We saw a need for it down here. We had quite a few customers down here," Don Powers, the Charlevoix manager, explained.

Lakeshore has or can get almost any type of tire, be it car, truck, trailer or farm machinery. They also have a range of tires in terms of quality and price range. As Powers puts it, "For about any size you could come with I have two or three different choices."

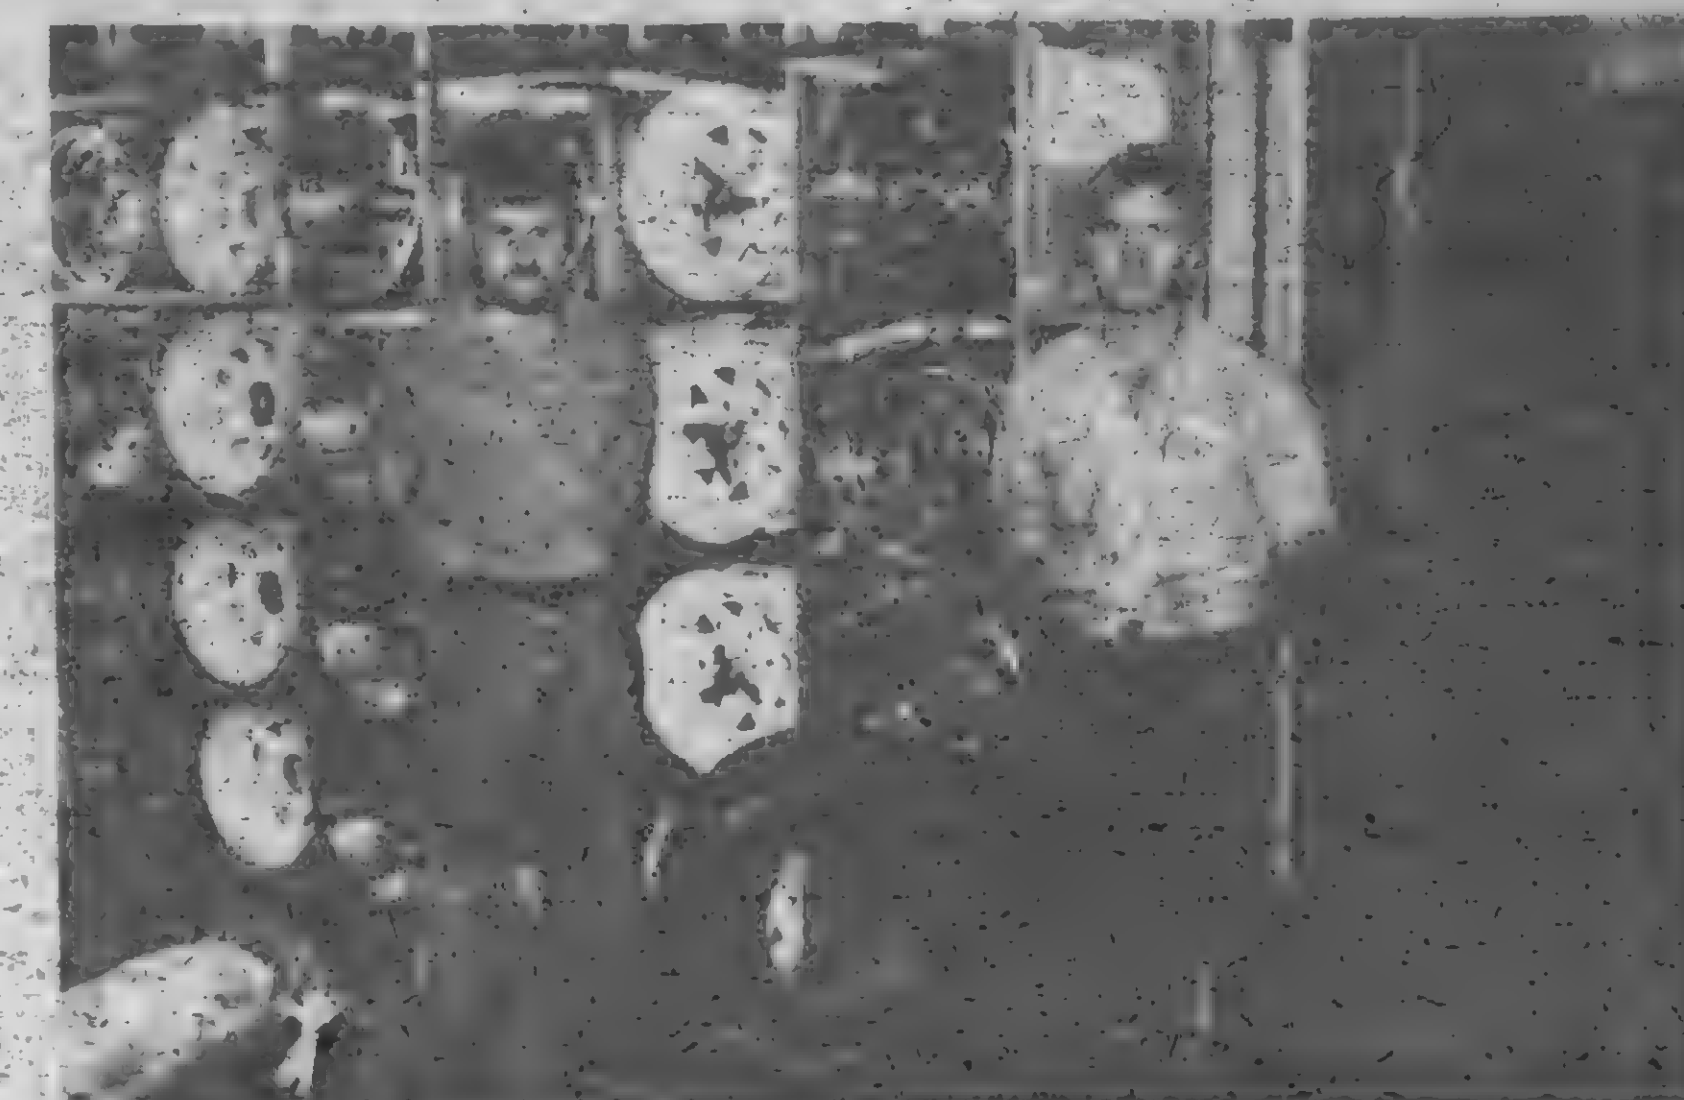

Spartan, Goodrich and Michelin are the main brand names.

Lakeshore deals in, but they also have some other brands for specialty tires. In addition to new tires, Lakeshore also sells used tires.

Lakeshore's include and extend beyond tire-related maintenance such as balancing and alignment. Lakeshore has mechanics on staff who can handle brakes, shocks, exhaust, tune-ups, belts and any other type of light mechanical problems.

In addition to tires, the store also sells a variety of rims and interstate batteries. The Pennzoil Quik-Lube changes normally take between 15 and 20 minutes and no appointment is necessary.

The Charlevoix store opened early in June and according to Powers has been quite busy in its first few weeks. Prior to opening the store, the building's interior was completely remodeled and features an impressive display of woodwork.

Retired school personnel group receives charter

The newly formed Charlevoix County Chapter of the Michigan Association of Retired School Personnel (MARSP) has received its charter from the state organization. Ellen Addington, MARSP Area III representative, made the presentation June 19 during a luncheon meeting at the Argonne Supper Club.

Following lunch, Susan Kitten, R.N., from the Charlevoix County Health Department spoke to the group about AIDS.

During the meeting, the chapter also elected officers for the coming year. Officers are: Maxine Hough, President; Arnold (Skip) Domke, Vice President; Rosalia Schwem, Secretary; and Jack Cyr, Treasurer.

Rayder girls 5-0 for summer

Win tournament in Harbor Springs

Charlevoix's girls' basketball team will begin their season undefeated. And you ask, doesn't every body? Well, kind of.

Last week Charlevoix ran up a 5-0 record to take the title in a summer tournament hosted by Harbor Springs. The Rayders took a 41-38 win over Petoskey in the tournament finale to follow up earlier wins over Harbor Springs, Boyne Falls, East Jordan and Alanson.

Charlevoix coach Toni Felter was quick to point out that the tournament ran under a fairly loose format where the coaches were primarily interested in getting all of the players some court time. Despite Felter's disclaimer, it was obvious that she was very happy with the way the Rayders played.

The teams weren't broken down into varsity and junior varsity teams. The freshmen were thrown right in with the seniors, Felter said she was pleased with the way Charlevoix's younger players handled themselves and felt it was a good experience for them.

Prior to the tournament, the Rayders had a three-day mini camp. Felter said the team didn't do anything elaborate in the camp, but simply did some running and some ball handling drills and worked on some fundamental pick and roll plays.

The players who participated in the tournament varied from one night to another according to whose work schedules and softball schedules would allow them to play. Felter said that for some games, the Rayders had as many as 12 players.

...bureau works to attract people to Charlevoix business for Charlevoix. Wright will be equipped with a boat full of information touting Charlevoix's virtues.

Wright will attend her first show this fall. "We're looking forward to that," Kruttsch said. "We think it will be money well spent."

Among the tools the bureau uses to promote Charlevoix are three videotapes. One is a 30-second tape which is in several roadside travel stops. The second is a more detailed 5-minute tape which has been mailed to more than 100 travel agencies and large libraries. The third is a recently produced tape about Charlevoix County. A private production company produced that tape and the bureau has purchased the right to use it for promotional purposes.

Kruttsch mentioned that this year's addition of three cruise ships to Charlevoix's harbor is helping marketing efforts. However, he noted that the benefits may not necessarily be apparent this summer as most group and convention business is booked a year in advance.

"We feel that we have to get more advertising on the boats down in the Detroit and Grand Rapids area," Kruttsch said.

Kruttsch said the cruise ships and the quality of the fishing in the Charlevoix area are examples of Charlevoix attractions which need to be promoted. "We do have a lot of things here, but maybe we don't publicize them as well as we should."

In addition to promoting Charlevoix's attractions, the Convention and Visitors Bureau has also tried to assist in adding things to the community. The bureau picks up the tab for an "Admiral's Cocktail Party" in conjunction with the Antique and Classic Boat Show. The bureau is paying $3,000 for a summer entertainment series in the new Odmark Pavilion in East

Park and the bureau is one of the sponsors of the Lake Charlevoix Area Trout Tournament.

The Convention and Visitors Bureau is funded by a two-percent room tax collected by every hotel or motel with more than 10 rooms within the city limits. A state law gives motel owners in an area the right to establish the program. The Charlevoix Convention and Visitors Bureau has an annual budget of between $50,000 and $70,000. Alward said the amount fluctuates from year to year, depending upon among other things how well the area hotels and motels do in a given year.

While it's commonly acknowledged that when something draws people to the community, it's good for the hotels and motels because it fills them up, there's also another side to that coin. When hotels and motels draw people to the community for conventions, it spins off and is good for other businesses.

Kruttsch points out that one of the nice things about conventions is that many of them take place in the spring and fall, giving a boost during business months which otherwise might only be so-so.

Although allure of Charlevoix and the economic benefits of cooperation and aggressive promotion to draw conventions to the area are fairly obvious, the task isn't necessarily going to be easy.

"This is going to take some time and money," Kruttsch said. "We've got to get the word out."

Gallbladder surgery simplified

People who have been suffering with gallbladder problems because they couldn't take time off from work to have surgery now have a new alternative at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Now gallbladder surgery means just an overnight stay at the hospital. Patients are admitted on the day of surgery and go home the following morning. Plus, they can be back to work in as few as three days.

The surgery, called laparoscopic cholecystectomy, is now being done at Charlevoix Area Hospital by general surgeons Merle Plagge, M.D., and Marc Lame, M.D. Dr. Plagge explains that usually the patient has the surgery in the morning, begins taking clear liquids and is ready to leave the hospital in the late evening or early the next morning. They may resume work in three to seven days depending upon the amount of strenuous activity their job requires. Formerly patients needed six to eight weeks to recover at home after six days in the hospital.

Four small openings are required for the surgery. One of the openings is for a tiny camera through which the surgeon is able to do the surgery by viewing it on a TV screen. Three other openings are required to remove the gallbladder, and to introduce a light source and carbon dioxide to inflate the abdomen to allow room for the surgeon to work. An electrocautery or laser is used to cut the tissue and remove the gallbladder.

The small wounds need only a stitch or two to close.

The surgery is done under general anesthesia and is usually appropriate for all people except pregnant women. Mr. Plagge cautions that there is always a chance that some patients may require full abdominal surgery under certain conditions.

In addition to gallbladder surgery, the procedure and instrumentation will be useful for diagnostic laparoscopies, adhesions, bowel obstructions, appendicitis, and tubal ligations.

PUBLIC HEARING NOTICE

Charlevoix City Council

Monday, July 15, 1991

7:00 p.m.

The Charlevoix City Planning Commission will hold a Public Hearing on the above date and time to receive public comments, written and oral on the following proposed amendment to the Title V - Zoning and Planning, Chapter 51 of the City of Charlevoix City Code. The amendment is as follows:

PROPOSED AMENDMENT

An ordinance to amend the Code of the City of Charlevoix be adding to TITLE V - ZONING AND PLANNING, CHAPTER 51, ZONING, as follows:

THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX ORDAINS:

SECTION 5.21, "LIR" LAKE SHORE RESIDENTIAL be added:

Statement of Intent

The purpose of regulations covering this district is to provide for appropriate residential development along the lake shores which will protect both the environment as well as scenic qualities of that unique land area. Views from the lake area deemed as important as views from adjacent development to the lake. New development along the lake shore should give appropriate consideration to adjacent established development.

SECTION 5.22, USE REGULATIONS be added:

Lane and buildings in the LIR zone may be used for the following purpose only:

- (1) One (1) single family dwelling on each lot or site condominium.
- (2) Accessory uses, provided that no accessory buildings shall be constructed within a required minimum yard.
- (3) In addition to (2) above, private boat docks, beaches and similar lake front uses, provided all surfaces within rear yard areas shall be pervious surfaces.

(4) Special uses that may be authorized in this zone district include the following uses, provided that an application is submitted for a special use permit and approved in accordance with the procedures, provisions, and standards of Article VIII of this Chapter.

(a) Site condominiums meeting all of the use and dimensional requirements of Sections 5.22, 5.23 and 5.200, provided the Planning Commission finds that an alternate proposal if approved will meet or surpass the objectives set out in the statement of intent (Section 5.21) and will not allow a greater density of use than allowed under Section 5.22 and Section 5.23.

SECTION 5.23, OTHER REGULATIONS be added:

- (1) Front Yard. There shall be a minimum front yard of not less than twenty-five (25) feet.
- (2) Side Yard. There shall be a minimum side yard requirement of twenty (20) feet; provided a total of at least fifty (50) feet of combined side yard setback shall exist between all structures.
- (3) Rear Yard. There shall be a minimum rear yard of not less than fifty (50) feet.
- (4) Lot Area. The minimum lot size in this zone shall be fifteen thousand (15,000) square feet exclusive of the right-of-way, easement or common area required for adequate permanent access. All impervious surfaces including buildings and/or structures, exclusive of drives and access roads, shall not exceed more than thirty (30%) percent of the usable lot area.

ACCOUNTING SUPERVISOR/OFFICE MANAGER

We need a highly skilled accountant to supervise our talented accounting department of five bookkeepers and clerks.

Must be familiar with general ledger and cash accounting maintaining books for four corporations. Knowledge of computerized bookkeeping helpful. Minimum five years accounting experience required.

Accounting or related degree required. We are looking for an individual who works well with others and has had experience supervising a business office.

Please send qualifications to:

and (15,000) square feet exclusive of the right-of-way, easement or common area required for adequate permanent access. All impervious surfaces including buildings and/or structures, exclusive of drives and access roads, shall not exceed more than thirty (30%) percent of the usable lot area.

(5) Lot Width. The minimum lot width in this zone shall be one hundred and fifty (150) feet measured along the water mark.

(6) Setback from the Water. There shall be a minimum setback of fifty (50) feet from the water mark of the adjacent lake or water body. Tree cutting shall be limited in accordance with the following provisions:

- a. No more than thirty (30%) percent of the length of this strip shall be clear cut to the depth of the strip.
- b. Provided further, that cutting of this thirty (30%) percent shall not create a clear cut opening in this strip greater than thirty (30) feet wide for every one hundred (100) feet of shoreline or normal stream bank.
- c. If the remaining seventy (70%) percent length of this strip, cutting shall leave sufficient cover to screen cars, dwellings as seen from the water, to preserve natural beauty and to control erosion.
- d. Natural shrubbery, trees, or other vegetation shall be preserved as far as practicable, and where removed it shall be replaced with other vegetation that is equally effective in retarding runoff, preventing erosion and preserving natural beauty.
- e. Paths, any paths, roads or passages within the strip shall be so constructed or surfaced as to be effective in controlling erosion.

f. Cutting Plan - as an alternative to the above requirements, a special cutting plan allowing greater cutting may be permitted by the Board of Appeals. In applying for such a permit, the Board may require the lot owner to submit a sketch of this lot, including the following information: location of all structures, location of parking, gradient of the land, existing vegetation, proposed cutting and proposed replanting. The Board may grant such a permit only if it finds that such special cutting plans:

1. Will not cause undue erosion or destruction of scenic beauty, and
 2. Will provide substantial shielding from the water of dwellings, accessory structures and parking areas. The Board may condition such a permit upon a guarantee of tree planting by the lot owner. Such an agreement shall be enforceable in court.
- No fertilizers shall be allowed within this area. No sea walls, retaining walls or fill shall be allowed within this area other than shoreline and soil erosion control practices utilizing loose laid natural stone.

(7) Elevation. The first floor elevation shall not be below 584 N.G.V.D. SECTION 5.200, BUILDING HEIGHTS shall be amended as follows:

Zone District	Height
LIR	24.5' above elevation 586.0 N.G.V.D. in height, when a lot abuts a water body, provided in any event the building height shall not exceed 24.5'

good here.

All of Charlevoix's industrial buildings are currently full or are in the process of being filled. In the past three years, the former Impact Tool building on West Carpenter has been filled by Ionec, the former Hufford Industry building on North U.S. 31 has been filled with a recycling business and other tenants and Kern is working with a business which is interested in moving into a vacant building on Taylor Road.

In addition to Ionec, another new industry in the community is Woodburn Diamond Die. In the past year, Woodburn Diamond Die erected a new building in the industrial park. Although they currently have only a few employees, they hope to expand in the future.

Kern notes that other established industries have recently completed expansion. Examples include CPI, Michigan Scientific and Harbor Industries.

Despite the new businesses and expansion, times haven't been rosy for all of Charlevoix's industrial community. Industries tied to the auto industry have been hurting in recent months. Charlevoix Manufacturing Company makes pistons for brake systems in cars. Jim Hater, the plant's general manager, said business began dropping last November. Several workers were laid off in January and more were laid off in March. At one point, Charlevoix Manufacturing's work force was down by about 50 percent.

Recently, the plant has called back some employees, but the plant still isn't operating at full production capacity. Before the slow down, the plant employed 56 people and had an annual payroll of about $1.1 million. Even with recent call backs, the plant currently has only 42 people working.

Hater said Charlevoix Manufacturing is 100 percent tied to the auto industry. "You ride the peaks and valleys," he explains. There have been some great times, but now the industry is in a slow time.

Hater sees some very slight gains in the industry taking place now and looks for a more significant upturn in October and November.

Although Charlevoix Manufacturing is an industry which is dependent upon the auto industry and therefore goes up and down, Chamber of Commerce Executive Director Jacqueline Merta points out that Charlevoix also has several manufacturers which aren't directly dependent upon the auto industry.

"That gives us a little more security," she said.

Merta, who is also on the IDC board, says the IDC represents a cooperative effort to help the manufacturers in the community.

The IDC meets 10 times a year. Each time they tour a different industrial facility.

"We've kept the communication lines open," Merta said. She described the tours as an opportunity for the committee to find out how local industrialists feel and a chance to let the industrialists know that the community is concerned for their well being.

Merta cited two examples of incidents where tours were directly responsible for action to help industry or calm an industry concern.

While touring an industrial park plant, the IDC found out that the gravel roads in the park were simply inadequate. With the help of a state grant, the city has paved roads in the industrial park.

While touring Harbor Industries, the IDC found out that plant officials were concerned about planned renovations at the airport which is next to the plant. A plant official has now been appointed to the airport planning committee.

Several area groups capable of helping industry are represented on the IDC. Current members of the IDC are: Dave Novotny, Charlevoix City Mayor; Mike Wiesner, Charlevoix City Manager; Jim Hater from Charlevoix Manufacturing Company; El Kaiser from Medusa Cement Company; Don Voisin from Charlevoix Agency Inc.; Tom Wieland a farmer and a member of the Charlevoix County Planning Commission; Walt Hufford from Key Controls and a member of the Charlevoix County Commissioners; Bob Kern; Oscar Stroud, Charlevoix Township Supervisor; Ralph McRae, former mayor; Dan Barton, former Chamber President; Merta; Roger Strigley from Creative Marketing Concepts; Cheri Hoffman, City Council member; Tom Johnson, Executive Director of the County Growth Alliance; and Mike Castiglione from Michigan Scientific.

The IDC has scheduled an industrial appreciation cruise for July 11. The IDC will be taking local industrialists and some industrialists who are considering establishing a plant here for a cruise on The Voyager.

In addition to the IDC, other community businesses have tried to promote industry in various ways. Charlevoix County State Bank sponsors an industrial fair in which Charlevoix County industries are invited to exhibit their products at the Charlevoix High School gym.

Bank President Gordon Wellman said the industrial fair is primarily educational. He said the industrial fair revealed that there were a lot of people who had lived in the area for many years, yet didn't know exactly what some of the plants made. The industrial fair has also been aimed at area high school students. Wellman said the fair shows the students they don't necessarily have to leave the area to find jobs.

"For year, we were losing the majority of our young people and scattering them all over the country," Wellman said.

On the down side, some local efforts to help industry end up being offset by other things such as federal regulations. Wellman noted that regulations can have a dramatic effect on what a bank can do to promote industry. As an example, he said that environmental legislation has made it so banks won't touch any project which includes underground storage tanks.

Despite the red tape and other encumbrances, Wellman said local banks try to promote industry where they can. "We're always looking for ways to bring some small industry into the community because it's a good stabilizing thing for our economy," he said.

Although Charlevoix and Boyne City often compete for new industries and for many other things, nobody in Charlevoix has expressed anything but sympathy for Boyne City in the loss of United Technologies.

"It all ties together economically up here," Wiesner said. "If one community is hurt with a job loss like that, it's got to affect us all."

"I think it's very unfortunate," Merta remarked. "I felt the same way when Curtis Wire left Petoskey."

Our query about the identification of these two gentlemen elicited many replies. Many people recognized former State Court of Appeals Judge Glenn Allen on the right, but Allen himself, told us the name of the other gentleman. He is Willard Wichers, former president of the Historical Society of Michigan. The event is the boarding of the last train south out of Charlevoix. The date, supplied by Louis Edwards, was Sept. 1, 1962.

...Charlevoix station is center for Great Lakes study shipped to the Charlevoix station. Gelderblom has freezers filled with frozen fish heads.

The first step in analyzing a microtagged fish is finding the tag. That's not as easy as you might think. Each tag is about the same size as the "I" on the mining date of a penny. Gelderblom slices the fish head in half and uses a metal detector to determine where the tag is located.

Gelderblom explained that sometimes tags have fallen out of fish. He also noted that as the program has progressed, tag fall out has diminished and the tag location has become more uniform. It costs the DNR approximately 10 cents per fish tagged.

The term "microtag" sounds a bit high tech, but the tag itself is really fairly simple. A microtag is essentially just a small bit of stainless steel wire with notches in it.

Gelderblom takes the tag from the fish head, places it under a microscope and reads the notches to determine where and when the fish was planted and which hatchery the fish came from.

An example of a typical fish is one caught this year in Lake Michigan after being planted near the Penn Dixie Cement plant site in 1986. That's typical. Less typical is a salmon which was caught near Rogers City after being planted in Racine, Wisconsin.

"The salmon and steelhead move a lot," Gelderblom remarked.

In addition to determining fish movement between time planted and time caught, the DNR can contact the hatchery where the fish was raised and determine what strain of eggs the fish was hatched from where those eggs came from, the water temperature on the day the fish was planted and a variety of other pertinent information. In fact the information is so detailed that the DNR can even name the person who was driving the truck on the day the fish was planted.

Keller is monitoring and analyzing information from the microtagging program. Microtagging is providing information which ties in with several other programs. As an example, John Hnath, a DNR fisheries pathologist at the Wolf Lake hatchery, will be able to use some of the microtagging information from Charlevoix to help him in his studies of bacterial kidney disease (BKD), a disease which has been wreaking havoc with the Great Lakes salmon population since 1987.

While programs such as microtagging keep track of what's happening with the fish, other fish station programs monitor what's happening with the fishermen.

Jerry Rakoczy and Richard Rogers of the Charlevoix station analyze and compile information from sport and charter fishermen throughout the Great Lakes. There are 21 people on the Great Lakes who interview anglers and conduct random counts of boats and trailers and report their findings to Charlevoix. Charter boat operators are required to fill out reports and send them to the Charlevoix station. Rakoczy and Rogers compile the information into usable tables and reports. (The reports concerning the Charlevoix area accompany this article.)

Work to correct the BKD problem illustrates the relationship between the fish research and the resulting fishing activity. BKD began putting a serious dent in the salmon population in 1987. Fishermen began having less success and consequently fishing activity on the Great Lakes began dropping. Declining fishing activity leads to declining tourism revenue. Now, research is leading to solutions for the BKD problem which should lead to more fishing activity and higher fishing revenues.

In addition to research activities at the station, the 65-foot boat called the "Steelhead" is based at the station. The boat spends much of the summer on the lake collecting salmon and forage fish. The purpose is to find out what food is available to the game fish and what they're feeding on.

Later this summer the Steelhead will be one of three boats participating in an intensive 19-day study which will check forage fish in all of the Great Lakes: Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Agency will all participate in the study. Studying the forage fish goes back to the roots of the Great Lakes sports fishery program. The program began in part as a response to an overabundance of alewife. As Keller explains it, "We introduced salmon and lake trout to convert alewife into something desirable. Well, we did it with great success."

According to Keller, the key to maintaining that success is cooperation between the states and counties surrounding the Great Lakes.

As shown by the fish that swam from Racine, Wisconsin to Rogers City, fish don't care about state or international boundary lines. "The key to management of the future of Lake Michigan is cooperative management," Keller said. "You can't just farm your own side of the pasture."

The Great Lakes Fisheries Commission which was established in 1956 has evolved into a multi-state and multi-agency forum helping to coordinate fisheries management on the Great Lakes. The Charlevoix Great Lakes Fisheries Station has played, and will continue to play, an important role in providing research and information to help the commission make decisions.

Letters to the Editor:

No plans to raise rent

Editor,
On Saturday and Sunday June 22 and 23 Charlevoix Estates held its Grand Opening Open House. Over one hundred (100) people came to see the community and the model homes. We wish to thank all who visited the development and those businesses that allowed us to advertise the Grand Opening in their places of business.

During the Open House we received many positive comments from the people visiting Charlevoix Estates. However, there was one negative comment heard from several of the visitors which we believe needs to be cleared up. That was, Charlevoix Estates is turning people into the development with lower and/or free rent and once the person moves in the rent will be increased significantly.

Nothing could be further from the truth. Many of our residents are on fixed incomes or have just started a family and purchased their first home. Any significant rental increase would drive these people from the development. During our forty years of property development and management experience we have never utilized this deceptive practice.

In order to assure future residents of Charlevoix Estates that this will not happen, we guarantee that there will be no rent increases at Charlevoix Estates during the next 24 months. Any future rental increase will be based upon legitimate economic circumstances and not on a desire to gouge the residents of the development.

We believe that Charlevoix Estates will also benefit the local economy and businesses as its residents spend their hard earned dollars locally.

Cancer Society thanks volunteers

Editor,
A big thank you to all of the Charlevoix and Boyne City volunteers who made the recent cancer crusade a success. Your dedication to the 1991 Community Crusade allows the American Cancer Society of Charlevoix County to provide all of the services we have available in the community. You have just joined the 2.2 million volunteers in America.

Thanks again,

Army Reserve soldiers say "Thanks for support"

Editor,

Operation Desert Storm will probably go down in history as one of our most successful military efforts ever. That was due in large part to the participation of the U.S. Army Reserve.

Beginning in August 1990, thousands of Army Reservists were called upon to perform the missions for which they had been trained. By now the whole country is aware of the tremendous contributions they made to the United States' Operation Desert Storm effort.

Their success was, in turn, made possible by the generous support of the American people. First, and perhaps most important, was the wide-ranging support by the communities of the Army Reservists who were activated. Local communities were particularly supportive of hometown units as they deployed. Without that, the activation would have been much harder to accomplish. But our Army Reservists went with the blessings and good wishes of the American people. We all realize just how important that is.

Without a doubt, one of the most significant factors in informing the public was the news media coverage of reserve activations. Overall, both the print and the electronic media presented a fair picture of the issues and activities surrounding the mobilization. As a result, the public saw how well prepared Army Reservists were and learned how important they were to the total Army effort.

The understanding that our Army Reservists have received from their employers has been most encouraging. No one likes to lose a valuable employee suddenly for an extended and indefinite period of time, especially in times of economic uncertainty, but the response of the great majority of employers has been very positive. And many companies went beyond the requirements of the law and generously extended additional benefits to their Reservists. As a result, Army Reservists were able to deploy without worrying about their job security. Now, as they are returning, we are seeing that support continue as employers are welcoming them back into the work force.

And finally, the families of our reservists deserve special recognition. They bore the emotional, financial and physical burdens of their soldiers' absence. They supported their soldiers and that made a real difference.

Once again, Army Reservists have shown themselves to be dedicated to serving their country. They sacrificed their time, they were separated from their families, and many lost income when they were activated. They needed your support and they got it.

On behalf of our fine Army Reserve soldiers, I am privileged to thank all of you whose support made it all possible.

Antique and Classic Boat Show continues to grow and draw crowds Charlevoix's Third Annual Antique and Classic Boat Show drew 30 boats and approximately 800 spectators to Charlevoix's harbor Saturday.

The number of entries and crowds were both up from the previous two years. The Chamber of Commerce, which sponsors the event, is hoping to draw at least 40 boats next year.

Three awards were given out. Winning boats were:

People's Choice Award - Javelin owned by Bill and Julie Munroe.

Skippers' Choice Award - Mask owned by Mark Edmonson.

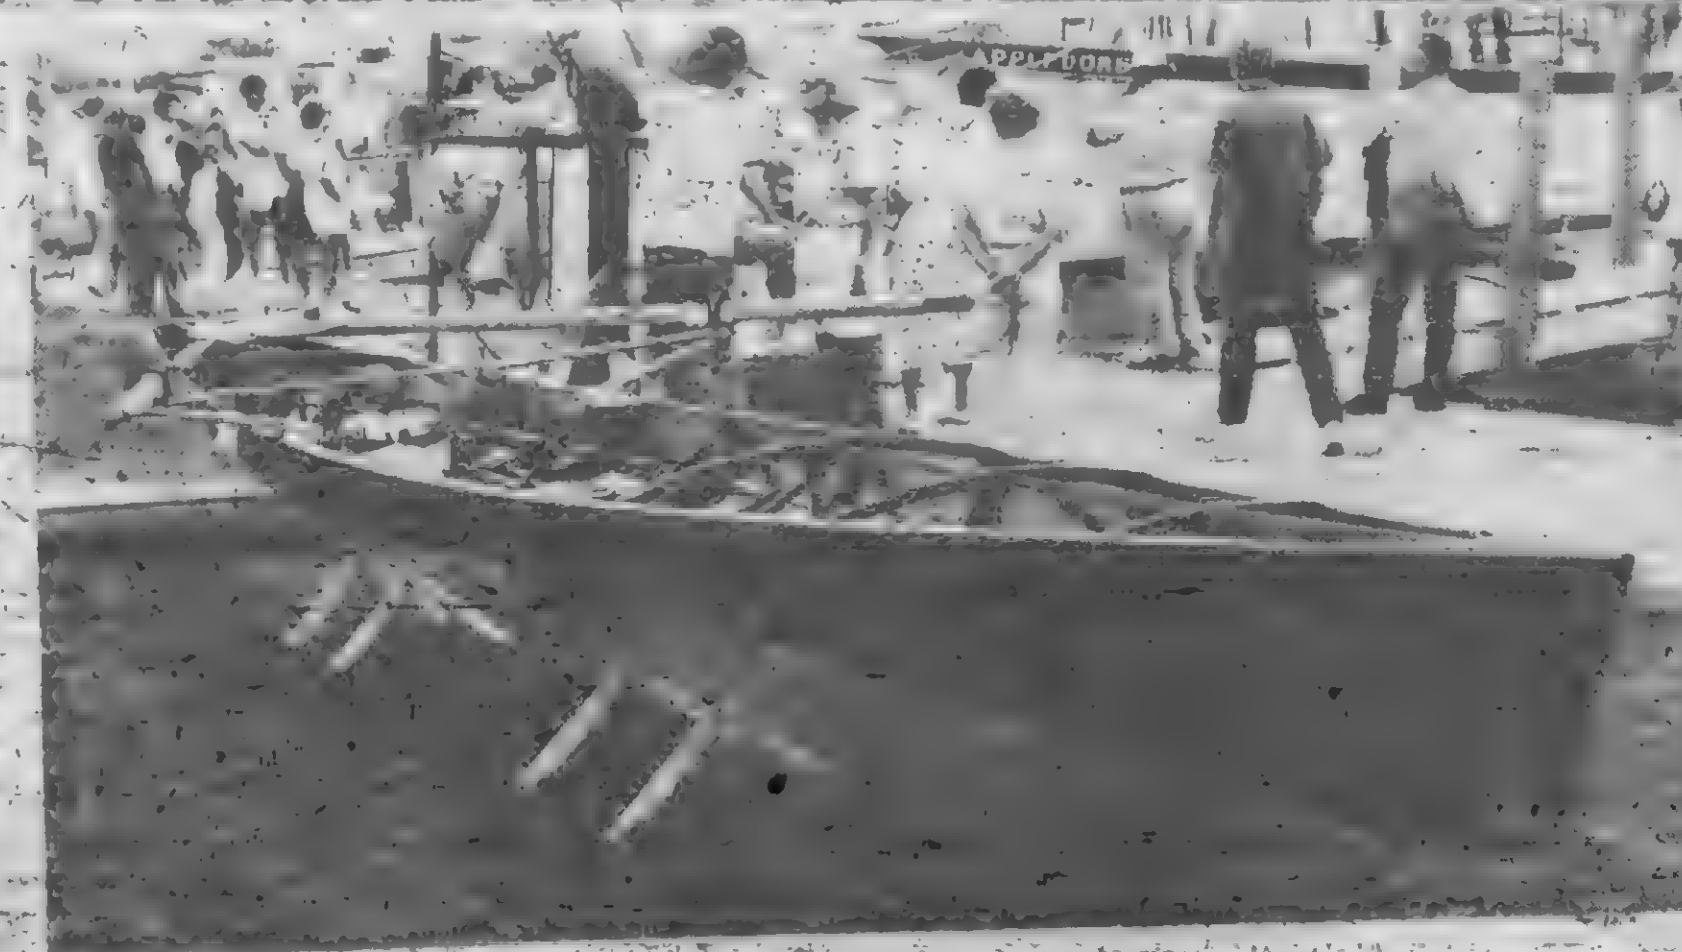

Most Historically Significant Point of View owned by Wilbur and Peggy Hamsra.

This young man enjoyed relaxing in the boat and would have played with the ducks swimming in between the boats, but he couldn't get any of them to come close enough to him.

Not all of the boats displayed in the antique boat show were power boats. The wind was propelling boats long before motors were invented.

Somehow the modern day fiberglass and composite rowing boats just don't have the same appeal as this streamlined wooden boat.

The Wood-N-Peg was one of the antique boats displayed. Like most of the boats it had a beautiful varnish finish and name painted in gold leaf.

Seminar offered on home buying program

If you thought that owning a home was beyond your dreams, think again! If your family income is less than $46,345 per year, you may qualify for a home mortgage under the Michigan Initiative Program, which began this past October.

The Emmet and Charlevoix County Cooperative Extension Services are offering a workshop that will help you qualify for a Michigan Initiative mortgage as well as provide basic information you need to effectively shop for and finance a home.

The goal of the workshop, according to Gail Edwards, Emmet County Extension Director, is to provide potential homeowners with information on all aspects of home ownership and to help them decide if home ownership at this time is feasible.

The workshop will take place from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday, July 27 at the Boyne City Hall.

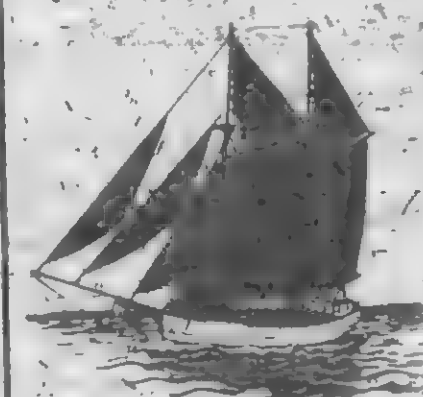

Topics to be covered include: house hunting — how to evaluate a house, inside and out, and the neighborhood; qualifying for a home loan — understanding the criteria lenders use when deciding whether to make a loan; financing a home, including monthly costs and mortgage options; and the closing — understanding the closing costs involved in purchasing a home.

The Michigan Initiative helps prospective home buyers by providing education about purchasing a home, cutting the normal down payment requirement to 5 percent and offering more flexible qualifying criteria than conventional mortgages.

Edwards emphasized that the workshop series is open to all potential homeowners, whether or not they are interested in the Michigan Initiative.

To enroll or get more information, call the Emmet County Cooperative Extension Service at 348-1770.

Hospital employees raising funds

Employees of the Charlevoix Area Hospital have initiated their own effort to contribute to the hospital's building campaign.

David Priest, R.N., house supervisor is leading the employee portion of the campaign. "It was the employee group itself that set an energetic goal of $95,000," Priest said. "This goal is certainly attainable if the majority of the employees pledge or contribute an hour's pay-per pay period over a five-year time span. I am very optimistic that we will make our goal."

There are approximately 170 full-time and part-time employees at the hospital. Captains for the employee campaign are: Bill Jackson, Heather Kage, Rachelle Mackowiak, Judy Mazur, Alex Niedzialkowski and Chris Wilhelm.

The hospital's total campaign goal is $1.4 million. The money will be raised through pledges and donations solicited during this summer and early fall. The fundraising campaign is part of a $3 million building program which includes a new surgical and ambulatory care facility attached to the hospital and a remodeling of the obstetrical unit to allow labor, delivery, recovery and post partum stay to take place in the same room.

A volunteer network is presently being set up for the area-wide campaign. Dr. Jeff Porter is the general campaign chairman.

Garden Club will discuss hospital building plans

The Charlevoix Area garden Club will hear plans for the expansion of Charlevoix Area Hospital at the club's July 9 meeting.

The meeting will be Tuesday at 1 p.m. at Nancy Fowler's home. The co-hostesses will be Esther Rengler and Maggie Wilson.

The winners at the state level of the Smoky Bear and Woodie Owl Environmental Poster Contest for 1991 will receive their certificates at the meeting. Jeanette Bohn won second place in the kindergarten to second grade contest. Erik Schaefer won third place in the third to fifth grade competition. Both of these children had already won at the local level. Their teacher, Mary Beth McGraw, won third place in the adult division, also at the state level.

BUSINESS

Boating business helps keep area afloat

By Ralph McRae

Boating is a big, big business in Charlevoix. To get an idea of just how big, think of it this way:

It is estimated that there are more than 700 boats in slips located less than two miles from city hall.

If, for some reason, all of the Lake Charlevoix skippers one day decided to move their boats into Lake Michigan, it would take 12 hours for them all to pass beneath the bridge.

The monetary value of all of the pleasure and charter boats in the Charlevoix area exceeds $30 million. That figure doesn't include the Beaver Island of the U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Acadia.

Irish Boat Shop, located on Lake Charlevoix at the foot of Stover Road, expanded to Charlevoix from Harbor Springs in 1970. In the past 20 years it has outgrown its Harbor Springs corporate headquarters.

Cliff Biddick, the General Manager of the Charlevoix branch and an Irish Boat Shop Vice President offered some insight into Irish's Charlevoix operation.

Irish's Charlevoix facility is located near the site of an old beet factory. When Irish Boat Shop was built, the old beet factory was demolished and tons and tons of concrete chunks were used to construct a breakwall. The docking area protected by the breakwall had to be dredged so the water would be the proper depth for floating slips and allow enough draft for the sailboats using the slips.

Irish Boat Shop's total facility in

If all of the boat owners with boats docked in Lake Charlevoix suddenly got an urge to move their boats into Lake Michigan at the same time, it would take approximately 12 hours for them to pass under the bridge.

...Irish Boat Shop keeps boats shipshape

vestment in Charlevoix is approaching $5-million. The boat shop's facility now includes: a 3,000 square foot store stocked with marine supplies; a 9,000 square foot display room for new boats; a 30,000 square foot service and refinishing building; and a 25,000 square foot storage area which is 32 feet high.

In addition to the main complex at the foot of Stover Road, Irish Boat Shop also has 60 additional boat docks approximately a block north on Ferry Avenue. Irish Boat Shop also has another boat storage area and several indoor storage sheds on Carpenter Street across from the city softball fields.

Along with the buildings, Irish Boat Shop also has a tremendous investment in heavy equipment used to move the boats.

Irish Boat Shop is highly diversified in that they have many different branches of business all related to the boating industry.

Irish sells boats ranging in price from $12,000 to $300,000. They also rent 160 slips at an average cost of about $2,000 per season. During the winter, they store about 280 boats. The price for storage obviously varies with the size of the boat, but the average cost is around $1,000.

Irish also services boats, commissioning them for use in the spring and de-commissioning them for storage in the fall. Commissioning and de-commissioning the boats is more complicated than just putting a boat into or lifting a boat out of the water. Some boat owners defray a portion of the commissioning and de-commissioning costs by doing some of the work themselves.

Irish Boat Shop also owns a barge and a powerful little tug boat. They are able to do dredging, pile driving and salvage jobs which include raising sunken boats.

Through a cooperative agreement with two other Michigan boat dealers, Irish Boat Shop shares an inventory of Sea Ray power boats.

During the off-season, Irish Boat Shop has 35 employees. When things get hopping in the spring summer and fall another 25 employees are added.

The company had a 1990 payroll of $520,000 plus $31,000 in bonus payments. It has a profit sharing policy which provides funds for pensions and low interest loans.

An unusual program Irish Boat Shop offers is its smoking program. After signing a paper promising to quit using tobacco in any form and following through on that promise for 12 months and employee will receive $500 from the Charlevoix general manager and another $500 from company owner David Irish. So far five employees have collected on the program.

Irish Boat Shop has also been highly active in addressing environmental issues. The shop recycles oil, cardboard, metals and hazardous solvents.

Presently the company is focusing on streamlining its present operations as opposed to expanding into new areas.

(Writer's note: Next week's story will discuss other Charlevoix business operations involved in the boating industry.)

Craft show promises to fill parks

Combine one of the most picturesque settings in the state with a gathering of 240 of Michigan's top craftspeople, and the result is Charlevoix's 23rd Annual Craft Show. This year's show is scheduled for Saturday July 13.

Every available space in Charlevoix's East Park, Harbor Park and Bridge Park will be filled by artisans displaying, and frequently demonstrating, crafts including wooden furniture, pottery, handmade stone jewelry, quilted purses, hardwood toys, original folk art, hand thrown stoneware, tile painting reminiscent of 18th century French work, decoys, dolls, stained glass, and, of course, mountain duck decoys. Charlevoix's craft show has something for almost everyone, with prices beginning under a dollar.

The Charlevoix Craft Show starts at 10 a.m. July 13.

For additional information please call the Chamber of Commerce at 547-2101.

Obituaries

Betty M. Bergmann

Betty M. Bergmann, 61, of Charlevoix, died June 26, 1991, at Northern Michigan Hospital, Petoskey.

Funeral was 11 a.m. Friday, June 28, at the Winchester Funeral Home, Charlevoix. The Rev. James D. Green of the Bible Baptist Church in Charlevoix officiated with burial in Brookside Cemetery, Charlevoix.

The former Betty M. Evers was born March 6, 1930, in Detroit, the daughter of William and Mildred (Taylor) Evers. She moved to Charlevoix in 1944 and graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1948. On Sept. 1, 1949, she married Alfred E. Bergmann in Charlevoix. They have always resided in Charlevoix.

Mrs. Bergmann worked as a telephone operator for Michigan Bell in Charlevoix and later worked as a home sewer for Paul Reed-Weather Shield Sports Equipment Inc. in Charlevoix for 15 years.

She was a member of Bethany

Lutheran Church in Charlevoix. Survivors include her husband; one daughter, Beth S. Sommerfeld of Charlevoix; two sons, William Bergmann and his wife, Barb, of Van Nuys, Calif., and Allen Bergmann and his wife, Sabine, of Tampa, Fla.; 11 grandchildren.

She was preceded in death by a sister, Lillian Henley.

The family suggests memorials to the Charlevoix County Humane Society. Envelopes for that purpose are available at the funeral home.

Gerald A. "Spike" Goss

Gerald A. "Spike" Goss, 69, of Charlevoix, died June 27, 1991, at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Funeral will 4 p.m. Wednesday, July 3, at the Winchester Funeral Home, Charlevoix. The Rev. Bruce E. Hamilton of the Community Church of God will officiate and burial will be in Brookside Cemetery, Charlevoix.

Mr. Goss was born June 16,

1922, in Charlevoix; the son of William E. and Leila (Race) Goss. From 1934-39, Mr. Goss attended the Michigan School for the Deaf in Flint. He returned to Charlevoix from southern Michigan at the age of 31.

On June 6, 1953, he married the former Lorene Jones in Luther. They always made their home in Charlevoix.

Mr. Goss worked as a lineman for the Top of Michigan Rural Electric Cooperative from 1953 until he retired in 1984.

He was a member of the Charlevoix Lions Club and was an outdoorsman, enjoying hunting and fishing. He also enjoyed community athletic events.

He is survived by his wife Lorene G.; two sons, Perry Oswald of Detroit and Brian L. Goss of North Pole, Alaska; one daughter, Jerrilyn Rockney of Woodinville, Wash.; two grandchildren; three brothers, Shelby Goss of Charlevoix, Tom and William Goss, both of Saranac; several nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by a brother Robert in 1969.

The family suggests memorials to the Charlevoix Area Hospital Building Fund. Envelopes for that purpose are available at the Winchester Funeral Home.

Thomas H. Loeb memorial service

A memorial service for Thomas H. Loeb will take place at 1 p.m. July 8 at the Congregational Church on the corner of State and Park Streets.

Mr. Loeb died Jan. 10 in Florida. A reception will follow the memorial service.

Charlevoix Courier SUMMER TIMES

Local home tour features six homes

The annual Charlevoix Home Tour hosted by Kappa Sigma sorority will take place from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Wednesday, July 10. Six homes and a garden will be the featured stops on this year's tour.

Proceeds from the tour will benefit Charlevoix Area Hospital. In recent years, money from the home tour has helped remodel a hospital room and purchase a new eye-care machine.

Tickets for the tour are $12.50 each and are available at the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce, Shop of the Gulls, The Appletree, the Boyne City, East Jordan and Petoskey chambers of commerce, The Tin Soldier in Harbor Springs, and the EJ Shop in East Jordan. Tickets may also be purchased at the homes on the day of the tour.

This year's tour includes homes overlooking Lake Charlevoix, Round Lake and Lake Michigan. It will end with a garden reception at Dr. Jeff and Nancy Porter's home. A limited edition print from Waterfront Productions, donated by Kathleen Chaney-Fritz will be given away during the home tour.

Home tour guests should park on the street and remove shoes prior to entering homes. Guests are also asked to refrain from smoking and not to bring dogs or children.

Chaining this year's tour are Marilyn Wilmot and Rebecca Haney.

Following is a brief description of each of the homes:

1. Jim and Lize Firebaugh's home on Nine Mile Point. This cedar home is positioned and constructed so that it has a spectacular view of the water from every room. A two-story fireplace is the focal point of the home's great room.

2. Barbara Czachorski's condominium on Nine Mile Point. Although the Czachorski home is part of a condominium community, it offers privacy to its owners and their guests. The condominium contains a variety of handpicked and coordinated pieces of furniture. All rooms open to a view of Lake Michigan.

3. David Hagelstein's Lake Charlevoix home. If you want something done right, do it yourself. This home was designed by its owner and built in the pines near the shore of Lake Charlevoix. The interior of the home has its own character provided by details such as an antler chandelier, magnificent Oriental rugs, folk art, Indian artifacts, copper life preservers, the Bear hall tree and the antique topper English steam table.

4. Denis and Ginnie Cash's Chicago Club home. The Beach Cottage, built in 1990, blends in well with the traditional charm and beauty of the Chicago Club. With the help of an architect, the Cashes designed their home to have the character of an old home - even though it's new. Several windows offer views of Lake Charlevoix. Each bedroom is carefully color coordinated.

5. Linda and Milton Dresner's Lake Michigan home. The late Jay Smith, a New York architect, designed this stucco beach house. The house offers a beautiful view of Lake Michigan. Smith and the Dresners built a home which makes the atmosphere indoors open and reminiscent of the outdoors. Most of the furnishings and art objects in the home were collected by the Dresners in northern Michigan.

6. Blue Bell Cottage, owned by Ann Leakis. Built in 1876 by Oscar M. Allen, a Belvedere Club founder, Blue Bell cottage is built in the form of a Maltese Cross to reflect Allen's devout membership in the Masons. On the first floor, four rooms open into a central room and outside porches. Second floor bedrooms open onto a balcony that looks down on the first floor. At the peak of the cottage is a one-room cupola. From the windows of the cupola, one can see Lake Charlevoix, the town and Lake Michigan. 7. Dr. Jeff and Nancy Porter's garden. The Porters' English style garden has been established over the past 10 years. The garden is divided between perennials requiring shade and with a few annuals in border areas. A white picket fence with an arbor entrance surround the garden.

Drum and Bugle show returns to Venetian Festival

After a ten-year absence, the Drum and Bugle Corps competition is returning to the Charlevoix Venetian Festival.

The performance will take place from 8 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. Friday, July 26 at the football field. The Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the event and tickets may be purchased at the Chamber office. Early purchases are being encouraged. Ticket prices are: $6 for adults; $5 for senior citizens; $4 for children 13 and under; $20 for family tickets. There is no charge for children less than five years old.

Six groups from the Midwest will be in Charlevoix for the competition. Three of the groups will be marching in the Venetian Parade the next day.

A brief synopsis of each of the groups follows:

Capitol Aires from Madison, Wisconsin.

The Capitol Aires were formed in 1969 as the Madison Area All-Girl Drum and Bugle Corps. Their goal was to provide young women in the Madison area with same calibre musical program enjoyed by the young men in the Madison Scouts Drum and Bugle Corps.

The corps director is Morgan Larson and the drum major is Jenny Johnson.

Northern Aurora from Saginaw, Michigan.

Northern Aurora (formerly the Saginaw Aires) is in its 26th year of competition. Northern Aurora will travel approximately 18,000 miles in 1991 taking them throughout the Midwest and South on the road to Dallas, Texas for the DCI World Championships.

The corps director is Bob Wasowski.

Limited Edition Drum and Bugle Corps from Columbus, Ohio.

The Limited Edition Drum and Bugle Corps is just four years old. With a brand new look, the group will entertain audiences with its Broadway style.

Limited Edition is under the direction of Mark Holm and is led on the field by drum major Darius Kandawalla.

Pioneer from Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

The Pioneer drum and bugle corps was voted the Most Improved Corps of the Year in 1990. Pioneer will be presenting a performance titled "An Irish Festival" featuring the folk sounds of Ireland.

The drum major is Matt Bauercup. The corps director is Roman Blenski III.

The Cavaliers from Kitchener-Waterloo, Ontario, Canada.

The Cavaliers are entering their 19th year.

The Cavaliers have broken away from the Latin Jazz sound they were known for in the 1980s and have entered the 1990s with the sounds of the Beatles.

The Bandettes

The 1991 Bandettes will present music from the award winning musical "A Chorus Line. The group is a self-supporting organization.

School lunch prices raised

By Wendy Wright

School lunch prices will increase by 15 cents at all three schools this fall. Lunch prices will be $1.15 at the Elementary school and $1.40 at both the Middle and High school.

The school board had considered increasing the prices last year, but held off until this year. Prices for school lunches were last changed in 1988.

At one of its first meetings since the June general election, the board elected officers for the coming year. Max Novak will continue to serve as board president. Ardeth Wieland is Vice President. Doris Pearl is board secretary and Larry Levensgood is board Treasurer.

In another procedural matter, the board decided to continue to hold meetings in the basement of the public library during the summer months. The library is cooler than the high school study hall.

At Monday evening's meeting, the board again considered teacher Jim Glynn's request for an extended leave of absence. Glynn has been on leave of absence for the past two years while teaching in Germany.

Presently, he is requesting that either his leave of absence be extended so that his position with the Charlevoix school system is protected. The board denied that request earlier this spring.

Monday evening, Glynn told the board that he is willing to take any full time position, or any combination of positions to equal full time. If nothing is available, he said he hopes the board will again consider his request for an extended leave. Novak told Glynn the board will try to resolve the matter and make a timely decision.

Walter Kujawski raised 20 of these small pheasants last summer. About half a dozen of them survived the winter and are living in the woods near Kujawski's home.

4-H project pheasants surviving on Loeb Road

Walter Kujawski, a 14-year-old from Charlevoix, is monitoring the progress of several pheasants he and his family raised on Loeb Road. Kujawski raised the pheasants last summer as a 4-H project.

The story was featured in a July 1990 edition of the Courier. County 4-H director Ted Kesner submitted Kujawski's project for a 4-H competition and Kujawski ended up being one of four 4-H members to win a free fishing trip out of Manistee earlier this summer. Kujawski caught a 10lb, 15 oz. steelhead on the charter trip about the Huck Finn II operated by Captain Jerry Blanton.

Kujawski started the project with 20 Ringneck pheasant chicks. When he received them they were nothing more than peeping little clumps of down which fit easily in the palm of his hand. Of the 20 he began with, he had 13 survive until they were large enough to be released.

"I think I had more that lived than other people who raised them," he noted.

As anyone who has attempted to raise pheasants will tell you, it isn't as easy as you might think. The darn things will die on you. They are somewhat particular in what they can eat and they often peck at each other.

Kujawski said he was fortunate in that he didn't have too much of a problem with the birds pecking at each other. He began by feeding them starter feed and later fed them cracked corn, regular corn mixed with other grains and soybean protein.

He said raising the pheasants was an every day project, usually for about 10 minutes each day.

Asked why he raised pheasants, he replied, "I like animals. There really aren't a lot of them (pheasants) around."

At least some of the 13 pheasants Kujawski released made it through the winter. He said he's been out in the woods behind the farm monitoring the pheasant population.

"There are seven pheasants around. I'm not sure if they're all mine," he reported.

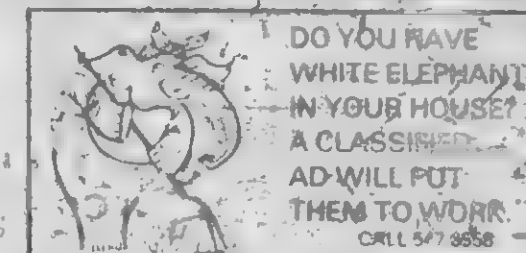

County Republicans plan Whiting Park picnic

The annual Charlevoix County Republican Picnic is scheduled for 1 p.m. Sunday July 7 at Whiting Park near Boyne City.

Barbecue chicken and refreshments will be served. The cost of the event is $5 per person. People are asked to bring a hot or cold dish to pass.

Guest speakers at the event will include U.S. Representative Bob Davis, State Representative Ralph Ostling and State Senator George McManus. Also featured as a guest speaker will be Oakland County Prosecutor Dick Thompson.

A variety of door prizes will be given away during the course of the picnic.

Mayfield apartments remodel and beautify

The Mayfield Village Apartment complex is under new management and is being remodeled. Formerly known as Southside Apartments, the 94-unit complex was built in 1976 and is home to approximately 200 people.

Improvements made in recent months include: new vinyl siding for some of the buildings; reroofing for some buildings; new carpet and vinyl flooring for several apartments; new tub enclosures; new flower beds and landscaping.

Last Thursday evening Mayfield Village invited the mayor, the Chamber of Commerce Ambassadors group and other local dignitaries to an open house.

The Mayfield Village Apartment complex is owned by Carpenter Street Apartment Co. It is managed by Medallion Management Inc. of Kalamazoo. The on-site managers are Michael and Laurie Hunt.

The Hunts arrived in March of this year. They say they're trying to improve the atmosphere and establish more of a community environment at the complex. In addition to the repairs and flower beds, the complex has had an after-school party for Mayfield's children and has also started printing a newsletter.

Laurie Hunt said the tenants have for the most part been cooperative and have welcomed not only the remodeling improvements, but also the sense of community.

People who live in the complex range widely in age. There are more than 40 children, but there are also several senior citizens.

Mayfield Village is a federally subsidized housing complex. Fifty-nine of the 94 units qualify for some type of income-based subsidy. The way the subsidies work is that qualifying tenants pay up to 30 percent of their income for rent. The difference between what the tenant pays and the cost of the apartment is subsidized (i.e. paid) by the government.

Connie Antisdale works out of Medallion's home office and supervises Mayfield Village. In comparing Mayfield to apartment complexes in general, she said, "This is a pretty smooth operation."

Antisdale said there is a lot of demand for the high subsidy apartments, but it's more difficult to fill the less subsidized units. Despite that difficulty, the complex is close to being full now and anticipates being full by the end of July.

The remodeling effort is the first major physical rehabilitation of the complex since it was built. Antisdale said rehabilitation of both the interior and exterior of the apartments will continue, but there are currently no plans to add buildings to the complex.

Antisdale said she's pleased with the way things are currently going at the complex. "I think we fill a need in the community and I think with the improvements that are being made, we're an asset to the community."

Flower beds are only one of the improvements which have been made in recent months at the Mayfield Village Apartment complex. Buildings are also being remodeled and a newsletter is being distributed. Shown by the flower bed are (from left) Connie Antisdale, Laurie Hunt, and Michael Hunt.

SpinPrint allows customers to design shirts

There's a bright new shop on Park Street called "SpinPrint".

It's bright because it is full of T-shirts, sweat shirts, stirrup pants, hats, beach bags, beach towels and many other accessories in 10 different colors decorated in many more colors.

The difference between this shirt shop and others is that the buyer may select the color of shirt he wants and draw his own design on it, using any or all of the 15 tubes of colored paint available in the shop. Those who are not proud of their own artwork may ask one of the clerk-artists to draw a design for them.

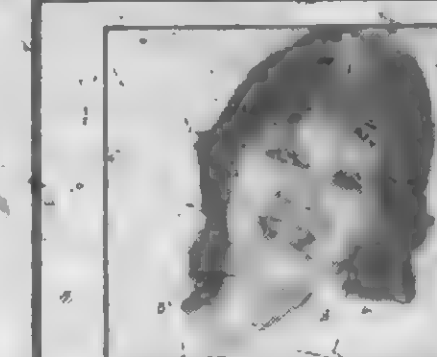

After the design is made, the shirt is put into a spinning machine where centrifugal force changes the design into an irregular "bursting" decoration.

In addition to these SpinPrint designs, the shop carries a full line of block-decorated apparel and sports gear in the same assortment of colors.

Katherine Dillon and her sister Chrissy are in charge of the shop.

Chrissy Dillon of Spin Print stands next to one of the bright shirts which customers may design for themselves.

Landscaping slopes is often an uphill battle

(Editor's note: The following story is one in a series being provided to the Courier by the Charlevoix Area Garden Club in an effort to lend a helping hand to all of the people who strive to make Charlevoix a greener place.)

Sloping yards and hills present some landscaping problems. But when properly handled they can be turned into an asset, indeed the focal point of a garden.

Most plants, including grass, have a hard time surviving on anything steeper than a very gradual slope. They have a much better chance if planted on a fairly level surface. This can be done by adding good garden soil to raise the lowest point up of the high level and holding this in place with a retaining wall. This works best when the wall is built with a definite lean to the higher level. A wall that stands straight and does not lean toward the filled-in soil cannot withstand the pressure of the soil in the long run. After a year or two the soil will push the wall over. A wall leaning into the slope will provide a counterweight to the constant pressure of soil on one side.

Attractive retaining walls can be made from bricks, concrete or cinder blocks, natural stones, anything that can be cemented together. Extra strength can be given to such a wall by placing, every once in a while, one of the building bricks, etc. with its largest dimension jutting into the soil. A few small holes should be left here and there for drainage when cementing the bricks etc. together. The result is a beautiful raised bed with excellent drainage and easy to cultivate because it does not require bending down so much.

If this sounds like too much trouble or hard work, a very pleasant almost three-dimensional effect can be achieved by terracing. A number of small retaining walls, about six to eight inches high, made for instance with railroad ties, or informal little walls of fieldstones, can provide several level planting sites. With such low retaining walls there is no need to worry about the weight of the soil pushing them over; there is not so much pressure if the difference in levels is not over one foot. These retaining walls or railroad ties can be laid out on existing ground, provided with some sort of anchor, by way of steel pins with the railroad ties, and the spaces filled in with good garden soil.

Another way of taking advantage of a slope is to turn it into a rock garden. Do not place the rock on the slope - they will eventually slide down. They should be buried halfway in the soil, preferably with their largest dimensions perpendicular to the slope. When the rocks are in place rock garden or alpine plants should be planted in level spaces in between with a liberal helping of good garden soil. Most rock garden plants tend to make mat-like growth and roots, thus holding the soil in place.

Some suitable annuals for this purpose are: alyssum, lobelia, dwarf marigolds, pinks, dwarf snapdragons, periwinkle, moss rose, dwarf zinnias and verbenas. Suitable perennials include pinks, sedum, thrift (sea pinks), candytuft, yellow alyssum, rock cress, anemone, creeping phlox, dwarf iris, hens-and-chickens, vinca. Most early spring bulbs, such as crocus, grape hyacinths and scillas do well in rock gardens, as well as some low growing shrubs, such as lavender, rock cotoneaster, and dwarf junipers.

Plants, shrubs and trees planted on a slope never get their share of the rainwater if the immediate area around them has not been leveled somewhat below the surrounding ground and dammed up a little to catch the water and give it a chance to sink in and reach the roots before it runs down the slope.

Court rules on Stroud property

By L. Scott Swanson

A Monday afternoon Circuit Court ruling that Lester Turner materially breached a land contract has given Oscar and Margaret Stroud free and clear title to 16.6 acres of land at the north end of Charlevoix. Proposed development of the land has been disputed since 1989 and has resulted in suits between Turner and the city and the Strouds and Turner.

The Strouds have owned the land for several years. It currently houses the Wayside Motel and a number of cabins. Turner became involved with the property through a land contract agreement reached in December of 1986. One of the stipulations in the land contract was that the contract wouldn't be closed (i.e. Stroud paid off), until after the property was rezoned to allow for construction of condominiums. That closing was hung up when Turner and the city disagreed over what information could be required for a rezoning request and consequently the city denied Turner's rezoning request.

The city council voted on Sept. 18, 1989 to return Turner's rezoning request to the planning commission, instructing him to provide additional information the planning commission previously requested. City planner Gerry Harsch sent Turner a letter to that effect dated Oct. 25, 1989.

Following that action, nothing happened until Jan. 8 when the city council scheduled a final public hearing for Feb. 5 to formally deny Turner's rezoning request. On Feb. 5 the council voted to deny the request.

That three-plus month period between September 1989 and February 1990 when Turner did not respond to the city's request for information played an integral role in Monday's Circuit Court hearing. What Richard Joseph, the Strouds' attorney, argued in seeking a summary disposition was that Turner, by not cooperating with the city, did not act in good faith to seek the rezoning which was stipulated as necessary in the land contract. Joseph's position was bolstered by an earlier ruling by the Circuit Court in the suit between Turner and the city. In a May 1991 decision, Circuit Court Judge Richard Pajtas ruled that state zoning laws allow the city to request the information which Turner refused to provide.

In Monday's decision, Pajtas granted Joseph's motion on behalf of the Strouds for summary disposition. In the order for summary disposition, Pajtas ruled that the defendants (Turner) had materially breached the land contract and ordered that Turner's rights to the property be terminated. Pajtas also ordered that the Strouds "are entitled to title to the Property free and clear from any claims by the Defendants without the necessity of having to pursue summary proceedings."

In an interview with the Courier following the ruling, Joseph said, "I'm thrilled (for the Strouds). I think the Turners have had since Dec. 30, 1986 to buy the property. They couldn't or wouldn't. In the meantime, Stroud had to maintain the property and couldn't develop it."

Wayne Richard Smith, the attorney for Turner, was contacted by the Courier following the hearing, but declined to comment on the case.

Three school candidates scheduled for interviews

Three candidates for Charlevoix School Superintendent will visit Charlevoix for second interviews. Each of the candidates will spend a day in town, acquainting themselves with the school system and staff. The public will be able to meet and question the candidates. Public meeting times begin at 2:30 p.m. in the public library. The candidates and the days they will be in town are:

Steven Smyth, Director of Curriculum and Instruction in Lakeview Public Schools in Lake Odessa, July 11.
Roberta Jackson, Superintendent of Edinburg Schools in Edinburg, Indiana, July 12.
Robert Spencer, Superintendent of Central Montcalm Public Schools in Stanton, July 17.

Rollerblades put Charlevoix's young and old on wheels

By L. Scott Swanson

No, people have not grown taller. They've just put wheels under their feet.

Although they've been on the market for four or five years, this summer in-line skates, i.e. rollerblades, have caught fire in Charlevoix. On an average day, the Bahnhof shop on Bridge Street has been selling two or three pairs at an average price of $150 to $200 a pop. Rollerblades are currently the store's hottest selling item according to store manager Bonnie Waddington.

Bob Jess (the college student, not his father) and Charlie Witthoef are only two of many people both young and old who have taken to rolling up down and around Charlevoix streets and parking lots. Jess said he's skated alongside cars and been clocked at up to 25 miles per hour on flat going. Witthoef noted that even though in-line skates are pretty stable, when speeds get high enough (say 40 miles per hour), you can get "speed wobbles."

Rollerblade is a brand name for in-line roller skates. Rollerblades differ from traditional roller skates in that the upper portion is more like a ski boot than a regular boot and the wheels are all in a line, one behind the other, down the middle of the skate. The number of wheels varies from three for people with small feet to five for people with larger feet and who want a racing skate.

Waddington said that beginning in May, Rollerblade sales began picking up speed. Those sales have held through the summer. Waddington not only sells the Rollerblades, she also owns and uses them.

"They're a lot of fun. They're great exercise," she said.

The boots allow virtually no side-to-side ankle movement. The stride used to skate on Rollerblades is similar to speed skating.

People are taking up Rollerblading for different reasons. "Some people are skating just because it's a good time. Other people are using Rollerblading as a training exercise for other sports."

Witthoef and Jess have mixed reasons for rollerblading. They say they got the Rollerblades for fun, but they both participate in other sports and say skating is helpful in training for those sports.

Witthoef skis. He says the skates feel like a comfortable ski boot. "The motions and parts of the legs used are similar to skiing," he said.

Jess plays basketball. There was nothing wrong with his vertical leap before he took up skating, but he said it has improved due to skating. Jess and Witthoef said skating also improves your wind.

Although Jess and Witthoef are Art Fair to feature several new artists

Organizers of Charlevoix's Annual Waterfront Art Fair, scheduled for Saturday Aug. 10, have announced that this year's fair will introduce to northern Michigan several nationally and internationally known artists who have not previously shown works here. They will join an outstanding roster of regular exhibitors and new young artists. Considered one of the most visually exciting art fairs in the nation, the Charlevoix art fair, now in its 33rd year, has a solid reputation with critics and collectors because of both the quality of the work and the unparalleled location. Spread across the terraced park overlooking Charlevoix's famed Round Lake harbor, the strictly juried fair is an unusual gather of fine painters, potters, jewelers, photographers, sculptors and fiber artists. Among the artists joining the fair for the first time is Manfred Heine-Baux. Well known in Europe, Canada, and New York, Heine-Baux is bringing his etchings and aquatints to Charlevoix. Born in Munich and trained throughout Europe, Heine-Baux now lives in Cambridge, Ontario. He is best known for his explosive use of color in an expressionistic style reminiscent of Gauguin and Van Gogh. In 1977, he was awarded an exhibit at La Grand Palais in Paris. His works have been shown across the U.S., Canada and Europe and are in major collections worldwide. "Celestial paintings" by Ron Russell, also new to Charlevoix this year, are collected by astronaut Buzz Aldrin, writer Ray Bradbury, as well as the Guggenheim Museum and the National Space Agency. Russell uses a glass painting process he developed to evoke "cosmic vistas" and "theoremtic expressions of the space frontier." The artist is bringing both original works and limited edition prints to Charlevoix. A relative new-comer to Charlevoix is New York goldsmith and Soho Gallery owner, Joan Michlin. Her work, often described as "wearable sculpture" is inspired largely by natural phenomena, according to the artist. Combining precious and semi-precious stones with gold she creates sophisticated and delicate earrings, bracelets, pins and necklaces. Michlin's works are now displayed in seven museums. Sallie B. Cochran, whose pen and ink with watercolor works have been featured at The National Wildlife Gallery, focuses on Native American and wildlife themes. Trained at the Rhode Island School of Design, she has been described as "layering fancy and imagination over realism." From Columbus, Ohio, Ms. Cochran's works are "designed to capture the energy of the children, the spirit of wild creatures and the imaginations of art lovers." Returning to Charlevoix, after several years absence, is Michigan sculptural potter Madeline Kaszmarczyk, whose work will be featured this year in the Journal Ceramics Monthly. She was also recently showcased by Public TV as "An Artist for 1991." Best known for decorative non-functional works, Kaszmarczyk's pieces reflect her beginnings as a functional potter and the influence of water in her use of intense tropical blues, greens and pinks. "We're predicting an unusual show this year," says art fair committee member Suzi Reis. "All the wonderful artists the public expects are returning, Dee Knot, Russ and Sue Bolt, Barbara Godwin, Mathias Uleme, Bill Coalman, Randall Higdon, and Tyrone and Julie Larson among others. These artists, with their strong followings, are the backbone of the show. When you add these exciting new artists, we think you get a fantastic mix." The one-day fair, which draws some 30,000 visitors to Charlevoix, opens at 10 a.m. and continues until sunset, Saturday, Aug. 10.

...rollerblading popularity grows

college-age, in-line skating is not the exclusive domain of the high school and college crowd. One day last week, 50-year-old Paul Kart of West Bloomfield and his 12-year-old daughter Lauren were skating down a Charlevoix sidewalk together.

Kart said he'd purchased the skates about a week earlier. He said he exercises regularly so the skates didn't present a physical strain. As far as learning to get around on the in-line skates, he said, "They're like anything else. You have to get used to them."

Waddington said skate sales started out with younger people, but older people are now joining the fun. She said she sold one pair to a 62-year-old man who said he was buying them for himself and not for somebody else.

In addition to simply rolling forward or backwards from one place to another, advanced rollerbladers can learn to do a variety of spins, jumps and flips.

Of course the simplest stuff of all is falling down - executing a graceful flop which receives no points for technical merit. In preparation for the graceful flop, skaters are encouraged to wear protective equipment such as wrist guards, knee guards and a helmet. Perhaps the most interesting piece of protective equipment is the wrist guard. It looks like a bowling glove, but it has an L-shaped steel bar which goes over the heel of the hand. The purpose of the bar is to support the wrist and to keep skin on the hand rather than leaving it on the pavement.

Jess and Witthoef noted that once you figure out what you're doing, falls become a rarity.

"It's hard to stop at first, but once you get used to the brakes it's not problem," Witthoef commented. The skate brake is a knob of rubber at the back of the skate. When you drag it you stop.

The brakes and the wheels will wear down eventually. A brake can be replaced for less than $5. Wheel wear can be mitigated by rotating the wheels. City police have been warning rollerbladers to keep off of the crowded sidewalks in the Bridge Street business district. They don't want rollerbladers moving down pedestrians. There is a city ordinance which allows rollerbladers to be ticketed for skating on business district sidewalks, but for the most part police have tried to handle the problem with warnings.

Letters to the editor

Where's the beach

Editor,

He came to America two years ago from Russia without speaking the language and with one suit to his name. At 19, he was the youngest winner of the Van Cliburn Gold Medal international competition.

His name is Alexei Sultanov and he is playing the piano with the Northwood Orchestra, under the direction of Don Th. Yeager, Saturday, July 20 at the Barn at Dunmaglas.

There are two good reasons why Alexei will appear for the third time in Northern Michigan. Northwood is one of his favorite orchestras and sailing is his favorite new form of recreation. He loves the area and always refers to Charlevoix as "Little Leningrad" because of the bridge that goes up and down — in Leningrad and Charlevoix.

I was lucky last winter to catch his televised Dallas concert on PBS by chance. What I didn't know then and share with you now is that on the way to the concert, Alexei, dressed in white tie and tails, driving his new car with his new bride, Dace, by his side, got a flat tire on the freeway! Dace urged him to flag down a passing motorist, but Alexei insisted on changing the tire himself. Fortunately, he not only made it to the concert on time, but with all ten precious fingers intact.

In addition to the scheduled concert, Joan and Chuck MacGillivray are hosting an elegant "dinner a la Russe" for the benefit of Northwood Orchestra Music Fest Wednesday, July 17, at $100 per person. This will be followed by a recital with Alexei at the piano and Dace, an accomplished cellist performing together in the high vaulted paneled living room. Quite a musical treat.

For the gourmets among us, if you'd like to know what the menu is going to be, I can tell you that too. Picture yourself dining al fresco around the pool, sipping chilled vodka with zakuska of blini with sour cream and caviar, piroshki and tiny boiled new potatoes for starters. This is followed with a hearty borscht accompanied with freshly baked black Russian bread. Then for dessert a Russian Easter Cheese Cake will culminate the menu.

All these good things — from A to Z, Alexei to Zakuska — are being offered to us this month. We may look forward to and enjoy — fine music, fine company and with luck, more fine weather.

Historical Society says thanks

Editor,

The membership of the Charlevoix Historical Society and the Harsha House Museum would like to thank the groups and individuals who helped in making the Centennial Gala of the Harsha House a great success on July 2, 1991.

Thank you for your time and patience.

Post graduation party thanks

Editor,

We would like to thank all the individuals, businesses and organizations, both in Charlevoix and the surrounding areas, who so willingly contributed to the Charlevoix High School 1991 After Graduation Party. Without all this support the party would not have been the success that it was.

We feel fortunate to live in a community that gets involved with its young people and sends the message that you can have fun in substance-free situations.

Once again a big thank-you to everyone.

Island school hires new staff

Following procedures adopted by the Beaver Island Community School Board of Education at its May meeting, administrative and teaching candidates were reviewed and narrowed down to fill the positions of school administrator, first/second grade teacher, and third/fourth grade teacher.

Roy James of Algonac, Michigan, has accepted the position of school administrator from a field of 25 applicants from as far away as Florida and Missouri. James went through an interviewing process which included screening by phone, an initial interview in Charlevoix with the current administrator and a board member, and finally an interview on Beaver Island by a nine-member committee which consisted of parents, faculty, and board members.

As administrator of the 80-student K-12 district, James' duties will include those typically assigned to a superintendent and to a principal — everything from setting and carrying out the budget to overseeing curriculum and staff, to greeting the students in the morning.

James holds a State of Michigan Administrator Certificate. In addition, James will be teaching high school students one hour per day.

New Teachers Terry Boyle, First/Second Grade Teacher, and Michael Myers, Third/Fourth

Grade Teacher, were selected from among almost 100 applications and went through a similar process before being hired by the Board. Boyle and her eight year old daughter, Shannon, will be moving to the Island from Dearborn, Michigan, where she has been employed since 1984.

Myers will be leaving the Elkhart, Indiana system where he has taught third grade for the past five years.

Pool group proposes new site

Editor,

After research, engineering studies and canvassing the neighborhood it now appears that the Inn Garage may be the best site for the proposed Charlevoix community indoor swimming pool. Most common response from the neighbors and others is "What a great idea! It's good for the neighborhood and the community."

Some of the advantages of this site include: an existing building which scores extra points with the grant givers who encourage adaptation of existing buildings to modern uses plus the fact that it's adjacent to the city tennis courts and golf course.

The best news of all is that it lowers the cost by 75 percent to about $950,000, not including in-kind contributions which reduce costs still further, instead of $2.25 million.

While the Inn Garage is old enough to be considered an historical building, it has a sound steel frame structure.

In addition, Mothers for the Pool like the location because it's not far from the elementary school, convenient for water safety training.

Meanwhile, the pool auction on Tuesday, July 30 is receiving broad community support with donations reaching $21,000 at retail and 62 items. We need more. Call Gayle Genetti at 547-5598 with your donations.

Nowhere else in the world can you play the best of Donald Ross, all at one location.

They're all here! Inverness, Pinehurst, Seminole, Bob O'Link, Scioto, Salem, Oakland Hills, Wannamisset and more.

Come play the new Donald Ross Memorial, already heralded by golf publications as a "brilliant masterpiece."

Call to reserve a tee time while you're vacationing in Michigan's north country. And play one of the most unique courses in the world, or one of Boyne's four other world class links.

Sierzputowski - Paone

Tricia & Gary Paone

Tricia Marie Sierzputowski and Gary Michael Paone were married Saturday, June 22, at the First Presbyterian Church of Boyne City.

The bride, who has been living in Grand Rapids, is the daughter of Tristan and Sharon Sierzputowski of Boyne City. The bridegroom, who is also a resident of Grand Rapids, is the son of Mary Jane Paone of St. Clair Shores and Dr. Frank Paone of Dearborn.

The Rev. Milton Walls officiated at the double ring ceremony before approximately 250 guests. For the occasion, the altar candelabra were decorated with silk floral arrangements of white, rose, turquoise, and violet.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her parents, wore a white satin gown fashioned with a Fitch collar, Chiffon embroidery, and a full satin skirt accented with wired ruffles, and a cathedral train. Her veil, which was handcrafted by her mother and aunt, was fingertip length with translucent veiling and opalescent pearl edging. The crown was made of pearl beading and opalescent flowers.

The bridal bouquet was created exclusively for the bride by her mother. It was made of silk roses, pearls, and translucent paper ribbons accented with baby's breath and small silk flowers of rose, turquoise, and violet.

Jenny Robinson, cousin of the bride, served as maid of honor, and Bonnie Cosier served as matron of honor. Leigh Paone, sister of the bridegroom, Angela Elliott, and Sue Kline were bridesmaids. The attendants wore off-the-shoulder gowns of violet, rose, and turquoise with puffed sleeves, dropped waists, fitted bodices, full intermingled skirts, and a bow and ruffles. Their heart-shaped bouquets were made of silk roses in white, rose, and turquoise accented with translucent paper ribbons and baby's breath. These were made for the occasion by the bride's mother and aunt.

Amanda Kline served as flower girl and Christopher Petty was ring bearer.

Duke Haydak served as best man. Groomsmen were Dave Shaw, Tom Farrell, Dan Giffians, and Steve Potter, and ushers were George Robinson and Alec Cosier. John Marks offered words of congratulations to the couple during the ceremony.

Organist Bob Bryan and vocalist Dan Robinson provided music for the ceremony.

The parents of the newlyweds hosted a reception at the Holiday Inn in Petoskey. The reception room was decorated with ceramic heart bud vases and dove candle holders of rose, turquoise, and violet. These were handcrafted by the bride's mother and aunt. The bridegroom's parents hosted the rehearsal dinner at the Bay View Inn, as well as a brunch at the Holiday Inn for out-of-town guests, who came from Florida, Pennsylvania, Arizona, California, and Mexico, as well as Michigan.

Following a wedding trip to Mackinac Island, the new Mr. and Mrs. Paone are at home in Grand Rapids. The bride is a Registered Nurse at Butterworth Hospital there and her bridegroom is the president of G-T Management Services.

Kane - Schnackenberg

Barb & Randy Schnackenberg

Barbara Ann Kane and Randal Clark Schnackenberg were united in marriage Saturday afternoon, May 18, at the Community Church of God in Charlevoix.

The bride is the daughter of Herbert and Margot Kane of Charlevoix, and the bridegroom is the son of Richard and Leola Schnackenberg, also of Charlevoix.

The Rev. Bruce Hamilton officiated at the double-ring rites, in which the bride was given in marriage by her parents.

Approximately 300 guests witnessed the ceremony, for which the church was decorated with lilacs and other spring flowers.

The bride wore a gown of ivory lace fashioned in tea-length with long sleeves, satin bow, and piping accents. Her veil was also of ivory lace, and she carried a bouquet of lilacs and baby's breath.

Odie Music Festival to take place July 20

A music festival in honor of the late Clarence Odmark is scheduled to take place Saturday, July 20 at the Odmark Pavilion in East Park. The "Odie Music Festival" will begin at noon and continue through the evening. A new group will play every hour. At the end of the evening a band composed of many of the former Charlevoix band director's students and fellow conductors will close the show.

Among the musicians performing at the festival will be Krista Knight's Suzuki children's violin class; Kurt Puffpuff; a handbell choir; and the Community Arts Choir.

A two-hour rehearsal for the band that will close the show will begin at 2 p.m. July 20 at the high school. All alumni of the Charlevoix High School band are invited to play.

Gary Stutzman, who is coordinating the festival, says things are coming together well.

Church women to host luncheon and craft sale

The Women's Fellowship of the Charlevoix First Congregational Church will host a summer Country Christmas luncheon and craft sale Wednesday, July 24 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Lunch will begin at 11:30 a.m. with a cost of $4 per person.

Plants can help the wildlife

(Editor's note: The following story is one in a series being provided to the Courier by the Charlevoix Area Garden Club in an effort to help make Charlevoix a greener place.)

Our area, with many trees and shrubs, provides food and shelter for many birds of all colors and sizes. Since more and more of the surrounding woods are being built up or becoming otherwise unsuitable for bird life, birds will have to rely more and more on people to provide them with the essentials of survival. Apart from putting out bird feed, we can help by planting trees, shrubs and plants that provide food and/or shelter. Most good size trees or shrubs, particularly evergreen, will provide shelter. Seeds

OF BLESSINGS

by Rev. Bruce Hamilton

Sometimes I think the commercials are the most interesting part about television. Have you seen that girl in the campground store who is just going to the if she doesn't get her Kellogg's Sugar Pops? Her whole world will be ruined without that sweet crunchy corn taste. At just the right moment, before she feigns her nervous breakdown, the grocer comes in and restocks the shelf. Now, all is right with her world.

Have you ever considered the kind of things that you let upset your world? Yes, there are some genuine crises that break out in our lives that are worthy of real concern. But a lot of times, the stuff that gets us down is not nearly as nerve shattering as we make it out to be.

If you are a fan of the Psalms, then you know David was the chief contributor to that book. Psalm 34 is unique because he wrote it when his world was coming apart. Saul was so jealous of his growing popularity with Israel that he more or less had to run for his life. He took refuge in Gath and the people were so afraid of him there that he had to pretend to be crazy in order to survive. The Bible account says he had to "foam at the mouth" to fool them. That doesn't sound like a very pleasant way to live to me.

"In the midst of all that, David penned 'I will extol the Lord at all times. His praise will always be on my lips.' Have you ever considered how quick most of us are to complain when things go sour? Have you ever considered the opposite tack? If David could bless the Lord even when he was on the run, aren't there some things that happen to us that we need to consider praising God for instead of cursing Him?"

Think about all the energy you invest in worrying about a problem. Think about all the power that stress drains your life of. I'm not, even for a moment, making light of the bad days that sneak into all our lives now and then. I am simply saying that learning to bless and praise the Lord even in times of trial can open the door to some surprising solutions. More of us need to give God the opportunity to work those awesome moments through with us. Praise breeds blessing and blessing unfolds God's plan and God's plan always holds answers.

That same Psalm has David saying "taste and see that the Lord is good."

Don't take his word for it. Don't take my word for it. You are a mature, intelligent person. Find out for yourself by letting God have the freedom to do some marvelous things in your life. You will discover when you praise Him even in trial that God is good all the time.

or berries on a number of trees and shrubs are a welcome source of food. Trees such as mulberries, choke cherries, mountain ash, crabapples and Russian olives will attract many species of birds. High bush, cranberry (Viburnum trilobum), chokeberry (Argonia), Regal's privet, bittersweet and bush honeysuckle are some shrubs that provide berries catch by birds in the fall and winter months.

The all-time favorite with birds is the sunflower and while the appearance of the plant does not strike the average gardener as being particularly decorative, a few sunflowers grown perhaps along a fence or in an out-of-the-way place will be greatly appreciated in late summer and fall by the cardinals, chickadees, blue jays, robins, gold finches and others.

A visit by a hummingbird is always a thrill for any gardener. These unusual birds will visit a garden often if planted with flowers from which they can extract the nectar. They seem particularly fond of the red varieties of bee balm (Monarda or bergamot), columbines, coral bells and the trumpet vine.

Fragrance is something that has been ignored for many years by plant breeders who brought us bigger, better and longer blooming plants. But lately more attention has been paid to this particular aspect of flowers. A number of very fragrant hybrid tea roses have been introduced during the last few years and there are some new, very fragrant varieties of viburnum (Carls and Cardcephalum), mock orange and lilacs.

Viral meningitis reported in Charlevoix area

Recently, three boys from Antrim county were admitted to an area hospital with the diagnosis of viral meningitis. Several other children were also evaluated for a similar illness, but were not hospitalized. Viral meningitis is a relatively common but rarely serious clinical illness with multiple viral causes. The disease is different than bacterial meningitis and encephalitis which are very serious illnesses. It is for this reason that anyone with meningitis symptoms must be promptly evaluated by a physician. Once a diagnosis is made by a doctor, appropriate treatment can be implemented and serious outcomes prevented.

Viral aseptic meningitis is characterized by sudden onset of fever, headache, stiff neck, and intolerance to light. Symptoms may also include nausea, vomiting, and lethargy. Despite their obvious discomfort, individuals are usually alert and oriented. Active illness seldom exceeds 10 days. Additional manifestations may be present and some signs may last up to one year but recovery is usually complete. Therapy includes ruling out treatable causes of illness (why seeing a physician early in the course of an illness is so important), providing supportive care (intravenous fluids and medications), and specific antibiotic or antiviral drugs when appropriate.

The cause of viral meningitis varies with the time of the year, the age of the patient, and the geographical region. There are no major outbreaks in Michigan at this time. However, as of June 15, there have been 166 cases of viral meningitis and 23 cases of encephalitis reported throughout Michigan since the first of the year. A group of viruses called enteroviruses cause about 70 percent of the illnesses termed aseptic or viral meningitis. They have their onset in May and are most commonly reported in late summer and early fall. The peak month is August. Seventy-five percent of illness due to this group of viruses occur in children under the age of 15 years. Adolescents and young adults are also frequently infected. Specific tests to identify the agent producing the illness in the hospitalized children have been requested. The etiologic agent causing the disease may not be known for over a month and many times it remains undetermined.

The enteroviruses are found everywhere in humans, and humans are their only known natural host.

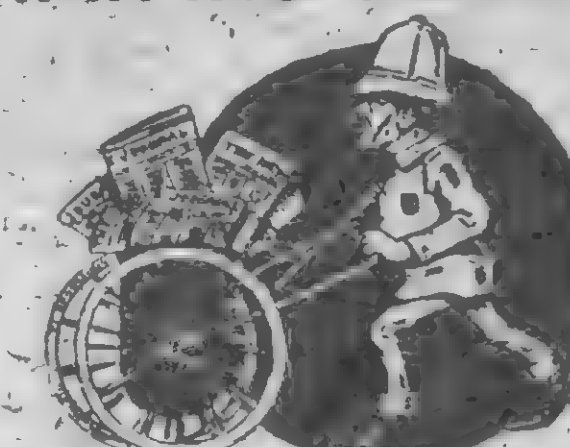

The viruses are spread by fecal-oral and possibly oral-oral (respiratory) routes. Viral excretion in the stool and transmission to others can continue for one to two weeks after onset of the illness. The period from exposure to infection is usually three to six days. The main control measures are proper handwashing, good personal hygiene, and not sharing common items such as drinking cups. Aseptic meningitis is a well documented event among high school football players. The reasons for this include the time of year (fall), close physical contact (person to person, spread), unhygienic sharing of team water bottles (share common item), and greater physical exertion may predispose them to a severe, rather than mild form of the illness.

There are no vaccines or medications that can prevent the spread of viral meningitis. This illness like many illnesses can only be prevented by practicing good health habits. These include washing your hands after you use the bathroom and before you eat or prepare food for others, not sharing personal items such as drinking bottles or food utensils, staying home when you are ill, and avoiding others who are ill. A common practice at sporting events is to cut up oranges and place them in a plastic bag. Individuals grabbing for oranges may spread disease. A better solution is to have one parent prepare and pass out the sliced oranges. Another bad practice is to have one jug of water or juice that all the players drink from to quench their thirst. Players should have their own bottles or cups, or disposable cups should be made available for each person.

"Dockuminiums" provide homes for boats

By Ralph McRae

Charlevoix now has several boat slips which are owned in a fashion similar to condominiums. These boat slips are commonly referred to as "dockuminiums."

Charlevoix's oldest dockumium complex is the Northwest Marine Yacht Club located at the foot of Eaton Street. It is one of the first dockumium complexes in the country and was founded in 1981.

Eric Kammerman is the Operations Manager at Northwest. The complex encompasses 270 slips of varying lengths.

Prices for boat slips have increased dramatically in the past 10 years. Thirty-foot slips which once sold for $14,500 now sell for $34,000; 40-foot slips which originally cost $18,000 are now worth $56,000. Seventy-foot slips which at one time sold for $65,000 now command six digits.

When boats are away, the slips are often rented at $30 to $75 daily or for the season at $3,000 to $7,000.

About half of the boats at Northwest are power boats. A few years ago, they were mostly sailboats.

About 90 percent of the boats are stored somewhere in the Charlevoix area during the winter. Many of the sailboats stay in cradles near the Northwest parking area.

Many of the slips were bought as an investment. One member owns four slips at Northwest and five others at a similar facility elsewhere. All of the slips have rompy fiberglass footlocks on the dock. It is estimated that the total value of the boats that tie up at Northwest exceeds $20 million.

During the summer several high school students work at the marina. A few years ago, a 17-year-old student started a cleaning service that cleared $30,000 during the summer. He later move to Florida so the business could operate year-around.

Northwest doesn't do boat maintenance and service. That work is done by outside contractors.

Northwest has a large laundry area and restrooms for boatowners. Many of the owners visit their boats every weekend. Some sleep on board while others have condominiums.

Northwest Marine is one of three dockumium complexes developed by Denny Heck. One of the other two is the 349 slip Duncan Bay Yacht Club in Cheboygan and the other is a 239 slip complex in Pleasant Prairie, Wisconsin. In addition to having more slips, the other two developments also have flush club houses and other amenities.

All of Northwest's slips are properties subject to property taxes. Northwest is located within the city's Tax Increment Financing Authority district. A portion of taxes paid by the complex was earmarked for the fund which paid for the Ferry Beach improvements.

Harsha House celebrates 100 years

by Peg Ohio

Some 60 members of the Charlevoix Historical Society and their friends gathered at the Harsha House on State Street last week to celebrate the 100th anniversary of the house that is now their home.

Built by early Charlevoix businessman Horace Harsha and his wife Margaret, the house was given to the Historical Society in 1978 by Harsha's granddaughter Anne Harsha. It has been completely renovated and an addition serves as an historical museum.

Last week's celebration was marked by the dedication of the Harsha House as a state historical site. Louise Gill of Charlevoix, granddaughter of Horace and Margaret Harsha and daughter of Irene Harsha Young and Earl Young, was present for the dedication ceremony. Also present was Charlevoix resident Drew Young Jr., great-grandson of Horace and Margaret and grandson of Irene Harsha Young and Earl Young.

There was also a dedication of a garden on the grounds honoring the late Robert Miles, historian, photographer and Historical Society benefactor.

It was Miles' gift of his pictures of early Charlevoix that made possible the publication of the book "Bob Miles' Charlevoix" which largely paid for the museum addition. Miles' widow, Esther, is an active member of the Historical Society and was present at the dedication.

Horace and Margaret Harsha raised five children in the State Street house. John, Amy, Irene, Katherine and H. Paul. Anne Harsha, who died shortly after making her gift to the Historical Society, was the daughter of John Harsha. She never married.

As part of its centennial celebration the Historical Society is bringing an interpretive history group to town next Friday evening at 7 o'clock. The "Shantyboys" will perform in East Park with a program depicting the life and lore of northern Michigan during the days of the lumberjacks.

Fudge shop opens way to return to hometown

Paul Hoffman said he always wanted to return to Charlevoix and operate a business, but he didn't figure it would be happening this soon. Hoffman, a 1981 Charlevoix High School graduate, and his wife Shauna have opened Charlevoix Fudge Company on the west side of Bridge Street just south of the Bridge.

The Hoffmans had been operating a similar store in South Haven for three years, but when the building in Charlevoix opened up, they decided to move back to Paul's home town.

Charlevoix Fudge Company opened Memorial weekend. Currently the store is just selling fudge, (sometimes up to 50 pounds a day) but they may branch into other candies in the future.

Hoffman says a store's strong point is the variety of flavors. Charlevoix Fudge Company offers 16 fudge flavors. Among the most popular are Bailey's Irish Cream and Charlevoix Chewy. The Charlevoix Chewy incorporates coconut to give it a chewy consistency.

Hoffman's family had a fudge shop in Dallas, Texas when he was growing up. He began making fudge in that shop when he was 17.

Asked if making fudge is difficult, Hoffman replied, "I wouldn't say it's difficult. (But) there is an art to it. It takes some practice." He noted that the nice thing about making fudge is that you can be creative and if you make a mistake, you can start over and recook.

In addition to a variety of flavors, Charlevoix Fudge Company also offers specials such as when a customer buys two slices they get the third slice for free.

Following cooking the fudge is formed on marble tables. People are welcome to watch the fudge being made.

The store will be open throughout the summer. In the winter Paul and Shauna have teaching jobs in Texas.

Asked how the weather affects customers' fudge consumption, Hoffman said, "They definitely eat more (fudge) when it's cold."

Paul Hoffman sends a ribbon of fudge into the air. Hoffman grew up in Charlevoix and recently returned to his hometown to open Charlevoix Fudge Company.

Lake Charlevoix Association to meet

The Lake Charlevoix Association will host its annual meeting, July 18 at Whiting Park. The evening will begin with a picnic at 6 p.m. The picnic will be followed by a brief business meeting. Three guest speakers will cap off the evening. Guest speakers are:

Steve Voice, a wetlands ecologist and site reclamationist who will speak on wetlands regulation and shoreline protection considerations as it relates to lakefront properties.

Ann Baughman, who will offer a brief report on a Lake Charlevoix dioxification study. Donna Winne, Executive Vice President of Michigan Lakes and Streams Association and editor of Michigan Riparian.

Picnickers are asked to bring their own food and tableware. Coffee and pop will be provided.

Council discusses lakeshore zoning

In a discussion which grew heated more than once, city council members considered establishing a new lakeshore zoning district Monday evening. The proposed lakeshore zoning district, called LIR, is most pertinent to areas near the lakeshore currently zoned scenic reserve.

The city planning commission worked on the LIR zoning proposal for several months prior to bringing it before the council.

Fears that the city's scenic reserve zoning might not withstand a court challenge prompted the city to draft the LIR zoning.

City attorney Jim Young explained that courts might determine that provisions of the scenic reserve zone are too restrictive and deprive a property owner of reasonable use of property. Young said that if that occurred, there are court rulings which say the city could be held responsible for monetary damages for the time the land could not be used. Aggravating matters, the city's insurance does not cover such monetary damages. In addition to awarding monetary damages, if a court ruled the scenic reserve zoning was too restrictive, the court could take it upon itself to determine what could be built on the property in question.

The LIR zoning would allow only one single family dwelling on each lot or lot held as a condominium portion of a block of sites. The minimum lot size would be 15,000 square feet exclusive of the right of way and the set back from the lake would be a minimum of 50 feet.

The first conflict related to the zoning proposal occurred before the public hearing even began. The public hearing was at the top of the council meeting agenda, but mayor Dave Novotny asked council to have the item moved down so that another matter on the agenda could be addressed first.

While the council expressed no objection to flip-flopping the matters on the agenda, Lee Moerland did. Moerland said the public hearing had been advertised for 7 p.m. and should begin at 7 p.m. Novotny argued that the public hearing was simply part of a meeting which began at 7 p.m. Upon being asked by Novotny, Young said that legally the mayor and council have the right to change the sequence of agenda items.

When the council began discussing the agenda item which was not the public hearing, Moerland rose from his seat and approached the microphone for public comments.

Novotny said Moerland was out of order and asked him to return to his seat. Moerland said he would not return to his seat, but would leave the meeting. He maintained that the public hearing, when it was subsequently held, would be illegal. Moerland then left the meeting.

After Moerland's departure, the council acted on the other agenda item (which was the purchase of some electrical cable) and then began the public hearing.

During the public hearing questions were raised regarding the setback from the lake and the minimum lot size.

Former councilman Norm Probert showed slides which indicated that at times water and ice are quite high on the shoreline area in question.

Charles Papineau of Mercer Boulevard argued that the minimum lot size had been made less restrictive by the city staff.

City manager Mike Wiesner attempted to explain that by changing criteria to exclude right of ways the lot size is actually more restrictive than earlier proposals.

When Papineau persisted in arguing and began swearing, Novotny asked him to be seated. After additional argument, Papineau left the microphone.

Paul Osterberg, another city resident, had a series of run-ins with Novotny during the evening - one during the public hearing, others while other matters were being discussed.

In regard to the LIR zoning, Osterberg said the city finds ways to get around ordinances to satisfy builders and realtors. He asked if the city planner holds a realtor's license and also mentioned the city allowing money to be paid into a parking fund in lieu of developers providing additional parking spaces for downtown buildings. He also talked of someone who had built a garage which he said subsequently served primarily as a woodshed.

Guild pledges to hospital drive

The Charlevoix Area Hospital Guild has pledged $25,000 to the building and modernization program over the next five years.
The Guild is the second "hospital family" group to make a generous pledge. The hospital employees are working toward a goal of $95,000. The total campaign goal is $1.4 million.
General campaign chairman Jeffrey Porter, B.D.S., expressed his pleasure at the generous Guild contribution. "I know it will be a labor of love for the men and women of the Guild to raise this amount, and all of us associated with the hospital and the campaign appreciate it very much."
The nearly 100 active members of the Guild provide funds annually to the hospital through proceeds from the Showcase Gift Shop, TV rentals, special events, and membership dues.
A fashion show and luncheon is planned for Sept. 12 at Alexander's Restaurant. This will be the membership's first attempt to raise funds toward their contribution. Marilyn Izor is heading up the committee for the event.

MADD representatives Carol Havens (left) and Joanne Carlson present Sheriff George Lasater with a video camera to be used in the sheriff's department booking room.

Suspects to be videotaped

The local chapter of Mothers Against Drunk Driving (MADD) has presented a video camera to the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department.
According to Sheriff George T. Lasater, the camera will be used in the Department's Booking Room to record all arrests, including persons suspected of drunk driving. "They will be informed they are being photographed but cannot refuse," Lasater said.
MADD representative Carol Havens told the Courier that they bought the camera for the Sheriff's Department after learning it would be a useful law enforcement tool. She also said that MADD is in the process of purchasing three more video cameras for the Sheriff's Department which will be mounted in patrol cars for traffic surveillance. Havens also told the Courier that a Victim Memorial Quilt dedicated to the memory of drunk driving victims will be on display at Muddick's Fudge Shop during the Venetian Festival. The kingsize, hand-crafted quilt consists of 30 quilt blocks, one made by Pauline Crandell of Charlevoix in memory of her son, Scott.

...lakeshore zoning

Novotny broke into Osterberg's statement, saying, "Mr. Osterberg, would you please get to the point about what we're talking about." Do not pass this ordinance," Osterberg responded.
At the conclusion of the public comment period, members of the council discussed the proposal.
Third ward council representative Pat Gaskin said she leans toward a larger setback from the lake. "Nature sometimes does things that we can't always anticipate," she said.
She said that organizations such as the Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council and the Lake Charlevoix Association have recommended 100 foot setbacks from the lake shore.

First ward council member Chen Hoffman said she has walked a portion of the lakeshore near Mercer Boulevard, but would like to walk other sections of the lakeshore which will be affected by the zoning decision.
Second ward council member Bush Russell concurred with Hoffman saying he would also like to get a first hand look at the entire area in question prior to making a decision.
The council voted to continue the public hearing until the next council meeting which is scheduled for Aug. 5. The council will meet at 5:30, Monday, July 22 at city hall and then will walk the Lake Charlevoix shoreline which is within the city limits.

Letters to the Editor:

Venetian Queen praised

Editor,
(To Jennifer Bonar, Charlevoix Venetian Queen.)
A grateful and heartfelt thank you from Saginaw, MI. After a warm and tiring day for yourself at the July 6 parade in East Jordan, with your float broken down and the day not yet over for you, you saw a tired and very warm lady. She was walking, carrying a bag of potatoes. Ahead was a hill yet to climb to the senior citizens apartment building. You (Jennifer) got down from your float and helped this tired lady on up the hill to her home. You are truly a queen in every way. The great person you helped that day was my mother.

Rose Westcott. It was her 81st birthday. What a wonderful gift you gave her - yourself. God bless you for your sweet and helpful ways.
Hats off to the people of Charlevoix for their selection of a queen to represent the city.

Hospital thanks sorority for home tour

Editor,
The employees, medical staff, board and administration at Charlevoix Area Hospital wish to extend our appreciation to all the people who helped make the Kappa Sigma Home Tour a success. It is heart-warming to all of us to have so many people do so much on behalf of the hospital. A special thank you to Marilyn Wilmut, chairman, and Rebecca Haney, co-chairman, who worked long and hard to make this an exceptional tour. A big thank-you to the homeowners who allowed the public to "invite their privacy" and who indeed assured the success of the event. And, to all the people in the club and area residents who gave of their time to be hosts and hostesses at the homes, we appreciate your involvement and interest. Also, we say a big thank you to all who turned out for this great tour.

Charlevoix Area Hospital belongs to all of us and Kappa Sigma's commitment to maintaining quality health care over the years means a great deal to the entire area. We applaud each of you.

Sincerely,
Richard L. Krueger

Blood is in short supply

Editor,
Summertime, and the living is easy...
And the heat and the humidity encourage us to put up our feet, doze off and try to forget everyday worldly cares. It's a traditional time for hammocks and outdoor grills and vacation strips.
For the American Red Cross Wolverine Region blood donor program, however, summertime is a traditional time for worrying about short supplies.
Like everyone else, regular blood donors go on vacation. Our blood supply usually drops. Yet the demand for blood is highest now. Outdoor summertime activities breed accidents that require hospital treatment, and many people use their vacation time to have elective surgery.
A blend of circumstances, unfortunately, is making the situation worse than usual this summer for the Wolverine Blood Services Region, and for hospitals, doctors and patients in our area.

The primary reason is Operation Desert Storm. Though the Persian Gulf conflict may be fading from our memories, patients here are still feeling its effects. Remember how, in a rush of patriotism, residents in our 27 counties volunteered to donate blood to help our armed forces during the Gulf crisis?
It turned out that the 100-hour was required much less replacement blood than had been expected. And many of you who offered to donate that blood may not realize that the need here, much closer to home, continues.

A special effort is needed now, and in the next few weeks, if we are to assure our local hospitals of the blood they need if there were a major highway accident or a plane crash. After all, you or a member of your family could have an accident today or tomorrow and need blood.
Sincerely,
Willis F. Mueller MD
Wolverine Blood Region

Mayor Dave Novotny is correct and justified in his attempts to have city council meetings conducted in an orderly manner. Several times during Monday evening's council meeting, he admonished members of the audience for speaking out of order. Unfortunately, the people admonished didn't seem to be inclined to listen to Novotny's admonishments - or much else.

In only one of the incidents, the one involving Lee Moerland, (see council meeting story page one) was there even a glimmer of a justifiable reason for the audience member to be acting in the manner they were acting in. Moerland objected to the council switching the order of two matters on the agenda. The switch put the item he was interested in later on the agenda. He objected. Doubtless, he felt his time is just as valuable as the next guy's. After the council began to proceed with the other agenda item despite Moerland's objections, he approached the public microphone to speak. Novotny said Moerland could not speak until the floor was open for public comment and asked Moerland to return to his seat. Moerland declined and chose instead to leave the room. Whether Moerland's objection or action following his objection was appropriate - well, there's room for debate.

The instances involving other people weren't nearly so gray. In those instances, people who were more interested in creating a fuss than participating in an orderly and reasoned discussion were properly told that their actions were out of order.

Without a doubt, public comment at council meetings is important. But when making comment, either in the form of a question or expressing information or an opinion, people should do so in a dignified manner and be willing to listen to a response. Ranting and raving, interrupting other people and never passing up a chance to make a rude insinuation does not constitute public comment. It is disorderly, ill-mannered and an embarrassment to the community. Novotny is absolutely right in trying to squelch it.

Public comment and free speech are not being stifled at council meetings. If that were the case, this editorial page would be among the first places voicing complaint. Novotny is simply attempting to keep discussions orderly and intelligent. Unfortunately, some people who attend council meetings seem to find that disappointing. An orderly and intelligent council meeting? Well, what fun is that?

FAMILY

Knight - Ives

Elizabeth M. (Wendy) Knight and Timothy O. Ives were united in marriage Saturday, July 6, at the First Congregational Church of Charlevoix.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Jeffrey L. Porter of Charlevoix and Jonathan Knight of Chicago, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Timothy R. Ives of Bloomington, Illinois.

The Rev. Ward Clabuesch, the bride's uncle, and the Rev. Philip Scharbaum officiated at the double ring rites.

Approximately 230 guests were present in the sanctuary to witness the ceremony in which Dr. Porter gave the bride in marriage.

For the occasion, the bride wore a white silk tulle gown fashioned with a full skirt, fitted bodice, and off-the-shoulder neckline. Silk embroidery and pearls decorated the top of the bodice and sleeves. The bride's veil was waist-length tulle attached to a pearl and sequin headband and she carried a bouquet of white roses, baby's breath, and ivy.

The bride's sister, Shelley Denison, served as matron of honor, and Tami Muller, Amy Lindberg, Toni Eakes, and Heidi Sell were bridesmaids. They wore periwinkle blue floral print gowns, with full skirts, fitted bodices, and sweetheart necklines. Their bouquets were composed of yellow tea roses and baby's breath.

Ashley Edwards and Lindsey and Reed Powell, nieces of the bridegroom, were flower girls. They wore white cotton moire dresses with double-tiered skirts and yellow sashes and tiny headpieces of yellow roses and baby's breath. Yellow roses were also the centerpiece of their nosegays.

Michael Smith assisted the bridegroom as best man, and Michael Hagen, Walker Mason, John Heller, and Robert Long were groomsmen.

A reception at the Belvedere Club Casino, hosted by Dr. and Mrs. Porter, followed the wedding ceremony. The rehearsal dinner was held at the Belvedere Golf Club, hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Tim R. Ives.

Wendy & Timothy Ives

Following a wedding trip to the Barbados and Petit St. Vincent in the Caribbean, the newlyweds will be at home in Bloomington, where the bridegroom is the Station Manager of Twin Cities Broadcasting Corporation.

CHURCH

Gordon R. Wellman

Gordon R. Wellman, 61, of Charlevoix, died July 10, 1991, at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Funeral was Friday, July 12, at the Community Church of God in Charlevoix. The Rev. Bruce E. Hamilton officiated with burial in Brookside Cemetery, Charlevoix.

Mr. Wellman was born July 17, 1929, in Laingsburg, the son of Joseph and Lillian Wellman. He graduated from Warren High School in 1947 and then served in the U.S. Marine Corps during the Korean Conflict.

On June 5, 1954, he married the former Helen M. Mazurek in Lansing. He graduated from Michigan State University with a degree in liberal arts and social science. He served as vice president of the Bank of Lansing for 19 years and moved to Charlevoix in 1971 where he served as executive vice president of the Charlevoix County State Bank. He became president of the bank in 1975.

He graduated from the University School of Banking, which is a part of the University of Wisconsin in 1965 and then graduated from the University of Wisconsin graduate school of banking in 1970.

Mr. Wellman served as president of the United Community Chest (now United Way) from 1972-74 and was a member and was past president of the Charlevoix Lions Club in 1973. He served as advisor for the Northern Michigan School of Banking in Marquette; was past chairman of the Michigan Bankers Association. In 1978, he served as head of the division for the Charlevoix fund-raising campaign for Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Survivors include his wife, Helen M. of Charlevoix; one daughter, Valerie K. Wellman of Petoskey; one son, Jeff A. Wellman of Boyne City; one sister, Mrs. Hubert (Alice) Baker of Independence, Mo.; two brothers, Ward Wellman and his wife, Beatrice, of Port Hope and Allan Wellman and his wife, Connie, of Port Huron.

The family suggests memorials to the Charlevoix Area Hospital Building Fund or to the American Heart Association. Envelopes for memorials are available at the Winchester Funeral Home.

Nellie Ann Walker

Nellie Ann Walker, 72, of Sarasota, Fla., died July 8, 1991, at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

The former Nellie Ann Pike was born Feb. 7, 1919, in Beckley, W. Va., the daughter of James and Molly (Dempsey) Pike. She resided in Sarasota for the past 22 years. She worked as a cook for St. Martha's Catholic Church Rectory in Sarasota from 1970-89.

Mrs. Walker is survived by two sons, Nick Zimmer of Sarasota and Michael Walker of East Jordan; one daughter, Mrs. Ronald (Myra) Himebauch of Charlevoix; one brother, James Pike of Fog Pierce, Fla.; two sisters, Mrs. Moorland (Stella) Terry of Beckley, W. Va., and Thelma Gross of Beckley, W. Va.; 10 grandchildren; one great-granddaughter.

She was preceded in death by a son, Robert Walker, in 1975.

The family suggests memorials to the American Cancer Society. Envelopes for that purpose are available at the Winchester Funeral Home where arrangements were handled.

BEACONS

OF BLESSINGS

by Rev. Bruce Hamilton

It happened to me twice last week. I still don't understand why. I was in my car and, in preachers vernacular, I got "blessed out" for driving in what I thought was a correct fashion.

I rented a movie for the family last week too. The story line was wonderful. It was about a World War II bomber crew and their final mission. But the language, do we really have to talk that way? Do real people, folks like you and I, use those kind of words and not think about what we're saying?

When you talk about using four letter words, most folks know right away what you mean. I think we need a refresher course in the more positive four letter words that abound in our vocabulary.

We need to look for ways to build up HOPE in people's lives. When a verbal assault happens to you, hope is one of the things that hits the rocks. Your hopes for the day, your hopes for your life get bruised and maybe set back when such things take place. One of the best ways to change someone who aggravates you is to build them up not tear them down. Hope can do that.

What does CARE mean to you? Do you care about what happens in your children's world? Do you care about others around you in your neighborhood or on your job? Do you want people to care about you? Do you care about the kind of job that you do at work? Does it matter to you when others are facing rough times? We need to create an atmosphere that fosters caring in life. We generate enthusiasm for so many things. Why not caring in a fashion that really makes a difference?

I know first hand what HELP means. When our family went through a tough time of illness, more people than I could have dreamed about were there for us to see us through. It helps you when you help others.

My favorite four letter word is LOVE. If you have got a kid in softball or tee ball, you can see all kinds of love as parents and kids alike cheer at what happens on the field. If you've ever watched a wedding, you marvel at the innocence of the love that bride and groom show on their first day. There is something indescribable about a love filled hug when you really need it.

God has another four letter word in mind for our lives that really takes precedence over them all. His word says, "be ye HOLY for I the Lord your God am holy." Holy living is not as hard or out of step with the real world as you might think. If sharing a HOPE or taking the time to CARE or being willing to HELP or giving of our LOVE is out of step, then this world is in for worse trouble than we realize. Using the right kind of four letter words, life can become sweeter and better for everyone overnight.

Boats sought for Venetian Parade

Once again boaters who participate in the Venetian Boat Parade will be given free docking from which to watch the fireworks display.

"The Boat Parade was the reason for the first Venetian Festival," said Charlevoix Chamber Executive Director Jacqueline Merta. "To keep the tradition and encourage boaters to participate in the parade, we are setting aside the main docks in Round Lake." This year, we will let the sail boats, which parade first, at 8 p.m., tie up at the docks during the lighted boat parade, which doesn't begin until 10 p.m. The lighted boats will join them at the docks during the fireworks.

"We're expecting a very successful parade this year based on the turn-out last year and growing interest in maintaining this Charlevoix tradition," Merta continued, explaining that the parade "will have only two divisions: sail boats under sail and lighted and/or decorated boats."

Charlevoix's Venetian Festival began 61 years ago when a group of summer residents decided to celebrate summer with a decorated boat contest in Round Lake. Over the years, the Venetian Festival has grown to include land-based festivities as well, but the boat parade has remained the focus of the event.

The Chamber will help boaters with decorations, providing 12-volt small white lights and Chinese lanterns. The Chamber suggests boaters obtain portable generators to power the lights.

Prizes will be given to the three boats judged "best decorated." Each will receive an enlarged photo of their boat, taken during the parade. Participants will receive a photo of their boat in the parade. There is no fee for entering the parade. For further information, and to enter, contact the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce, 547-2101.

Irish Cup entries are due

Jibs are being jibbled and spinners spinnecked in preparation for the 9th Annual Irish Cup sailing race, scheduled for Aug. 40. The race will take place on Lake Charlevoix and will feature four divisions: Spinnaker, Main and Jib; Peak Performance Fun Fleet; and J Boat.

Cup race proceeds will be donated to the Charlevoix County Sailors, a non profit organization that teaches sailing and seamanship in and around the waters of Lake Charlevoix.

The race is open to monohull yachts at least 20 feet in overall length that meet minimum USCG requirements. The race will be conducted according to the rules of the United States Yacht Racing Union. Awards will be presented to the top three finishers in each division.

The entry fee is $35 before Aug. 3 and $45 from Aug. 4 through Aug. 8. No entries will be accepted after Aug. 8. People wishing to enter the race should contact Marlene at Irish Boat Shop, 13006 Stover Road, Charlevoix MI 49720, (616) 547-9967.

Drum and bugle corps return

Music will play a prominent role in this year's Venetian Festival. Drum and bugle corps from across the midwest will be in town Friday evening to perform in a drum and bugle corps competition.

The competition will take place from 8 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. at the high school football field. Included among the competitors are groups from: Madison, Wisconsin; Saginaw, Columbus, Ohio; Milwaukee, Wisconsin; and Kitchener, Waterloo, Ontario.

Early purchases of tickets are encouraged. Ticket prices are: $6 for adults; $5 for senior citizens; $4 for children 13 and under; and $2 for family tickets. There is no charge for children less than five years old. Tickets are available at the Chamber of Commerce office.

The drum and bugle corps competition is not exactly new to the Charlevoix Venetian Festival. In past years, it was a popular event, but has been absent in recent years. Some of the drum and bugle corps competing in the Friday evening competition will be staying in town for Saturday's grand street parade.

Sloop visits for Venetian

The Continental Sloop Providence, a replica of 1775 warship which took part in the American Revolution, will be in Charlevoix during Venetian Weekend.

The original Providence was built in Rhode Island and after serving as a trade ship was involved in the first naval battle of the Revolution.

Later the ship was under the command of John Paul Jones and participated in several more battles and captured many British ships.

The Providence is 110 feet in length with a 20 foot beam. She is capable of carrying 40 passengers and a crew of six.

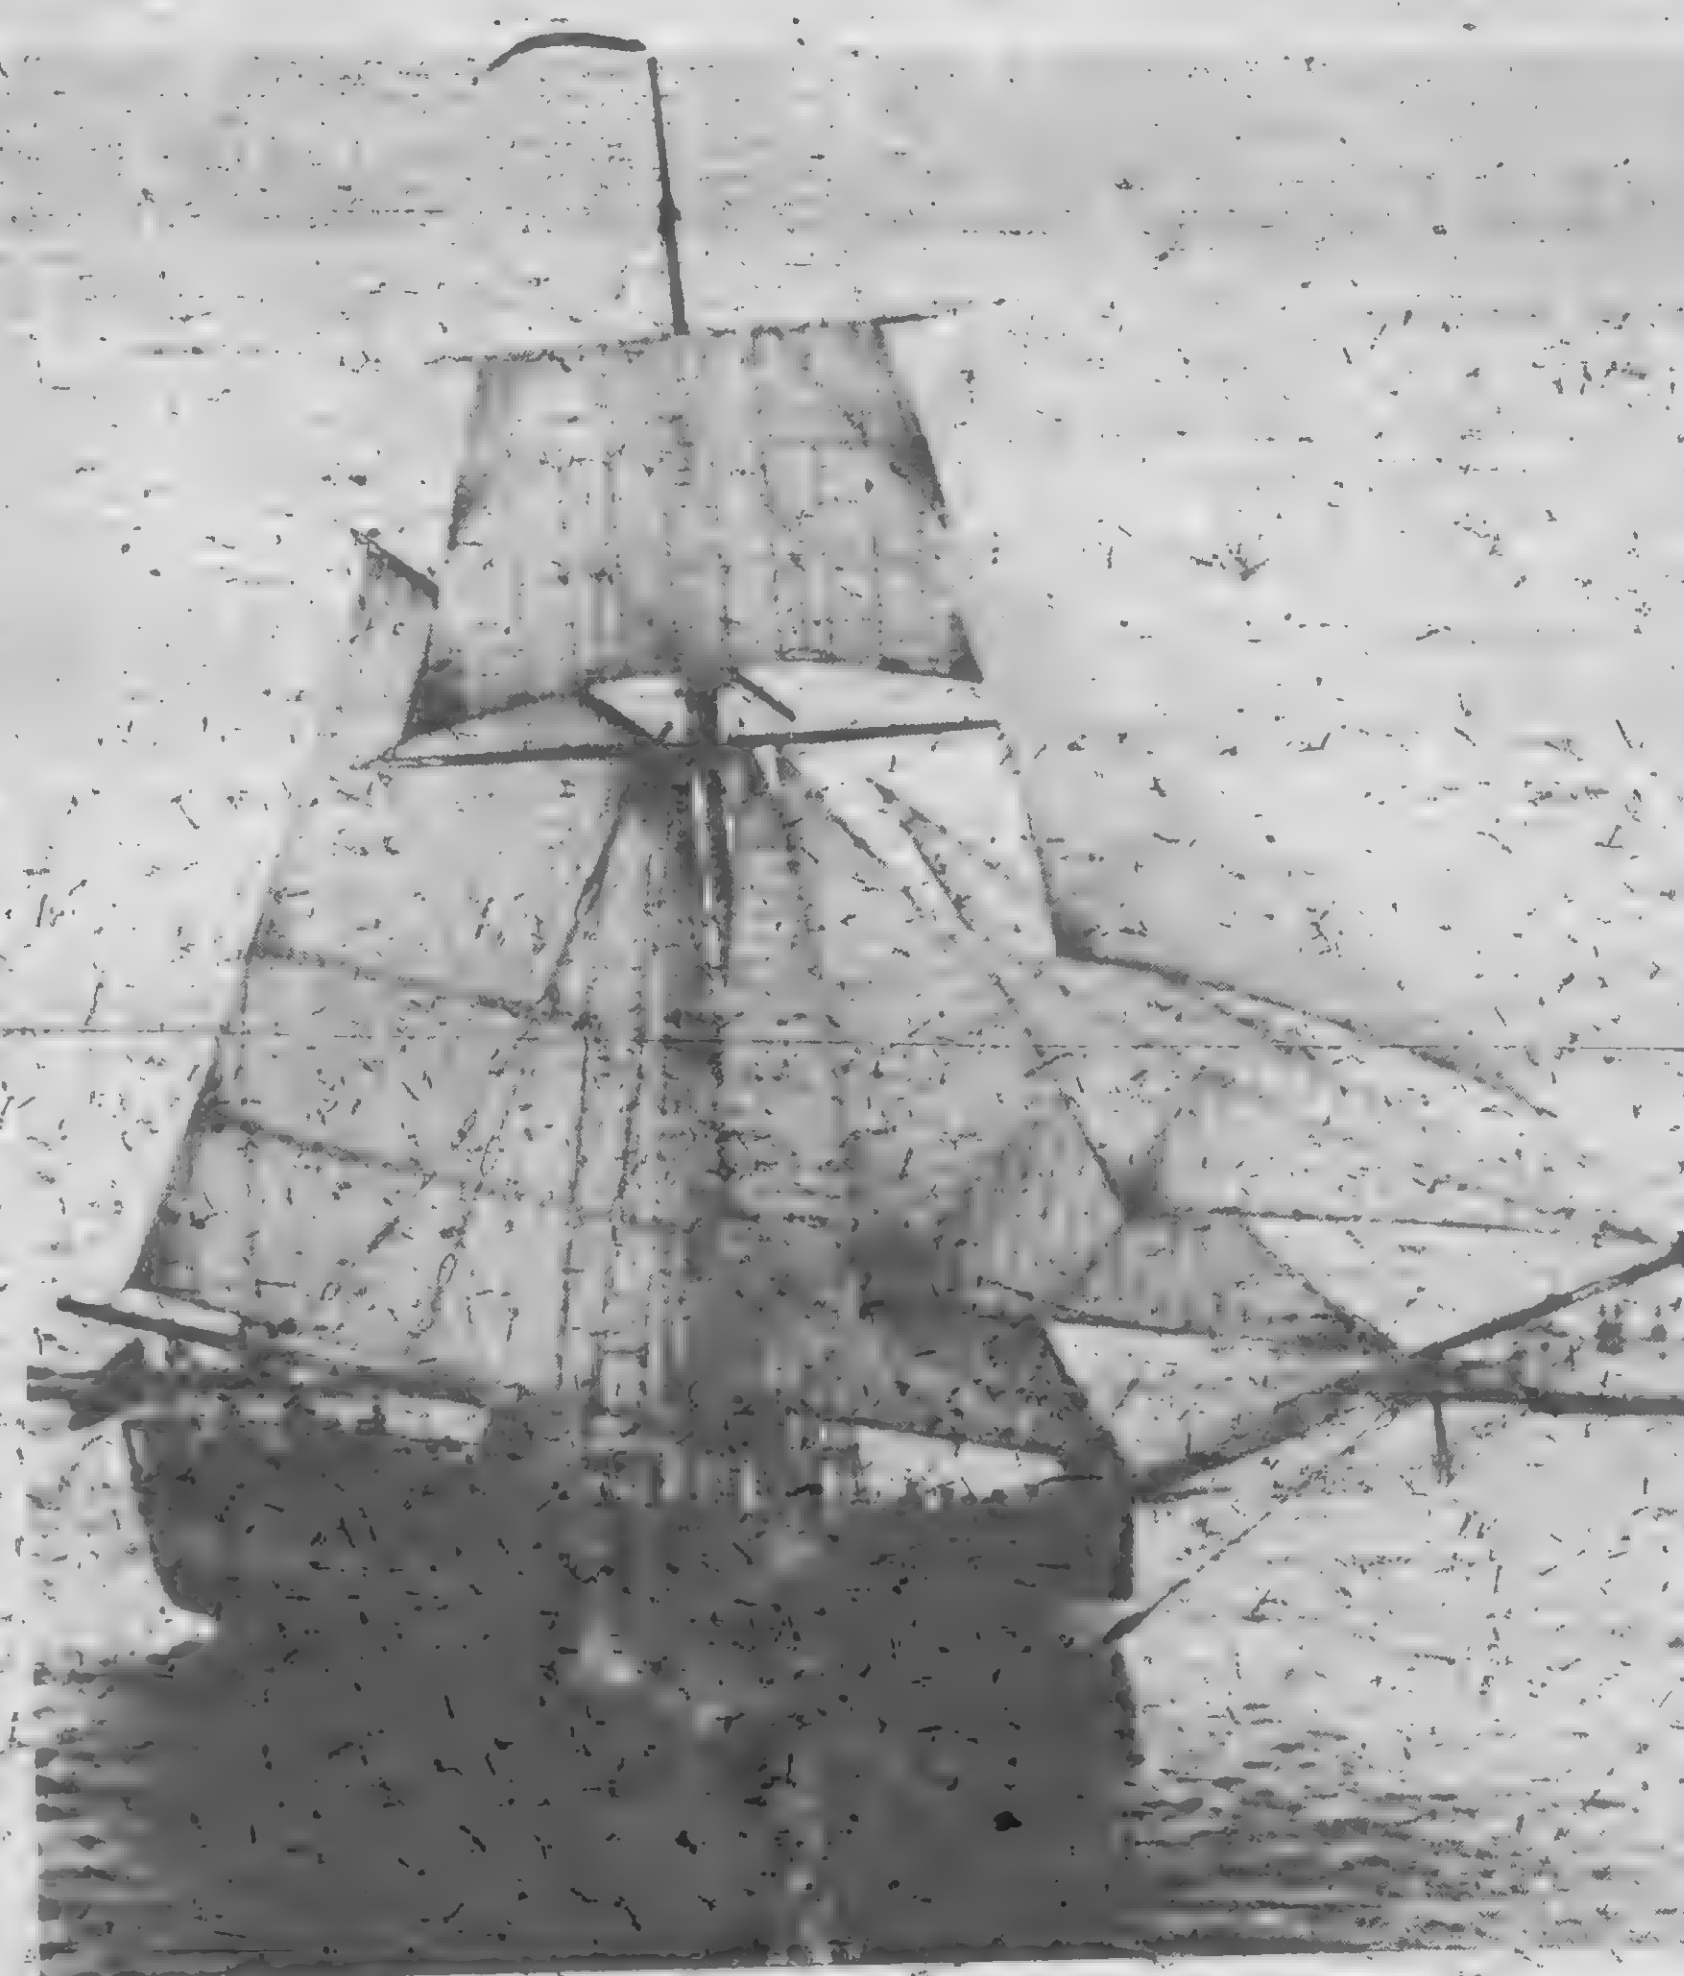

Providence will dock at the harbor while in Charlevoix. Tours of the ship will be conducted from 4 p.m. to 10 p.m. Friday and from noon to 11 p.m. Saturday. The cost of the tours is $3 for adults, $2 for children 12 and under and no charge for children younger than five.

Bellinger Marine is a waterfront landmark

(Editor's note: The following story is one in a series of stories concerning area businesses being written for the Courier by Ralph McRae. McRae is a former councilman and mayor and is currently a member of the Charlevoix Industrial Development Committee.)

By Ralph McRae

Bellinger Marine Service, at 125 Belvedere Avenue, is one of the most well known landmarks on Charlevoix's Round Lake. It has been at its present location for 41 years.

Bellinger's is a family-owned business. William (Bill) Bellinger, the principal owner and general manager, succeeded his father, the late James (Jim) Bellinger. The business was incorporated in 1985. Although Bellinger's is the oldest boating enterprise in town, it is also among the smallest in terms of work space. It has less than 30,000 square feet of work area. However, that area includes a sizeable main building, a spacious fuel dock, six work slips, a rolling boat lift, a large shed for the more involved overhauling jobs and an open area which has room for a few boats in cradles. On a square foot basis, it is the most flourishing shop in Charlevoix.

Bellinger's doesn't sell boats - neither power nor sail. As the name implies, Bellinger Marine Service sells service. Its six slips are used only for boats needing repair or motor adjustments. Some are fixed in and others float in, but most come in for regularly scheduled maintenance.

Head mechanic Doug Bergmann also has four other mechanics on duty from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Bergmann is the yard master and has been with Bellingers for 35 years. In the summer season, there are 16 employees.

In recent years, Bellingers' has made major improvements to its fuel servicing area. Bellingers' is one of only two businesses on Round Lake which dispense fuel to recreational boats. Bellingers' has 14,000 gallons of fuel in underground tanks and refuels hundreds, if not thousands, of boats each year. On Vention Day, the official boat parade may not start until the evening, but the boat parade at Bellingers' fuel dock begins well in advance of that.

Bellingers' recently remodeled show room features OMC outboard motors in a variety of sizes and also stocks lines, life preservers and additional scuffing equipment.

Given the short peak boating season, from Memorial Day to Labor Day, a lot of work must be done in a limited amount of time. Just prior to Memorial Day, each boat must be prepared for its chilly immersion date. Immediately after Labor Day, it's decommissioning time and a fleet of boats must be readied for cradled storage and a winter's nap. Bellingers and Bergmann have three winter storage facilities.

Every port in northern Michigan is reaching the point of being overcrowded with boats. Increased moorings and additional slips have not kept pace with increasing numbers of boats. Bellinger spoke of rafting - where several boats tie up next to each other. Bellinger's does not allow rafting from their dock although boats often raft together in the center of the harbor.

Bellinger also mentioned that Round Lake has become clearer in recent years due to stricter dumping standards enforced by the State. Boats are now piped so that they can't dispose of their sewage except at pump out stations. An additional pump out station with longer house will soon be needed in Round Lake.

Harbor Industries hosts open house

Harbor Industries is inviting the public to an open house celebration from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday, July 20. Harbor Industries recently finished remodeling and expanding its office and cafeteria areas.

During the open house there will be arrows on the floor to lead people on an informal tour of the plant. Refreshments will be served and employees will be located in strategic places to describe what happens in each area of the plant.

Congregational Church women host bazaar

Next Wednesday, July 24, is the Wednesday before the Venetian Festival, the day traditionally set aside for the Congregational Church Bazaar and Luncheon.

This year's theme for the Bazaar is "Country Christmas," featuring many hand-made items for Christmas giving or for remembrances at other times of the year. In addition to hand-made items, there will be home-made baked goods, pickles, and preserves, also suitable for gift-giving.

Added features this year are a table of "Antiques" and a selection of costume jewelry.

The luncheon will feature a salad, rolls, dessert, and beverage and will be served from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The Bazaar will open at 10 a.m. and continue to 4 p.m. Baked goods will be sold in the Fellowship Hall of the church, located at State Street and Park Avenue. The luncheon will also be served in the Fellowship Hall, but most of the Bazaar items will be on sale outdoors on the church grounds.

(From left) Pauline Russell, Lois Lewis and Nan VandenBerg of the Women's Fellowship of the Charlevoix First Congregational Church exhibit some of the home-made items which will be sold at the group's "Country Christmas" craft show and luncheon which will take place between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m., Wednesday, July 24 at the church.

County gets good audit report

Don Bredon of Gaudette & Company went over his audit of 1990 Charlevoix County financial transactions with County Commissioners last week and indicated he had found the records to be in order.

The County operated on an amended budget of $4,196,900. Revenues exceeded budget figures by $5,658 and expenditures were $119,430 less than budget, resulting in an excess of revenues over expenditures of $125,088.

The County received $92,169 less in taxes than anticipated, $59,229 less in state grants, and $21,274 less in other revenues.

Legislative (Board of Commissioners) expenses were $19,877 higher than expected. Public Safety cost $65,655 more than budget, and Capital Outlay amounted to $144,058 more than budget.

On the positive side, Charges for Services brought in $102,706 more than budget and Interest and Rentals were $57,295 above budget. General Government cost $61,875 less than budget. Also "Other" budgeted expenses were down $274,302.

The one real criticism Bredon had of County operations was the practice of maintaining a common checking account for most County funds and advancing monies from one account to another as needed. He also noted that several budgetary funds had not been budgeted or were not properly or adequately budgeted (accounting for some of the excess figures noted above).

Deputies agree on contract

After months of negotiation, Charlevoix County Sheriff's deputies and communications officers and the Board of Commissioners have agreed on a new contract.

Under the contract, these employees will receive a four percent pay raise for each of the three years of the contract. Also, in the second year of the contract, which began July 1, the county will begin to pay for their retirement benefits. Other county employees have been receiving four percent retirement benefits since 1981.

The deputies and communications officers will pay for retirement benefits during the first year of the contract; the county and employees will each pay two percent during the second year; and the county will pay the four percent in the third year.

PUBLIC HEARING NOTICE
Charlevoix City Planning Commission
Monday, August 12, 1991
City Hall, 210 State Street
7:00 p.m.

The Charlevoix City Planning Commission will hold a Public Hearing on the above date and time to receive public comments, written and oral on the following proposed amendments to the Title V - Zoning and Planning, Chapter 51 of the City of Charlevoix City Code. The amendments are as follows:

PROPOSED AMENDMENTS

THE FOLLOWING ARE PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO THE DEFINITION SECTIONS OF CHAPTER 51 OF THE CHARLEVOIX CITY CODE:

THAT SECTION 5.5 DEFINITIONS (A-C) BE AMENDED BY ADDING:

(23) CONDOMINIUM Related Definitions

(a) SITE CONDOMINIUMS: Any parcel of land which may be divided as a condominium under Public Act 59 of the Public Acts of 1978, as amended, into two or more parts, including building sites or lots, for the purchase of being occupied by either separate or attached structures or for the purpose of being dedicated to some common use. This definition shall be deemed not exclusive and the definition of site condominium shall include any other decision which may be statutorily or judicially required or which may be appropriate by common usage.

(b) COMMON ELEMENTS: Portions of the condominium project other than the condominium units.

(c) CONDOMINIUM ACT: Public Act 59 of 1978, as amended.

(d) CONDOMINIUM PROJECT: A plan or project consisting of not less than two (2) condominium units established in conformance with the Condominium Act.

(e) CONDOMINIUM SUBDIVISION PLAN: Site, survey and utility plans, floor plans, and sections, as appropriate showing the existing and proposed structures and improvements including the location thereof on the land. The Condominium Subdivision Plan shall show the size, location, area, vertical boundaries, and volume for each unit comprised of enclosed air space. A number shall be assigned to each condominium unit. The Condominium Subdivision Plan shall include the nature, location, and approximate size of common elements.

(f) CONDOMINIUM UNIT: That portion of the condominium project designed and intended for separate fee simple ownership and use, as described in the master deed.

(g) EXPANDABLE CONDOMINIUM: A condominium project to which additional land may be added pursuant to express provision in the condominium documents and in accordance with the condominium regulations of the Zoning Ordinance and the Condominium Act.

(h) GENERAL COMMON ELEMENTS: General common elements means and includes: elements of the condominium project owned in common by all co-owners and intended for common use or necessary to the existence, upkeep and safety of the project.

(i) LIMITED COMMON ELEMENTS: Limited common elements means and includes those common elements which are reserved in the master deed for the exclusive uses of less than all of the co-owners.

(j) MASTER DEED: The condominium document recording the condominium project as approved by the Director of Building and Planning to which is attached as exhibits and incorporated by reference the approved bylaws for the project and the approved condominium subdivision plan for the project.

THAT SECTION 5.10 DEFINITIONS (O-R) BE AMENDED BY ADDING (6A)

(6a) RIGHT-OF-WAY: A strip of land acquired by reservation, dedication, forced dedication, prescription or condemnation and intended to be occupied, or occupied by, a road, utility and other similar uses.

THAT SECTION 5.8 DEFINITIONS (I-L) (7) LOT BE AMENDED BY ADDING THE FOLLOWING TO THE END OF THE EXISTING PARAGRAPH:

A unit of land within a site condominium which gives the owner exclusive rights to a building envelope on which a building is placed and limited rights to the yard areas surrounding the building. An area exclusive of the right-of-way, easement or general common area which provides adequate permanent access to the lot.

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND SECTION 5.212 (8) OF CHAPTER 51 OF TITLE V OF THE CODE OF THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX

The City of Charlevoix ordains that Section 5.212 (8) of the Charlevoix City Code is hereby amended to read as follows:

SECTION 5.212 (8):

Whenever a use or an activity requiring off-street parking is created or increased in floor area, intensity of activity or number of boats being stored by structural alteration, or new construction; the number of off-street parking spaces shall be provided and maintained as required in this Chapter for such new construction or change.

Changes in use or new uses of existing buildings or floor area shall require parking in accord with this Chapter; provided however, in the Central Business District, for those properties fronting Bridge Street and/or located between Bridge Street and the north-south alleys generally at the rear of properties fronting on Bridge Street [see map Section 212 (12)], the requirement for additional parking due to a legal commercial use change shall be waived.

The new creation of commercial or accessory residential floor space or use in the Central Business District shall require the provision for parking in accord with this Chapter; provided that the Planning Commission and City Council may approve a development plan as required by Section 5.188, as amended if the property owner pays on a one time basis to the City of Charlevoix Central Business District Parking Improvement Fund, the sum of $3,000.00 adjusted on an annual basis in accord with the Consumer Price Index, based on the base year 1991 for each parking place which can not be provided on site. Such funds shall be used to benefit the provision of public parking in the Central Business District. Parking spaces thus provided for shall be unreserved and as generally available to the public.

Existing parking spaces provided on site, shall be assigned to existing uses and may not be assigned to newly-created floor space or uses, unless sufficient parking spaces are provided on site to meet the requirements of existing floor space and/or uses. Nothing herein shall preclude a property owner within that area mapped in Section 212 (12) from building to the limits of their property as allowed by this Chapter provided they contribute to the parking fund to replace existing parking spaces lost as well as meet the required number of parking spaces required for new construction in accord with Section 5.214 (7).

NOTE: Underlined language indicates new language. Deleted language is not indicated.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND CHAPTER 51 OF TITLE V OF THE CODE OF THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX BY ADDING SECTION 5.212 (12)

Section 5.212 (12) shall read as follows:

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND SECTION 5.214 (7) OF CHAPTER 51 OF TITLE V OF THE CODE OF THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX

The City of Charlevoix ordains that Section 5.214 (7) of the Charlevoix City Code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Certain uses in the CBD, not with standing differing requirements within Sections 5.214 (3) and (4), non-residential and non-institutional, uses within that area mapped in Section 212 (12), shall provide or replace parking as follows:

One (1) space per three hundred (300) square feet of floor area.

NOTE: Underlined language indicates new language. Deleted language is not indicated.

First Odmark Music Festival scheduled Saturday

Charlevoix's East Park will be filled with music all afternoon and into the evening Saturday, July 20. The park and the new Clarence Odmark Pavilion will host the first annual Odmark Music Festival. The bandshell and festival are named for the late Charlevoix band director Clarence Odmark (affectionately referred to as "Odie"). The festival will begin at 1 p.m.

and will conclude between 8:00 and 9 p.m. with a dedication and ribbon cutting ceremony followed by a performance by a band made up of Odmark's former students and professional colleagues. Charlevoix High School alumni wishing to perform with the band are asked to attend a rehearsal at 2 p.m., July 20 in the high school band room.

Another group coming together especially for the music festival is a mass choir. Any choir member from the community is welcome to join with the other voices for the evening. Rehearsal for the mass choir is scheduled for 11 a.m. at the Congregational Church. Ken Jewell will be directing the choir. Performers scheduled for the music festival are:

1 p.m. - Krista Knight and her Suzuki violin students.
2:30 p.m. - Chris Martin from Wilkes University.
4 p.m. - Brass Choir.
5 p.m. - The Community Bell Choir under the direction of Luann Alpert.
7 p.m. - The Community Choir under the direction of Ellen Addington.

7:30 p.m. - Mass Choir under the direction of Ken Jewell.
8 p.m. - Dedication Ceremony.
8:15 p.m. - City and Alumni Band under the direction of Gary Switzer.
The sound system for the festival is being provided by Ward Bollinger of Music Makers in Petoskey.

County construction costs rise

The cost of construction undertaken in Charlevoix County during the first six months of 1991 is up almost 48 percent higher than construction started during the same period last year.

Figures supplied by the County Department of Building Inspection show that at this time last year there had been building starts with an estimated value of $7,063,209. This year the figure is $10,447,704. These estimated cost figures are computed by the Department of Building Inspection based on figures provided by the Building Officials and Code Administration of the State of Michigan. The cost figures are for structures only and do not include electrical, plumbing, or mechanical (heating system, air conditioning, etc.) costs, or the cost of the land on which the building is located.

Swanee Alden of the Building Department explained that building of all kinds has increased throughout the county, even in the eastern part of the county which is largely agricultural and lumbering in nature. She added that there were no new large projects during the period. Projects started included 67 new houses valued at $4,234,745 and new commercial buildings valued at $2,068,599.

"It's just that there is a lot of adding up and remodeling of houses and cottages and business places, even a lot of new garages," Alden pointed out.

Searching for the Class of '41

Organizers of the reunion for members of the Charlevoix High School class of 1941 are looking for several class members to contact them about the reunion. Class members being sought are: Florence Bauman, Eunice Manley, Helen Shapiro Bogart, Georgia Smith, Florence White, and George Winnick.

Anyone knowing the whereabouts of any of these people is asked to contact Bud Kohler at 715 East Dixon Avenue, Charlevoix, or 547-6811.

Zoning hearing to be done over

By L. Scott Swanson

A two-word mistake will require a public hearing which took place at the July 15 city council meeting to be done over. The public hearing concerns establishment of a new lakeshore zoning district called, L.I.R.

When the notice for the July 15 meeting was published, it said the City Planning Commission would hold a public hearing. It should have said the City Council would hold a public hearing.

Although it's a small error, correcting it will delay the hearing process by two weeks. The law governing notification for the hearing requires that the notice be published at least 15 days in advance of the hearing date.

The council had not made a decision July 15. Instead, councilmembers had decided to walk the lakeshore area affected, Monday July 22 and continue the public hearing Monday, Aug. 5. Due to rain, the July 22 shore walk has been postponed to Monday, July 29. The public hearing has been postponed to Monday, Aug. 19.

City manager Mike Wiesner said, "It's certainly not a major problem. We just postpone the meeting."

Wiesner noted that even though the error was minor, he feels it is in the city's best interest to go back and make sure that everything is done right so that the city will be covered in case of a future challenge. The July 15 discussion, which is now essentially nullified, at times grew heated.

Wiesner said he became aware of the problem last week.

"Obviously it happened," he said of the mistake, but added that it was simply a mistake and not something intentional.

He noted that given the volume of zoning requests and accompanying paperwork required by law the city has been fortunate not to have many problems of this nature.

"It's surprising it doesn't happen more frequently," he said.

Show goes on in spite of deluge

By Edith Gilbert

The weather had been threatening all day, and those who attended the Northwood Symphony concert at Dunmaglas last Saturday will never forget what happened after the intermission. Nor will the musicians who played Gershwin's popular "Rhapsody in Blue."

It started with flashes of lightning and thunder. Then the rain hit the tightly stretched tent. The side curtains were quickly drawn, and it seemed as if all the heavens above were in competition with the horns and the cymbals playing beneath the tent. Boom! Crash! Flash! Boom!

Slowly water began dripping between the tent and the barn roof right above the center of the orchestra. The audience held its breath. The drip became a shower and the shower became a torrent.

The horn instrumentalists inched their chairs back while still playing. The string section slid their chairs forward while still playing. The conductor, Don Yaeger, looked at Alexei Sultanov, the featured pianist and winner of the Van Cliburn competition, and queried, "Stop?" But young Sultanov continued playing with intense concentration as if he were still at Carnegie Hall. The orchestra continued to play. Yaeger continued to conduct. The audience continued to marvel at what they were witnessing.

When the piece was finally finished, the audience leaped up as one and cheered, whistled and shouted "Bravo." It was as much for the four or five they had just witnessed as for the music they had just heard.

Annual auction and party July 30

By Peg Obbe

As most people in Charlevoix know, the large wooden structure on the northeast side of Charlevoix was once the garage for automobiles of guests of The Inn, the resort hotel which was located for many years at Dixon Avenue and Menard Boulevard.

The Inn overlooked Lake Charlevoix and was just steps away from the Pere Marquette Railroad Station.

In its early days, The Inn relied on horses and wagons to transport people and goods from place to place, but by 1922 the age of the automobile had arrived and it was necessary for The Inn to have a garage to house the limousines of its guests. The Inn was torn down in 1941, the victim of a changing lifestyle, but the garage stands there today as a reminder of another

One of the amenities of The Inn was an indoor swimming pool system which brought waters from Lake Charlevoix into an enclosed area so swimming could be enjoyed no matter what the outdoor weather conditions were.

Now, a group of Charlevoix residents are trying to bring another swimming pool to town, and hope it can be located in The Inn garage.

Dave Strawbridge of the Friends of the Pool Committee advises that an examination of the building by engineers indicates it is "a sound structure and suitable for an indoor pool with a very favorable site adjacent to the city tennis courts and municipal golf course."

He also advises that immediate neighbors all approve of a community indoor pool built in The Inn garage.

Friends of the Pool are now exploring financing possibilities for the pool. The committee already has received substantial donations and pledges.

While no selling price for the building has been established, Bruce MacArthur of the Friends of the Pool says it would cost about $952,000 to convert the 9,000 square foot building into a swimming pool area.

"We should remember that we can save about $13 a square foot by using the existing solid building," he added.

The Pool Auction and Petunia Party at Dunnaglas on July 30 will add to the swimming pool fund. Tickets for that event are available from the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce. Tickets for deck seating have been sold out, but five more tables have been added to the terrace. Phone 547-2101 or 547-1991 to reserve those seats.

First Odmark Music Festival strikes a chord of success

The first of what is planned to become an annual, Clarence Odmark Music Festival was a rousing success Saturday. The crowd which gathered in East Park heard an afternoon and evening filled with music.

Although the pavilion has been the site of entertainment events throughout the summer, the Music Festival was the official dedication ceremony. The pavilion is named after the late Charlevoix school band director Clarence (Odie) Odmark.

Near the end of the festival, Odmark's wife, Jan, cut a ribbon. She was joined on stage by several city officials. In the background, a band made up of alumni of the Charlevoix High School Band and several band directors who were associates of Odmark prepared to play. The band, which was directed by a former Odmark student and former band director Gary Stutzman, played several of Odmark's favorite selections.

Stutzman was on the committee which worked on the construction of the pavilion and organized the festival. Following the festival he said he's very pleased with the way things turned out and is looking forward to next year's festival. The 1992 festival will take place on the Saturday prior to Venetian Weekend. Stutzman said he anticipates an even larger festival next year.

Designing and completing the new pavilion was a long and often controversial project. The majority of the construction was completed last fall. Final details, such as resodding the hillside, took place this spring.

The hillside was terraced for better visibility and more comfortable seating. Results of the terracing were evident Saturday evening. Despite a fairly large crowd, the sightlines to the stage area were excellent.

Fundraising efforts for the pavilion are ongoing. The pavilion committee would like to raise $15,000 to pay off the remainder of construction costs and purchase a sound system similar to the one which was on loan for Saturday evening's performance.

Contributions to the pavilion fund may be sent to: Clarence A. Odmark Pavilion, c/o Robert B. Hoffman, CPA, 203 Mason, Charlevoix MI 49720. Donations are tax deductible.

ed that he was genuinely concerned that the very expensive instruments the musicians own could be damaged. Some save a lifetime to acquire a fine violin or horn. He was also disappointed, of course, that the recording of the concert was washed down the drain, almost literally.

But those who attended the performance will have the experience recorded forever in memory.

A community band made up of Charlevoix High School band alumni and professional band directors who were friends of the late Clarence Odmark capped off a day of music at the Odmark Pavilion Saturday evening.

Letters to the Editor:

Blood is needed

Editor,

After the explosive behavior of some participants at the Charlevoix city council meeting last Monday, it seems timely to bring up the subject of business and corporate etiquette.

On a scale from 1 to 10, how do you rate your social savvy? Are you projecting the image you have envisioned for your company at all times? If you do, you are helping to make business relations easier, more pleasant and certainly more profitable. In today's competitive business arena, it takes more than an MBA and a dress-for-success wardrobe to climb the corporate ladder, or score in the political arena.

Do you know, for instance, that social introductions won't work and can't be substituted for business introductions? That the corporate kiss is replacing the conventional hand shake? And how important is this? Are you comfortable/entertaining clients from a foreign country? And do you know the difference between the American and Continental style of handling a knife and fork?

Today's executives are troubled by more than just primary business target and goals—the competitive executive is also focusing on business etiquette and table manners. That's why many job interviews are conducted over lunch. When do you stand to shake hands and how to conclude a conversation, has now again become an "in" business priority in the corporate community.

The pendulum is swinging back from the free speech movement of the 60's and a whole generation that grew up after the Vietnam era is discovering that the lack of social "graces" is a drawback to their career.

Margit Erickson is offering a course in Executive Seminars in Business and Social Etiquette and Entertaining which is sponsored by the Crooked Tree Arts Council. It is designed for men and women who want to gain that extra edge in today's competitive business arena.

Margit Erickson is a Certified Etiquette Consultant who has received her training and certification both in Washington, DC under the tutelage of renowned protocol/etiquette expert Dorothea Johnson, and from the Executive Etiquette Institute in Boston, Mass.

Anyone interested in signing up for one of the four hour seminars this fall may contact Sean Levy, Director, McCune Arts Center, 347-4337. The fee is $125 per person and there will be 12 people in each class. Interested individuals may also arrange for private instruction.

In the meantime, I strongly recommend to anyone who is interested in civilized behavior to read Letitia Baldridge's volume called the "Complete Guide to Executive Manners." Most libraries have it on their shelves. I have given a copy to many future young movers and shakers to have on hand for reference, and they tell me it has come in very handy from time to time.

It was Joseph Pulitzer, the founder of the Pulitzer Prizes, who drew up one of the most rigorous tests ever devised for hiring a journalist. "What has he read in American history... Has he read Buckle's History of Civilization? What about the state of his health? Is his voice harsh or agreeable?"

Finally, let us remind ourselves that one of the most valuable of the social arts is to disagree without being disagreeable.

The Red Cross Bloodmobile is scheduled to come to Charlevoix on Thursday, August 7. They will be at the American Legion Hall on Garfield from 1 to 7 p.m. to receive blood donations.

I'd like to urge all your readers to consider donating blood—this time and every time there is a blood donation drive. I donated last time, and I'm ashamed to say that it was the first time in my life. I've donated my TIME almost every time, but this was the first time I'd given blood. There was nothing to it.

I took a list of the medications I take, and was surprised that none of them would keep them from accepting my blood. They checked my temperature, blood pressure and took a little drop of blood to be sure I was OK. After the donation they made sure I was OK too. They couldn't have been nicer.

Afterward I realized that, with all the serious illnesses in the world that keep people from donating, if the healthy people don't bother to donate, where will the blood come from?

Please consider making an appointment by calling Nancy Fowler at 547-9314, or drop in at the American Legion Hall on August 7. You'll feel good about it.

Sincerely,
Marilyn Izor.

(Editor's note: The date of Charlevoix's next blood drive had been Aug. 8, but has been changed to Aug. 7.)

New member elected to hospital board

Norman Perkins and Al Ranger were re-elected to serve new terms on the Charlevoix Area Hospital Board of directors at the annual membership meeting on Tuesday, July 16. A new member elected to the board is Rebecca Haney.

Haney, who with her husband Don operates Don's IGA in Charlevoix, is active in the hospital Guild and is president-elect of that group. She is also president-elect of the Garden Club and is 1992 Kappa Sigma Home Tour chairman. She has a long-standing interest in the raising funds. We are going to miss him very much," Carey received a standing ovation from members following presentation of a plaque in appreciation for his efforts by Al Ranger, board president.

Hugh Mason, Board Finance Committee Chairman, gave the financial report which showed the hospital ending its fiscal year on March 31, 1991, with an operating fund surplus of $146,925. Total operating income for the hospital was $6,917,329 with salaries, wages and fees amounting to $3,874,952.

Guild President Margaret Landman reported that 4,776 hours of service were given last year by these volunteers and they raised $6,700 for equipment needs.

Both Ranger and Krueger mentioned the amount of time and energy expended by administration and the board for facilities planning and developing a long-range plan during the previous year.

Krueger pointed out that exhaustive surveys by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Health Care Organizations resulted in the hospital receiving a three-year accreditation which is the best a hospital can be awarded.

He also reported that the Boulder Park Terrace nursing home, a joint venture with Northern Michigan

Rebecca Haney

Hospital entered into last year, is now beginning to take shape.

Members of the hospital are those who made a monetary contribution to the hospital in the past or who paid $3 membership dues.

Hospital employees surpass fundraising goal of $95,000

The employees of Charlevoix Area Hospital reported total subscriptions of $113,024 to the hospital's "Meeting Your Needs" campaign at a meeting held Friday afternoon (July 19). The goal for the Hospital Employees Section is $95,000 and the amount raised to date represents 119 percent of that minimum objective.

David Priest, R.N., House Supervisor, and chairman of Employees Section was extremely pleased with the results that were reported. "It'd be wonderful to see how our people are supporting the hospital in this project. They are really behind the campaign and the result we have today is a tribute to all of the employees at Charlevoix area Hospital. We still have some more pledges to be reported, and I expect that we will reach $120,000 before our campaign is completed."

Dr. Jeffrey Porter, Campaign Chairman said, "The employees working on the campaign have done a terrific job. These people the hospital employees, know what the hospital needs are and they are certainly showing the public how they feel about the modernization project. They have done an outstanding job and I congratulate each of them."

Priest was assisted by Bill Jackson, Heather Kage, Rachelle Mackowiak, Judy Mazur, Alex Niedzialkowski, and Chris Wilhelm who acted as team captains. Approximately 25 employees helped with solicitations in the Hospital Employees Section.

The Hospital Employee Section, the Hospital Guild, which previously announced a gift of $25,000 to the campaign, the Board of Directors and the Medical Staff make up the Hospital Family Division of the $1,400,000 "Meeting Your Needs" campaign for Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Helms - Martin

Tamera Lynn Helms and Mark Edward Martin were married Saturday afternoon, June 8, at St. Mary's Catholic Church by the Rev. James Gardiner in a double ring ceremony and celebration of a nuptial mass.

The bride is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Norman Helms, and the bridegroom is the son of William and Elizabeth Martin of Flushing.

Approximately 200 guests were present in the church as the bride was given in marriage by William Martin. For the occasion, the church was decorated with white Victorian wicker baskets filled with purple iris, peach roses, larkspur, freesia, and baby's breath tied with bows of tulle. The candelabra were decorated in eggshell and peach tulle.

The bride wore a gown of ivory taffeta featuring a Schiffli lace Sabrina neckline on a fitted, extended bodice adorned with beaded lace. The short puffed sleeves completed the off-the-shoulder neckline. The gathered skirt had a Schiffli lace hemline which extended to a semi-cathedral-length train. The two-tier waist-length veil of illusion scattered with sequins extended from a large ivory taffeta double bow.

The bride carried an old-fashioned hand held bouquet of white and peach roses, ivy, lavender freesia, purple stock, purple iris, and baby's breath, finished with a bow of ivory tulle and satin streamers.

Mrs. Moss Alexander III, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mary Beth Martin, sister of the bridegroom; Dawn Roberts, Carla Ballard; Katherine Rammacher; and Janet VanWieren. They wore gowns of printed floral cotton chintz in shades of peach, lavender, and green. The gowns featured a detachable shawl collar with a center bow worn over a strapless gown with a Basque waist and a tea-length skirt.

Mark & Tammy Martin

The attendants carried hand held bouquets composed of purple and lavender iris, freesia, larkspur, baby delphinium, stock, and baby's breath with a peach tulle bow and lavender satin ribbon streamers.

Two pieces of the bridegroom, Kristin Martin and Leah Cahan, served as flower girls. They wore tea-length gowns of printed floral chintz with shawl collars, and carried small white wicker baskets of fresh miniature peach roses, baby delphinium, purple stock, and baby's breath, finished with a peach tulle bow. Justin Liggett, nephew of the bridegroom, was ringbearer.

Timothy Fortier assisted the bridegroom as best man. Groomsmen were Michael Martin, brother

FAMILY

Falting - Fevurly

Beth A. Falting and Michael E. Fevurly exchanged marriage vows June 15 at the North Island Naval Air Station Chapel in Coronado, California.

The bride is the daughter of Arthur E. and Jane M. Falting of Charlevoix, and the bridegroom is the son of Joan M. Fevurly of Phoenix, Arizona.

The Rev. Robert Ecker officiated at the double ring rites before approximately 75 guests.

The bride was given in marriage by her parents. She wore a heavily hand beaded satin gown with a sequined lace bodice. The Basque bodice dropped to a deep V in front and the modified Sabrina neckline and deep V back were edged with scalloped lace trim.

The satin skirt was trimmed with sequins and pearls around the hemline and five-foot train. Her headpiece was a flower wreath of pearl leaves, pearl loops, and sprays. Her fingertip veil featured a double pouf and she carried a cascading bouquet of orchids, lilies, pink and red roses, purple iris, and white dendrobium orchids.

Jackie Renshaw served the bride as maid of honor, and Janna Wieland and Michele Luczywek were bridesmaids. They wore two-piece pastel floral print double-breasted dresses with off-the-shoulder necklines and straight full-length skirts.

Beth & Michael Fevurly

Crystal Seltzer, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl, wearing a mid-length dress with fitted bodice in a floral print to match the other attendants. Bobby Schleifer was ringbearer.

William Seltzer, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man, and Mark Miller and Pat Curley were groomsmen.

Music for the ceremony was provided by organist Frank Stein.

The bride's parents hosted a sunset dinner cruise aboard the San Diego Hilton Queen following the wedding.

The rehearsal dinner was given by the bride and bridegroom at their home in San Diego.

The newlyweds were guests of honor at a reception in Charlevoix this past weekend, after which they left for a wedding trip to Hawaii.

The bride is employed as a recruiter for the electronics division of Cohn, Inc., and the bridegroom is a Chief Petty Officer in the United States Navy.

Sunshine Club to reopen this fall

Marie Somero

The Charlevoix Community After-School Program for children, kindergarten through fifth grade will re-open when school starts at the Community Reformed Church, 100 Oak Street. The Sunshine Club has been in operation for four and a half years under the auspice of the Ministerial Association, but was closed last January because of lack of funds and low enrollment. However this fall it will re-open under the auspice of the Community Reformed Church and will provide the same program as before.

Marie Somero has been hired as the program director. Somero received her degree in Social Services/Child Development in 1986 from Ferris State University. Since then she has worked as a teacher and director for various children's programs. Her most recent position was as director of the Bath, Michigan Community Schools pre-school, and before and after school programs. She moved to Charlevoix last August with her husband Kevin and son Brett.

The program is for all children of the community (K-5th grade).

from 3:30 p.m. - 5:30 p.m. each day school is in full days session. A healthy snack is provided along with organized games, Bible Stories, videos, puzzles, and many other activities. The cost of the program is determined on a sliding scale according to family income. Brochures and application forms can be obtained from any local grocery store or for more information on enrolling your child(ren) call Jan Ross at 547-9482 or Marie Somero at 547-0107.

Obituaries Carolyn A. Hatfield

Carolyn A. Hatfield of Davison, Michigan died June 28, 1991 at St. Joseph Hospital of Flint, Michigan. She was 57 year old.

A Memorial Service was held Wednesday, July 3 at 11:30 a.m. at the Allen-Raysin Funeral Home in Davison.

The Rev. Father Andrew Czarkowski officiated.

Mrs. Hatfield was born in Flint, Dec. 14, 1933 the daughter of Rose (Zetler) Orvis and F. Mortimer Orvis. She attended Charlevoix High School.

She married John C. Hatfield April 17, 1953 in Flint and had been a resident of Davison for the last 26 years.

She was employed by AC Spark Plug for 28 years, retiring in 1989.

She was preceded in death by her parents, a sister, Elaine F. Orvis and two brothers Blaine F. and Bruce E. Orvis.

Survivors include: husband John C., two sons Steven of Sherman

Oaks, Calif., Michael of Davison, daughter Renee Hatfield of Sherman Oaks, Calif., brother Burton M. Orvis of Flint, sister Rose Mary Warner of Charlevoix and several nieces and nephews.

Rev. Betty J. Louiselle

Rev. Betty J. Louiselle, 69, of Charlevoix, died July 21, 1991, at Northern Michigan Hospital.

Funeral will be 10:30 a.m. Wednesday, July 24 at the Petoskey Assembly of God Church. The Rev. Stacey Swalley and the Rev. Joseph B. Heller will officiate and a graveside service will be 2:30 p.m. Wednesday at Brookside Cemetery, Charlevoix.

The former Betty J. Weimer was born Feb. 2, 1922, in Petoskey, the daughter of John and Edith Marie (Rice) Weimer. She graduated from Petoskey High School and attended Life Bible College in Los Angeles, Calif. from 1945 until graduating in 1947. She was ordained into the International Church of Foursquare Gospel Church by Dr. Aime McPherson, founder of the church.

She married Rev. Ted L. Louiselle on Oct. 21, 1950, in Charlevoix.

She pastored churches with her husband, the Rev. Ted Louiselle in Iowa, Indiana and Michigan. In later years she was self-employed and operated a cleaning service. She also assisted her husband in many area restaurants where he worked as a professional chef. He preceded her in death on Feb. 10, 1990.

She was a member of the Petoskey Assembly of God Church.

She is survived by one son, Raymond L. of Charlevoix; one daughter, Mrs. Dean (Karen) Drier of Charlevoix; two sisters, Mrs. Lillian Lopez and Mrs. Mary Feltz, both of Petoskey.

The family suggests memorials to the Petoskey Assembly of God Church. Envelopes are available at the Winchester Funeral Home where friends may call 2-4 and 7-9 p.m. today (Tuesday).

Temple celebrates 95th anniversary

The congregation of Temple B'Nai Israel of Petoskey is inviting the public to join them in celebrating the temple's 95th anniversary.

The celebration service will begin at 8 p.m. Aug. 2 at the Temple which is on the corner of Michigan and Waukazoo Ave. An "Oneg Shabbat," or refreshment social hour will follow the service.

The Temple started with a nucleus of area Jews who began meeting in homes in 1877. The Temple was incorporated in 1896.

To build a boat right build it yourself

By SUZANNE L. PARKER

"She's the high point of my life," Cliff Biddick said as he ran his hand over the smooth curves of the Solstice. Then, looking at his wife Michelle and young daughters Heather and Chelsea, he smiled and added, "Well, at least one of them."

The attractive Solstice is a sailboat. And for both of the Biddicks, she is a crowning achievement. The Charlevoix residents have spent the last four years building their 35-foot cutter. Made of fiberglass with hand-finished oak wood trim and brass fixtures, the Solstice is the culmination of the Biddicks' year of experience.

"What we tried to do was take 35 years of sailing," Cliff Biddick said, "and put the best into one boat."

They started with plans for a boat designed by Grahamme Shannon of British Columbia, and customized them to create a unique sailing vessel.

The hull was designed to be built one of three ways. Biddick combined two of them together. As a result, the boat is not only stronger, but better insulated — perfect for the Biddicks' future traveling plans.

"This boat is designed to go anywhere — for hot or cold weather," Cliff Biddick said. Their hopeful ports of call range from Nova Scotia and Alaska and on to warmer climes like the Bahamas and the Virgin Islands.

Another practical touch is the stairs leading down into the hull from the deck. Paper-thin pieces of ash wood were layered in a mold which turned up the end of each step at a 45-degree angle. This angle gives passengers a firm footing on the stairs even when the boat is heeling.

The ash wood interior also gives the hull a lighter, more open atmosphere than the dark hulls usually encountered on sailboats.

While Biddick calls this boat a labor of love, building it did have its hectic moments.

"It was a big joke with people that we had to build a barn so that we could build our boat," Biddick joked. This barn, located next to the Biddicks' house out at Maple Grove, was the setting for many long and arduous

Excavation brings old bottles to the surface

Approximately 100 bottles, some of them almost a century and a half old, turned up when the southwest corner of Clinton and State Streets was excavated for a new bank building.

Ron Winchester (see photo at right) and JoAnne Beemon found the old bottles. Most of them were buried beneath the old gray shed which the Kiwanis Club used for several years to store recycled newspapers.

Winchester said the bottles were in remarkably good condition. In fact most of them were unbroken.

One of the bottles was dated 1858. Another was a small bottle of Hires Root Beer. That particular bottle was still full. The side of the bottle said the contents would make up to five gallons of a delicious drink. Another bottle was from a Grand Rapids brewing company.

Group helps visually impaired

"There's no reason for people who can't see well to feel left out. That's the word of Helen Bishop, head of Visually Impaired Persons (VIP's) in Charlevoix County.

VIP's meet twice a month, on the first and third Wednesdays, at 12:30 p.m. in the Senior Center in East Jordan. They talk to each other about their vision problems, those recently afflicted learning how to get along from those whose sight has been impaired for a long time. They hear professional people tell about advances in medicine and devices that will help them preserve the sight they have. They learn how to find their way around by touch and sound. They are a support group bolstered by those who help shape attitudes.

There is no charge for belonging to the VIP's. They make a contribution for their lunch at the Senior Center. They go to East Jordan by County Transit (making a reservation the day before) or are driven by a friend or relative. A phone call to Helen Bishop, 536-7154, will bring information about the meetings and possibilities of sharing a ride from Charlevoix.

...building a boat

ous hours.

And they had their first experience with melting lead. Pouring 7800 lbs. of molten lead for the keel of the boat was a long, hot and, at times, scary venture.

The worst part, though, was layering the fiber glass," Michelle Biddick said. "We had to wear these big white suits to protect us from the glass, but in 90 degree weather it was often just too much."

This biggest sacrifice with a project of this size, the Biddicks said, was time. Every spare moment during the past four years was spent on the boat and nothing else.

"And we have intentionally not kept track of the money we've spent," Cliff Biddick said. "It's the kind of thing where if you knew how much you were spending, you'd stop."

Biddick has built other boats before — among them a 26-foot tug boat and a 19-foot antique Lyman power boat — and this latest project is surely not his last.

"We've got another boat on the drawing boards," Biddick said. "But we're not in any hurry; this boat was a labor of love and finally we can sit back and enjoy the labor."

Firemen trained in radiation decontamination

The Charlevoix Township Fire Department recently completed Off-Site Radiation Decontamination Team training. The training course covered the fire department's responsibilities in the event of an accident at the Big Rock Point Nuclear Power Plant. Issues addressed included: personnel and vehicle monitoring and decontamination; emergency worker decontamination center operations and personal radiation protection and monitoring.

The Michigan Department of State Police Emergency Management Division offered the instruction in cooperation with the Charlevoix County Office of Emergency Management and Big Rock Township Fire Department. Other area departments participating in the training were the Boyne City Fire Department, the East Jordan Fire Department, and some members of the Central Lake Fire Department.

The training program is offered on an annual basis by the County and the State to all local fire departments in Charlevoix and Emmet County as part of the Radiological Emergency Preparedness Program required by the federal government. Upon completion of the training, Captain Sherman Amey, Commanding Officer of the MSP/Emergency Management Division, presented a certificate of training to the firemen.

Additional training will be offered to other county agencies in coming months.

Drum and bugle competition Friday

Music will play a prominent role in this year's Venetian Festival. Drum and bugle corps from across the Midwest will be in town Friday evening to perform in a drum and bugle corps competition.

The competition will take place between 8 p.m. and 10 p.m. at the high school football field. Included in the competition are groups from: Madison, Wisconsin; Saginaw, Columbus, Ohio; Milwaukee, Wisconsin; and Kitchener, Waterloo, Ontario.

Ticket prices are: $6 for adults; $5 for senior citizens; $4 for children 13 and under; and $20 for family tickets. There is no charge for children less than five years old. Advance tickets are available at the Chamber of Commerce office.

The drum and bugle corps competition is not new to the Charlevoix Venetian Festival. In past years, it was a popular event, but has been absent in recent years.

Some of the corps competing Friday will be staying in town for Saturday's Venetian Street Parade.

Sponsoring the drum and bugle corps visit to Charlevoix are: National Bank of Detroit; Mettlers; Edgewater Inn Condominium; Sears of Charlevoix; Cedar Ridge Recycling & Waste Management Company; Tom's Mom's Cookies; Weatherlane Terrace Hotel; Benny's Motel-Restaurant-Lounge; and First of America Bank.

Five will compete for Miss Charlevoix title

Five young ladies will compete for the Miss Charlevoix title during Thursday evening's pageant.

They are:

Tonya Weaver, 16, the daughter of Patricia and Allen Weavers. She is a musician and member of the high school flag corps. She will be doing a flag routine in the talent competition.

Lori Darrah, 16, the daughter of Oma and Larry Darrah. She enjoys sports and performing arts. As talents, she lists singing, dancing and acting.

Valerie Russell, 17, is the daughter of Betty and Butch Russell. She enjoys the outdoors and is a volunteer for the American Cancer Society. As talents she lists musical abilities including piano, bass clarinet and singing.

Kendra Olliger, 19, the daughter of Carolyn and Ken Olliger. She enjoys running, dancing, painting, drawing and collecting antiques. As talents she lists playing the flute and oboe and drawing and painting.

Christine Dillon, 19, the daughter of Patricia and John Dillon. She enjoys painting, drawing, writing, sports and playing the guitar. As talents she lists painting, drawing, theatre, singing, dancing, writing and guitar.

The pageant will begin at 7 p.m. in the high school gym. The theme for this year's pageant is jazz. Featured entertainers will be the Janice Keegan Band.

1990 Miss Charlevoix Jennifer Bonar will crown her successor.

Helping sponsor scholarships for this year's Venetian queen pageant are:

Buday's Northern Certified Electronics; DCL Inc.; Medusa Cement Company; Buy Low Foods; Antrim Dells Golf Club; Mettlers; Seeley's Printing Service, Inc.; Mike's Glass; Northern Michigan Property Site Planning Development, Inc.; First of America Bank; Simpson & Moran; Barb's hallmark Harbor; Swanson K & D Contracting; James Gels, M.D.; John M. Continental sloop to visit

The Continental Sloop Providence, a replica of a 1775 warship which took part in the American Revolution, will be in Charlevoix during Venetian Weekend.

The original Providence was built in Rhode Island and after serving as a trade ship was involved in the first naval battle of the Revolution. Later the ship was under the command of John Paul Jones and participated in several more battles and captured many British ships.

The Providence is 110 feet in length with a 20-foot beam. She is capable of carrying 40 passengers and a crew of six.

Providence will dock at the harbor while in Charlevoix. Tours of the ship will be conducted from 4 p.m. to 10 p.m. Friday and from noon to 11 p.m. Saturday. The cost of the tours is $3 for adults, $2 for children 13 and under and no charge for children younger than five.

What to do where nothing seems to grow

(Editor's note: The following story is one in a series of stories being provided to the Courier by the Charlevoix Area Garden Club. The stories offer pointers for the many people who work to make Charlevoix a greener place.)

Various forms of ground covers may be a solution in certain parts of a yard where nothing seems to grow well. Ground covers are low growing plants with a tendency to spread so that they form, after a year or so, a mat-like covering of green.

Since they do not require mowing and, in some cases produce nice flowers, they seem an ideal answer to some yard problems, but they are on the whole much more expensive than grass, need a fair amount of initial care and cannot survive being walked on constantly the way grass does. But for problem areas that are out of the way of traffic, a ground cover may be the answer. If the area is shady most of the day, hardy Baltic ivy might be a good choice. It will do well in this part of the country if not exposed to too many winter winds. Periwinkle or trailing myrtle (Vinca) is another one that does well in the shade and requires no maintenance once the plants are established. Besides, the flowers are very attractive in late spring. They are blue or purple and sometimes white and are particularly pretty when planted over spring flowering bulbs like daffodils. If the soil is rich, lily-of-the-valley will make a maintenance-free and fragrant ground cover in the shade, but this is a slowly spreading plant and will take some time to cover the area.

Spurge, or Pachysandra, is another popular ground cover that does well in deep shade, even under evergreens. Some vines, or vining shrubs, such as evergreen bittersweet (Euonymus virens) or co-stoneaster horizontalis can also be used effectively, particularly if the ground slopes or is uneven. All of these can be planted in the fall. In sunny and dry areas and poor soil honeysuckle vine might be the answer, or on a smaller area a variety of perennial succulents called stonecrop might be used effectively. Its official name is sedum and it comes in quite an interesting variety of shapes, texture and color and is easily grown from seed. Many of the varieties spread quite rapidly. A package of mixed sedum seed sown in late spring following package directions will produce a variety of attractive plants the following year. A similar plant, the houseleek or sempervivum, also called hens-and-chickens has clusters of leafy rosettes which will spread and this too comes in different colors and sizes.

There are many other types of ground covers, nursery catalogs and gardening books will provide many more possibilities.

BUSINESS

Ward Brothers' business parallels fishing history

Editor's note: The following story is one in a series of stories concerning local businesses being written for the Courier by Ralph McRae. McRae is a former councilman and mayor and is currently a member of the Charlevoix Industrial Development Committee.

By Ralph McRae

The history of the Ward Brothers Boat Company is also a story of the fishing business on Round Lake, Lake Charlevoix and Lake Michigan.

Founded in 1936 by Bernie Ward Sr. and his brother Archie, the business is still a proud family enterprise, now into the fourth generation. Presently, Bernie Jr., Bernie III and Don from the second and third generation run the operation. They are assisted by members of the fourth generation, Natalie, a high school junior who works in the sales department and Brian and Russell, ten-year-old boys serving as apprentices aboard the fishing boats.

The shop began as a bait and tackle shop at the foot of Antrim Street and subsequently began taking out fishing parties. Late in 1980, the original shop was demolished and the new quarters were constructed.

At one time, Ward Brothers was one of nine commercial fishing operations based in Charlevoix. But during the past 30 years, first the lamprey and later court rulings giving American Indians privileged fishing rights drove most of the non-American Indian Great Lakes commercial fishermen out of the commercial fishing business.

The Ward Brothers now operate charter boats for sport fishing. Presently they operate three 30-foot Bertram boats.

In the early years of the Ward Brothers business, the waters around Charlevoix teemed with perch. Round Lake was a perch fishing hotbed. At that time, the Ward Brothers had 80 14-foot steel rowboats which they rented out to perch fishermen.

The perch population faded when alewife invaded the Great Lakes. To get rid of the alewife, the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) planted salmon. Planting salmon converted the undesirable alewife population into a desirable sportfish population: not perch, but salmon.

Although the Wards no longer rent steel rowboats, they now rent small motor boats by the hour, day, week or season. They also commission and decommission several boats each year and have their own winter storage facility on Barnard Road.

Bernie Ward Jr., now in his sixties, joined his father in the business when he was in his twenties. The love for boats and fishing expertise he has acquired during the past 40 years permeate the company.

Although for most people, boat ing and fishing are recreation, for the Wards it is a business and they manage their business in a business-like manner. A computer system and the use of direct mailing are integral parts of the management and promotion of the business. Many of their charter clients are corporate officers being rewarded by their companies.

Safety and good service are the businesses top priorities. And through the years these priorities have paid dividends in terms of customer satisfaction. Approximately 70 percent of Wards' charter boat clients are repeat customers.

This season the charter business has been a bit slow because the salmon still haven't started hitting with any regularity. Equipped with Sonar tracking systems, Wards' charter boats can monitor what's going on beneath the water and see where the fish are on any given day. Fishing charter trips leave at 7:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m., lasting for four and a half hours.

Last fall the Wards decided to enter the cruise boat business. They went to the East Coast to find the type of boat they wanted. After looking at several designs, they signed a contract with a shipyard only a few miles from President Bush's summer home. The cruise boat they had custom-built is the 56-foot, 40-ton Miss Charlevoix. It will hold as many as 100 passengers.

The Miss Charlevoix arrived in Round Lake earlier this summer after a 1,600 mile trip from the East Coast by way of the Hudson River and Erie and Welland Canals.

The Wards and Captain Terry Grey have formed a separate corporation for the Miss Charlevoix. The cruise ship business has been somewhat slow this summer, but is expected to grow in coming years.

In addition to the aforementioned branches of the business, Ward Brothers also has boat slips, gas and diesel fuel, a retail area for fishing tackle and boating needs, and an indoor area for boat service and repair.

BUSINESS

First State Bank building new office

First State Bank is planning to move, but not far. The bank has started construction of a new office building on the southwest corner of Clinton and State Streets. Currently the bank is located on the northwest corner of Clinton and State Streets.

According to bank president Lou Hollow, the new building will have 15,000 square feet of space, which is approximately twice as much as the bank's present building contains. The bank moved into its present building in 1969, but Hollow said the bank has simply outgrown the building and needs more space.

Hollow said the bank has gone through a great deal of effort to see that the new building will be architecturally attractive and fit in with surrounding buildings.

It's going to look like a huge house," he said. Much of the interior will utilize cherry wood and granite.

Another point the bank stressed to the architect was using glass rather than other material to separate the offices from the customer area. Hollow said First State Bank is a community bank and rather than having its officers hidden away somewhere, wants them to be visible and available to customers.

Exactly what will happen at the current bank building is yet to be determined. Hollow said the bank intends to maintain ownership of the building and lease it to someone. There have been conversations between the bank and the Postal Service about moving the post office into the bank building, but at this time there's nothing firm on that possibility.

Hollow said that after weighing the costs and problems associated with expanding the present building, it just seemed to make more sense to build a new building. He said the bank wants to be in the new building by next summer.

Ground has been broken and work is moving right along on construction of a new home for the First State Bank.

Sailing school stays in ship-shape

By L. Scott Swanson

The pointy end of the boat is called the bow. That's one of the real fundamentals of sailing and a pretty simple thing to remember. Beyond that, things get more complicated.

Several people, both young and old, are learning the finer points of sailing this summer through the Charlevoix County Sailors, a sailing school for children and adults.

Classes for young sailors meet during the day, Monday through Friday at Depot Beach. Adult sailors sail once a week in the evening. In the past, the sailing school was part of the Charlevoix County Youth Activities program. This year it is being coordinated by Charlevoix County 4-H.

Lanie Wilderom and Shawn O'Brien teach the class. Wilderom is in her fifth year of teaching at the school. The school has 10 boats, mostly small JV boats and a few Puffers. Each of the JVs was donated by area corporations or business people. Youth classes average about a dozen students, but can accommodate as many as 21. There are two youth classes, one in the morning and one in the afternoon.

This year the adult class has 18 students. Wilderom said that is "pretty outstanding." Normally, the adult classes only have about six students. Wilderom says 99 percent of the adult students are women. She also notes that between adults and kids, the kids are easier to work with.

"Adults have to know exactly what's going to happen," she said. The kids just take things in stride.

The students have skill sheets they work through. Among the topics covered in the class are: steering a straight course; rigging and unrig-ging a boat, how to be a good crew, a bit of swimming, some basic knots. There is always on-shore instruction period prior to taking to the water. Sailors are accompanied by instructors, who ride along in a small power boat.

"We want to get them in a situation where they have a clue and enjoy the activity," Wilderom explained.

A general goal of the program is to get people out on the water. Wilderom said the classes have a mixture of people who are vacationing in Charlevoix for the summer and people who live here throughout the year. The cost of the class is $45 per week for kids and $40 for the entire 4-session adult program. Kids can come to class for as few or for as many weeks as they desire.

Although the class is primarily geared toward fun and recreation some of the kids have formed a racing team that races once a week and has done pretty well.

Occasionally one of the boats will capsize. In the class, capsizing isn't always an accident. One of the things the students learn is how to right a capsized boat. All of the students wear life jackets.

Wilderom said the class works well for kids who have a lot of energy because sailing is a hands-on activity which keeps the young sailors moving.

This summer's sailing classes will continue through Aug. 15. Young sailors meet Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 12:45 p.m. and from 1:15 to 4 p.m. People with questions may phone 526-2718.

PUBLIC HEARING

Charlevoix City Council
Monday, August 5, 1991
City Hall, 210 State Street
7:00 p.m.

The Charlevoix City Council will hold a Public Hearing on the above date and time to receive public comments, written and oral on the following proposed amendment to the City Code. The amendment is as follows:

PROPOSED AMENDMENT CITY OF CHARLEVOIX STREET ABANDONMENT ORDINANCE

An Ordinance to provide for the vacation, discontinuance, or abolition of a street, alley, or public way, or a portion of a street, alley, or public way, within the City. This ordinance is pursuant to Act 288 of the Public Acts of 1967.

The City of Charlevoix hereby ordains:

Section 1. Title.

This Ordinance shall be known as the City of Charlevoix Street Abandonment Ordinance.

Section 2. Definitions.

As used in this Ordinance, the following words shall have the meaning prescribed herein:

- "Council" shall mean the City Council of the City of Charlevoix.
- "Clerk" shall mean the City Clerk for the City of Charlevoix, a duly appointed deputy, or other person designated by the Clerk to perform the Clerk's functions under this ordinance.
- "Street," "alley," or "public way" shall mean that portion of land within the City dedicated to the use of the public for purposes of pedestrian or vehicular travel.
- "Person" shall mean an individual, association, corporation, or partnership.

Section 3. Resolution.

When the Council deems it advisable to vacate, discontinue, or abolish any street, alley, or public way, or a portion thereof, it shall by resolution declare such intention and in the same resolution shall schedule a public hearing, not less than ten (10) days thereafter, when it will meet to hear public comment on such proposed action.

Section 4. Notice.

The Clerk shall cause a copy of the public hearing notice and a copy of the resolution to be published at least once in an official newspaper prior to the scheduled public hearing. Prior to the scheduled public hearing, the Clerk shall also send by first class mail a copy of the public hearing notice and a copy of the resolution to all property owners and all persons claiming under those owners located within three hundred (300) feet of the street, alley, or public way described in the resolution, based on the City's current tax assessment records.

Section 5. Public Hearing.

At the time scheduled for the public hearing, the Council shall hear public comment on the proposed action to vacate, discontinue, or abolish any street, alley, or public way, or a portion thereof. Comments regarding such proposed action of the Council may be stated at the public hearing or comments may be filed in writing with the Clerk at or prior to the public hearing.

Section 6. Council Action.

After considering the comments at the public hearing and any written comments filed with the Clerk, the Council by resolution shall be empowered to vacate, discontinue, or abolish any street, alley, or public way, or a portion thereof, but may not take action regarding any street, alley, or public way beyond that described in the original resolution of proposed action.

Section 7. Public Utility Easements.

When the Council determines that it is necessary for the health, welfare, comfort, and safety of the public to vacate, discontinue or abolish any street, alley, or public way, or a portion thereof, the Council may reserve an easement in the street, alley or public way for public utility purposes and/or other public purposes by including such reservation in the final resolution vacating, discontinuing, or abolishing the street, alley, or public way.

Section 8. Recording of Resolution.

Within thirty (30) days after the Council adopts a resolution vacating, discontinuing, or abolishing a street, alley, or public way, or a portion thereof, the Clerk shall record a certified copy of such resolution in the office of the Charlevoix County Register of Deeds. This resolution shall not be effective until recorded.

Section 9. Extension of Zoning Districts.

Whenever any street, alley, or public way, or a portion thereof, is vacated, discontinued, or abolished under this ordinance, the zoning district(s) adjoining each side of street, alley, or public way shall be automatically extended to the center of such vacation. All area included in the vacation shall then and henceforth be subject to all appropriate regulations of the extended district(s).

Section 10. Fee.

Before any action is taken as provided in this ordinance, the person proposing, recommending, or petitioning for the vacation, discontinuance, or abolition of a street, alley, or public way, or a portion thereof, shall pay to the Clerk a fee as fixed from time to time by resolution of the Council. Under no condition shall such fee or any part thereof be refunded for failure of such action to be approved by the Council.

Section 11. Exception.

- The Council may not vacate, discontinue or abolish that portion of any street, alley, or public way under its jurisdiction which is within twenty-five (25) meters of the lake or the general course of a stream and which is also located within a platted subdivision as long as such action is prohibited by state law.

Dear PhoneGuide:

My Post Control Business depends heavily on Yellow Pages. Advertising to reach emergency buyers and so make it easy for present customers to find me.

As a small, but growing business, I was disappointed with which area phone directory was receiving the most calls. Last year I conducted a two month survey asking area citizens which phone book they were calling from. 84% of 400 calls logged. I was surprised by over 92%. With this survey and the book of choice, I am confident that my Yellow Pages investment with PhoneGuide is a wise choice.

Thank you,

City considers three charter amendments

City voters will vote on at least two, and likely three, proposed amendments to the city charter at the Nov. 5 general election.

At the July 15 council meeting, council members approved putting two of the amendments on the ballot and raised the possibility of the third amendment.

The first of two amendments approved for the ballot concerns whether the city should have the power to adopt ordinances regulating waters and bottom lands within the city limits. The amendment itself would not put any new ordinances into effect, but it would give the city the power to adopt ordinances. What ordinances the city would adopt, or if the city would adopt ordinances, would remain to be seen. The city attorney has pointed out that given various rulings by Michigan courts, the legal status of local ordinances governing waterways isn't always crystal clear.

The second amendment is a procedural matter. Currently, requests for zoning variances go through the planning commission and to the zoning board of appeals. If the amendment is approved, variance requests will not go to the planning commission, but will go straight to the zoning board of appeals.

First ward council member Cheri Hoffman raised the possibility of placing a third amendment on the ballot. The amendment would eliminate the lapse between the time council members are elected and the time they take office. Currently council members are elected in November and take office at the first council meeting in January. Hoffman proposed to have voters consider an amendment which would change that so that council members take office at the first meeting following the election.

Wording for the amendment is being drafted for council consideration.

Two receive awards

Two Horton Bay residents were awarded Certificates of Bravery by Sheriff George T. Lasater during the annual Horton Bay Fourth of July ceremonies.

David Strutsman and Gordie Blair were cited for risking their personal safety in pulling two occupants from a burning car that had hit a tree near their homes and caught on fire.

After hearing the crash, the two men rushed to the scene of the accident and, after finding the doors locked, broke the glass with their fists in order to open the doors and pull the occupants away from the blazing vehicle.

The accident occurred near the intersection of the Boyne City Road and Lake Street in the village, on a curve which has been the scene of several accidents.

Both accident victims escaped with multiple but not critical injuries.

PUBLIC HEARING NOTICE

Charlevoix City Planning Commission
Monday, August 12, 1991
City Hall, 210 State Street
7:00 p.m.

The Charlevoix City Planning Commission will hold a Public Hearing on the above date and time to receive public comments, written and oral on the following proposed amendments to the Title V - Zoning and Planning, Chapter 51 of the City of Charlevoix City Code. The amendments are as follows:

PROPOSED AMENDMENTS

THE FOLLOWING ARE PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO THE DEFINITION SECTIONS OF CHAPTER 51 OF THE CHARLEVOIX CITY CODE:

- Section 5.9 (M-N) (4a)
Non-Use Variance - A variance allowing a use within a specific zoning district which is otherwise not allowed in that zone. Variances granted based on the showing of an unnecessary hardship.
- Section 5.10 (O-R) (5a)
Practical Difficulty - A situation whereby a property owner cannot establish a "minimum practical" legal use of a legal lot or parcel, meeting all of the dimensional standards of the zoning district within which the lot is located. Situations occurring due to the owners desire to establish a use greater than the "minimum practical" standard or to enhance economic gain greater than associated with a "minimum practical" standard; or created by an owner subsequent to the adoption date of this Ordinance is not a practical difficulty.
- Section 5.12 (U-Z)
Unnecessary Hardship - A situation whereby a property owner, due to conditions of a lot or parcel cannot use said lot or parcel for any legal use allowed by the Zoning Ordinance, within the district within which the lot is located. Situations occurring due to the owner's desire to establish an alternate use, when allowed use options are available or due to situations created by an owner subsequent to the enactment of this Ordinance shall not be deemed an unnecessary hardship.
- Section 5.12 (U-Z)
Use Variance - A variance allowing a use within a specific zoning district which is otherwise not allowed in that zone. Variances granted based on the showing of an unnecessary hardship.

Ministerial Association proposes teen center

The Charlevoix Ministerial Association is proposing the establishment of a teen center in the old Maxbauer's Dairy building at 206 West Lincoln Street.

"It's got tremendous possibilities for a well-run, clean, safe hang-out," said Rev. Bruce Hamilton of the Community Church of God.

Presently the proposal is in its developmental stages. Rev. Lowell Anderson of the Assembly of God Church is on the Ministerial Association committee which is working on the proposal. Anderson spoke on behalf of the proposal at a city planning commission meeting July 24.

Anderson said that although there are still things which need to be worked out, the impression he has received is that city officials are willing to work with the association on the project.

Two residents of homes near the proposed teen center attended the planning commission meeting and expressed concern about parking for the center and the hours it would be open.

Anderson said the Ministerial Association wants the project to have the cooperation and be in the good graces of the neighbors.

The association's stated goal for the center is to have it be a substance free youth activity and recreation center in a Christian environment. Or as Hamilton phrased it, "It's got tremendous possibilities for a well-run, clean, safe hang-out."

The building has 5,000 square feet of space. Among the possible activities which have been discussed are: arcade games, table tennis, billiards, board games, a skate board half-pipe and a weight room. In addition, the center might have offer youth guidance, snack food and occasional live entertainment.

Currently the association is looking at the center as a place which would serve middle school and high school students, although students from the two schools might have separate hours. There also might be some time set aside for young children during off hours.

The idea of establishing a youth center in Charlevoix is not something new. Hamilton said it's something he's been pushing for at least the past five years.

"There's little doubt about the need for it," he said.

At one time the Rainbow Shop had set aside $10,000 for the project, but factors including the campaign for a community swimming pool caused plans for a teen center to be temporarily shelved.

Anderson said the disappearance, search for, and eventual discovery of the body of Heather Kleiber is one issue which highlighted the needs of Charlevoix's young people.

Teen Center proposed on Lincoln Street

The Charlevoix Ministerial Association wants to convert this building into a teen center. The building is located at 206 West Lincoln and has 5,000 square feet of space. Some of the activities discussed for the center include: arcade games, table tennis, billiards, board games, youth guidance, snack food and occasional live entertainment.

"If we don't try, we'll always what if..." Hamilton said.

Anderson said the association feels it has the funds in place to get the center off the ground.

"They're positive," Anderson said of the ministers from 10 area churches that participate in the association.

Right now there is no definite timetable as to when the center would open. Currently the association is going through city channels and getting all of the paperwork in order.

"I'm hoping it can enjoy broad-based community support," Hamilton said.

"If all of the preliminary details can be worked out, the next question will be whether or not the center will be something that local young people will make use of.

Hamilton said he feels the key to answering that question will be getting young people involved in the center so they have a sense of responsibility and ownership.

Pageant mistake kicks off festival

It's not how long you reign, it's how well you reign while you reign.

Due to an error at the Miss Charlevoix pageant, Kendra Olinger was mistakenly crowned Thursday evening. Barely had the para settled comfortably into her long blond hair when the mistake came to light. Christine Dillon was actually the pageant winner. At the post pageant party, the contestants were informed of the mistake and Olinger turned the crown over to Dillon.

And just how did this mistake occur? Well...it's like this:

At the conclusion of the pageant, score sheets from three judges, all from out of town, were given to two auditors, Helen Emmons and Tim LaBlance, to be tabulated. The auditors added up the scores and listed the contestants off beneath

Historical Society to reenact gambling trial

By Peg Ohle

There hasn't been a gambling raid in Charlevoix since Aug. 30, 1947, but then there hasn't been a gambling house in Charlevoix since that time, either.

Charlevoix old-timers will remember the incident that closed the Colonial Inn (originally called Koch's—pronounced "Cook's"), which some described as being comparable to "Bradley's" in Palm Beach, where the elite went during the '20s and '30s.

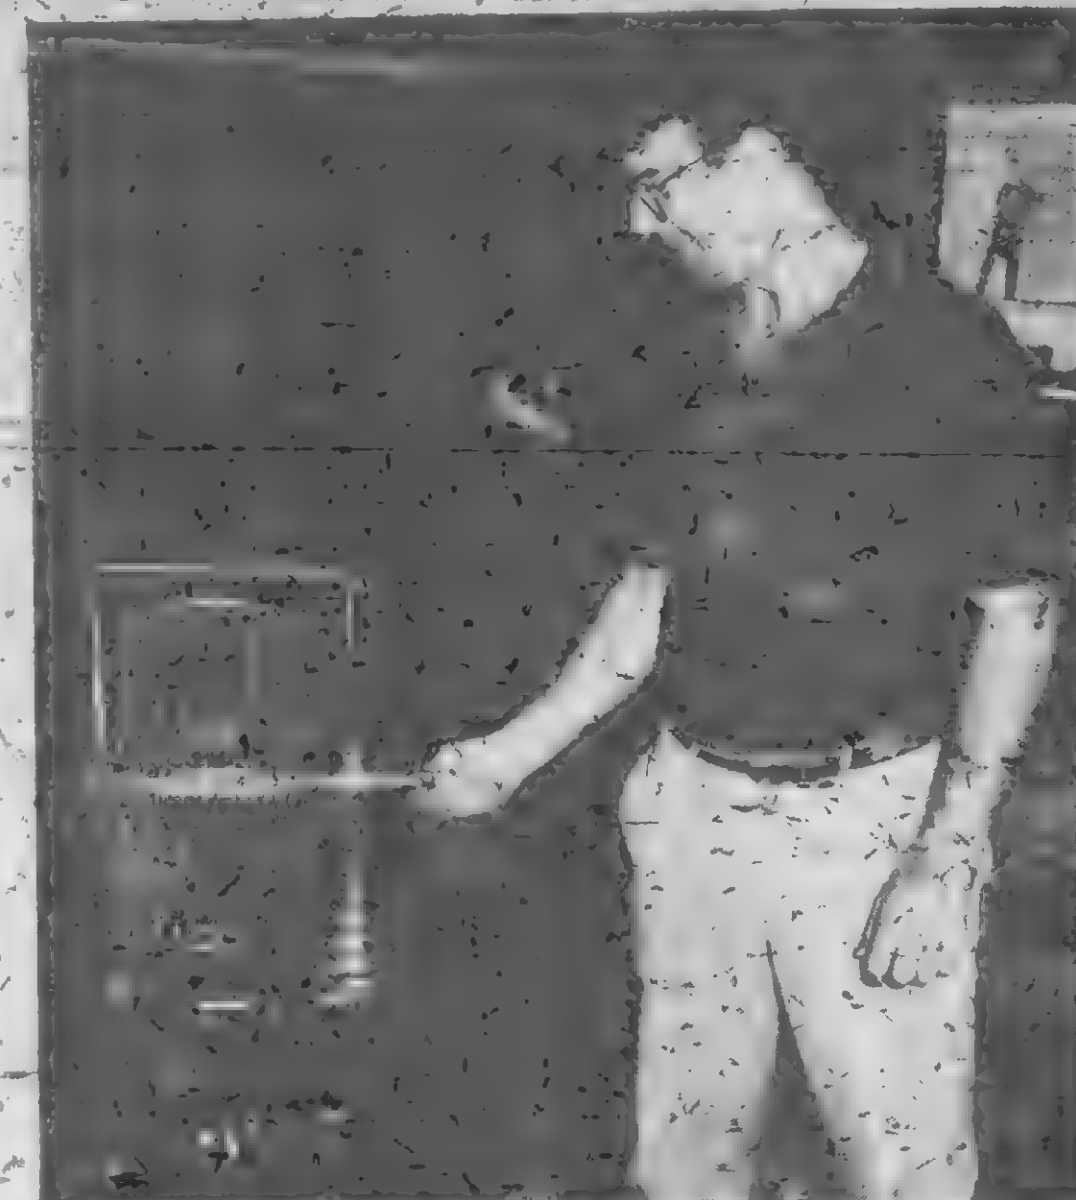

The Colonial Inn was located at 207 Meach Street, in the heart of Charlevoix's north side residential district, but most of its customers were summer residents who could afford to take a less-than-even chance on losing their dollars in a game of chance.

Those who remember the Colonial Inn, as well as those who like to hear about local events of the past, will have an interesting evening Tuesday, Aug. 6 when the gambling house trial of the Colonial Inn owners is reenacted by the Charlevoix Historical Society.

The trial will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Old County Jail (now the County Building Annex) at 203 Antrim Street.

The actual transcript of the trial will be played out by a cast of Charlevoix residents including Circuit Judge Richard M. Pajias, who will take the part of Justice Horace R. Fowler, who presided at the original trial.

Other participants will be: Louis Orlovski, prosecuting attorney; Geoffrey D. Reynolds, defense attorney; Dennis Halverson, Michigan State Police Sergeant; Dale Glass, liquor investigator; Louis Edwards, liquor investigator; Max Hosmer, Michigan State Police Trooper; Lod Hollow, part owner of the Colonial Inn; and George Lusk, another part owner of the Colonial Inn.

Some of the actual gambling equipment from the Colonial Inn, including a chuck-a-luck cage will be on display at the trial. There will also be a map of the Colonial Inn showing how the gambling quarters were hidden from the restaurant and bar area.

The Charlevoix Historical Society invites all interested people to attend the reenactment.

the other by order of finish on a single sheet of paper. The paper read: 1. Chrissy Dillon; 2. Tanya Weaver; 3. Kendra Olinger and also had the names of the two other contestants, Valerie Russell and Lori Darrah, listed.

The auditors, feeling that the announcement of the winners would only include the second runner up, first runner up and winner, underlined the third name on the list—Kendra Olinger.

Complicating matters further, for the pageant each contestant has a contestant number. These numbers are drawn on a random basis prior to the pageant. They have no significance other than to help the judges keep track of the contestants.

By contestant number, a list of the contestants would have read: 1. Chrissy Dillon; 2. Kendra Olinger; 3. Tanya Weaver etc. It would have been quite similar to the listing by finish.

After the auditors tabulated the results and compiled the list, they handed it to pageant director Yvonne Engler who took the list to the pageant emcee Christopher Knight.

Apparently the list was interpreted to be by contestant number, rather than by order of finish. The line beneath Olinger's name led to the mistaken conclusion that she was the winner.

Knight announced the winner of Miss Congeniality—Russell and the winner of the talent competition—Dillon and then announced that the queen was Kendra Olinger.

In what will undoubtedly go down as one of the most ironic moments in Charlevoix pageant histothe auditors, Emmmons and LaBlance, who anticipated being the people who would be least surprised by the announcement of the winner, were in fact the most surprised. If they'd been any more surprised, they might well have fallen out of their chairs.

Last year's queen, Jennifer Bonar, placed the crown on Olinger's head and Olinger received the applause of the audience. And it was a large audience, several hundred, perhaps even a thousand, people.

The crowning of the queen is always a special moment and this crowning was no exception. The newly crowned queen wore a beautiful red evening gown. Her sparkling crown matched her sparkling smile. Stunning and radiant are words which are subject to overuse, but in this case they would probably be appropriate.

Cameras flashed. The audience applauded. The new queen's mother came down and gave her a kiss and a hug. It was a warm and touching moment.

Now do you think that at a moment like this the auditors were going to stand up and shout—Wait! There's been some mistake.

Not hardly.

As soon as the ceremony ended and the crowd disbursed, Emmmons, the judges, Chamber of Commerce director Jacqueline Merta and directors of the pageant convened.

There are certain situations in life which seem to require no effort to get into, but can be terribly complicated to get out of. The people who convened following the pageant found themselves in just such a situation.

After discussing the matter, the group concluded that there was only one thing to do. As Merta said later, it might not have been the easy thing to do, but it was the right thing to do.

Pointing out the mistake during the crowning wouldn't have been easy, but calling the contestants aside during the post-pageant dinner to inform them of the mistake was no picnic either.

Fortunately, the two girls involved, Olinger and Dillon, are friends and handled the matter with grace and dignity.

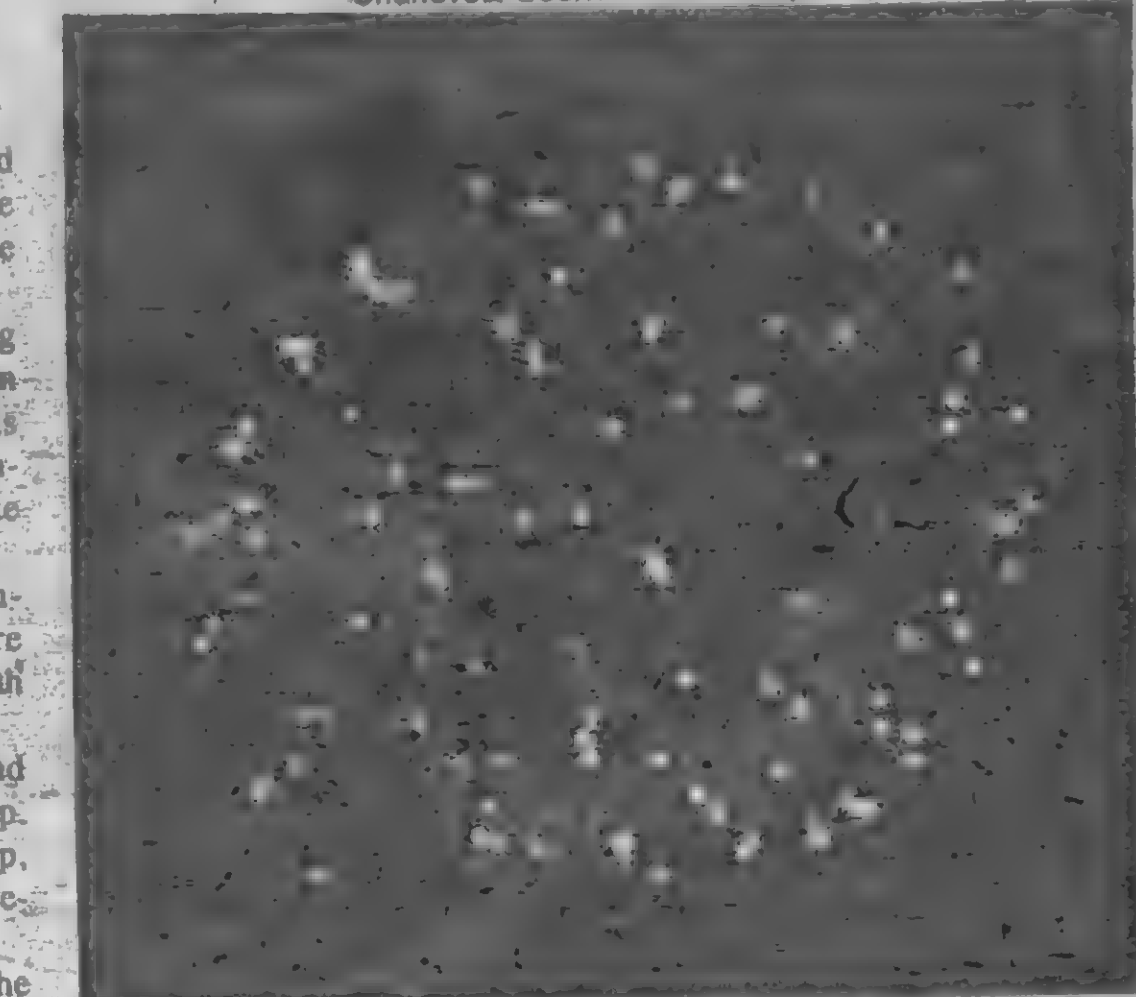

Dillon was crowned queen and will receive a $1,000 scholarship. As first and second runners up, Weaver and Olinger will each receive $250 scholarships.

Merta said that even though the mistake was unfortunate, it was simply an honest mistake which has been rectified.

With the exception of that one mistake, the rest of the Vexell Festival and for that matter the rest of the pageant went quite smoothly.

Friday night's drum and bugle corps competition drew a standing room only crowd. More than 300 runners participated in Saturday morning's Drenth Memorial Foot Races. There were 83 entries in the street parade and 20 entries in the boat parade. A crowd which probably exceeded 15,000 people witnessed a spectacular fireworks display.

Although the fireworks started late Saturday evening (about 10:45) once they did get started they were spectacular. The boat parade preceding the fireworks had 20 entries this year.

Editorial

Pageant mistake should now be relegated to the past

Granted, there was a mistake made during the crowning of the Miss Charlevoix pageant (see story page 1), but now let's bury it and get on with life. The mistake was simply a misinterpretation and an innocent human error. Correcting it wasn't easy, but it had to be done and was done.

The mistake should not be allowed to in any way damage future Venetian pageants or festivals. Despite the mistake, pageant organizers and the candidates deserve praise for this year's pageant. Regardless of how anyone feels about pageants in general, it must be conceded that the Miss Charlevoix pageant is one of the more polished and professional pageants that you will find in a small town. Pageant organizers have brought in quality entertainment and the contestants have displayed impressive talent.

Perhaps the bright side of the whole debacle is that the citizens of Charlevoix can take comfort in the knowledge that we have no shortage of qualified young ladies to serve as Miss Charlevoix. During the 1991 Venetian Festival two young ladies wore the Miss Charlevoix crown, first Kendra Olinger and subsequently, Chrissy Dillon. What attributes does the community want to see in whomever is chosen as Miss Charlevoix? We want someone who is pleasant, talented, attractive and who we can be proud to have represent us at various festivals and events throughout the area and the state. We were never without that. The two young ladies' gracious handling of the crowning foul-up underscores that fact.

As to future pageants, the procedure which allowed the mistake to occur should be corrected and the mistake should become nothing more than an interesting memory.

Letters to the Editor:

Editor,

The Lake Charlevoix Farms Exceptional Riders Program has completed another successful session and would like to thank everyone who helped out.

The program would not be possible except for the generosity of the owners of Lake Charlevoix Farms, the people who provide and take care of the horses, the board members, the volunteers who helped with the horses and especially the students and their parents.

We plan to start registration for our fall session in August and September. Meanwhile, have a great summer.

Cyndy Shaw on behalf of Lake Charlevoix Farms Exceptional Riders Program

Students and volunteer instructors at the Lake Charlevoix Farms Exceptional Riders Program recently completed a successful summer session. The program uses horseback riding to work with children who have special needs.

1991 Venetian Festival

More than 300 runners participated in the 1 mile, 5K and 10K races which comprised the Drenth Memorial Venetian Festival Footrace. Jed Hopfensperger, a college friend of the late Jeff Drenth, won the 10K race.

The annual Venetian fireworks display drew a crowd of people which seemed to pack every nook and cranny of Charlevoix's downtown area. According to estimates by local people the crowd may have exceeded 15,000 people.

You don't just start right out as the head clown in Ringling Brothers Circus. You've got to pay your dues and start out as a young clown marching in the Venetian Street Parade.

Charlevoix fireman Doug Bergmann, assisted by Lyle and Gayle Gennett's dalmation dog, drove one of the firetrucks in the street parade.

BEACONS

by Rev. Bruce Hamilton

Once upon a time there was a little girl who lived on a farm. She loved to wander the fields and meadows around her home. But one day, she wandered a little farther away from home than usual and she realized she was lost.

She wasn't really worried. She just sat down and decided to wait. It wasn't long before the farmer who owned that field came along and found her.

"Don't cry little girl. I'll see that you get back home right away," said the farmer.

"Oh, I wasn't crying," said the little girl. "I knew you would come."

"How did you know that?"

"I was praying."

"You were praying?" said the farmer. "When I came over the hill you were saying A B C D E F G."

"I know," she said. "I didn't know exactly what to pray so I just prayed all the letters of the alphabet. I figured God could put them together the way they needed to be and here I am, safe and sound."

Did you ever hear that saying that a little child shall lead them? I wish more of us grown ups would realize that God can take all the letters of our lives and put them in the order they need to be for things to turn out right.

When we were young, most of us know beyond doubt that there wasn't anything that our parents wouldn't do for us. Dad was the conquering hero. Whether it was chasing away the monsters out of our room in the middle of the night or erecting a basketball hoop over the garage to help you make the team, he would do it because he loved us. And speaking of love, if ever there was an unlimited source of the world's most powerful emotion, it was Mom. She could love us when we were grimy and smelly. She still loved us even when we knew we were mean. Can you share in memories like that?

Why, just because we get a little older, does our trust have to change all that much? Jesus is the conquering hero. He can wash away the sins, fears and doubts, those grown up monsters that take so much out of our lives. And when it comes to love, there is nothing quite like knowing that the Lord loves you and is concerned about even the smallest part of your life.

Do you ever have moments where you're not sure what to pray? Remember our little girl and her alphabet prayer? Even if your thoughts don't always make sense, never hesitate to lift them to the Lord. He knows how to put the pieces together. He will be there for you.

Lucille (Gallagher) Barnett

Mrs. Lucille (Gallagher) Barnett, 65, of Wyoming, MI, and formerly of Charlevoix died June 26. Surviving her are: her husband, Lloyd; a daughter and son-in-law, Paula and Dewey Hummel of Walker; a son, Robert Barnett of Florida; and several grand children and great grand children.

Mrs. Barnett was a member of American Legion Auxiliary #226. Funeral services were held in Grandville, MI and officiated by Rev. Calvin C. Bloom of Sunset Park Church of God. Burial took place in Grand Rapids.

Children invited to Vacation Bible School

As in summers past, the churches of Charlevoix will once again be hosting a Vacation Bible School August 12 - 15 from 8:45 a.m. to 11:50 a.m. Vacation Bible School will take place on the grounds of the Assembly of God Church, M-66, Charlevoix.

This is an ecumenical Vacation Bible School, and children of all faiths are welcome. Registration will be at 8:45 a.m. Aug. 12 at the Assembly of God Church. Children ages Kindergarten through 5th Grades are invited to attend. Cost per child is $3, or $10 per family.

City police are investigating assault

City police are investigating an assault which took place between 4 a.m. and 4:30 a.m. July 26 on East Dixon near Burns Street.

According to police a 35-year-old Charlevoix woman was walking on the sidewalk when a man grabbed her from behind. After a brief struggle, the woman either escaped or was released and ran to her home.

The man also ran from the scene. The man is described as a white male, approximately 6 feet tall with light hair and a stocky build. During the attack he had some type of white material covering the lower half of his face.

Police have been contacting residents of the area to see if they saw or heard anything.

The assault was only one of several matters city police handled during the busy Venetian Weekend. City police chief Dennis Halverson said that in addition to the assault, city police spent the weekend dealing with a variety of crimes which occur in conjunction with activities that draw large crowds, included among the complaints of officers responded to were complaints of minors in possession of alcohol, larceny of a boat mooring, people jumping off of the bridge, malicious destruction of property and assault and battery.

Halverson said that following the fireworks, officers directed traffic until 12:30 a.m. He added that from 10 a.m. Saturday evening until 7 a.m. Sunday morning the night shift officers were constantly busy handling complaints.

Charlevoix Courier SUMMER TIMES

Charlevoix has plenty of historical sites to visit

By Peg Ohle

History buffs who visit Charlevoix will find many sites of interest.

Greensky Hill Mission Church

Although the first white men, commercial fishermen, did not settle the area until the 1840s, which historians consider "just yesterday," long before then, Charlevoix was home to bands of Ottawa and Chippewa Indians who hunted the deep forests, fished the abundant waters, and developed a culture that eventually incorporated Christianity.

A legacy of that culture remains today just outside the City of Charlevoix in the Greensky Hill Mission Church. The congregation was founded in 1833, and the present log church was built in the 1850s. It is still used as a house of worship during the summer months by descendants of the early members and visitors to the area.

Greensky Hill Mission Church is the oldest continuously operating Indian congregation in Michigan. It is under the jurisdiction of the United Methodist Church of Charlevoix, and Sunday services begin at 9:30 a.m. The church is located on Old U.S. 31 North, off the Boyne City Road, on Susan Lake, about three miles north and east of Charlevoix.

Father Charlevoix Marker

The City of Charlevoix and the County of Charlevoix are named for Father Pierre Francois Xavier de Charlevoix, who traveled the Great Lakes during the early eighteenth century looking for the long-sought passage to the Pacific Ocean. His writings indicate that some time during the late summer of 1721, he landed at Fort Michilimackinac on Mackinac Island and from there paddled his way along the eastern shore of Lake Michigan to Beaver Island. There is no record of his ever having set foot on the shore where the City of Charlevoix is now located, but the area had to have been within his view. To commemorate Father Charlevoix's visit, a marker was placed on the shore of Lake Michigan at the site of the historic battle between Charlevoix fishermen and Beaver Island Mormons.

...Charlevoix offers plenty for historians

Charlevoix's trip, the Charlevoix Garden Club placed a bronze marker on a boulder at the west (Lake Michigan) end of Dixon Avenue as its bicentennial project. There is a fine view of Lake Michigan from this spot and wooden stairs lead down to the beach.

Battle of Pine River Market

This State Historic Site Marker recalls the Battle of Pine River in 1853, in which the Strangite Mormons of Beaver Island and the mainland (Charlevoix) non-Mormons engaged in battle. The result was that the non-Mormons left the area, only to return following the death of James J. Strang in 1856. The story of James J. Strang and his "Kingdom of St. James" on Beaver Island recalls an unusual part of Michigan history. Those with the time and inclination would be well rewarded by a trip to Beaver Island, some 21 miles off the shore of Charlevoix in Lake Michigan. The Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce has information.

Ironton Ferry

In another, quite different vein, the Ironton Ferry, which crosses the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix at Ironton, has an interesting history. It is believed that the first "ferry boat" was a canoe manned by a resident of Ironton who peddled travelers back and forth across the narrow channel for five cents.

Then, in 1876, a barge operated by cables was installed. Cable-operated ferries have been going back and forth across the channel ever since. Today, the ferry is operated by a diesel-fueled engine and carries automobiles and trucks instead of horses and wagons, but most people use it for the same reason—to save mileage on their travels from the eastern to western parts of Charlevoix County, and vice versa.

There are also those who ride the ferry to add a "boat trip" to their automobile vacation, and those who leave their cars at the ramps on one side or the other of the channel and ride back and forth on the ferry as "pedestrian passengers."

The Ironton Ferry became a real conversation piece many years ago when Ripley of "Believe It Or Not" fame featured it in one of his cartoons.

To reach the Ironton Ferry from Charlevoix, follow Belvedere Avenue and Ferry Road east to Highway M-66. On M-66, you will pass several large stone structures called "The Castle," where music concerts are held during the summer. These buildings are the remodeled remains of the barns of Loch Farms, a showplace dairy farm built during the early 1920s.

Harsha House Museum

The Victorian house at 102 State Street, just two blocks from downtown, was built in 1891 by an early Charlevoix business man, Horace S. Harsha, and his wife Margaret. In 1978, it was willed to the Charlevoix Historical Society by Horace and Margaret's grand daughter, Anne Harsha. Since that time, the house and grounds have been completely renovated to make them representative of the era in which the house was built.

An unobtrusive addition houses many items from Charlevoix's past, including an operating player piano, pictures, maps, articles of clothing, church histories, housewares, and many other things that make young people ask, "What's that?" and others to say, "I wonder what happened to the one my mother had."

The main floor of the Harsha House also has many museum pieces, including a living room furnished in the period of the late 18th century. There is also a filing cabinet full of indexed pictures covering many aspects of Charlevoix history.

Harsha House was recently named a State Historic Site and is well worth a visit, if only to see what a well kept 100-year-old house can look like. The house and museum are open Wednesdays through Sundays during the summer from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Other Houses

In reality, there are many 100-year-old houses in Charlevoix, mostly in the old resort communities of the Belvedere Club and the Chicago Club. The first house on the Belvedere Club grounds was built in 1878.

Founding the Charlevoix Summer Resort (now the Belvedere Club) and through the next few years, the resort grew into a sizeable community. The roads through the club grounds are private, but many of the houses are visible along Belvedere Avenue.

The Chicago Club was founded shortly after the Charlevoix Summer Resort and grew along the same lines, with most home owners coming from the Chicago area. The Chicago Club is on the north side of Charlevoix, with access from East Dixon Avenue, from which many of these older houses can be seen.

Many examples of another type of architecture are visible in Charlevoix. They are the boulder-studded houses built by Charlevoix real estate broker Earl Young beginning in the 1920's. Young was not an architect and used the boulders simply because he "liked rocks", those who knew him say. There are about 30 Young houses in Charlevoix, most of them along Park Avenue, in Boulder Park, and on the shores of Round Lake. He also built the Weatherlane Inn and the Weatherlane Terrace Motel. They are all easily identifiable.

Horton Bay

This small community about 12 miles east of Charlevoix on the Boyne City Road, has become a Mecca for persons interested in the life and works of Ernest Hemingway. The author spent most of his growing-up summers in Horton Bay, fishing in the bay and in the creek. His friends and neighbors there supplied the background for some of his best short stories, the "Nick Adams" stories and others.

Hemingway was married to his first wife in Horton Bay, in a church that stood next to the General Store. Romanticists who may not have read any of his works find this spot interesting. If time permits and Nick Adams has been part of your required reading in school or college, a side trip to Horton Bay is in order.

Cellular phones allow police to reach out and touch someone

It's an obvious pairing - the "long arm of the law" and a form of communication that wants to "reach out and touch someone." The Charlevoix City Police Department recently added cellular phones to two city patrol cars.

One of the two phones was installed about three weeks ago and has already been used to place a call. Officers called ahead to see whether or not someone they wanted to talk to was home. Although that might seem kind of peculiar at first glance, such a call can save an officer 20 minutes to half an hour by preventing a wasted trip. That time can then be spent more productively on other things.

Police chief Dennis Halverson said the phones aren't being paid for by the police department's regular budget, but are being funded by money and the sale of goods seized in drug investigations. He said officers were discussing how they could use drug seizure revenues to improve the department and came up with the idea of cellular phones. The phones cost $150 each to install in the cars, plus $27 a month to keep in the cars plus 20 cents per minute for each call.

While the phones probably aren't something officers will use on a daily basis, Halverson said he feels there are several situations where the phones will prove beneficial.

Radio transmissions from patrol cars can often be picked up by whoever has a radio monitor. Consequently officers and dispatchers often have to be careful what they say over the airwaves. That can lead to officers walking into a situation without as much information as they might otherwise have. The phones add a measure of privacy to the conversations.

The phones also allow an officer to talk directly to people involved in an incident, rather than relaying messages back and forth through a dispatcher. An officer at the scene of a crime can now call the prosecutor and get information which might make a difference in a subsequent trial. An officer at an accident scene can phone ahead to offer information to a hospital staff. In some situations, it is advantageous for an officer to be able to phone into a house to ascertain the situation before walking in.

Cellular phones also open up some possibilities for future police department technological improvements. Although there aren't any firm plans to do so at this time, in the future the department might be able to add a portable modem to the cellular phones. That would not only add to the privacy of transmissions, but would also allow officers to have information about a person transmitted to them at the scene of a traffic stop.

City police officer Peter Shrift dials one of the cellular phones recently installed in two city patrol cars.

Official Notice

PUBLIC HEARING NOTICE
Charlevoix City Council
August 19, 1991
City Hall, 210 State Street
7:00 p.m.

The Charlevoix City Council will hold a Public Hearing on the above date and time to receive public comments, written and oral, on the following proposed amendment to the Title V, Zoning and Planning, Chapter 51 of the City of Charlevoix City Code. The amendments are as follows:

Revised July 26, 1991

An ordinance to amend the Code of the City of Charlevoix by adding to TITLE V - ZONING AND PLANNING, CHAPTER 51, ZONING, as follows:
THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX ORDAINS:
SECTION 5.21, "LIR" LAKE SHORE RESIDENTIAL be added:

Statement of Intent
 The purpose of regulations covering this district is to provide for appropriate residential development along the lake shores which will protect both the environment as well as scenic qualities of that unique land area. Views from the lake are deemed as important as views from adjacent development to the lake. New development along the lake shore should give appropriate consideration to adjacent established development.

SECTION 5.22, USE REGULATIONS be added:
 Land and buildings in the LIR zone may be used for the following purpose only:

- (1) One (1) single family dwelling on each lot or per condominium unit.
- (2) Accessory uses, provided that no accessory buildings shall be constructed within a required minimum yard.
- (3) In addition to (2) above, private boat docks, beaches and similar lake front uses, provided all surfaces within rear yard areas, shall be pervious surfaces.
- (4) Special uses that may be authorized in this zone district include the following uses, provided that an application is submitted for a special use permit and approved in accordance with the procedures, provisions, and standards of Article VIII of this Chapter:
 - (a) Site condominiums meeting all of the use and dimensional requirements of Sections 5.22, 5.23 and 5.200, provided the Planning Commission finds that an alternate proposal if approved will meet or surpass the objectives set out in the statement of intent (Section 5.21) and will not allow a greater density of use than allowed under Section 5.22 and Section 5.23.

SECTION 5.23, OTHER REGULATIONS be added:

- (1) Front Yard. There shall be a minimum front yard of not less than twenty-five (25) feet.
- (2) Side Yard. There shall be a minimum side yard requirement of twenty (20) feet, provided a total of at least fifty (50) feet of combined side yard setback.

Notice

(3) Rear Yard. There shall be a minimum rear yard of not less than fifty (50) feet.

(4) Lot Area. The minimum lot size in this zone shall be fifteen thousand (15,000) square feet exclusive of the right-of-way, easement or common area required for adequate permanent access. All impervious surfaces including buildings and/or structures, exclusive of drives and access roads, shall not exceed more than thirty (30%) percent of the useable lot area.

(5) Lot Width. The minimum lot width in this zone shall be one hundred and fifty (150) feet measured along the water mark.

(6) Setback from the Water. There shall be a minimum setback of fifty (50) feet from the water mark of the adjacent lake or water body.

Tree cutting shall be limited in accordance with the following provisions:

- a. No more than thirty (30%) percent of the length of this strip shall be clear cut to the depth of the strip.
- b. Provide further, that cutting of this thirty (30%) percent shall not create a clear cut opening in this strip greater than thirty (30) feet wide for every one hundred (100) feet of shoreline or normal stream bank.
- c. In the remaining seventy (70%) percent length of this strip, cutting shall leave sufficient cover to screen cars, dwellings, as seen from the water, to preserve natural beauty and to control erosion.
- d. Natural shrubbery, trees, or other vegetation shall be preserved as far as practicable, and where removed, it shall be replaced with other vegetation that is equally effective in retarding run off, preventing erosion and preserving natural beauty.

e. Paths, any paths, roads or passages within the strip shall be so constructed or surfaced as to be effective in controlling erosion.

f. Cutting Plan. as an alternative to the above requirements, a special cutting plan allowing greater cutting may be permitted by the Board of Appeals. In applying for such a permit, the Board may require the lot owner to submit a sketch of this lot, including the following information: location of all structures; location of parking; gradient of the land; existing vegetation; proposed cutting and proposed replanting. The Board may grant such a permit only if it finds that such special cutting plans:

1. Will not cause erosion or destruction of scenic beauty; and
2. Will provide screening from the water of dwellings, accessory structures and parking areas. The Board may condition such a permit upon a guarantee of tree planting by the lot owner. Such an agreement shall be enforceable in court.

No fertilizers shall be allowed within this area. No sea walls, retaining walls, or fill shall be allowed within this area other than shoreline and soil erosion control practices utilizing loose lead natural stone.

(7) Elevation. The first floor elevation shall not be below 584 N.S.V.D.

SECTION 5.200, BUILDING HEIGHTS shall be amended as follows:

Zone District	Height
LIR	24.5' above elevation 586.0 N.G.V.D. in height, when a lot abuts a water body, provided in any event the building height shall not exceed 24.5'

BUSINESS

Dilworth's moves boats

(Editor's note: The following story is part of a series of stories on area business being written for the Courier by Ralph McRae. McRae is a former city mayor and council member and presently serves on the city's Industrial Development Committee.)

By Ralph McRae

Given that its business is boats, the Dilworth Boat Shop is certainly in an ideal location. The shop is located in the lower level of the Wharfside Market Building. Its sales area and offices face Round Lake.

Dilworth Boat Shop is a boat brokerage. Like a broker in other businesses, a boat broker brings buyers and sellers together.

Jim Withers handles the brokerage transactions. He is assisted by Don Mol.

The Dilworth Boat Shop is only one of many such boat brokerage firms scattered throughout the country. The firms have a sophisticated computer network listing sail and power boats which are for sale throughout the country. In a matter of minutes a person interested in purchasing a boat can receive a computer printout describing a boat which meets his specifications.

Boats can be purchased with a 10 to 20 percent down payment and financing can be arranged by specialists in marine finance. Often, transactions are finalized by fax machines and there are times when the broker never sees both the seller and the buyer. Boat brokers are paid a commission for the sale.

In addition to brokering boats, Dilworth's also sells and services navigational equipment. The most advanced system is called GPS which stands for Global Positioning System. It uses orbiting satellites to let skippers know, within 10 feet, their boat's position on the globe. Along with navigational systems, Dilworth's sells and services sonar depth finders and fish locators. Dave Patrie, who has several years experience, installs and repairs such systems throughout northern Michigan.

Dilworth's has almost 3,000 square feet of sales area. The sales area has several racks of fashionable clothing for boaters. Dilworth's also stocks charts of the Great Lakes.

The Dilworth facility has no slips or docking facilities, but they do repair and service boats at their off-shore location on Loeb Road. At that site, they have 48,000 feet of boat storage space and can accommodate as many as 150 boats up to 50 feet in length.

Dilworth began its watercraft enterprise in Boyne City five years ago and moved to Charlevoix one year later. Currently, Dilworth employs 20 people. Steve Orr is the service manager and Frank North is the general manager for the Charlevoix branch.

Benson hired as downtown coordinator

Robert Kern, President of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce, has announced the selection of Rodney F. Benson as Downtown Coordinator for the City of Charlevoix.

The Coordinator will work with downtown merchants and building owners, the chamber of commerce and the Downtown Development Authority to address issues related to improving the downtown business climate and other non bricks and mortar issues. This position has been funded by the Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority and is being administered by the Chamber.

Benson lives in Petoskey and is owner, with his wife Carol, of the Benson House Bed and Breakfast, and is principal of Rod Benson and Associates, Consultants.

Benson is a 25 year Chamber management veteran; Chamber President in Ann Arbor, five years in Boulder, Colorado, and five years in Kalamazoo, MI. Each of these cities is noted for the health and vitality of their downtowns.

He was an instructor in Downtown Development for the Institutes for Organization Management of the U.S. Chamber 1976-79. He is a member of the Michigan Advisory Council and U.S. Small Business Administration, and a former member of the National Advisory Council of SBA.

Benson initiated small business assistance programs in three chambers. Specific downtown projects include the multi use Kalamazoo Center Project in downtown Kalamazoo; a combination hotel, convention center, retail and office complex; reconstruction of the Kalamazoo Mall; and residential and industrial development in the downtown.

In Boulder, Benson was involved in the construction of one of the world's most successful pedestrian malls as well as reconstruction of downtown buildings to their original fronts.

Manicurist joins shop

You can now have your artificial nails taken care of in Charlevoix. That's the message of Ann Holland, manicurist at Sheer Happiness, 710 Bridge Street.

Holland has been doing nails for four years, but just recently came to Charlevoix. Her artificial nails are O.P.I. Acrylic, which she says are very strong and will last about a month. They come in all colors and shades from white to very dark. Besides applying artificial nails, Holland does manicures with a massage, pedicures with a massage, and French manicures.

Holland is at Sheer Happiness Tuesdays through Fridays from 9 to 5, Saturdays from 9 to 12, and evenings by appointment. She lives in Horton Bay with her husband Bill and two young children.

Parade winners named

There were 83 entries in the 1991 Venetian Street Parade.

"It was wonderful. We had a great turnout," said parade chair Pam Drury.

Winning floats in the parade were: first place, Harbor Industries; second place, Ebenezer Christian School; third place, Burger King. Receiving honorable mention were: Central Lake Torch Post, the Zonta Club, Marvin Gardens, Smith's Little Acres, and the Community Reformed Church.

Special Recognition was given to the Show Your Colors support group.

The parade was highlighted by a flyover by two military jets.

Charles E. MacInnis has been named director of news and information and subsequently, as a writer and producer for both WJBK (Ch.2)

MacInnis, 44, had been public affairs director of the Company's Big Rock Point Nuclear Plant, located near Charlevoix, for the past seven years. He joined Consumers Power Company in 1979 as an employee communication associate and was subsequently promoted to financial staff writer and public information specialist.

Following a tour of duty in the U.S. Army Signal Corps in Vietnam, MacInnis worked as a weathercaster and reporter for WWTW/WWUP-TV in Cadillac from Michigan State University in 1968. He and his wife Kathleen have two sons, Scott, 15, and Robert, 11. They plan to reside in the Jackson area.

The Township of Eyeline will sponsor a one time clean up Saturday, August 3, 1991 for township residents only. Bagged, containerized or bulk rubbish will be picked up by Waste Management under an agreement with Eyeline Township. By following this list of guidelines we will maintain a clean Township.

1. Pick up will begin at 7:00 a.m. There will be one pass only for each residential dwelling. Have your contributions out early.

2. Place all items at the edge of your property by the roadway. Make sure all wanted items are away from the roadway.

3. Make sure all small items are containerized or packaged not to exceed 50 lbs. per container. Brush or wood should be bundled and not exceed four feet in length.

4. Please ensure no vehicles are blocking the rubbish.

5. Appliances and furniture will be accepted.

6. Items that will NOT be collected are:

Household Garbage	Refrs
Dirt	Gravel
Bricks	Concrete
Construction Debris	Stumps
All Automobile Parts	Oil
Paint	Batteries
Any Liquids Of Any Kind

*For automobile pick up call M & L Auto Parts at 538-7449 and this service will be made available to you at no cost/also.

Any further questions, please call Twp. Supervisor, David Wilson at 582-9428 or this Clerk, Margie Beinhart at 547-5770.

Wynkoop ruled competent for trial

Andrew Wynkoop has been found competent to stand trial. A preliminary hearing on a charge of open murder in the Heather Kleiber case is scheduled for 9 a.m. Sept. 4 in the Charlevoix courthouse.

District Court Judge Harvey C. Varnum ruled Wynkoop competent to stand trial during a competency hearing this past Thursday, Aug. 3. Varnum referred to a three-page report which resulted from a court-ordered psychiatric examination. Varnum said the report indicates that Wynkoop is competent to assist his attorney in his defense.

Varnum said there is also a second report resulting from the psychiatric examination concerning Wynkoop's psychiatric state at the time of the alleged crimes. Varnum said he does not have a copy of that report, but that both the prosecuting attorney and defense attorney have copies.

Wynkoop's attorney, Edwin Gregory, has filed a motion seeking an independent examination to determine whether or not Wynkoop suffered from a diminished capacity at the time of the crime due to the consumption of alcohol and other drugs. Gregory said the initial evaluation indicates that even though Wynkoop was found competent to stand trial there should be additional testing in regard to the question of diminished capacity.

Varnum asked assistant prosecutor Karen Neumeier if that is her interpretation of the report. She said that it generally is and that the prosecution will agree to an independent evaluation but wants the court, rather than the defense, to choose the evaluator.

Varnum said he would appoint an independent psychiatric evaluator. He said he recently appointed an evaluator in a case in Emmet County. He said that evaluator, Dr. Emmanuel Tenay, is a professor from Wayne State University who has a summer home in the area. Varnum said Tenay may also be available to evaluate Wynkoop. Varnum set a limit of $750 on the cost of the independent evaluation.

Wynkoop also faces murder charges in the March abduction and death of Katherine McCleese. No date has been set for the preliminary hearing in that case.

In agreeing to the independent examination, Varnum noted that he would not allow the examination to delay the preliminary hearing. He said that regardless of the status of the examination, the hearing will begin Sept. 4. In anticipation of a lengthy hearing, Varnum set aside two days on the court docket, Sept. 4 and 5.

County MADD chapter marks its first year

By L. Scott Swanson

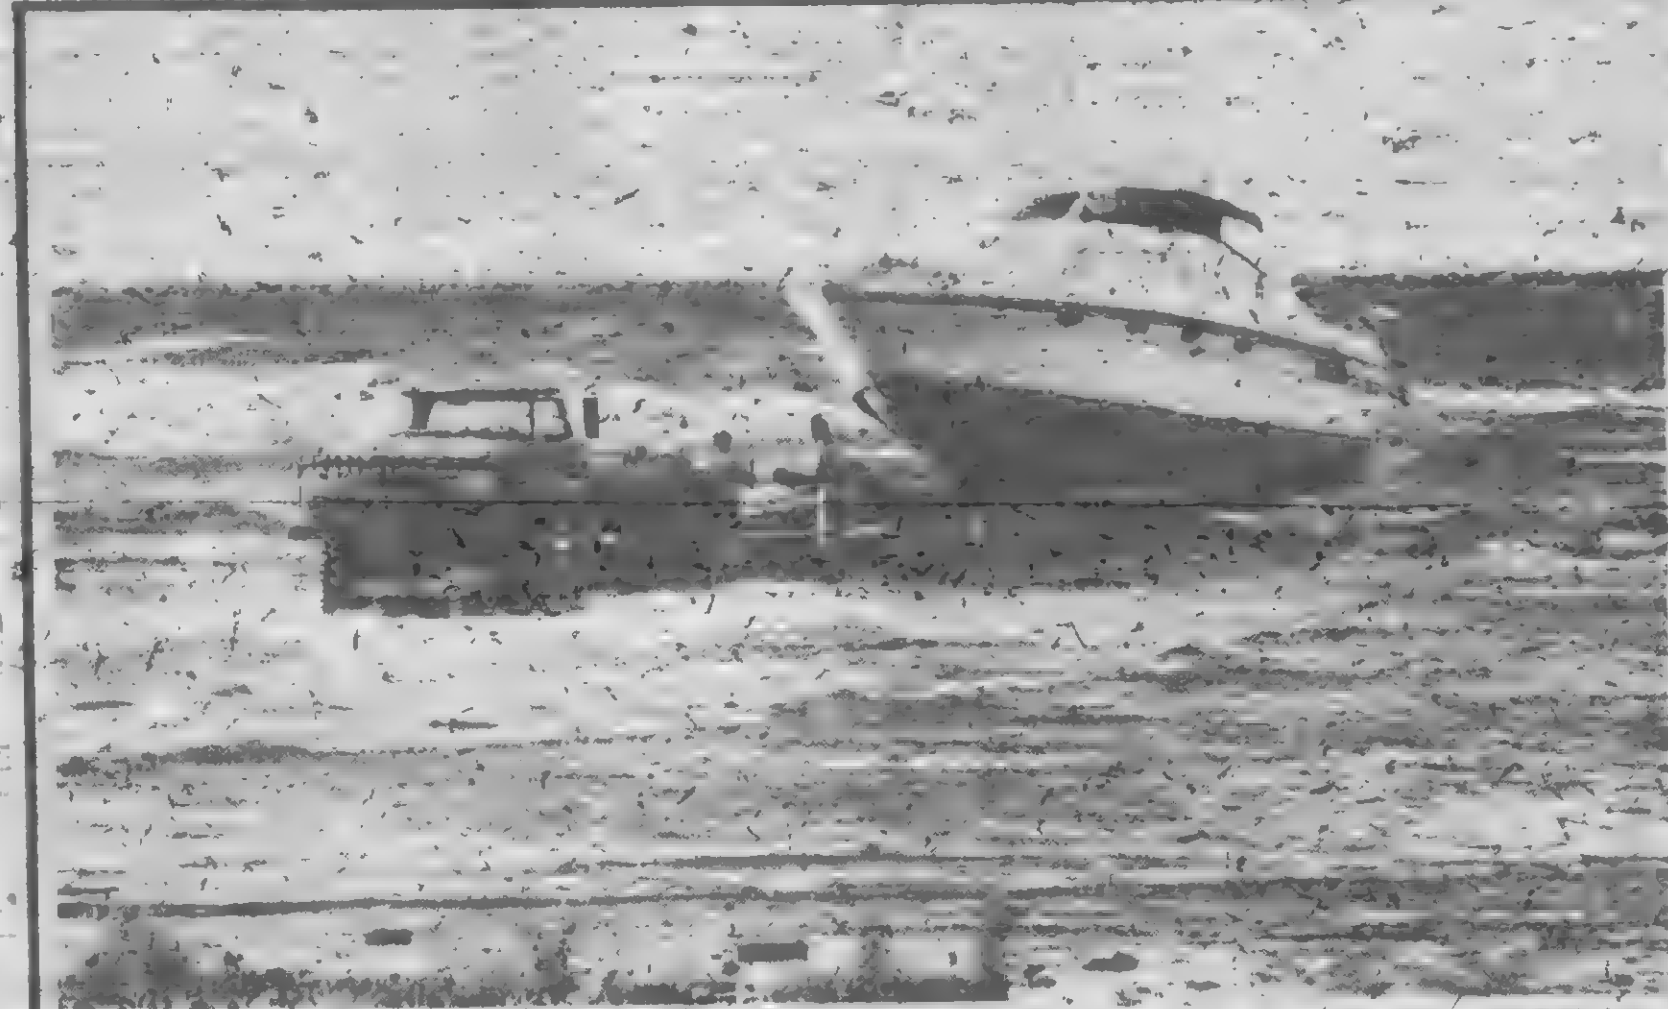

Although she's pleased with the progress of Charlevoix County's MADD chapter in its first year, chapter president Carol Havens said she doesn't see much of a decrease in drinking and driving in Charlevoix County.

"I can't see that it's improving," Havens said when asked about the status of drinking and driving in Charlevoix County. She bases her conclusion on what the number of cases she sees on the county court docket. She says that number doesn't seem to be decreasing.

Court monitoring is only one of several projects Havens and other members of MADD (the acronym for Mothers Against Drunk Driving) have undertaken. Although the group has only about two dozen members, there is a core of about a half dozen people within that group which has been very active. MADD projects of the past year include: donating a video camera to the sheriff's department for use in their booking room; distributing more than 300 red ribbons during the holiday season; mailing more than 500 graduation cards to area students and distributing prom and graduation cards through florists and tuxedo shops to remind students to have a safe prom and graduation; hosting the MADD Michigan spring coordinating committee

Mel Renaud of Dry Harbor Marine hauls this 36-foot boat ashore Sunday evening. The boat ran aground near Medusa late Saturday night.

Ship to shore takes on a whole new meaning

By L. Scott Swanson

Eight people waded ashore near Medusa shortly past midnight Saturday morning after the 36-foot boat they were in became grounded on a shale shoal.

Clinton Davis, the owner of the boat said the situation never became life threatening, but he added "it was just a great feeling of discomfort...and displeasure."

Davis and seven other people had been in Traverse City having dinner. On the way back to Charlevoix, the boat encountered six-foot waves, dark, windy and rainy weather. Waves broke the bow pulpit of the boat and extinguished the spot light at the front of the boat.

Left without a front light, Davis checked his depth gauge and found that he was in only nine feet of water. He said he turned the boat out toward deeper water, but hit a boulder or something and lost power. A wind from the west carried the boat onto the shoal.

Davis radioed the Coast Guard station and a rescue boat was dispatched. The Coast Guard contacted the Sheriff's Department and a patrol car was sent to the scene.

By the time the boat came to a stop, it was grounded in about two and a half feet of water. All eight people aboard the boat had put on life jackets as soon as the boat first hit bottom. While the Coast Guard boat stood off by the buoy, the people aboard the grounded boat got out and waded ashore where they were met by the patrol car.

Davis said the Coast Guard and Sheriff's Department's prompt response was appreciated by the people aboard the boat.

Getting the passengers out of the water was one thing. Getting the boat out of the water was another adventure.

Mel Renaud of Dry Harbor Marine was contacted Sunday morning. Renaud, Bob Timms and Chuck Scherping went out to look at the boat. The three have worked together in the past on marine salvage operations.

Normally in a grounding, the boat would be refloated and towed to the harbor. But given that this boat was resting on a shale ledge, the three men decided to try a different approach.

Renaud noted that the ledge was as flat as a table top and the water wasn't particularly deep. He decided to drive a truck and large trailer out to the boat.

The only drawback to that plan was an embankment of stones which stood between the roadway and the water. But the embankment was in the shadow of the Medusa Cement Plant. A front end loader from the plant made short work of clearing a path to the shoreline.

Once Renaud got the trailer out to sea, he and Scherping and Timms were able to work the trailer under the boat and get it to shore.

Damage to the boat's hull was limited, but the props, shafts and rudders were mangled. Repair costs may be between $8,000 and $10,000.

School board hires new superintendent

Roberta Jackson brings strong business and vocational education background to school system

By L. Scott Swanson

Roberta Jackson of Edinburg, Indiana, has been hired to be the new superintendent of Charlevoix Public Schools. Jackson is currently finishing up work in Edinburg and anticipates coming to Charlevoix at the beginning of October.

Following a superintendent selection process which lasted several months, Charlevoix's Board of Education found themselves divided between two finalists: Jackson and Steven Smyth from Lake Odessa.

At the July 29 board meeting, a motion to hire Smyth failed by a vote of 3-4. Board members Larry Levenagood, Ken Boss and Ben Cunningham voted to hire Smyth while Max Novak, Doris Pearl, Arlene Wieland and Scott Beatty voted against hiring Smyth. A subsequent motion to hire Jackson passed 5-2. Cunningham joined those who had opposed Smyth in voting to hire Jackson.

Jackson brings a strong educational and professional background in both business and vocational education to Charlevoix. She received business and vocational education while working toward her Bachelor's and Masters degrees at Ball State University and while earning her Educational Specialist and Doctoral degrees from Indiana University. She has taught business education and journalism and chaired the business education department of a large high school. She has also served as the director of the Kokomo Area Career Center and as the director of vocational and adult education at the J. Everett Light Career Center. For the past three years she has been the superintendent of the Edinburg School District.

Although she has spent most of her entire life in Indiana, Jackson's family is from Newberry, MI. Being closer to her family is one of the things Jackson is looking forward to in moving to Charlevoix.

The board of education retained a consultant from the Michigan Association of School Boards to help find a replacement for Gordon Van Wazer, who retired after 14 years' Charlevoix school superintendent. Early in the process the consultant hosted a public meeting to determine what characteristics the public felt a new superintendent should possess. People attending the meeting expressed two main concerns: One group of people said they wanted the board to hire someone who is innovative and willing to take some risks. They said they wouldn't mind seeing someone hired whose professional background wasn't entirely in the field of education. Another group of people at the meeting said they wanted to see someone hired who could articulate the needs of the school system to the community.

During a phone interview with the Courier last week, Jackson was asked if she felt those people got what they wanted with her hiring. She said she believes she fits the needs expressed by both groups.

"My background in vocational education and business has taken me out into the community," she explained. She said she's always been tied into the "real world" and that "gives you a little different perspective than if you don't get out in the community."

Asked to cite specific instances where she's been involved with risky, innovative and outside of mainstream educational thinking, she cited several programs.

Jackson said that although there's a lot of talk about restructuring school systems, that talk isn't always translated into action. She said that at Edinburg they are now in the second year of strategic planning and looking at what might be done differently to improve student achievement.

"There's a lot of talk about the need to restructure schools, but we've actually had a group look at it and recommend changes," she said. Some of those changes call for altering schedules to offer time for staff in-service training and changing the way students are grouped.

Six years ago when Jackson was with the Light Career Center all of the typewriters were replaced with computers. That might not seem like such a big step now, but as Jackson says, "At the time that was real risky."

"This summer, the Edinburg school system began a prekindergarten program. Jackson said that was innovative for that school system.

Several years ago, Jackson was involved in putting together a job training program which coordinated students' summer work with an opportunity to earn English and math credits.

Jackson also feels she will be able to communicate school needs to the community. She says she feels that people's attitude about education seems to change as they become more knowledgeable about it. She said that people are demanding changes in America's educational system and changes are being made. But unless a school system brings people in and lets the community know what it's doing, those changes can be overlooked.

"I think the community needs to be a partner with the school," she said. "Public relations and communications has always been a special interest of mine."

Jackson said that one of the things she has done in Edinburg is start a business and community leaders' breakfast. Edinburg also recently completed a major renovation of the elementary air conditioning, heating and electrical system which Jackson said went really well.

Although she probably won't be on the job until October, Jackson hopes to be in Charlevoix for the opening day of the school year. She is also trying to learn all she can about the school system. She said she has spent several days talking to people and has read flyers and brochures.

"My first priority will be to learn as much as I can about the school district," she said. After assuming the job she wants to meet in small groups with all of the staff members and also meet with parents and community members.

Charlevoix's recent passage of millage money for technology will make that program one of Jackson's first projects. Public Act 25, a state law which requires the school system to write a school improvement plan, will be another early project. Indiana has a similar state law which Jackson said has taken her through a similar situation.

Jackson's husband, Gerald (pronounced "Garold" rather than "Jerald") will be moving with her to Charlevoix. He has degrees in agriculture and education and will be looking for a job in the area. The Jacksons have a 25-year-old son who lives in Indianapolis. Jackson's hobbies include stained glass and boating.

Between now and the time Jackson arrives on the job, Charlevoix school business manager Rich Kelly will continue serving as interim superintendent. Kelly is being assisted by elementary school principal Vane Smith.

EDITH

by Edith Gilbert

Local history buffs will be delighted to learn that a new edition of the Belvedere Club book is hot off the press. Don't expect any spiky gossip to be made public by the archives committee. Instead, the hard cover edition is filled with many charming photographs and folksy tales of gentle family life on the resort covering golf, tennis, boating, beaching, picnics, children's camps, and cabarets in the quaint casino. Thanks to the generosity of J. Houston Witherspoon, these private memoirs of the current generation are a nostalgic recap of fun and games on the rolling terraces of the historic club, founded in 1876.

The quaint Casino was the setting last week of the first BELVEDERE ARTISTS SHOW, masterminded by watercolor artist Elaine Rotherford. With the help of Jane Payne, Virginia Millard, Mill Kuhn and Jessie Johnson, over 125 items were collected for the members' exhibit. This included 15 painters, 7 ceramists, 5 photographers, 11 needleworkers and 1 glass worker. Two artistic Belvedere families were represented in the show. A 1898 painting by Jane Payne's grandmother, Jane D'Ooge, was displayed along with Payne's own watercolors. Payne has frequently shown at the Charlevoix Waterfront Art Fair. She confided to me that as a child, she used to watch Jane Stanley, a nationally recognized artist, paint by the lighthouse at the end of the pier. This experience influenced her lifelong interest in painting.

Another three generation talented family was the Stanley/Franz/Meyer family, who resorted on the Belvedere for many years. You may remember, Stanley was the mother of Sali Franz, who also used to exhibit at the juried Art Fair. Many of Sali's whimsical paintings were on display at the Casino, as were those of her daughter, Joan Meyers. Talented Belvedereans all!

Almost a hundred enthusiastic people attended the first ever, member art exhibit on the resort. They also viewed a brief and informative art video produced by the Crooked Tree Arts Council. This was followed by a lively discussion pertaining to the crisis in arts funding in Michigan, led by Morris Everett, consultant to the Endowment Fund Committee at CTAC. Many out-of-state guests were unaware of the massive cuts to the arts as proposed by Michigan's governor, including cuts to such major organizations as the Detroit Institute of Arts and the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

"It's the smaller arts organizations that worry they may be left to twist in the wind with the abolition of the Michigan Council for the Arts," says Sean Ley, director of the Virginia McCune Arts Center in Petoskey.

One of the guests, Lawrence Perkins, prominent Chicago architect, marveled at the video program. "I didn't know there was so much culture in Northern Michigan," he said. "I thought it was all fishing and golf."

This memorable event may be recorded in the next edition of the Belvedere Club book, possibly in another 20 years. The youngest artist present, Charing Congett, now age 7, will surely vividly recall this exceptional day.

Free the beach

Editor,
What can I add to John Duerr's excellent letter and earlier Edith Gilbert's column concerning the Beachhouse Condominium? As a born-and-raised In-Charlevoix visitor, I, too, worry about about losing some of the "free" favorite things I love to do in my former hometown.

On a recent visit, my sister and I decided to drive down the Michigan Beach to watch the sunset. We found the turn-around road clogged with pick-up trucks, rock music blaring from their car stereos. Young people sat on picnic tables drinking beer. Cans and bottles littered the tables and grass. It was obvious not all the people were 21 years old.

Since I was a child, I've never tired of the walk along the beach from Mr. McSauba to the pier. One glorious June morning during this visit, I started out alone on this beautiful stretch of sand and water. Soon I noticed all along my way, discreet signs: "Private Beach, Thank You", "Please Keep Off" etc. I know of six public access walks from Mr. McSauba to the pier. Not one is marked from the beach. How does a visitor know where he can leave the beach without trespassing? Public Accesses are clearly posted from the road and along trails in California, where I now live. Why not in Charlevoix? And how many of these six public walks are marked along Michigan Ave.? There is none on the road leading to Mr. McSauba.

I waded around the Beachhouse wondering if it would be standing in the lake during high water years. What a shame for Charlevoix!

Local people are either too busy to enjoy their beaches, or they think it will always be there for them when they have time. But will it? Virginia Smith Scharschmidt

Unanimity not required, or even desired

There was not unanimous agreement among the board of education as to the best candidate to hire as the new school superintendent. As members of the community, we should find comfort in that lack of unanimity.

At the July 29 school board meeting, the board chose between two candidates: Steven Smyth and Roberta Jackson. A motion to hire Smyth failed by a vote of 3-4. Larry Levensgood, Ken Boss and Ben Cunningham voted in favor. Max Novak, Doris Pearl, Ardeth Wieland and Scott Beauty voted opposed. A subsequent vote to hire Jackson passed 5-2. Levensgood and Boss voted opposed.

After the vote was tallied, Novak, the board president, asked Levensgood and Boss if they would like to change their vote. Levensgood, much to his credit, declined, saying he didn't feel it was necessary to have a unanimous vote.

A short time later, the board unanimously approved a motion that everyone on the board would support the new superintendent. This was a motion long on symbolism and short on substance and purpose.

Why all this effort to put up a united front? In the first place, it serves no useful purpose; in the second place, it leads to silly and meaningless actions.

Using the school board meeting as an example (and it's just an example), it's not as if the board is alone among public bodies and public officials in suffering from united front mentality. You may recall the post-war circus of President Bush, Defense Chief Cheney and General Borm trying to get their story straight as to whether or not there was complete agreement about when to call a halt to the ground offensive. Fortunately the three of them gave a more convincing performance during the war.) But using the school board as a local example.

What if Levensgood had consented to changing his vote? What purpose would that have served? When he initially voted, he made his true feelings known. Changing his vote wasn't going to fool anybody which is fine since there was nobody needing to be fooled.

And the subsequent motion that everyone on the board would support the new superintendent only compounded the united front silliness. What purpose does this motion serve? Will its passage make the least bit of difference in the actions of anyone? Was there reason to fear that without this motion of support, board members Boss and Levensgood might undertake some covert campaign to undermine the new superintendent? No, none whatsoever.

Rather than worrying about putting up a united front, public officials better serve their constituency when they recognize that people of intelligence and integrity can see things in different ways. There's nothing wrong with a split vote. In fact it's reassuring. It indicates that public officials are looking at a decision from more than one perspective and not just absorbing, but analyzing the information before them.

There's no need for the school board or any other public body to feel they have to give the appearance of a united front. There's no need for any kind of a front. The voting public should have no problem with informed dissent.

Letters to the Editor:

Pageant mistake damaging

Editor,
To: The Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce.

I attended the Miss Charlevoix pageant Thursday evening (July 25). It was only my second experience and it was a fun program with all the appearances of a successful evening. All of the contestants were beautiful and well-poised - any one of them would have made a wonderful representative for our town. The program was entertaining and Jennifer Bona's farewell address was stirring and challenging. There was a slight delay in the announcement of the results, but that only seemed to enhance the exciting build-up.

After Miss Congeniality and the Talent winner were announced, we were told that Kendra Olinger was our new Venetian Queen. She was radiant and gracious. Shortly after, it was stated that Chrissy Dillon was the first runner-up. Another Venetian Pageant was history. Little did we know - this was indeed one for the history books!

By the time of the parade on Saturday the first three positions had changed twice. Tally sheet "confusion" found us with a different queen and a different runner-up.

I am simply amazed that with 5 contestants, 3 judging categories, 3 judges, 2 auditors, and a school full of computers, the results could have been so badly confused. Later that evening, one mistake gave us a new queen. After further investigation the following day, we have a new runner-up! Are we now to believe these results? I would encourage the Chamber to thoroughly investigate this process.

I'm sure the real tragedy however took place in the emotions of the contestants and their families. Not one of those young women deserved the emotional roller coaster ride that this confusion caused. Our queen, Chrissy Dillon, and the runner-up, Tanya Weaver, both deserved to be publicly crowned at the close of an exciting evening.

However, we crowned Kendra as queen in front of a gym full of people, allowed her to ride through town in a limo, then informed her there had been a mistake and she was first runner-up instead - this is almost unforgivable. Then, the next day, when was informed that she didn't have that honor either. This is not only unforgivable; it is ludicrous.

Mistakes like these should not be glossed over. Our community should be outraged as we all share the shame. We can never undo the damage, but we can try to compensate. Full scholarships should be given to the top three contestants. They deserve it for their gracious behavior.

All of these young women are beautiful and talented. They exhibited true "queenly" behavior. But Kendra Olinger was absolutely regal as she held her head up high throughout the week-end. As difficult as it was for her, she rode the float with pride, smiling bravely. She is to be congratulated!

But the fireworks were great

Editor,
I want to commend the City of Charlevoix on the Venetian fireworks this year. I thought they were the best I have ever seen. I know everyone is so quick to talk about how bad things are and a letter of praise is often few and far between. The city did a great job in selecting fireworks this year.

Sincerely,
Scott D. Way

Venetian nice for military

Editor,
This year's Venetian Festival became a very special event for both our past and present military personnel. The respect and pride that our group was able to show them speaks well of northern Michigan. With the assistance and cooperation of several people and businesses we were proud to "Show Our Colors" to them July 27.

Our veterans' morale was important yesterday, is today and will be tomorrow. We will continue to "Show Our Colors" for them. Venetian Festival '91 was truly memorable for all. Charlevoix, you are beautiful. Thank you.

Barb Lewis

Sincerely,
Theda Williams

FAMILY

Empey to represent state at National Grange meeting

Christy Empey, daughter of Kay Empey and the late Norm Empey, recently won a Michigan State Grange competition and was named the Michigan State Grange Girl Ambassador to represent Michigan at the National Grange meeting Nov. 11-17 in Burlington, Vermont.

To become a candidate for ambassador, Empey submitted an application to the Michigan State Grange. The application included information about herself and her history of activities within the Grange. At this year's Grange Summer Youth Camp Empey and the other candidates were interviewed several times. Empey accumulated the most points from the interviews and was chosen as Michigan's ambassador.

At the National Grange meeting, Empey will join other ambassadors from across the nation. There will be special breakfasts, pool parties, costume parties, dances and a variety of other events throughout the week. The National girl and boy ambassadors will be announced Friday, Nov. 15.

As State Ambassador, Empey will preside at the Michigan State Grange meeting in October and attend other Grange meetings as a guest of honor throughout the coming year.

CHURCH

Vacation Bible school begins

As in summers past, the churches of Charlevoix will once again be hosting a Vacation Bible School. This year's Vacation Bible School will take place from 8:45 a.m. to 11:50 a.m. August 12-15 on the grounds of the Assembly of God Church, M-66, Charlevoix.

This is an ecumenical Vacation Bible School, and children of all faiths are welcome. Registration will be at 8:45 a.m. Aug. 12 at the Assembly of God Church. Children ages Kindergarten through 5th Grades are invited to attend. Cost per child is $3, or $10 per family.

There will be a bus available to take children to and from the school. The bus schedule and pick-up sites are as follows:

8 a.m. - K-5 School

8:05 a.m. - Community Reformed Church.

8:10 a.m. - United Methodist Church.

8:15 a.m. - 403 Sheridan.

8:20 a.m. - St. Mary's Church.

8:25 a.m. - Mayfield Apartments.

Vacation Bible School ends shortly before noon. Bus drop-offs will be in reverse order from the pick-ups. For additional information, phone 547-9534.

Josephine J. Russell

Elk Rapids resident Josephine J. Russell, 50, an addiction counselor for CHIP Counseling in Charlevoix, died Aug. 4, 1991, at Munson Medical Center, Traverse City.

A memorial service will be held 11 a.m. Wednesday, Aug. 7, at the Russell residence, 138 Mitchell, Elk Rapids.

Mrs. Russell was born Jan. 28, 1941, in Traverse City, the daughter of Daniel and Jennie (Born) Way. She married Paul L. Russell, M.D., on June 17, 1968, at Torch Lake.

Mrs. Russell was an addiction counselor for CHIP Counseling and was an inpatient counselor at Williamsburg Recovery Center, Munson Medical Center and A.T.S. of Traverse City.

She is survived by her husband, one son, Toby Way of Elk Rapids; one sister, Linda L. Wang-bichler of Bellaire.

The family suggests memorials to Dakoske and Phoenix Halls, 116 E. 8th St., Traverse City, Mich. 49684.

Arrangements were handled by the Elk Rapids Chapel of Covell Funeral Homes.

BEACONS

OF BLESSINGS

by Rev. Bruce Hamilton

In his book "Thoughts Afield," Harold Kohn wrote that the Chinese word for crisis is made up of two characters, "way" meaning "danger" and "go" meaning opportunity. In other words, in the Chinese language, a crisis is a dangerous opportunity.

Nobody likes to face a crisis and yet, inevitably, they visit us all. How you handle any time of suffering or hardship makes all the difference in the world in how you come out of it. Do you let tough times get the best of you or do you look for ways you can make the most out of them?

The Bible has some most interesting things to say on the subject of tough times. In James you will find, "Consider it pure joy, my brothers, whenever you face trials of many kinds, because you know the testing of your faith develops perseverance." In Thessalonians you will find, "Rejoice evermore; pray without ceasing; in everything give thanks for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus concerning you."

I don't know what it is like in your family of faith. In mind, I think fully three quarters of our folks can recite from Romans what "we know what all things work together for good to them that love God, to them who are called according to His purpose."

Of all people to say it, Paul wrote from a prison cell, "Rejoice in the Lord always. I will say it again: Rejoice."

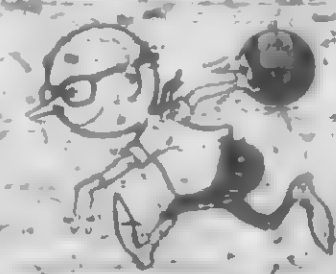

I don't know about you, and I realize for some folks this will be hard, but we ought to be grateful, thankful and maybe even a touch anticipatory when rough times come. Why? Because if those times remind you of nothing else, they should remind you that God is still in control. And if God is still in control, then there is always reason to be hopeful. There is always reason to rejoice.

Your faith in God has always been intended to be a fortress for your life. That fortress is not a place for you to retreat to when times get tough. It is a place for you to advance from knowing confidently that all the resources of heaven are behind you to see you through.

Look at the next "dangerous opportunity" that comes your way not as something to dread or mourn. View it as a blessing. Your outlook makes all the difference.

School board divided on paying math coaches

By Wendi Wright

The Charlevoix School Board split 3-3 on a request for additional compensation by two middle school teachers who have been coaching middle school math teams for several years. The request was originally made in February by middle school teachers Kay Fiedorek and Tori Fisher for "out of contract" time they spend working with math teams.

School board member Scott Beatty raised the issue again Monday evening. He stated that he feels the board is dragging its feet on the request and needs to show teachers that extra effort is valued.

Ardeith Wieland, board vice president, said she agrees with Beatty, but is hesitant to compensate Fiedorek and Fisher without checking to see how many other teachers are filling similar roles without pay. She said she doesn't feel it is fair to compensate some teachers and not others. She said the board could be courting resentment among the teachers unless the compensation policy is consistent.

At an earlier meeting, Fiedorek and Fisher said they will continue to coach the teams regardless of whether they receive the additional money.

A motion to award the added compensation as requested failed 3-3. Beatty was joined by Max Novak and Scott Beatty in voting in favor of the motion while Wieland was joined by Ben Cunningham and Doris Pearl in opposing the motion. Board member Ken Boss was absent from the meeting.

According to interim superintendent Rich Kelly, the matter will be addressed again when all seven board members are present.

In another matter the board approved a letter of understanding with the Northern Michigan Education Association to grant a request for an extended leave of absence for Jim Glynn. Glynn has been on leave for two years from the school system while teaching with the Department of Defense in Germany.

The school is also in the process of repairing the high school roof. At Monday evening's meeting, the board voted to hire Ranger Engineering from Charlevoix to complete drawings and specifications to repair a section of the roof.

ART FESTIVAL

Castle Art Festival grows in 2nd year

Given the proper environment, things grow rapidly. In only its second year, the Art Festival at Castle Farms received applications from more than 300 artists who wanted to exhibit.

"We were overwhelmed," said festival coordinator Kim Reibel.

The festival is juried and jurors were required to pare the applicants to 150 exhibitors. Artists who applied for the festival were required to submit three slides of their best current work as well as a slide showing their entire exhibit booth.

"We had a lot of good work apply. It was really hard to decide," Reibel explained. "The competition was very stiff in the major categories such as painting, jewelry and ceramics."

Jurors for the festival were: Margaret Porter, jeweler; Frank Elawageshik, artist and coordinator of other festivals; Jim Galbraith, photographer; Larry Fox, woodworker; Catherine Cary, watercolor painter; Deanna Kostyshyn, porcelain jeweler; and Elizabeth Abel, batik artist.

Artists from 17 different states were chosen for the festival. Last year's show drew 11,000 spectators. Reibel anticipates at least 18,000 this year.

This year's festival is again a two-day event. Gates will be open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday. There is no charge for admission or parking. Castle Farms is located approximately 2 miles outside of town on M-66. Saturday there will be a shuttle bus leaving from the parking lot behind Central Drug Store on the hour and half hour. There is no charge for the shuttle.

In addition to the artists, there will be seven different booths serving a variety of food at the Castle. The Castle courtyard and fountain will be open and performing artists will perform at various times throughout the festival. Performers include: John Wunsch, jazz guitarist; Beans, a Bluegrass and folk musician; Wanda Degan, who plays mountain dulcimers; David Collini, pianist; and a variety of strolling minstrels.

Reibel said that surveys filled in by artists at last year's festival indicated that the artists were pleased with the show and had good sales. About half of the artists at this year's festival are returnees from last year.

This year awards will be given to the top three artists at the festival. In addition to that, five other artists will receive honorable mention.

In addition to 150 artists who will exhibit at the Second Annual Art Festival at the Castle, a variety of entertainers will perform throughout the weekend. This year's entertainment will include a jazz guitarist, a lady who plays mountain dulcimers and a variety of strolling minstrels.

Waterfront Art Fair: improving on the best

What do you do with an event that is 31 years old and one of the most successful events of its kind in the United States? In the case of Charlevoix's Waterfront Art Fair, you don't get complacent. You keep improving and looking for little ways to raise the quality of the show.

"I think that every year it becomes more fine-tuned," said Suzi Reis, one of the organizers of the event. Each year organizers seek to upgrade the fair in terms of the fine arts presented.

Reis explains that in Michigan there are now more than 500 art or craft fairs each year. In order to stand out from that crowd, Charlevoix's Waterfront Art Fair limits exhibits to the fine arts and stresses quality.

Given the quality of the exhibits, Charlevoix's Waterfront Art Fair is much like an art gallery—an art gallery which exists for one day each year on the shore of Charlevoix's Round Lake.

The show is popular with both artists and art buyers. The Waterfront Art Fair attracts approximately 30,000 people to the community. Reis said finding a place for the artists to stay becomes a challenge. Charlevoix motels and hotels fill up and the crowd spills over into other northern Michigan communities. There will be approximately 160 artists exhibiting in this year's Art Fair. "We have some artists in the show who don't show anywhere else," Reis noted.

Although there has been discussion of making the Art Fair a two-day show, it has remained and is likely to continue to remain as a one-day show. One of the primary reasons for this is that there are limits to the amount of quality work the artists can produce. The Ann Arbor and Charlevoix art fairs are known in the state's artistic circles as two of the best shows for artists in terms of sales. The shows take place within weeks of each other. By the end of the two shows, artists find that they have sold most of their best work.

Revenue from exhibitor fees for the Waterfront Art Fair funds the Charlevoix Council for the Arts. The council was formed this past year to promote arts in the community, particularly for the young people in the community.

"I want the kids from Charlevoix to at least have the opportunity to partake of the various arts," Reis says.

This spring, May 20 to be precise, the Charlevoix Council for the Arts brought the Grand Rapids Symphony to Charlevoix. The symphony gave an afternoon performance for students from Charlevoix and other area schools and followed that up with an evening performance for the general public. Reis said the "whole community was fabulous" in responding to the symphony performance.

This year's art fair will introduce to northern Michigan several nationally and internationally known artists who have not previously shown works here. They will join an outstanding roster of regular exhibitors and new young artists.

Among the artists joining the fair for the first time is Manfred Heine-Baux. Well known in Europe, Canada, and New York, Heine-Baux is bringing his etchings and aquatints to Charlevoix. Born in Munich and trained throughout Europe, Heine-Baux now lives in Cambridge, Ontario. He is best known for his explosive use of color in an expressionistic style reminiscent of Gauguin and VanGogh. In 1927, he was awarded an exhibit at La Grand Palais in Paris. His works have been shown across the U.S., Canada and Europe and are in major collections, world-wide.

"Celestial paintings" by Ron Russell, also new to Charlevoix this year, are collected by astronaut Buzz Aldrin, writer Ray Bradbury, as well as the Guggenheim Museum and the National Space Agency. Russell uses a glass painting process he developed to evoke "cosmic vistas" and "theoretical expressions of the space frontier." The artist is bringing both original works and limited edition prints to Charlevoix.

A relative new-comer to Charlevoix is New York goldsmith and Soho Gallery owner, Joan Michlin. Her work, often described as "wearable sculpture" is inspired largely by natural phenomena, according to the artist. Combining precious and semi-precious stones with gold she creates sophisticated and delicate earrings, bracelets, pins and necklaces. Michlin's works are now displayed in seven museums.

Sallie B. Cochran, whose pen and ink with watercolor works have been published in The National Wildlife Gallery, focuses on Native American and wildlife themes. Trained at the Rhode Island School of Design, she has been described as "layering fancy and imagination over realism." From Columbus, Ohio, Ms. Cochran works are "designed to capture the energy of the children, the spirit of wild creatures and the imaginations of art lovers."

Returning to Charlevoix, after several years absence, is Michigan sculptural potter Madeline Kaszmarczyk, whose work will be featured this year in the journal Ceramics Monthly. She was also recently showcased by Public TV as "An Artist for 1991."

Best known for decorative non-functional works, Kaszmarczyk's pieces reflect her beginnings as a functional potter and the influence of water.

Sculptural potter Madeline Kaczmarczyk is returning to Charlevoix after several years' absence. Her works, both functional and sculptural often reflect an intense fascination with tropical colors.

An obsession with neon and diners has brought Grand Rapids artist Jerry Berta nationwide publicity. A long-time exhibitor at the Waterfront Art Fair, Berta is returning with his outrageous and humorous ceramic sculptures.

New York goldsmith and Soho Gallery owner Joan Michlin's work is collected by major museums. Michlin's work with precious and semi-precious stones and gold are sophisticated and often described as "wearable sculpture." She is bringing a wide range of her work to the Charlevoix Waterfront Art Fair.

Bridge plays a role in business history

(The following story is one segment in a series of stories concerning area business being written for the Courier by Ralph McRae. McRae is a former mayor and councilman and is currently a member of the Charlevoix Industrial Development Committee.)

By Ralph McRae

In the past few weeks, stories in this series have focused on the importance of the boating business in Charlevoix. Something which must be included in any discussion of boating is the bridge.

The four people who tend the bridge on a rotating basis have probably seen more boats and automobiles pass by than any other four people in town. The bridge's chief operator, Carl Soblaskey, was interviewed for this story. Bob Miles, photographic history of Charlevoix and research at the Charlevoix Historical Society provided additional information.

Prior to 1843 this settlement we call home was known as Pine Village because it straddled Pine River, reportedly the shortest river in the world. It took another 40 years before there was clear navigation between Lake Michigan, Round Lake and Lake Charlevoix, which was formerly known as Pine Lake and before that known as Long Lake.

The very first bridge crossing Pine River was built in the early 1850s. It was just for pedestrians and was only 4-feet wide and about two feet off of the water. Pulling up planks at the center of the bridge allowed small boats to pass.

A few years later a more substantial structure spanned the river. This was called a jack-knife bridge. Ropes running up high poles and then down to a hand crank lifted

BUSINESS

...bridge is a factor in local business history

this bridge. Turning the crank to lift the bridge required several men, under the direction of Charlevoix's only policeman.

This bridge was in turn replaced by one which was much stronger, but still only wide enough to accommodate one carriage or cow. Oil lamps were the only lighting available.

Besides fishing, lumbering was the town's principle livelihood in the 1860s and '70s. Most of the lumber was sold in slabs to fuel the growing number of steamboats on the Great Lakes. For many years the shallow channels between Lake Charlevoix and Round Lake and Lake Michigan and Round Lake were not navigable by large ships.

This problem made it impossible to ship lumber to Lake Michigan or bring large ships to the lumber from Lake Michigan. It was not until 1882 that large steamboats could get into Round Lake.

The first steel swing bridge was installed in 1878. The policeman who had supervised the handcrank opening of the old bridge became the first official bridge tender. Sometimes in the summer heat, the swing bridge expanded so much that it could not be opened. On those occasions the fire department would spray water on the bridge to cool it down enough to be opened.

In 1901 a new swing bridge was installed. It was the first bridge which wasn't hand driven. The new bridge was the best of its kind and was driven by an electric motor. The tender operated it from a room at its center. Often, the tender stayed alone in that room for days at a time. The old bridge was moved to East Jordan.

The swing bridge served the community well until 1947. That year a temporary bridge was put up and the construction of the current bridge began. The current bridge, called the Memorial Bridge, was completed in 1949.

To many people from outside the community the bridge is the most attractive thing going. Thousands of people who do not live near bodies of water and who seldom see a bridge rising rush to see the Charlevoix bridge open and watch the boats pass by.

But some of Charlevoix's inhabitants, particularly those living on the northside have a different opinion of the bridge. To them, the bridge is a traffic clogging monster.

In Michigan, on the federal and state highways, there are 2,563 bridges. There are four kinds of bridges: fixed, draw, swing and bascule. Of all of the more than 2,500 bridges, there are only 12 that open. Charlevoix's bridge is one of those 12. It is the second business bridge in the state. Last year it opened more than 4,000 times.

Charlevoix's bridge is a bascule type, the same as the London Bridge. Masses of concrete and steel balance each half of the bridge. The bridge is opened and closed by a combination of 30 horsepower motors. The bridge has automatic brakes, emergency brakes and hand cranks. A few years ago, during a power failure a group of people actually operated the hand cranks. That has not happened in recent years since electrical system improvements now bring power to the bridge from both the north and south side.

The bridge was recently inspected for structural and electrical integrity. This winter a deteriorating cable beneath the channel will be replaced. Next year a few rusting cross beams will be fixed.

Soblaskey, the chief operator, has been on the bridge for the past 20 years. Prior to coming to Charlevoix, he operated a Bay-City bridge and worked on ferries between St. Ignace and Mackinaw City. Soblaskey supervises three other bridge tenders. One of them, Charles M. Bergmann, is the third generation in his family to tend the bridge. The other two bridge operators are Pat McGovern and Carol Frattick.

Each operator has duties involving regular maintenance and interior and exterior painting. All of the bridge tenders belong to a union.

The bridge is under the control of the state highway department's Cadillac office. It follows U.S. Coast Guard rules and regulations.

Below the office of the bridge there are three levels. The first has kitchen appliances and eating area and a restroom. The second has machinery and motors. Farther down are counterbalancing weights.

All of the operators keep a log, noting times and duration of openings, the names of large ships and their home ports. The tenders also try to estimate the number of cars and trucks delayed by bridge openings.

The bridge is closed by watching each side and adjusting the sections to close evenly. Some newer bridges have computers, but they have been known to have more problems than the manually controlled bridges.

...Charlevoix County MADD chapter marks first year

conference, riding along with police and sheriff's deputies and touring the sheriff's department and jail, assisting the state committee in drafting new drunk driving legislation.

"The majority of our efforts are going toward public awareness in Charlevoix," Havens explains. To that end, Havens feel the group has been successful. "People certainly know that MADD is now in Charlevoix," she says.

The Charlevoix MADD chapter's goals aren't any different than those of the national organization. MADD wants to stop drunk driving and assist victims of that crime. Havens noted that MADD is not anti alcohol, but is anti drinking and driving.

Havens' daughter Monica was riding in a car with a driver who had been drinking on Oct. 28, 1988. Monica Havens and three of her friends died when the car crashed on U.S. 31 between Charlevoix and Bay Shore. The four young people were 19, 20, 20 and 18 at the time of their deaths. Carol Havens became involved with MADD the following March.

Havens says that her biggest concern right now is that drunk drivers aren't spending much time in jail. She claims arrests are being made, but after being arrested drunk drivers only spend a night or two in jail and then bond out. She was also critical of plea bargaining. She said she researched several cases and found only one that wasn't plea bargained.

"I've been told there's just not room at the jail," she said. The jail has been at capacity for several months during the past year. Proposed state laws allowing some prisoners to remain in county jails rather than being transferred to state prisons may aggravate that situation.

Havens says that from a MADD perspective someone who jeopardizes other people's lives by drinking and driving is just as criminal as someone who steals your money.

Given the constraints of the judicial system and jails, the question of educational programs to prevent drunk driving takes on greater emphasis. Havens said that although several of the local MADD chapter's efforts have been informational and educational in nature, there's no way to measure what the long-term effect will be.

Among the chapter's goals for the coming year are increasing membership; purchasing three video cameras for Sheriff's Department patrol cars; and instituting a victim assistance program.

The Charlevoix County MADD Chapter meets at 7 p.m. on the second Monday of each month at the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department's station at the corner of Grant and Garfield.

City to consider electric rate hike

By L. Scott Swanson

Sometime during the next few months city electrical system customers will begin paying higher rates. Higher rates are necessary to pay off a $3.3 million bond which is funding repairs and improvements to the city's electrical system.

Just how much rates will increase depends upon a number of variables. The primary variable is how long the city council chooses to take to pay off the bond. City treasurer Rick Brandt has been putting together figures the city council will use to make a final decision. His initial figures indicate a rate increase of between 2.94 and 6.12 percent will be required.

Dollar figures the percentages translate into depend on the customer. A residential customer using 480 kilowatts of electricity a month currently receives a monthly bill of about $27. A 2.94 to 6.12 percent increase would add between 80 cents and $1.60 to his monthly bill. A residential customer using 800 kilowatts of electricity a month currently receives a monthly bill of about $44. A 2.94 to 6.12 percent increase would add between $1.30 and $2.70 to that person's monthly bill.

Clayton Smith pens memoirs of a country boy evangelistic sermons.

By Peg Ohle

Clayton Smith of Charlevoix is noted as a story teller. For many years, he has regaled friends, relatives and even new acquaintances with tales of his adventures growing up on a farm near Barnard, serving in the Civilian Conservation Corps in the '30s, enlisting in the Merchant Marines during World War II, and earning a living by cultivating the land, selling its produce and hunting, fishing and trapping wildlife.

Smith is now 75 years old and has five small grandchildren. "They probably won't remember much about me after they're grown up, so I decided I'd better write it all down," he explains about his decision to write his book, "Seventy-Five Years With a Country Boy."

However, the book will be enjoyed by others in addition to his grandchildren. Older people who grew up in Charlevoix County will recall many of the places and events Smith mentions. His recollections of the old Barnard School will rekindle memories in anyone who ever attended a country school. The same is true of his stories about the Barnard Church, its Epworth League, box socials, Ladies Aid Society, and long

The Barnard Grange was also an important part of Smith's childhood, as it is today for many area boys and girls.

Caddying at the Belvedere Golf Club gave Smith his first experience in associating with people from the cities, people who drove big automobiles and talked about big business ventures. He learned that he could make more money caddying for a few hours than a farm hand could make working 12 hours a day.

During the depression days of the '30s, Smith served in the Civilian Conservation Corps in the Huron National Forest planting pine trees which now tower over the landscape. Here, he met more city people, but they were boys and young men who had wandered the city streets looking for work. They, too, added to his education.

In later years, there were hitchhiking trips to California which opened another whole world of adventure and stories to tell. But it took World War II and enlistment in the Merchant Marines for him to experience another world and to add to his wealth of observing and learning. Old soldiers from any war will find an anecdote or two in Smith's writing that were part of their own wartime experiences. Home again and settling down to rural life, getting married, and having children might be an uneventful life for some, but everything Smith did seems to have been wrapped around unusual experiences and unusual people. He peddled cherries and other fruits in the Upper Peninsula; he trapped and fished and hunted, he raised cattle; and he es-

Local farmer and outdoorsman Clayton Smith has written a book titled "75 Years With a Country Boy." The book is filled with tales of life in the 1920s on farms in the Barnard Road area and also tells of adventures trapping and peddling fruit in the Upper Peninsula. Smith is shown in front of his trapping cabin which is filled with an assortment of items of interest to an outdoorsman.

Hospital continues funding campaign

With solicitation of gifts from the community just getting underway, the Charlevoix Area Hospital building campaign committee reports $172,826 now raised toward its $1.4 million goal.
Hospital employees raised $122,675 of that amount to set the pace for the campaign. The employees' goal was $95,000. Ninety employees pledged to the campaign with an average gift of $1,363. David Priest, R.N., chairman of the employee drive said, "I'm overjoyed with the support shown for the campaign by our employees. They really came through for us. Employees are the closest to the hospital and know the need is there for this project." General Campaign Chairman Dr. Jeffrey Porter commended Priest on his enthusiastic leadership of the employee campaign.

The medical staff solicitation under the leadership of Dr. Roderic Timney, with captains Dr. Edward Newcomb, Dr. Loyal Jodar, Dr. Mitchell Carey, Dr. Marc Lame, and Dr. David Strawbridge, will begin this week.

Dr. Porter announced that Joan Balch has joined Linda Balch as co-chairman of the General Gifts category. The campaign will raise $1.4 million of the total campaign project cost of $3 million. The major portion of the building program is to build a new surgical facility which will emphasize convenience for the growing number of same-day surgical patients seen at the hospital. Also included is a complete renovation of the Obstetrical Department which will make a one-room delivery and hospital stay concept available for the first time in this area.

A video has been produced and speakers are available for an in-depth look at the building program by calling Nancy Ellison at 547-4024.

...city considers electrical rate increase

The residential rate is only one rate among approximately a dozen different electrical billing rates. There are different rates for industrial and other users. Although the percentage of increase may not be the same for all of the different rate classifications, Brandi said it will be important that rates aren't raised so much in any one category to make city rates noncompetitive compared to other area electrical providers.

Currently city electrical rates are below those charged by other area electrical providers. One reason is the city's involvement in a municipal power pool. Charlevoix and several other communities with municipal electric systems are involved in a cooperative which allows them to buy power at lower rates. Charlevoix's involvement in that cooperative saved city electrical customers more than $70,000 last year.

The bonds were sold based on a 15 year payback, however a provision in the bonds allows the city to pay off the bond in 10 years if it chooses to do so. Paying off the bonds early would save the city $102,000. The total payback of principal plus interest would be $5,817,594 over 15 years or $5,705,594 over 10 years.

In determining how much of a rate increase is needed to pay off the bonds, the council will also have to consider how much money they want to leave as a reserve fund when the bonds are paid off.

The city is paying an interest rate of just less than 6.9 percent on money borrowed through the electrical bonds. Bids were taken in order to get the lowest interest rate. Of four bids received, a bid by Kemper Securities in association with Old Kent Bank of Petoskey was the lowest. The highest interest rate bid was 7.6 percent.

Brandi said he feels the city received a favorable interest rate despite receiving a poor rating on the bond.

Selling the bonds was by no means a simple process. In order to assist in the process, the city retained both a municipal financial advisor and a bond counsel. The city also had to have the bonds rated - which means they were evaluated for their level of security as an investment.

Standard & Poor's Corporation of New York did the rating. They gave the bonds a rating of BBB which isn't particularly high. According to Standard & Poor's rating definitions the ability to pay off a bond rated BBB could be affected by adverse economic conditions or changing circumstances.

Brandi and representatives of the city's financial consulting firm felt the electrical fund bonds should have received a better rating. They cited the electric fund's good financial condition and the cooperative purchasing agreement.

Despite the low rating, the bonds received favorable interest rates. Still, Brandi is checking with Standard & Poor's to find out why the bonds weren't rated higher and what would have to be done for the city to receive higher bond ratings in the future.

The bonds are revenue, as opposed to general obligation bonds. That means they will be paid off with electric fund revenues (i.e. city electric customer's payments) rather than through city taxes. In addition to customers living in the city of Charlevoix, the city electric system also has some customers living in Charlevoix, Marion, Hayes and Eveline Townships.

As part of the bonding process the city had to compile a 52-page booklet containing information about the bonding proposal, the electrical system and the community. (See accompanying tables.)

The city council is expected to take up the issue of rate increases within the next month. The first interest payment on the bonds is due Oct. 1.

...Smith memoirs established "Smith's Little Acre" as a commercial vegetable garden. Then he built his log cabin museum to hold his wildlife trophies, his mementoes of logging days, and his own pieces of primitive art made from wood. A picture of this log cabin decorates the cover of "Seventy-Five Years with a Country Boy." The picture was drawn by local artist Jim Annis.

Clayton Smith's wife, Kay, is a retired school teacher who has also done some writing. He gives her much credit for helping with his book, which he says she read four times in preparation. Clayton and Kay have three daughters and a son. Debbie Wright teaches Latin and English in Calumet; Linda Stevillé lives in Hamburg, New York; Gail lives in Charlevoix; and son Randy lives in Grand Lake, Colorado, where he works for Grand Lakes Log Homes carrying on in the logging footsteps of his father, grandfather, and great grandfather.

Smith was one of six children, four girls and two boys, born to Clyde and Vera Smith. His paternal ancestors came to the United States from Scotland via Canada and homesteaded in Norwood. The children grew up in the general area; brother Carleton and sisters Marge Warner, Mary Warner, Dorothy Steel, and Helen Smith.

Smith's grandchildren, children, brother and sisters will all enjoy this "Seventy-Five Years with a Country Boy," but so will hundreds of strangers who just like to read about growing up in the olden days. The book is available for $10 from Clayton Smith, Trapper Cabin Press, 06776 U.S. 31 South, Charlevoix, Michigan 49720. All copies are personally autographed by the author.

OPINIONS

Editorial

Scott Golovich, a 28-year-old local farmer, has recently been stricken with a rare disease called Guillain-Barre syndrome (See story page 3). It affects the sheaths surrounding the body's nerves. Golovich is currently in an intensive care unit at the University of Michigan Hospital in Ann Arbor. He is on a respirator and can't talk or move most of his body. He communicates with his wife and other visitors by nodding.

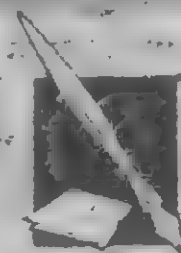

Karen Golovich, Scott's wife, gave birth to their second son this past Monday in Ann Arbor. Scott's brother and farming partner, Craig, is working long hours during the harvest season to keep the farm going while his brother recovers.

Family members say doctors have told them that the disease runs its course in a few weeks, but recovery is a long and painful process.

Friends, family members and coworkers from Charlevoix are attempting to rally support for Golovich and his family. They want to help the family through this difficult time; help them to get their lives back in order and continue to be productive members of the community.

Lorraine Kelly, one of Karen's coworkers at the Charlevoix County State Bank, is working on setting up a fund to help the couple. Farmers and other area men have been lending Craig a hand with the farmwork.

At this time, the disease is inarguably a tragedy. But perhaps in the future the community will be able to look back and see it in a different light; to see it not as a tragedy but as an opportunity the community took to help a fellow man.

Letters to the Editor:

Editor,

To the good citizens of Charlevoix.

On behalf of the Odmark family, Jan, Dick, Bob, Julie and myself, I would like to take this opportunity to thank, from the bottom of our hearts, the people of Charlevoix, for bestowing this wonderful honor and memorial to "Odie." The "Clarence A. Odmark Pavilion" in East Park is simply magnificent, and the enormity of the dedication to Odie's memory has struck us deep in our hearts. No one can possibly comprehend the pride and deep gratitude we feel, to have this eternal, living monument dedicated to his memory.

I wanted desperately to convey this gratitude when I was asked to speak to you at the dedication concert on July 20, but as you know, I was overwhelmed by the emotional impact of the moment. But I do hope you could understand me when I tried to choke out the words that "Odie truly loved Charlevoix and it is obvious by this beautiful tribute, that Charlevoix truly loved Odie."

If only we could personally thank every individual who spent so many hours in the planning and development of this beautiful pavilion, but there were so many, this simply isn't possible. But please allow me to single out Gary Stutzman for his tremendous effort in spearheading this magnificent community effort. Thank you Charlevoix - Odie is so proud!

Sincerely,
Ron Odmark

Boater appreciates rescue efforts

Editor,

Many thanks to the Charlevoix Coast Guard and Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department for their prompt and efficient response to my Mayday signal Saturday night, August 3.

My boat had struck a submerged boulder causing me to lose power. We were drifting slowly over the shoals, being pushed by the energy of six foot waves in deeper water. Out by the reef, the Coast Guard stood by after notifying the Sheriff's Department, until all eight people were ashore.

The following day the Dry Harbour Marina performed a remarkable piece of engineering which was made possible through the cooperation of the Medusa Cement Company. With their help my boat was brought ashore. This fine cooperation and high degree of professionalism performed by the Coast Guard, Sheriff's Department and private enterprises is one of the reasons Charlevoix is a safer and better place to live.

Thanks to all of you for a job well done.

Sincerely,
Clinton E. Davis

and six spouses in attendance. They were Hilda (Ogden) Thomson, Angie (Scott) Supemaw, Lola (Fessenden) Hahn, Gwen (Miller) Wexstaff, Dorris (Struthers) Pearsall, William Novak, Joe Stutzman, and Eloise (Tillotson) LaRue.

Giffin 50th

Jean & Ray Giffin

Ray and Jean Giffin of Charlevoix celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary with family and friends at the Congregational Church Saturday, Aug. 3.

The Giffins were married Sept. 13, 1941 in Brecksville, Ohio and initially resided in Oberlin where Ray finished seminary in 1942. They then became home missionaries in Kansas City, Kansas.

During World War II, they founded a church in a housing area of Brooklyn Village, OH. In 1946 they were appointed missionaries to China. They served there until they were forced to leave when the People's Republic of China was established.

The Giffins spent two years in Troy, OH where Ray was Assistant Minister in the Congregational Church. They later moved to Minneapolis, MN where Ray was Minister to Youth, first in the Mayflower Church and later with the Minnesota Conference. They came to the First Congregational Church of Charlevoix and remained there until retirement in 1982.

The Giffins both received undergraduate degrees from Denison University in Ohio. Jean later received her Masters of Science degree from Case Western Reserve School of Applied Sciences.

The fiftieth anniversary party was hosted by the Giffins' daughters and sons-in-law. They are: Marty and Doug Struxness of Bloomington, MN; and Pat and Gerry Hanberry of Waynesboro, PA. The Giffins also have three grandchildren: Jenny and Eric Struxness and Sarah Dolan.

Junior Grange hosts summer camp

Barnard Grange hall served as headquarters for a 3-day northern Junior Grange camp Aug. 5-7. The camp was led by Michigan State Junior Director, Peggy Johnston and Barnard Junior Grange leader, Ginger Stevens. The camp offered various activities to acquaint the 15 attending member, ages 5-14, with Grange rituals, officers duties, patriotism, and a reverence to God. The children led meetings and held officer's positions. They also participated in making craft projects that will be entered in the State Grange craft contests in October.

Monday's activities started off with an outing at Ferry beach and pizza donated by Pizza Hut served for dinner. Following the beach outing, the day concluded with a campfire at the half-complete with s'mores and campfire songs led by Robin Maurer. Tuesday was a special day thanks to a cruise on Lake Charlevoix on Ward Bros. "Miss Charlevoix" and a balloon launch later in the evening celebrating Michigan Junior Grange 100th birthday! A talent contest wrapped up camp on Wednesday, with Barnard Juniors taking the top three positions. First place went to Elizabeth Stoej for her song/sing-a-song medley; second place, violin solo played by Vicki Stevens; and third, a song solo sung by Melissa Maurer.

Local man and family battle against rare disease

Scott Golovich of Charlevoix is currently in an intensive care unit at the University of Michigan Hospital in Ann Arbor. He is suffering from a rare disease called Guillien Barre. The disease attacks the sheaths surrounding a person's nerves.

Just a few short weeks ago, Golovich was working on his farm north of town preparing for the busy harvest season. He and his wife Karen were anticipating the birth of their second child.

According to family members, Golovich began experiencing back pain and tingling and numbness in his arms and legs. His health deteriorated rapidly. He was admitted first to an area hospital and a few days later transferred to Ann Arbor.

Due to the nerve damage, many of his muscles currently will not function. He is on a respirator and can't talk or move most of his body. He communicates with his wife and other visitors by nodding his head.

Karen is on maternity leave from Charlevoix County State Bank and has been staying at her sister Kathy's home near Ann Arbor. Karen gave birth their second son Monday afternoon in Ann Arbor. They also have a three-year-old son.

Karen's mother and father, Chuck and Kay Britton, have spent several days in Ann Arbor as have other family members.

Scott's brother and farming partner, Craig, has been working long hours and doing his best to keep the farm going.

Karen's sister, Kathy Mays, reports that Scott's spirit is good and that he's determined to do whatever it takes to get better.

"His spirits are OK. It's just a long haul," she said. He's going to be in the Ann Arbor hospital for at least a month and that's just the beginning of a lengthy recovery process.

Friends and coworkers in Charlevoix are attempting to rally support for the couple.

Lorraine Kelly, one of Karen's coworkers at the bank, is working on the establishment of a fund to help the couple. Some area farmers and other men have pitched in to help Craig on the farm.

Kathy said doctors say that once Scott is through the worst of the disease there is a good prognosis for recovery. But it will take a long time and require intense physical therapy.

It may also require the help of a caring community.

Girl Scouts to build pavilion

A long time dream of area Girl Scouts is about to become a reality. A picnic pavilion to provide some protection from the weather is being built this month as part of a long range improvement plan for the Charlevoix camp located off of Marion Center Road. The pavilion and a new troop house, which the scouts would like to build within the next three years, will make the camp usable all year long. Currently the Girl Scout camp is used regularly by troops from throughout the 11 county Crooked Tree Girl Scout Council district, but only in the summer and early fall.

Area scouts have been raising funds for the pavilion for the past two years. Scouts have been saving Glen's, Olsson's, Giantway and Carter's receipts which brought them more than $700. They recently received a big financial boost from a $2,000 donation courtesy of the Zonta Club of Charlevoix.

Among the others who have contributed to the pavilion project are: Jodi Ager, plan development; Ferguson-Chamberlin, surveying; Swanson K&D, excavating; Muddick's Ice Cream shop, space for the Scouts' Christmas Bazaar; Barbara MadArthur, donation; Charlevoix United Way and Charlevoix Kiwanis, annual donations.

Anyone else who would like to help with future Girl Scout camp projects is asked to contact Jan Jensen at 347-7353 or Jeanne Eaton at 347-6577.

BEACONS

by Rev. Bruce Hamilton

Sometimes you have to do something just for yourself. Something that helps you feel good about who you are. I took two graduate classes this summer. As I write to you, I'm doing something I tell my kids not to do. I'm putting off the final piece of my final exam in American Economic History. It's a book review.

Preparing to write that review has made me wonder what someone would say if they were reviewing the greatest book of all, the Bible.

"The Holy Bible," Edited by God's Spirit working with forty writers. (Published in multiple languages and revisions; number of pages and price varies with edition.)

When you consider the number of collaborating writers, it truly takes a gifted editor to bring a work together with such order and harmony. This collection depicts the history of man from the dawn of time to the present and offers great hope for the future.

You can sense the reverent wonder as life on earth begins. There is sacred amazement as man is formed out of the dust of the ground. Glorious rejoicing follows as he is blessed with woman. But the real story begins as a thread of tragedy is woven from their expulsion from the Creator's paradise.

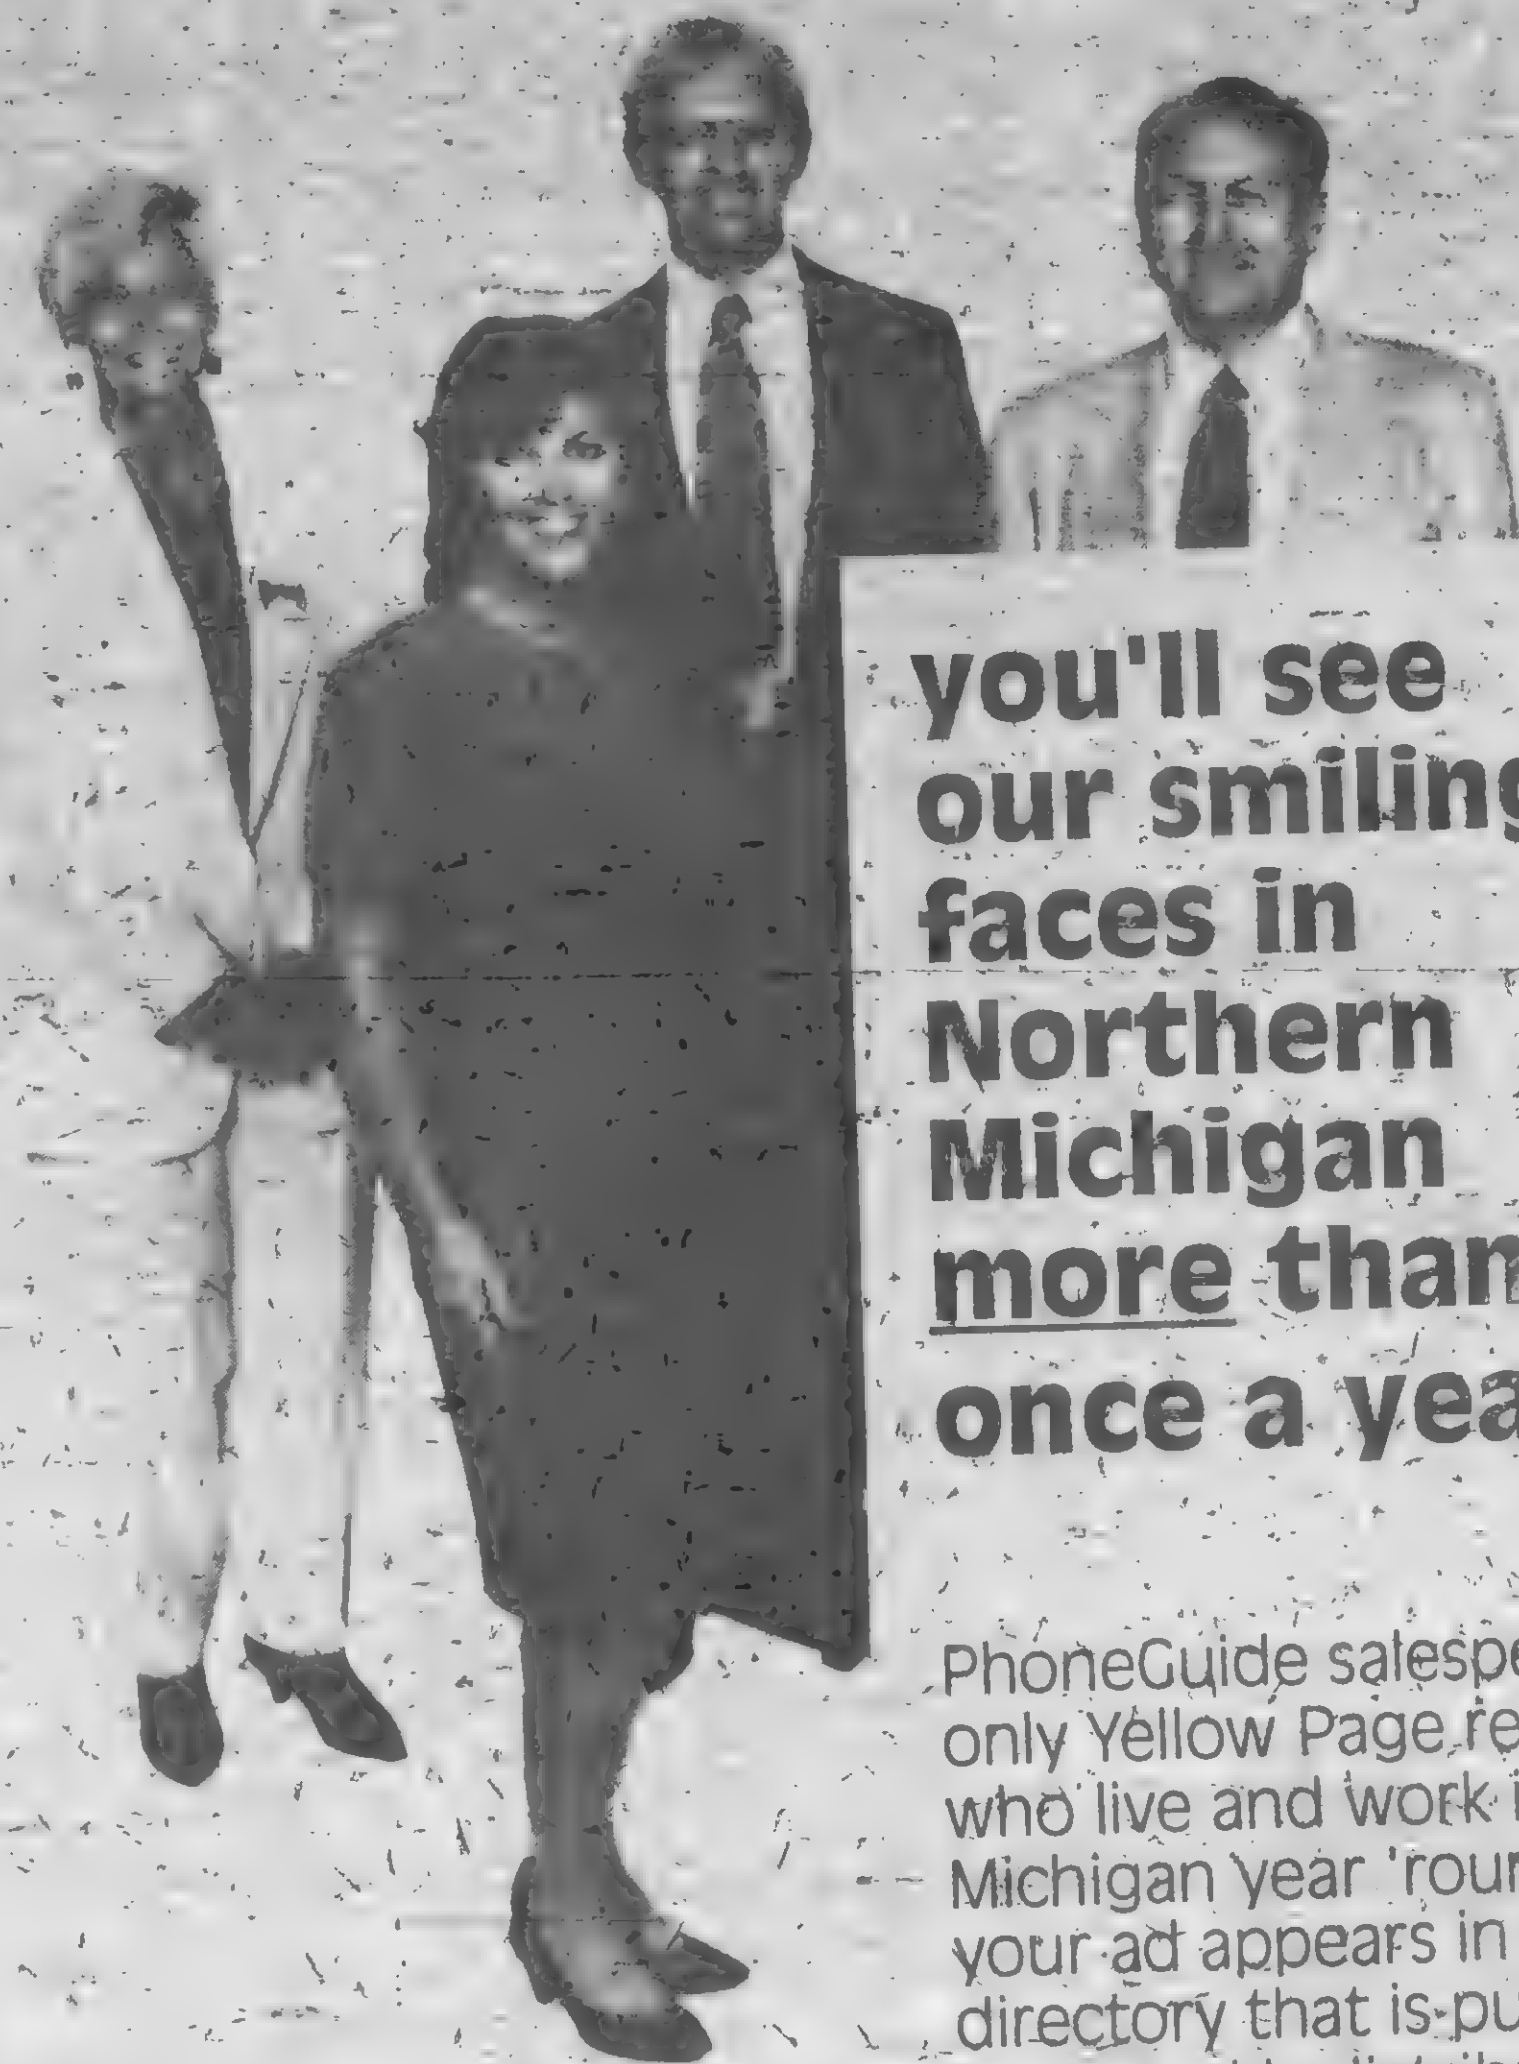

That severed relationship causes high and low points throughout the first half of the book as God inevitably reaches out and man runs away. In the midst of this emotional roller coaster, there is hope. The reader cannot avoid the promise of a Deliverer.

If anything, the second half of the book gives us an all too brief look at this Deliverer. The four Gospels touch us where we all live and challenge us to forever change our views about life.

The balance of the book deals with the practical application of holy principles to every-day life. It is crowned with a terrific surprise ending that assures us even in death there is new life.

Of course, this was just a pretend book review and space doesn't let me say everything I would like to. But then again, that's the whole point of a book review. Go out and pick up a copy for yourself!

Charlevoix sidewalk sales appeal to those who take their bargain hunting seriously 1991 Charlevoix Sidewalk Sales promise to be a super shopping safari. Big game bargains will be lurking in the retail wilderness of Charlevoix's sidewalks Aug. 15, 16 and 17. And trophy shoppers will be going in there after them.

As per usual, Charlevoix Sidewalk Sales will attract some of northern Michigan's most lethal trophy shoppers. These are not your impulse buyers. Trophy shoppers carefully plan their shopping expeditions and relentlessly stalk the best bargains. For trophy shoppers, digging through merchandise and interrogating store clerks is the hunt and the purchase of a bargain is the kill.

Trophy shoppers know a deal when they see one. Trophy shoppers scoff at 10 percent off sales. They don't even start to feel the thrill of the chase until they get into at least the 20 percent off range. At night trophy shoppers sit around the campfire bragging about that time when they not only got an item at 50 percent off, but had a coupon to boot. These are people who take their shopping seriously.

Although Charlevoix Sidewalk Sales attract a fair number of trophy shoppers, they are not the exclusive domain of trophy shoppers. Amateurs are welcome to join in and take their chances. There are a lot of wily bargains out there and one of them may be set intent on eluding the super shoppers that it stumbles right into the hands of some guy who's never clipped a coupon in his life.

To help put the amateurs and to put the trophy shoppers on a hot track, the Courier has compiled the following list as a sampling of some of the hottest bargains which will be available on the sidewalks of Charlevoix this Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The list was compiled under the working title - killer bargains.

Bananarama - (What better place to begin in a story with a ju-gle-hunting motif?) Shoppers will have the opportunity to bag themselves big bargains in kids' t-shirts and every other kind of t-shirt.

Central Drug - Lani Ochs was right in the midst of planning for the Art Fair rush when she was Bargain Hunters prowled the streets during the 1990 sidewalk sales and are expected to do the same during 1991. Sidewalk sales will be a three-day event this year, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

...hunting those trophy bargains

asked what the store's best sidewalk sale bargains will be. After pausing for a second to shift trains of thought, she said Central Drug will be offering a lot of Max Factor products at either 50 percent off or half-price, whichever people prefer.

Trademark Clothiers - Fred DiMartino, the keeper of the Trademark hunting preserve finds himself with an overpopulation of shirts. He's going to have to trim the herd. In order to do so, he will have a couple hundred shirts available at half price for sidewalk sales. The shirts are of the name-brand, short-sleeve species.

Shop of the Gulls - This is where shoppers hunt for things that they can't find on other shopping hunting grounds. And it's not a seasonal hunting place. You can find something at Shop of the Gulls be it summer, spring, winter or fall. Jeannine Wallace was asked what kind of bargain she expects to have lurking about during the sidewalk sale. As was to be expected, she came up with something out of the ordinary. Shop of the Gulls has a brass maritime ship's clock and some handmade bronze sundials that will certainly appeal to the trophy shopper who insists on being up with the sun.

Bahnhof - If you're going to look at bargain hunting as a sport, then what better to offer as a bargain than sport clothing. Bonnie Waddington, the manager of the Charlevoix Bahnhof store, says the Bobbie Burns line of sport and casual clothing will be selling at half-price during sidewalk sales.

The Clothing Company - Elaine Drury, manager of The Clothing Company, has uttered those words that every trophy shopper loves to hear. "We're going to have some real deals." Included among those deals will be slacks, shorts and summer dresses by Ivy and Woolrich.

hear. "We're going to have some real deals." Included among those deals will be slacks, shorts and summer dresses by Ivy and Woolrich.

Bridge Street Ace Hardware - Although trophy shopping is often thought to be a sport dominated by women, men too can compete provided they set their sights on the right game. Mike Hilligan at Bridge Street Ace Hardware was leafing through a three-page list of items he's planning to mark down for sidewalk sales. Included in that list were several sprinklers and array of lawn and garden tools that he expects to be selling for 25 to 30 percent off regular price.

Wishes and Whimsies - If trophy shoppers think of bargain hunting as something to be done at a bargain hunting resort, then they may wish to check out Wishes and Whimsies. Norm Lawson says the shop will be selling resort wear at 50 percent off.

My Favorite Things - Jim Beall says My Favorite things will be selling Laurel Burch jewelry and accessories at half off. A price like this on such a popular line of jewelry is expected to stop a rampaging bargain hunter dead in her tracks at 50 paces.

BUSINESS

Harbor Industries is a showcase industry

(Editor's note: The following story is one in a series of stories concerning area industry being written for the Courier by Ralph McRae. McRae is a former mayor and councilman and is a member of the Industrial Development Committee.)

By Ralph McRae

Harbor Industries is the largest industrial complex within the city limits. The company recently restructured several thousand feet of its interior space accomplishing the following: streamlining its administrative departments; consolidating production control and engineering offices; creating two more computer stations and a computer assisted design (CAD) room; converting 10 open areas into 20 offices, and two plush conference rooms; constructing a new and larger cafeteria which will seat up to 80 people in a home-like kitchen atmosphere.

On July 20, the plant hosted a public open house celebration to show off the improvements and let people get a first hand look at the plant's operating conditions.

Harbor Industries is located near the intersection of M-66 and U.S. 31. It is bounded on three sides by the city airport. Entry to the plant's lobby is by the road leading to the airport terminal.

There are 22 manufacturing plants in the Charlevoix area. Of those 22, four of them account for 50 percent of the employees. Harbor Industries is one of those four. The plant currently has approximately 190 workers.

In 1981, Harbor Industries became the owners of the Charlevoix plant. Harbor Industries is the plant's fourth owner.

Originally called Freedman Aircraft, the business was founded in 1946 by Gordon Freedman for the manufacture of wooden propellers. Freedman came to Charlevoix from Cincinnati and had developed a two-piece wooden propeller with a special hub. Freedman tested the revolutionary propeller on his own plane.

A large contract provided many jobs producing Freedman's propellers for the Navy. Some of the propellers were 12 feet long and had to be shaped outdoors. Freedman's first Charlevoix plant was located on Lincoln Street in the building which now houses Whiteley Floor Covering. Chuck Meier was one of the plant's first employees, coming to Charlevoix from Cincinnati in 1946. He retired from the plant in 1986.

When orders for propellers declined, Freedman had to find a new product. The plant began making display cabinets for national retail corporations. Freedman became a flying salesman using his plane to produce a continuous flow of orders which required a plant with more working space. In 1948 a 50,000 square foot factory was built at the Harbor Industry site.

Storing and warehousing raw materials for the cabinets required a tremendous amount of space. At times the plant stored raw materials in the old Inn Garage, the Foster Boatworks building and in Loch Farm barns among other places. Additional space was added to the plant to eliminate the need to rent so much space and to increase the plant's efficiency. By the time all of the building was done the plant encompassed 153,000 square feet.

Freedman initiated the plant's present four-day work week. By working 10 hours a day for four days, employees end up with a three-day weekend (a four day weekend if Monday happens to be a national holiday). It was thought at the time that other local manufacturers would also adopt the four day plan, but that hasn't happened.

Harbor Industries' current plant manager is William Olstrom. Olstrom started as a plant production worker almost 25 years ago. The company has always had a policy of attempting to promote from within its own organization. Olstrom succeeded Max Hosmer who was plant manager for eight years and retired after being with the plant for 23 years.

In addition to display cases for greeting cards and musical recordings Harbor Industries has now expanded its line of products to include a variety of free standing display fixtures, electronic cabinets and point of purchase fixtures. Harbor Industry clients include large companies such as Sears, Sony and Phillip Morris. Not long ago the plant completed a special order for a British customer. The order filled a semi trailer which ended up being air lifted to England.

There are three principal raw components used to manufacture Harbor Industries' display units. Two of those components are produced within a few hours drive from Charlevoix. Georgia Pacific in Gaylord is the source for thousands of bundles of heavy particle boards. A company in Alpena produces thousands of hardboard sheets for Harbor Industries. Additional components include vinyl coverings, glass and aluminum ex-trusions. Many displays now also require electronic control panels. These are assembled in the shop.

Harbor Industries is a woodworking facility with departments for fabricating, assembling, finishing, packing and shipping. It is a full service company and will work with a client from concept through design and manufacturing to delivery.

Harbor Industries' parent company is located in Grand Haven. The company also has a second manufacturing facility in Los Angeles, California. Each of the plants has its own sales force and there are also regional sales offices.

In addition to building improvements, the plant has also recently installed several new and innovative production machines. The machines are all computer programmed and able to function with limited supervision. The machines cost hundreds of thousands of dollars and were made in Italy.

Sara Schenck (left) of Charlevoix was one of 54 freshmen from Michigan who were selected to participate in the University of Michigan Summer Science program. The young women explored projects in space science, physics, chemistry and engineering optics during a two week stay at the Ann Arbor campus.

Lyme disease requires precautions

Lyme disease is a debilitating bacterial illness that is spread by the bite of a tick. It is the commonest tick-borne in the United States. An estimated 5,000 to 15,000 new cases occur each year in 43 states across the nation. Since 1981, 423 cases of Lyme disease have been reported in Michigan. The illness has been diagnosed in residents of Northern Michigan. The highest risk months are May, June, and July.

Lyme disease is hard to diagnose because its symptoms can vary from person to person and involve different parts of the body. Also, fewer than one-half of people with the illness remember a tick bite. Immature (nymph) ticks are easily overlooked because they are not much bigger than a pinhead. The most obvious early symptom of Lyme disease is a red skin rash which occurs within the first 30 days after the bite. The rash usually breaks out near the bite site within a week or two and develops into a reddish oval two to six inches across. Without treatment, it soon fades. The rash may have a firm center, feel warm to the touch, or provide a burning sensation, and disappear briefly, only to reappear elsewhere on the body. Occasionally, the rash shows central clearing and resembles a bull's eye. Even larger rashes can be missed because they are faint or occur on the back, groin, or armpit. Flu-like symptoms may occur and include fever, headache, nausea, aching joints and muscles and fatigue. They may be the first sign without a rash. If untreated, Lyme disease can cause heart, eye, and nervous system problems and chronic arthritis weeks to years later. If you notice the symptoms described after being in a tick infested area, even though you were not aware of being bitten, see your doctor.

To protect yourself during the spring and summer months, stay out of areas likely to be infested with ticks. When exposure is unavoidable, do the following:

1. Wear light colored protective clothing, i.e. long sleeves that are snug at the wrists, shirt tucked in at the waist, and pants tucked into socks or boots.

2. Treat clothing with a repellent that contains permethrin, which kills ticks but does not kill ticks on the skin.

3. Do a thorough self-inspection when you come indoors and inspect children when they come in. Studies show that transmission of the disease is unlikely if the tick has been attached for less than 24 to 48 hours.

4. Make sure pets are well protected with tick collars and powders, and check them daily during tick season.

5. Avoid brush piles, tall grass, and other vegetation where ticks may be located.

6. Mow grass short around your house and out buildings.

7. Take a bath and wash clothing after working outside in the underbrush.

If you discover a tick attached to your skin, do the following:

1. Use tweezers (and not your fingers), grasp the tick behind the head and slowly but firmly withdraw it. If the head is left in the skin, do not probe for it. Otherwise, treat the site as you would an ordinary wound.

2. Wash your hands and the bite area and apply antiseptic. If you must touch the tick, cover your fingers with tissue, then wash your hands thoroughly.

3. Save the tick and put it in a small container or jar labeled with the date, the body location of the bite, and where you think the tick came from. Put a small piece of wet paper or cotton in with the live tick. The health department will have the tick identified and tested for Lyme disease. Dead ticks should be placed in alcohol and can be sent for identification. Testing for Lyme disease in dead ticks is not done.

4. Watch the area of the bite for eight weeks for the appearance of a rash that resembles a bull's-eye. If one appears or if you notice vague symptoms such as headache, fever, chills, fatigue, stiff neck, or painful joints and muscles, see your doctor immediately.

Lyme disease does not have to be a problem for people in Northern Michigan. Proper protective actions, along with early treatment can minimize problems related to this disease. Since there appears to be no tick repellent available that can be used repeatedly on the skin of infants and children without potential allergic or toxic effects, the best approach at present may be a twice daily body search and an evening shower or bath following exposure to ticks. Questions about possible infection with Lyme disease should be directed to your own physician.

General questions about Lyme disease may be directed to any local health department office: Petoskey (616)347-6014; Charlevoix (616)547-6523; Gaylord (517)732-1794; or Bellaire (616)953-8670.

As used in this Ordinance, the following words shall have the meaning prescribed herein.

(a) "Council" shall mean the City Council of the City of Charlevoix.

(b) "Clerk" shall mean the City Clerk for the City of Charlevoix, a duly appointed deputy, or other person designated by the Clerk to perform the Clerk's function under this Ordinance.

(c) "Street," "Alley," or "Public Way" shall mean that portion of land within the City dedicated to the use of the public for the purposes of pedestrian or vehicular travel.

(d) "Person" shall mean an individual, association, corporation or partnership.

Section 3. Resolution

When the Council deems it advisable to vacate, discontinue, or abolish any street, alley, or public way, or a portion thereof, it shall by resolution declare such intention and in the same resolution shall schedule a public hearing, not less than ten (10) days thereafter, when it will meet to hear public comment on such proposed action.

Section 4. Notice

The Clerk shall cause a copy of the public hearing notice and a copy of the resolution to be published at least once in an official newspaper prior to the scheduled public hearing. Prior to the scheduled public hearing, the Clerk shall also send by first class mail a copy of the public hearing notice and a copy of the resolution to all property owners and all persons claiming under those owners located within three hundred (300) feet of the street, alley, or public way described in the resolution, based on the City's current tax assessment records.

Section 5. Public Hearing

At a time scheduled for the public hearing, the Council shall hear public comment on the proposed action to vacate, discontinue, or abolish any street, alley, or public way, or a portion thereof. Comments regarding such proposed action of the Council may be stated at the public hearing or comments may be filed in writing with the Clerk at or prior to the public hearing.

Section 6. Council Action

After considering the comments at a public hearing and any written comments filed with the Clerk, the Council by resolution shall be empowered to vacate, discontinue, or abolish any street, alley, or public way, or a portion thereof, but may not take action regarding any street, alley, or public way beyond that described in the original resolution of proposed action.

Section 7. Public Utility Easements

When the Council determines that it is necessary for the health, welfare, comfort, and safety of the public to vacate, discontinue or abolish any street, alley, or public way, or a portion thereof, the Council may reserve an easement in the street, alley or public way for public utility purposes and/or other public purposes by including such reservation in the final resolution vacating, discontinuing, or abolishing the street, alley, or public way.

Section 8. Recording of Resolution

Within thirty (30) days after the Council adopts a resolution vacating, discontinuing, or abolishing a street, alley, or public way or a portion thereof, the Clerk shall record a certified copy of such resolution in the office of the Charlevoix County Register of Deeds. This resolution shall not be effective until recorded.

Section 9. Extension of Zoning Districts

Whenever any street, alley, or public way, or a portion thereof, is vacated, discontinued, or abolished under this Ordinance, the zoning district(s) adjoining each side of the street, alley, or public way shall be automatically extended to the center of such vacation. All areas included in the vacation shall then and henceforth be subject to all appropriate regulations of the extended district(s).

Section 10. Fee

Before any action is taken as provided in this Ordinance, the person proposing, recommending, or petitioning for the vacation, discontinuance, or abolition of a street, alley, or public way, or a portion thereof, shall pay to the Clerk a fee as fixed from time to time by resolution of the Council. Under no condition shall such fee or any part thereof be refunded for failure of such action to be approved by the Council.

Section 11. Exemption

(e) The Council may not vacate, discontinue or abolish that portion of any street, alley, or public way under its jurisdiction which is within twenty-five (25) feet of the lake or the general course of a stream and which is also located within a platted subdivision as long as such action is prohibited by State Law.

Ordinance No. 555 was hereby adopted on the fifth day of August, 1991, by the Charlevoix City Council by the following yea and nay vote:

YEAS: Councilmembers Russell, Cross, Haggard, Felter, Hoffman & Gaskin

NAYS: None

Subsidized housing proposal drawing mixed reviews

By L. Scott Swanson

A proposal to build 24 subsidized apartment units on May Street has been stalled due to a zoning question. The city council considered a rezoning proposal for the project Monday evening, but tabled the project until Sept. 3 to determine whether the project requires a 15-foot or 25-foot setback.

Brooks-Dietz Development Co. of Boyne City would like to build a two-building apartment complex at 1007 May Street, between Mayfield Village apartments and the school bus garage. The buildings would have a total of 12 one-bedroom apartments and 12 two-bedroom apartments.

Brooks-Dietz would construct the complex through a federal program which provides subsidies to renters based on income. As the subsidy program was described at the council meeting, people qualifying for the subsidy program would pay approximately 30 percent of their income for rent.

Brooks-Dietz has a similar 96-unit complex in Boyne City. Mary Neilson, formerly of Charlevoix, said that when she and her husband retired they attempted to find housing in Charlevoix which they could afford, but could not. Consequently they now live in the Boyne City complex. She said the complex is beautiful.

Rhonda Siwarga of 104 Hampton and Shirley Roloff of 100 Hampton objected to the project. Siwarga presented the council with a petition which she said contained 81 names of people opposed to the rezoning. She said that although there have been improvements at Mayfield Village, there have also been problems there. She also noted that there are already traffic problems on May Street and a desperate need for a sidewalk.

Roloff said the property should remain R-1 because there is a greater need for single-family homes than for low-income housing. She voiced opposition to subsidized housing programs saying they are "encouraging people that hand-outs are great." She said she does a great deal of volunteer work and has no attitude problem concerning low-income people, but is "tired of having to work and pay the taxes that we do in Charlevoix."

There were also people who spoke in favor of the project. Lisa Krusel from Northwest Michigan Human Services and the Charlevoix-Emmet Housing Coalition said subsidized housing programs are not just for people on welfare, but are for low-income senior citizens and moderate-income working families.

Dan Barron, former Chamber of Commerce president, said the proposed project would provide a buffer between commercial and R-1 areas, is located along major transportation routes and is a moderate density use. He noted that Charlevoix Township has recently turned down two low-income housing project proposals. He said that if the city and township do not make provisions for low-income housing it is possible that some type of federal government action could come into play. He said there have been other communities in which the federal government or a federal court has forced to make accommodations for low-income housing. Barron said he is disturbed by any attitude that people of lower means and lower income are less desirable. He said subsidized housing can provide working people an opportunity to advance in life.

The planning commission earlier recommended approval of the proposal. At Monday's council meeting, planning commission member June Cross said she's tired of hearing the term "low-income" since given the area's wage scale what's really being discussed is "average income" for most people. Cross said she feels the community has a need for the type of housing being proposed.

First ward council representative Cheri Hoffman said there just is not housing available in this area for people who make $12,000 to $13,000 per year. She said there are many people in the community who have a need for housing they can afford. She noted that one of the reasons it is difficult to attract manufacturing to Charlevoix is because there isn't adequate housing for people who earn starting manufacturing wages.

Hoffman added that in raising the issues of traffic and the need for sidewalks the neighbors are expressing valid concerns which the city staff should immediately begin addressing. However, she said those concerns aren't concerns related to the proposed project.

"I strongly, strongly support this project," Hoffman said.

The project was tabled due to a question of interpretation in the zoning ordinance. One section of the ordinance refers to a setback requirement of 15 feet and another section of the ordinance refers to a setback requirement of 25 feet. A clause in the zoning ordinance states that whenever there are conflicting requirements, the more restrictive requirement shall be used. The site plan was drawn with a 15-foot setback. If following staff review, the 25-foot setback is determined to be the pertinent requirement either the design will have to be modified or the developers will have to seek a variance.

Southside shows where the pull is in this town

by Laurie Lounsbury

Getting the northside and the southside citizens of Charlevoix to agree on something can often be as difficult as pushing a rope through air. This past Sunday, however, nobody was pushing on ropes when the north and south sides faced off on opposite sides of the Pine River Channel for the First Annual Charlevoix Tug of War. The northsiders were immediately skeptical when they spotted Meggison's 1944 tow truck with its winch parked suspiciously close to the southside's tug of war site.

The southside boasted a magnificent display of brawn for the battle, anchoring their team with the six foot, six-inch, and who knows how many pounds of rock hard muscle, Kevin Swanson. Swanson, a Charlevoix native, lives south of Clinton Street, the designated divid-

School building trades ended

by Wendi Wright

Due to lack of student interest, the Charlevoix Board of Education has decided not to offer the Building Trades class at the high school during the '91-'92 school year.

According to David Smith, high school principal, only three students have enrolled in the class so far. The school board decided that such a small enrollment did not justify the cost of running the class. In years past, the Building Trades class has built a house as its year-long project.

Teacher David Anderson will be laid off effective October 8, 1991. The board did leave room to reverse the decision if more students

Sunken ship to be designated as an archeological site

By L. Scott Swanson

A sunken ship which rests on the bottom of Lake Charlevoix off of Ferry Beach may become a state archeological site. The Keuka, a 172-foot schooner sank Aug. 14, 1932. It has been a popular attraction for scuba divers for the past several years. One of those divers, Mike Spears of Dearborn, has been compiling the necessary paperwork to have the wreck declared an archeological site.

Geoff Reynolds of the Charlevoix Historical Society has been assisting Spears by collecting information on the time the ship spent in Charlevoix.

The Keuka was built in 1889 in Mount Clemens by Wm. Dulac for the Tonawanda Barge Line Company of North Tonawanda, New York. It was originally named the Stewart. Later it was rechristened the H.J. McAvoy. In the mid 1920s it was again rechristened, this time as the Keuka.

The Keuka spent most of her working life as a lumber barge, but after arriving on Lake Charlevoix was re-fitted to be a floating casino and dance hall. That part of her career is not well documented, but is the subject to much speculation in regard to her demise.

The Keuka sank on Aug. 14, 1932. There are at least four stories as to what might have caused the sinking. Reynolds says the most plausible story is that it just fell into disrepair and ended up sinking. Another story has it that the Women's Christian Temperance Union or some similar group didn't want a floating casino and dance hall moored in Lake Charlevoix so they sank it. In the same vein, another story has it that federal revenue agents were on their way to investigate the ship so she was sent to the bottom of the lake. Still another story has it that a local man didn't like the ship so he sank it.

The wreck is in about 50 feet of water, but it is resting upright on the lake bottom consequently the deck is only about 28 feet below the surface. Reynolds said he talked to Ralph Hamilton who said his brother went down on the ship after it sank and used dynamite to blow the masts off of it so it wouldn't be a hazard to navigation.

Several years ago a salvage company was talking about refloating the ship and turning it into a museum, but that project never panned out.

During the summer visibility on the wreck is limited to about five feet due to silt and algae in the water. During the winter visibility is much better and makes the wreck a popular winter dive site.

Reynolds will be talking with local people who remember the Keuka in an effort to fill in the blank spots in the Charlevoix chapter of the ship's history.

...southsiders prove to be full of pull ing line for the contest.

The north side had an equally impressive anchor, a newcomer to town named Mike Law. Law, at about six feet, five and half inches and with hands like oven mitts, was a welcome addition to the north side's somewhat less than brutish team. The north side did have an impressive number of women turn out for the event, led by co-captain Cheri Hoffman. Hoffman wisely brought along a varied assortment of mismatched ski gloves, mittens, and rubber housecleaning gloves to spare her teammates' hands.

With the help and cooperation of the Coast Guard, the Channel was closed to boat traffic, and at 2:40 p.m., after much fiddling with the rope, Tom Meggison lowered his crutch and the tug-of-war commenced.

The south side gained an early advantage with one well coordinated pull, folting the north side out of their carefully-carved out foot holds. The contest remained even after that for a time, the north side even winning back a few inches after they figured out how to pull in unison, aided by Mike Greeley's coaching. But it wasn't long before a handful of northsiders figured out it was an exercise in futility and decided to save the remaining skin on the palms of their hands by dropping the rope in defeat.

Northsider John Marsh wasn't about to go down in defeat without at least some struggle. So in a final burst of energy he gave the rope a mighty tug, and the southsiders responded by jerking him unceremoniously into the channel. Both sides agreed afterward that the north side should be awarded a few style points for Marsh's dramatic plunge.

North side team captain Bill Haggard, while being steadfastly loyal to his own north side, apparently had an inkling of what the final outcome might be, because prior to the tug he allegedly told south side team captain, Mayor Dave Novotny, "Stop pulling when you see the north side condos start to move."

The undisputed final result was the south side won fair and square, with out the help of Meggison's winch, the north side lost, Johnny Marsh got wet, and good time was had by all.

Man dies in plane crash

Joseph F. Peterson, 55, of Dearborn and Walloon Lake was killed Tuesday, Aug. 13 when a plane he was piloting crashed into Lake Charlevoix near Horton Bay. The plane took off from Boyne City and crashed shortly before noon.

Investigators from the Federal Aviation Administration are investigating the cause of the crash. The cockpit of the single-engine plane remained afloat after crashing. A person from a boat pulled Peterson from the plane. Peterson was taken to Northern Michigan Hospitals, but was pronounced dead a short time after arriving.

A ribbon was placed in the middle of a rope hanging over the channel prior to the tug-of-war Sunday, but once the pulling started, the ribbon went the way of the waterfowl and found itself with an undeniable urge to migrate south. Approximately 60 men and women participated in the tug.

enroll at the start of the school year.

Also, the board continued a discussion begun at an earlier meeting this summer, involving school board member salaries. The issue was raised originally because board member Doris Pearl said she did not feel that the board's current compensation rate met the expenses incurred by board members, and that the expense might prevent people from running for the school board. She was concerned primarily, she said, with mileage for rural board members.

The general feeling among all the board members was, however, that the reason all had decided to run for the board was because of a concern for the school system and educating children, not for the money gain.

In fact, they agreed that it was best to keep the pay low to ensure that people ran for the school board for these same reasons, and were not motivated by the hope of financial gain. At Monday night's meeting, the board decided in general discussion that the current salaries were sufficient, and that no further action on the matter would be required.

"Good neighbor" zoning proposed

Editor,

The city can't legislate neighborliness, but it would be nice if every one practiced it on their own. We have had a problem recently concerning a red commercial utility truck parked 13 feet from our front door on the city right of way. Our home is an old storage barn, now remodeled and right on the edge of the street. There are no zoning laws to prevent this kind of inconsiderate behavior, but reasonable people should be able to settle these things without written laws. Perhaps it should be called "Good Neighbor Zoning."

Unfortunately, our neighbor councilman Alvin "Butch" Russell, doesn't believe in neighborly communication. After sending him a written note, and speaking with Mrs. Russell, we then sought help at City Hall. Mr. Russell has now moved the truck to the side of our house about five feet from our kitchen sink, right under our kitchen window. There are many alternatives to this parking spot, but he doesn't choose to use them. He doesn't even live next to us, but rents this property including a two-car garage to someone else, and of course he doesn't want this truck in his driveway, next to his house.

What's a person to do? If a city councilman ignores his neighbor's plea for recent neighborly behavior, then how can he represent the people?

Information sought on Sam Rose

Editor,

I am searching for anyone who has any information, or who might have known my great grandfather (Simon Mason (Sam) Rose) who was the mayor of Charlevoix from 1908-9 and from 1917-1920. He was also a deep sea diver, steamship captain with unlimited papers, an alderman, city assessor and later a barber. He was also a prominent Mason.

He came to northern Michigan from Antrim County in 1881 to Petoskey, to East Jordan in 1882, to Elk Rapids in 1885 and eventually to Charlevoix.

He captained the Manitou that ran between Chicago and Mackinac Island. Later he ran the Beaver Islander between Charlevoix and Beaver Island.

He died in Charlevoix, 11 Sept. 1950. He lived at 302 Mason Street. In 1900 he lived at 109 Bridge Street.

If you have any information on my grandfather or his wife Lizzie please contact me at 5102 Boyer Rd., Mariposa, CA 95338, phone (209) 966-5205.

KCB expresses gratitude

Editor,

It was a pleasant surprise to the Keep Charlevoix Beautiful Board when Vacation Properties Network announced that it would host a golf tournament Sept. 5 for the benefit of our organization.

Many have said that this year the petunias are more beautiful than ever. We believe that the topsoil spread on the flower beds this spring has much to do with the success of this year's crop plus, of course, the almost daily watering by Marilyn and Dale Boss and the seeding by the Pellison Camp crew.

However, the topsoil was expensive; almost $5000. Thus, we are especially grateful for this golf event.

Sincerely,

Bruce M. MacArthur
President

Hospital Guild awards four scholarships

Four scholarships to area students have been renewed by the Charlevoix Area Hospital Guild.

Thomas Graf, of Charlevoix, will receive the scholarship as he enters his seventh year of study toward a medical degree at the University of Michigan.

Nicole Korrage, of Boyne City, a junior nursing student at the University of Michigan, will receive the award for a third year. She joins Nancy Dewey, of Central Lake, a senior nursing student at the University of Michigan, and Jill Cary, also of Central Lake, a senior pharmacy student at Ferris, to receive checks for $400 to continue their studies.

The hospital Guild awards scholarships each year to students in the medical field. Applications are received in the spring.

Norwood school hosts reunion

Former students and teachers from the Norwood School are invited to a reunion scheduled for noon Aug. 31 at the old school house in Norwood. The event will be a potluck dinner. Meat, beverages and rolls will be furnished. People attending the reunion are asked to bring their own table service and a dish to pass.

BEACONS

OF BLESSINGS

By Rev. Bruce Hamilton

We made a journey to Canada last week. Crossing the border at Sarnia, I was asked a question by the customs agent that I never really thought about before. What is your citizenship? Born in Pennsylvania and raised in Florida, the answer should have been easy. I'm an American. But never having been asked to stand up for my country in that fashion before, I hesitated. I had to think a minute before what was being asked really sunk in.

I didn't think about it then, but always being on the look out for something that will preach, I wondered later what she would have said if I told her my citizenship was in heaven!

Roll that round in your mind dear Christian friend. In some circles, giving your heart to the Lord is known as being born again. What is the basis for citizenship if not the land of your birth? When you make a profession of faith, you have adopted a new homeland, an eternal one.

Driving across the plains of southern Ontario, my children picked up on it faster than I did. Garrison sized Canadian flags dotted the countryside. It was different to see the maple leaf when you are so used to seeing the stars and stripes. It is important to show pride in your country. It is important to let the world know where you stand.

Have you ever thought about the number of scriptures that dot our own countryside? A lot of them are topped with crosses. They are the symbols of our heavenly citizenship, reminders of the higher calling that each of us follows as brothers and sisters in Christ.

The intriguing thing to contemplate is what would you answer if someone challenged you about your divine homeland? Would you, like the scripture says, "be always ready to give a reason for the hope that is within you?" I am just old enough to remember hearing Kate Smith sing "God Bless America" and having my heart jump inside of me. If you ever watch ice hockey in the winter, the fellow in Edmonton can sing "O Canada" in a way that will touch even us Yanks.

I long for the day that more folks will be just as thrilled by "Blessed Assurance" or "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross." Maybe those aren't quite universal enough. How would you feel about "Yes, Jesus Loves Me The Bible Tells Me So." We are fortunate to call this country our home. But the greatest blessings come from realizing that heaven is our ultimate home.

Bruce Hamilton serves as pastor at the Charlevoix Community Church of God on Huribut Street. Beacons of Blessings is provided to the Courier by Hamilton and other members of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association.

Almost 400 kids played softball

Softball continues to be as popular as ever among Charlevoix's young people. Nearly 400 local kids played on teams in various Charlevoix Recreation Department leagues this summer.

The most popular league was the T-ball league where beginning ball players, be they boys or be the girls, learn to play the game. About 160 kids played on the 10 T-ball league teams this season. The brave souls who coached the T-ball teams this year were: Bill Herriman, Rick Arnold, Audrey Roloff, Rick and Teri Wilson, Sue Macks, Mike Herriman, Butch Kloster, Liz Nortley, Bob Probert, Harold and Kathy Miller, Cathy Cross, Jean McDonough, Dennis Priess, Bill Silberhorn and Mike Castiglione.

The girls' 8-10 league had four teams and a total of about 60 players. Coaching the four teams were: Tom Morrison, Larry Skippergosh, Carl Miller and Tom Fisher.

The girls' 11-13 league also had four teams and a total of about 55 players. Coaching the teams were: Delbert Kelly, Judy Skippergosh, Bob Eveleigh and Jim Tank.

The boys' 8-10 league had four teams with a total of about 60 players. Coaching the teams were: Butch Hart, Sue Louiselle, John Hutchison and Kraag Lieberman.

The boys' 11-13 league also had four teams with a total of about 55 players. Coaching the teams were: Jeannie Eaton, Patty Reighart, Julie Archey, Ike Boss and Carl Miller.

The recreation department noted that without the volunteer efforts of the coaches the softball program couldn't exist.

Currently there is a need for coaches for the flag football program this fall. People who are willing to coach should phone 547-3253 for additional information.

Club members pass test

Thirteen students in the Kuk Sool Won (martial arts) Club of Charlevoix recently passed tests to advance in rank. The club was founded in Charlevoix this past winter and is under the direction of black belt Kevin Janisse.

Testing took place Aug. 13 during the final class of the club's summer session.

Advancing from 12th Gup to 11th Gup were: Kevin Whitley, Debbie Garten, Ryan Borths, Josh Holeccheck and Brian Thanisui.

Advancing to 12th Gup were: Randy Weiss, Julie Gregory, Anya Woodcock, Joe Borths, Penny Martin, Bob Borths, Jeremy Olach and Jamie Whitley.

Janisse was assisted in testing by his instructor, 5th degree black belt master Rudy Timmerman, and by two other first degree black belt instructors, all of whom teach classes at the Kuk Sool Won Club of Canada which is located in Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario.

The Charlevoix club will begin its fall session Sept. 16. Classes will meet from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. Mondays and Wednesdays at the Charlevoix High School. For more information phone Janisse at 547-0525.

Charlevoix recreational opportunities grow

By L. Scott Swanson

Nature did a lot for Charlevoix in terms of recreational opportunities. Local people have not only enjoyed those opportunities, but have done what they can to enhance them.

In recent weeks recreational improvements have been completed at Ferry Avenue Beach park. City recreation director Ike Boss says he feels Ferry Beach is now one of the nicest recreational facilities in Michigan.

Recent additions to the park include playground equipment which has been crawling with children, 16 redwood benches, a sand volleyball court and horseshoe pits. Several other recreational items were added to the park earlier this summer. They include: three pavilions, a basketball court, new restrooms, a concession stand and large grills with the capacity to prepare food for more than 100 people.

Boss is particularly proud of the playground equipment. The equipment is a playground module which includes swings, two slides with tubes, and ladders and bars to climb on. Ever since the equipment was installed it has been crawling with children. Boss noted that the city recreation commission choose colors that weren't too flagrant so they would be in harmony with the park atmosphere rather than standing out like a sore thumb.

The play area is located within view of the parking lot. "We put the play area where it is so parents can sit in cars and watch the kids," Boss explained.

equipment is only one example of the thought that went into locating equipment and benches in convenient and logical places. Another example is the benches located near the basketball court. The benches were put there so that players waiting for the next game or spectators would have a place to sit and watch the games. A few years ago it was kind of difficult to find a good outdoor basketball court to play on. Now there are several nice courts in both the city and the township. Other outdoor court sites are at the elementary school, middle school, Shenahan Field, Mount McSaubia and Rotary Park near the city softball field.

Boss was the guest speaker at last week's Charlevoix Rotary meeting. He complimented the Rotarians for their work on Rotary Park. A few years ago the Rotary was looking for a project and approached Boss. He said that at that time something the city needed was a play area next to the softball fields. Children needed something to do while their parents were playing softball. The local Rotary financed a small park which included a playground equipment and a basketball court. Recently swings and new ply equipment was installed at the park. Anyone questioning the popularity of that particular basketball court need only take a ball up to the court on a summer evening while softball games are taking place. In a matter of minutes two or three youngsters will be gathered around asking, "Can I shoot? Let me take a shot." Not all of the new recreational equipment is geared toward young people. Older people like to play too. They just do it at a little slower pace.

Two local men who enjoy playing horseshoes noticed the recreational improvements being made at Ferry Beach and put in a request for horseshoe pits. Consequently horseshoe pits were added at the north end of the park.

The recreation is considering improving the volleyball courts at Depot Beach, but at least one of the courts won't be a sand court. In speaking to the Rotary, Boss explained that some older volleyball players talked to him and told him to "leave at least one grass court." They said they like to play volleyball, but they like to play at a slow-of-pace. According to the rules of their game, if the ball hits the ground, but you get it on the first bounce then it's still in play. This brand of volleyball is not what is known as power volleyball.

Recreational equipment has also recently been added at Michigan Beach. The added equipment is new, yet in a way it's also old. During the 1930s playground equipment was installed at Michigan Beach as part of a government WPA project. Included in that equipment was a big green merry go-round or carousel. Boss and many other people who grew up in Charlevoix have fond memories of going down to Michigan Beach as children and spinning around on that carousel. Well, between 15 and 20 years ago the old green carousel was removed from the beach. Pity the poor kids who grew up during the 1980s. They missed out on playing on the carousel in the sand at Michigan Beach. A few weeks ago a new carousel was installed at Michigan Beach and a new generation of children is enjoying one of the many simple recreational pleasures Charlevoix has to offer.

Boss credited several people for helping with the project, among them: the prison crew from Camp Pellston under the direction of corrections officer Guy Wagar; Pat Brennan from Performance Engineering; Sam Crowell; Bill Atwood; Mark Drunth; Ed Whitley and the crew of the city electric department and the Rotary Club.

Dear PhoneGuide:

Being a new Optometrist it's important to let people know who and where I am and what specialized services I have available.

Our ad in PhoneGuide did a good job of accomplishing this.

I found the optometrist to be very friendly and easy to work with. She helped me convey this information to the public in an eye catching manner.

Our Customers advertise in PhoneGuide because they know their message will be in the phone book that is preferred 4 to 1 over our largest competitor.

Make sure you are listed in our next edition.

Call today.

Man charged in balcony injury

Timothy E. McNamara, 25, of Delton, Michigan has been charged with assault with intent to do great bodily harm less than murder for allegedly throwing another man from a balcony. The other man, Andrew Louiselle, 20, of Charlevoix is in a Grand Rapids hospital and as of Monday was listed in critical condition with head injuries incurred when he hit the parking lot below the balcony.

According to a police report the incident took place at approximately 1:30 a.m. Aug. 13 at Nanny's Restaurant. The report said that according to witnesses Louiselle and another person were arguing and McNamara picked Louiselle up and threw him over the railing of a second floor balcony.

McNamara was arraigned Thursday, Aug. 15 in Charlevoix District Court, Judge Harvey C. Vanum appointed attorney Mark Muniak to defend McNamara and set bond at $25,000 or cash surety. As of Monday afternoon, McNamara remained in the Charlevoix County Jail.

A preliminary examination is scheduled for 1:30 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 22 in district court. According to court records, McNamara is employed by a roofing company and was in Charlevoix to do a roofing job. The charge McNamara faces carries a maximum penalty of 10 years in prison or a $5,000 fine.

Bulbs to be sold

In an effort to serve the greater Charlevoix area, while raising some needed funds, The OpenMed Citizens of Bayshore will be selling fall flower bulbs and seeds. Orders will be taken from Aug. 26 to Sept. 13, with delivery of the seeds and bulbs scheduled for mid-October, before the ground freezes. No money is collected until the seeds and bulbs are delivered, and every item has a money back guarantee.

For further information call Toni Fisher at 347-2299.

Clark students to reunite

A reunion of Clark School students and teachers will take place Saturday, Aug. 24 at the Norwood Friendship Hall. A potluck dinner will begin at noon. People attending the reunion are asked to bring their own table service and a dish to pass. Coffee and punch will be provided.

FALL 1991

Registration Information

REGULAR ON-CAMPUS REGISTRATION - DAY STUDENTS
Day students will register at the NCMC Administration Classroom Building according to the following schedule (by first letter of last name):

A-G	8:30 a.m. - 11:30 a.m.	Thursday, Aug. 29
H-O	1:00 p.m. - 4:00 p.m.	Thursday, Aug. 29

Gaylord High School: Aug. 27, 1991 (Tues.) 7-9 p.m.

ATTENTION: NEW STUDENTS
NCMC now requires all new students registering for 6 credit hours or more to complete the ACT/ASSET assessment. This program is designed to better serve the student pursuing a degree, improve job skills, or taking courses of interest by improving the advising process and assisting students in better understanding the courses they are currently preparing to take. The ASSET assessment takes approximately 1 1/2 hours and will begin every half hour starting at 4:00 p.m. with the last start at 6:30 p.m. the day of evening registration at Petoskey, Cheboygan, and Gaylord; and all day starting at 8:00 a.m. during day registration at Petoskey. For more information, contact John Prescott at (616) 348-6674.

SPECIAL NOTE
Because of enrollment restrictions placed on all community colleges by the State Legislature it will be necessary to make the decision concerning whether a class has sufficient enrollment to be taught at the time of registration. Therefore, it is extremely important that students register on the scheduled registration dates.

Harbor Industries is a highly automated manufacturer of display fixtures

(Editor's note: The following story is part of a series on local businesses being written for the Courier by Ralph McRae. McRae is a former council member and mayor and is currently a member of the Charlevoix Industrial Development Committee.)

By Ralph McRae

This is a continuation of last week's report on the Harbor Industries manufacturing business.

Located at the junction of M-66 and U.S. 31, the complex faces the road leading to the airport terminal. In fact some people have walked into the Harbor Industries building and attempted to buy tickets for air passage to Beaver Island.

Last week's article mentioned that Harbor Industries is by far the largest industrial plant in the city of Charlevoix. If it was a square building it would be 400 feet by 400 feet.

The nature of the business requires a lot of space. In the receiving department, thousands of square feet are needed to store stacks of particle boards and hard board sheets. Fork-lift trucks also require maneuvering room.

In the shipping department, space is required to hold bulky cartons containing display fixtures. The heavy cartons cannot be stacked high so much floor space is needed.

For some of the other factories in Charlevoix, shipping is a matter of shipping out one semi load of finished products once a month. This is not the case for Harbor Industries. The plant often dispatches semi-trucks daily loaded with cartons of display fixtures.

Although the recession has adversely affected some manufacturers, Harbor Industries still needs all of its 190 employees to keep its orders filled.

A relatively new addition to the plant is a sophisticated production machine from Italy. The machine is programmed by a computer to continuously and precisely cut through several thick sheets of particle board. The pile of sheets slides forward on a steel bed, stopping only momentarily for the saws to rip through the sections of stock. This well controlled operation has had a tremendous effect on the plant's production capacity.

An even more recent purchase from Italy has an even higher level of sophistication. Production engineers have programmed the computer to direct this machine through several production movements at the same time. For example, the machine can drill both small and large holes while another section of the material is being cut away. It is amazing how many operations are automated.

Another new machine applies a vinyl surface to the particle boards. The process replaces painting and gives a much better finished surface to the completed cabinets.

Vinyl from rolls above the machine is guided down to the adhesive tops of the boards. Rollers permanently bond the vinyl to the boards.

These three machines and others have greatly increased the factory's daily output. This has all been done without reducing the number of employees. In fact increased production has required increased manpower in most departments.

In the assembly department, the various pieces must be assembled into finished display cabinets. Jigs are set up to receive the pieces. Several crews on a rolling assembly line quickly complete a cabinet which is then enclosed in a carton.

Only a small percentage of raw material is left as unusable. The majority of the waste material is cut off edges and saw dust. So much material passes through the factory that even a small percentage of that material still results in a big pile of waste.

The plant has a ventilation and exhaust system that clears the atmosphere of all dust.

All of the cutting tools such as saw blades and drill bits are carbide tipped, but keeping them sharp is still a never-ending battle.

The company is capable of handling a display case right from initial concept to final construction and delivery.

Before going into production, a finished fixture is placed on a well-lit stage where it can be reviewed and photographed. The review is considered to be a critical presentation with a great deal of planning and future production at stake.

With 190 employees on its payroll, Harbor Industries is obviously of great importance to the economy of the community. Harbor Industries' marketable product may be display fixtures, but another very important product is the money it produces toward the economic well being of the community.

City staff members and developers of the Beachouse condominium have met to discuss the building's proximity to the water's edge. They are currently reviewing data, but there is no specific plan for making pedestrian passage easier.

Durance farm named centennial farm

Nineteen Michigan farms, including one in Charlevoix County, have been certified by the Michigan Historical Commission as centennial farms. Secretary of State Richard H. Austin announced recently.

The 20-acre farm owned by Edward and Shirley Durance, 571 Glendale Circle, in Ann Arbor, is a newly-certified Michigan centennial farm. The farm, located at 541 Mercer Blvd., in Charlevoix, has been owned by the Durance family for 102 years.

"I'm pleased to recognize the Durance family as their farm joins the ranks of Michigan's approximately 6,000 centennial farms," Secretary Austin said. "Moreover, I thank all centennial farm owners for their efforts to preserve Michigan's heritage, and for reminding us of the important role agriculture and family farms played in Michigan's development."

The Centennial Farm Program was begun by the Michigan Historical Commission in 1948, with support from Detroit Edison Company.

consumers Power Company, local electrical cooperatives and farm groups. It is intended to recognize farms which have remained in the same family for generations and highlight the family farm's contributions to Michigan's development.

Farm owners receive a Michigan Centennial Farm Certificate from the Department of State's Bureau of History, and a metal display marker for the farm. The green-and-yellow markers are supplied by Michigan electrical utility companies, to commemorate the dramatic changes electricity brought to farm operation and family life.

Centennial farm families are eligible for membership in the Michigan Centennial Farm Association (MCFA), established in 1986. MCFA elects a board of directors and meets annually in Lansing.

A centennial farm is a working farm of 40 or more acres, which has been continuously owned by the same family for at least 100 years.

JOHN and GERTRUDE SCHMIDT

Fifty years ago today,
A preacher gave a bride away.
Down in a small Ohio town,
And there was so fancy wedding gown.

Do you take this woman to be your wife?
The groom replied "you bet your life."
Will you both love, honor, and obey?
They replied, "There is no other way."

You may place the ring upon her finger,
He did just that, and didn't linger.
Now pronounce you man and wife,
Now go, and have a happy life.

And that they did, for fifty years,
With smiles galore - no room for tears.
And now they're thinking, Oh how silly, it would be to have another fifty!

1991 Sidewalk Sales

Let's be honest. What is the essence of sidewalk sales? It's 2,000 people holding up shirts asking "How does this look?" And it's 2,000 of these people's friends answering, "On you, it looks wonderful...now buy it and let's go."

Lynn Pearsall of The Beach tanning salon was tending shirts and tending her new grandchild at the same time during sidewalk sales. The shirts were for sale at bargain prices, but in grandma's eyes the new grandchild is priceless.

Former players return to visit hospitalized coach

Players express their appreciation to Del Terrill, Rayder coach in the 1950s and '60s

By L. Scott Swanson
Former Charlevoix High School track, basketball and football coach Del Terrill fought back tears last week as he tried to find words to express how much a visit by his former players meant to him. "There's no way to express it," he finally said.

Terrill, 74, has cancer. He is home now, but was in the hospital early last week when several players from his teams of the 1950s and '60s paid him a visit. Some of them had come from downstate and out of state to present their coach with a plaque as a symbol of appreciation for his contribution to their lives during their high school years. That plaque now hangs on the wall at the foot of Terrill's bed.

Time passes all too quickly in life. For most of the men who visited Terrill the years have added some grey hair and few pounds here and there. For that matter, most of those men have now seen their own children pass through high school. According to simple mathematics, the 1950s and '60s happened 30 or 40 years ago. But sometimes all of those years disappear. Some times, just for a few moments, some of the things the years have taken away are given back.

And during those moments men in their 40s and 50s are back in high school - with crew cuts and flat bellies, with rippling muscles to make tackles, with spring in their legs to take them to the basket and with plenty of wind and stamina to carry them swiftly around the track.

And for a lot of those men from Charlevoix, their coach is Del Terrill.

Terrill came to Charlevoix in 1950 after spending two years as an assistant coach at Traverse City. He had met Bob Carey and Max Novak from Charlevoix and in 1950, they told him that Ray Kipke was retiring as Charlevoix coach and encouraged him to apply for the job.

Terrill ended up with head coaching offers from both Charlevoix and Fremont. The superintendent at Traverse City was a man named Loomis who had Charlevoix ties. When Terrill told Loomis of the offers, he offered Terrill an additional $500 per year to stay in Traverse City. But Terrill said he had decided to take one of the head coaching jobs. Loomis not only encouraged Terrill to go to Charlevoix, but he phoned Charlevoix's superintendent and put in a good word for him.

From 1950 to 1953, Terrill coached both basketball and football. To say the record he compiled is glistening probably still sells it short. During those five years the basketball team's record was 70-17 during the regular season and 17-5 in tournament play. That record included four district titles, two regional titles, a quarter final title and a semi-final loss to a St. Louis team that went on to take the state crown.

To this day Terrill fondly recalls the names of many of his players from those 1950s teams; names such as Fairbanks, Wojan, Wallace, Hardy, Smith, Krahmke, Keichman, Voss, Barber, Denemy, Bennett, Davenport, Lagerman, Swanson, Several of coach Del Terrill's former players from 1950s and 1960s Charlevoix High School sports teams returned to the community Aug. 19 to pay Terrill a visit in the hospital. Terrill, 74, has cancer. He is home now. He coached basketball and football during the 1950s and track during the 1960s. Visiting Terrill to show their appreciation for his work with them when they were young men were: (front from left) Bud Thompson, Terrill, Dean Davenport (standing from left) Joe Etienne, Tom LaBlance, Quint Walker, Fritz Allard, Gary Stutzman, Jim Bowman, Neil Submela, Henry Wagner and Chuck Krahmke.

Walker, Etienne, McDermott, Joliffe, Vandenberg, Poquette and many others. He rattles them off so fast it's impossible to write them all down.

One year the team lost its first two games and didn't lose again until well into the post season tournament. One of Terrill's teams won despite not having a player more than six feet tall on the starting five. Terrill said that team was his best passing and defensive team.

The football team fared equally well, losing but four games in five years. The team lost twice to East Jordan, once to Mancelona and once to Cheboygan. The Cheboygan game was an ice bowl played in the midst of a blizzard. The only other game that didn't go in Charlevoix's win column during those five years was a tie with Boyne City.

"Charlevoix has had some great, great athletes," Terrill said as he recalled those years.

When asked what he considered to be the secret to those winning teams, he said, "The desire of the young person. And also the willingness (of the coach) to go down to the gym on Fridays and Saturdays (to work with the players individually)."

Terrill explained that when the basketball team needed a guard, he didn't wait for one to fall from the sky. He started working to develop one. He said there were times when he would spend three or four hours working with one player.

Between 1950 and 1952 Terrill and Bob Wallace, who worked for Wilson Sporting Goods, made arrangements to purchase about 20 or 30 basketballs and rims. Uno Suomela, the school shop teacher, agreed to make backboards for those rims. Those rims and basketballs were distributed and nailed up at various locations around the town. Local kids took to the baskets and began developing their basketball skills. As an example, Terrill recalls Dave Shucart as one of the local boys who spent hours

Hospital campaign moves forward

More than $514,500 has been pledged to the Charlevoix Area Hospital campaign during the first few weeks of the drive.

The hospital's goal is $1.4 million. The goal represents about half of the total building and remodeling costs. It will cost $3 million to build and equip a new surgical and ambulatory care facility, totally re-vamp the obstetrical unit, and add space for emergency and admitting waiting and registration areas.

The General Gifts category of the campaign headed by Joan Balch and Linda Balch is currently recruiting workers to solicit throughout the Charlevoix community. Group leaders for General Gifts are Jean Carey, Joe Trojanek, Nancy Allison, Patty Sitzma, Barbara Plagge, Tansley Stewart, Marilyn Joy, and Pam Smith. They plan to kick-off their solicitation drive following Labor Day.

General Campaign Chairman Jeffrey Porter, D.D.S., commented, "We are so pleased with the response thus far to the campaign. We have a fine group of workers who are enthusiastic and they are doing a great job."

Campaign committee members in East Jordan, Central Lake, and Boyne City are also in the process of recruiting volunteers for solicitation in those areas.

The campaign is expected to run through September.

Buddy McFall, Charlevoix Area Hospital plant operations manager, installs the hospital campaign gauge in East Park. The gauge indicates that thus far $500,000 has been raised toward the campaign's $1.4 million goal.

after hour shooting a basketball and became a player who could light up a scoreboard.

Although Ray Kipke had retired by the time Terrill came to town, Terrill still credits Kipke for some of his team's successes. "You can't forget the tradition handed down to me by Mr. Kipke," Terrill said.

In 1955 Terrill left the Charlevoix School System to take a job with Wilson Sporting Goods. He worked there for three years and then took a coaching and teaching position with Muskegon Reeths-Puffer.

Even during those years Terrill stayed in touch with Charlevoix. He and his wife Eleanor ran a summer day camp on Eaton Street. Sports played a role at the camp too. A team from Terrill's summer camp and a team from the Barnard Road area had an intense rivalry going for several years. The camp also gave Terrill a chance to sing. Something some people might find incongruous with their vision of a football coach is that Terrill began taking voice lessons and kept on with them for many years. Music has meant a great deal to him throughout the years. When his players visited him in the hospital, they joined him in singing Charlevoix's school song.

Terrill returned to the Charlevoix School System as a junior high school teacher in 1962. Initially, he wasn't doing any coaching, but that soon changed. The death of Stewart "Irish" Coleman left Charlevoix without a track coach.

Seven members of the track team, (Gary Stutzman and Dave Smith were among them) approached Terrill and asked him if he would be their coach. Terrill agreed, but told them that in order for the team to be successful they had to have more people.

Upon Terrill's prompting that hand of athletes started recruiting their classmates for the track team. By the end of the season, the Charlevoix Rayder track team had 45 members, had won the Oscoda Relays, and had two state champions: Stutzman in the high hurdles and Larry McBride in the pole vault.

Despite his success coaching football and basketball, Terrill says, "The greatest thrill is to see the growth within a track star."

Terrill said he and the late Bob Carey, an all-American track, basketball and football star once discussed the differences in the various sports. Terrill said Carey told him that in basketball and football a great player still has to have other players who can and will pass to him or rebound or block for him but what an athlete makes of himself in track he makes through coaching and his own hard work. Terrill and Carey shared that feeling about track.

Given the time he spent working with young people in athletics, Terrill obviously felt the kids were getting something out of it. What?

"One of the most important things, I think, is self confidence which has to carry over into life," he said. Although his teams didn't lose often, he said young people have to learn to take defeat with victory.

"Just being part of young people's lives, I enjoyed that very much," he said.

Although Terrill's name is associated with boys' athletics, he's pleased to see the development of girls' athletics within the past 20 years.

"I think it's great," he said. "Some little shy girl is just like a shy boy — she needs some encouragement," Terrill said that when he was coaching, even though there was no program for girls at the time one of the high school girls used to come up and run at the track. He remembers thinking that it was too bad there wasn't a program to help a girl like that develop her athletic ability.

Prior to his retirement, Terrill also worked with the Alanson school system. Even after his retirement he remained active in athletics as an official. He was still officiating games up until three years ago when he was 71. In that respect, he followed in his father's footsteps. His father also officiated into his 70s.

For the past six years Terrill has spent summers as the Charlevoix dock master, a job which he enjoyed immensely. In that position, he often went the extra mile for boaters. If the city docks were full, he would call around and try to find somewhere else in town for the boaters to stay.

"I like it because I'm meeting people," he said. "I try to keep the people in Charlevoix because that marina means jobs for our local people."

Despite leaving Charlevoix for short stints, through the years Terrill always found his way back. When asked why, he smiled and replied, "Charlevoix reminds me a lot of my little hometown of Linesville, Pennsylvania."

Dean Davenport and Neil Suomela cochaired the committee which rounded up the former players to honor Terrill. Davenport said the committee's goal is a simple one. They just want to let Terrill know how much he is appreciated.

Courier announces staff changes

The Charlevoix Courier has recently made some staff changes. Writer Peg Ohle has retired after 17 years and has been replaced by Laurie Lounsbury while Kyle Smith has joined the paper as an advertising sales representative.

Ohle joined the paper after she and her husband Bill retired to Horton Bay from the Chicago area. Among other things, she covered county news and was responsible for the popular Scrapbook page. By necessity, a writer on a small weekly paper must be versatile. Ohle handled everything from new business stories to weddings. Prior to her retirement, the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners passed a resolution paying tribute to her for her years of service in covering their meetings.

In a farewell note, Ohle wrote: "It's nice to be appreciated, especially upon retirement."

In the last few weeks, people I have worked with and for during the last 17 years have gone out of their way to say "thank you." My employer, and those whose activities I have covered have been especially gracious.

"Personal accolades have always made me gringe, but I must admit I have treasured the resolution from the County Board of Commissioners and mailed copies of the newspaper articles to family members in other parts of the country."

"I'll miss all the county employees who have helped me through the years as well as others in town who answered my call for pictures and facts in seeking information."

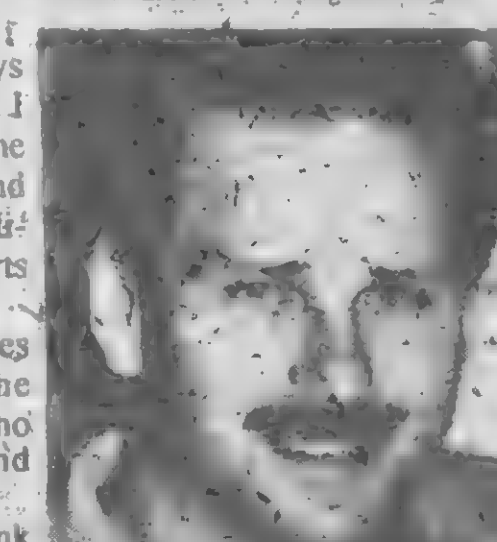

"Now it's my time to say 'thank

Hospital campaign continues history of volunteerism

Charlevoix Area Hospital is entering the home stretch of their $1.4 million fundraising campaign. The money is being raised to update and remodel three sections of the hospital: the surgical and ambulatory care unit, the obstetrics unit, and the emergency and admissions area.

Total cost of the renovation will be about $3 million with the remainder to be raised through means other than fundraising.

The hospital has attempted to raise the money as quietly and as unobtrusively as possible. Thus far that approach has been successful. The first few weeks of the drive brought contributions of more than $500,000. Hospital employees donated more than $100,000.

Hospital officials and volunteers want the campaign to be something like an ideal hospital stay - short and effective in curing the problem. The campaign is expected to run through September, but with any luck it will be wrapped up shortly thereafter.

In many ways Charlevoix Area Hospital is built, both literally and figuratively, on a history of civic-minded contributions and volunteer efforts. As soon as a person walks in the front door they are liking to meet a member of the hospital guild, a group which contributes hundreds, if not thousands, of volunteer hours each year. Walking down hospital hallways a person sees small plaques next to doors. The plaques are inscribed with the names of people who have contributed money to add rooms to the hospital through the years. The current fundraising campaign is an effort to continue building upon that established history.

Three bridgewalks scheduled for Labor Day

By Laurie Lounsbury

With a little luck and a lot of legwork, an individual could conceivably walk across three bridges this Labor Day, Monday, Sept. 2. The granddaddy of bridgewalks is the Mackinaw Bridgewalk, starting at the St. Ignace side of the bridge at 7 a.m. Walkers may cross the Mighty Mac anytime between 7 a.m. and 10 a.m. Bus transportation to the St. Ignace side of the bridge will be available, with departures from Mackinaw City starting at 5:30 a.m. For those who wish to drive to St. Ignace, transportation back to your vehicle will be available after the walk. Strollers and wheelchairs will be permitted on the bridgewalk, but no skates, skateboards, bicycles, or wagons will be allowed. No dogs will be allowed, except for seeing eye dogs. It will take the average walker about an hour to cross the five mile span.

The early Mackinaw Bridge-walkers should have plenty of time to get back into town for the Charlevoix Bridgewalk. The Charlevoix Bridgewalk caters to the individuals who are long on spirit and short on wind, as the walkers will only be traversing the fifty foot channel bridge. The bridgewalk will begin at 12:05 p.m. on the north side of the bridge, and should conclude at 12:05 and 30 seconds on the south side of the bridge. Charlevoix Bridgewalk T-shirts will be for sale at the Townhouse, the Bridge Club, and Nanny's. A donation pot will be located at the end of the walk, and all donations and proceeds will go to the Charlevoix County Humane Society.

If the Mackinaw Bridgewalk is the granddaddy of the bridgewalks, then the Horton Bay Bridgewalk must be mischievous little grandchild of them all. Horton Bay, the unofficial fifty-first state of the union, will kick off their bridgewalk festivities at 8 p.m. Monday evening. Sean Ryan and his son Patrick will belabor the crowd with their renditions of labor songs, along with National Anthem singer Bob Munn. President Bush and Dan Quale will be on hand to make a statement about the new fifty-first state. Gorbachev will also make an appearance, probably to thank the Horton Bay CIA for freeing him from captivity. Gorbach will also comment on Horton Bay's responsibility for all the labor unrest in Europe. The crowd will then proceed from Horton Bay's urban area down to the bridge, for the candlelight procession. Marchers should bring their own candles, and peke them through the bottom of a plastic cup to avoid blow-outs. Bill Ohle will be delivering the pre-bridge speech, followed by G.T. Long, who will give the key-note speech. Horton Bay officials have revealed that much protesting and labor unrest is anticipated (and strongly encouraged) by the laboring masses. All laborers are invited to attend, decked out in their labor hard hats, carhairs, work boots, and any other labor like attire. Unlike the other State of Michigan Bridgewalks, the State of Horton Bay Bridgewalk will demand it's walkers to cross the sixteen foot, three and three quarters inch bridge in both directions, so only the extremely physically fit should attend. Bridge certificates will be issued to the hardy handful of laborers who successfully make the trek.

Fashion show to benefit hospital

A luncheon and fashion show Thursday, Sept. 12, at Alexander's Restaurant in Charlevoix is being sponsored by the Charlevoix Area Hospital Guild to benefit the hospital's building campaign.

Fashions from Charlevoix clothing stores including The Acorn, Bahnhof Sport, Carey's Shoes, The Clothing Company, Country Casuals, Mettlers, and Trademark Clothiers will be shown. Fall fashions for women of all ages and figures will be featured.

Heading up the menu will be lemon pepper chicken with luncheon served during the fashion show so that working people can enjoy the event between noon and 1 p.m.

Marilyn Izor, chairman, says. The money raised from this event will go toward satisfying the Guild's $25,000 five-year pledge to the building campaign. It's a chance to show your support for the hospital and have a good time.

Tickets are $15 and include tax and tip or $12.50 for senior citizens 60 and over. For ticket information call the Public Relations Office at Charlevoix Area Hospital at 547-4024.

Out of the Blue

It's rude and crude and rattling
And very, very disrupting

Clement J. Wagner

Clement J. Wagner, 72, of Charlevoix, died Aug. 26, 1991, at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

A memorial mass will be held 11 a.m. Friday, Aug. 30, at St. Mary's Catholic Church, Charlevoix. The Rev. James K. Gardiner will officiate.

Mr. Wagner was born Aug. 11, 1919, in Cleveland, Wis., the son of Joseph and Charlotte (Miley) Wagner. He moved to Manitowoc as an infant with his parents and attended Manitowoc schools. He graduated from Lincoln High School in Manitowoc in 1937. He also attended the University of Wisconsin-Madison and University of Michigan Management Center.

Mr. Wagner was employed by Medusa Portland Cement Co. from 1945-82, retiring as office manager.

He was a member of St. Mary's Church in Charlevoix and had served as an usher there. He was a member of the Leslie T. Shapton Post No. 225 American Legion and VFW Post No. 1153, Charlevoix. In Charlevoix, he was also a member of the Knights of Columbus, Pierre de Charlevoix Council No. 7172; Lions Club, Kiwanis Club and Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club. A member of the Eagles and Elks clubs in Petoskey and Manitowoc, president of the Charlevoix Credit Union; member of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce; chairman of the Charlevoix County Democratic Party; March of Dimes chairman; president of Manitowoc City Council and an alderman of the Fourth Ward in Manitowoc. He had also served on the Charlevoix School Board.

Mr. Wagner was a veteran of World War II, serving in the U.S. Army.

On Nov. 15, 1943, he married the former Rosina Jean Lewis in Westminster Cathedral, London, England.

Survivors include his wife; one son, Dr. Michael J. Wagner of Mananatha, South Africa; five daughters, Mrs. Robert (Michelle) Boltz of Sargento Bay, Wis., Mrs. Ken (Corinne) Nowonty of Las Cruces, N.M., Mrs. James (Lisa) Jecis of Livonia; Denise Wagner Wood of Kincheloe, Mich., Mrs. Richard (Andrea) Teis of Redford; 10 grandchildren; five sisters, Betty Dorelius of Maitland, Fla., Mrs. Robert (Eileen) Schilawski of Decatur, Ill., Mrs. Gordon (Joan) Schuerell of Manitowoc; Mrs. Ed (Ethel) Beers of Beaver Dam, Wis.; Mrs. Wayne (Dolly) Rank of Conyers, Ga.

The family suggests memorials to the Charlevoix County Humane Society or the Charlevoix Area Hospital Building Fund. Envelopes for these purposes are available at the Winchester Funeral Home. There will be no visitation at the funeral home.

Ethel Pearsall

Ethel Pearsall, 95, of East Jordan, died Monday, Aug. 19, 1991, at Grandview Medical Care Facility in East Jordan.

The funeral took place Aug. 21, at the Paulin Funeral Home, East Jordan. The Rev. Merlin K. Delo officiated with burial in Sunset Hill Cemetery, East Jordan.

The former Ethel Painter was born Feb. 14, 1896, in Brayburn, Pa., the daughter of Daniel and Rose (Hickinbottom) Painter. She moved to Northern Michigan and Rapid City when she was 8 years old and to East Jordan when she was 14.

On April 9, 1914, in East Jordan, she married Claude Pearsall Sr. He died in 1968.

Survivors include four sons, Harry and Robert Pearsall, both of East Jordan; Claude, Pearsall of Charlevoix; and Donald Pearsall of Harbor Springs; 16 grandchildren; 46 great-grandchildren; and one great-great-grandchild.

BEACONS

OF BLESSINGS

by Rev. Bruce Hamilton

It won't be long before mothers all over Charlevoix will be gussing off lunch boxes and cleaning out thermos bottles getting ready to make school lunches for the new year. Children carrying their lunch goes back a long ways.

One of my favorite New Testament lunch box stories involves a little fellow who got five muffins and a couple of small fish for his meal. I wonder if he had any idea what was going to happen to him that day. I wonder what he must have felt when Andrew came up to him and asked him to bring his lunch and meet a friend. I wonder if he realized just who Jesus was when he looked up into that blessed face.

The story talks about there being five thousand men present that intriguing day. Of course the culture of the times didn't even take into consideration the number of women and children that there had to be along with their men. Who would have ever imagined that five muffins and a couple of small fish could be multiplied to feed so many?

You know what our biggest problem is? We are hung up with the idea that it takes something big and spectacular to make a difference in the world. It really doesn't. It just takes a willing spirit. It's the little acts of kindness that turn more people's lives around than you will ever imagine.

I was sitting with a family in the waiting room at Northern Michigan Hospital. We struck up a conversation with the volunteer who was manning the phone. She told the story of a family where the mother was having surgery. The father assigned each of the children a job.

The youngest child's job was to answer the phone. Inevitably, when people hear about loved one having surgery they call and ask how they can help. When Mom came home from the hospital, she discovered their deep freeze was full of cookies. When she asked why, the little fellow replied, "every time somebody called and asked how they could help, I told them bring cookies!"

Your five loaves might be five telephone calls to elderly friends that need encouragement. Your two fishes might be helping someone with their gardening or doing something in someone's home. There are folks who need rides to the grocery store. There are parents who need a back up plan for their children if the weather and work mess up during the school year.

If really doesn't take very much to make a difference. The most important thing you can do as you start each new day is to be willing. Be willing to let God take whatever you have and make a difference with it.

Reverend Bruce Hamilton is the minister at the Charlevoix Community Church of God on Huribut Street. Beacons of Blessings is provided to the Courier by members of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association.

Fall youth soccer program begins next week

Charlevoix County 4-H will be sponsoring the Charlevoix Soccer Program for the 1991 fall season and will be providing assistance with administrative tasks under the direction of Todd Kesner. The program will be operated the same as it was in the fall of 1990 with two changes. The first being that registration is now handled through the 4-H office of the Charlevoix County Cooperative Extension Service and coordinated by the Charlevoix 4-H Soccer Council.

Secondly, participants must fill out the 4-H membership form to register for soccer. There are no fees or obligations related to joining 4-H. This is simply a youth service organization provided for 5-19 year olds. 4-H members will receive a bimonthly newsletter informing them of summer camps, educational trips, and all other opportunities available through 4-H. Charlevoix 4-H soccer members are welcome to participate in as many 4-H activities as they like or can remain as strictly soccer members. We hope this process will be much more convenient for you as well as open further doors for Charlevoix youth.

The Charlevoix 4-H Soccer Council has worked very hard this spring and summer preparing for the fall soccer season. The arranging of teams, the scheduling of games, and the ordering of jerseys are all coming along smoothly with the season just around the corner. Several important dates are coming up soon:

Monday, September 7, Shanahan Field, Charlevoix 4-H Soccer Kick-Off Clinic Day.
9 a.m. - Coaches and Soccer Council Members
10 a.m. - 1 p.m. Players final confirmation of pre-registration sign-up, players final sign-up, payment of dues, and educational clinic for the youth.
1 p.m. - 2 p.m. Council members only for determining team assignments and game schedules.

Monday, September 9, Shanahan Field, Players for Grades K through 4 are to be at the field to find out 1) which team they have been placed on; 2) meet their coach; 3) receive their jerseys; and 4) hold a practice session.
5:30 - 6:30 p.m. Grades K-2
6:30 - 7:30 p.m. Grades 3-4
Tuesday, September 9, Shanahan Field, Players for Grades 5 through 8 are to be at the field to find out 1) which team they have been placed on; 2) meet their coach; 3) receive their jerseys; and 4) hold a practice session.
5:30 - 6:30 p.m. Grades 5-6
6:30 - 7:30 p.m. Grades 7-8
Tuesday, September 17, Shanahan Field.

Soccer games begin for Grades K-6. Time and place scheduling will be provided on team assignment day.

Saturday, October 26, Shanahan Field, Charlevoix 4-H Soccer tournament for youth players.
If you have not pre-registered your child, please do so by requesting an application form through the MSU Cooperative Extension Service office in Boyne City at (616) 582-6232. There is a $15 entry fee for soccer to cover the expenses for jerseys, referees cost and equipment. The entry fee does not have to be submitted with the pre-registration form. The entry fee will be collected on Saturday, September 7, 1991 at the Shanahan Field during Charlevoix 4-H Soccer Kick-Off Clinic Day.

Tree workshop scheduled

Northern Michigan landowners who are interested in growing healthier trees may be interested in attending a Trees for Tomorrow Workshop Saturday, Sept. 14 from 8:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Anyone who wants to plant trees, do a better job of planting trees, or would like more information to take better care of the trees that they do have is encouraged to attend.

The workshop is co-sponsored by the Otsego Soil Conservation District (OSCD), the MSU Cooperative Extension Service (MSU CES), Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR), Soil Conservation Service (SCS), Michigan Forest Association Chapter Five (MFA), and the Huron Pines Resource Conservation and Development Area Council (RC&D).

The workshop offers 10 different sessions led by resource professionals. The following sessions are offered:

These will run concurrently with each session being offered twice. Participants should choose one or four different sessions to attend during the four time slots available. Booths and exhibits related to tree care will be available to provide more information. Cost for the workshop is $3 per person or $5 per family. The workshop will take place at the Otsego County Fairground on Old 27 North.

For more information about the workshop call the Otsego Soil Conservation District office at 732-4021.

Red Fox Regatta is this weekend

The Red Fox Regatta, one of Northern Michigan's most popular sailing races, will take place this Saturday and Sunday, August 28 and 29. Friday afternoon, prior to the Red Fox Regatta, the Olympic Triangle Race will take place in the west end of Lake Charlevoix, starting at 4 p.m. The Olympic Triangle Race is a short race, providing sailors with the opportunity to fine tune their boats and hone their racing skills for the main event, the Red Fox. The Red Fox Regatta will start in Charlevoix Saturday at 11 a.m. The best vantage point to catch the start would be from Ferry Beach. Racers will follow a course down Lake Charlevoix to Boyne City, rounding seven or eight markers along the way, depending on this year's course lay-out. Racers will have a party in the Boyne City Park Saturday night, and begin their race back to Charlevoix at 11 a.m. Sunday morning.

Good News Again!

DID YOU KNOW?

That the IRS will allow 100% of your donation again for the year 1991?

Just file the itemized form to receive the 100% deduction.

So, why not avoid the hassle, time and expense of yard, garage and moving sales.

Just give the Rainbow Shoppe, sponsored by Charlevoix's churches a call and we'll pick up everything and give you a tax deduction slip for whatever value your sale would bring.

The Rainbow Shoppe is a Michigan non-profit corporation and proceeds go into the community for many needy projects.

SUMMER TIMES

FUN AND FOOD

Cruise boats have up and down first summer

But look forward to fall season and to next year

By L. Scott Swanson

The summer of 1991 was a year to test the water for three cruise boats based in Charlevoix. Operators of the Miss Charlevoix, the Voyager and the Appledore report that the demand for cruises has been inconsistent.

There have been "a lot of peaks and valleys" according to Bernie Ward III of the Miss Charlevoix. Kathy Andrews of the Appledore said the summer got off to a slow start, but has picked up since Vacation Weekend.

This year probably shouldn't be considered a representative year. The boats would like to bolster their business, particularly in the spring and fall, with passengers from groups on bus tours. Those type of groups normally plan their trips at least a year in advance. Consequently, the cruise boats missed out on much of that business for 1991. But with the help of the Charlevoix Convention and Visitors Bureau, they're working that market hard for coming summers.

Each of the three boats offers something different from the other cruises.

The Appledore is the only sail boat among the three. The Appledore is an 85-foot schooner which takes two-hour cruises on Lake Charlevoix. It departs from the city dock at 11 a.m., 2 p.m., 5 p.m. and 8 p.m. The boat plans to continue running seven days a week through Labor Day and then cut back for the fall to Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays and on demand for group cruises. Prices for the Appledore are $18 for adults and $11 for children except for sunset cruises which cost $22 for adults and $14 for children. Andrews said she doesn't anticipate as much demand for sunset cruises during the fall.

During the summer the boat has averaged about 80 passengers per day. Andrews said that although the demand has averaged 80 passengers per day, demand has varied widely. There have been times when there weren't enough people to merit sending the boat out and other times where people had to be turned away.

Andrews said the Appledore will continue with its planned schedule this year, but may make some modifications next year. Among the modifications being considered are making some changes below deck so the boat would have two bed and breakfast berths. A bed and breakfast package would include a sunset cruise and an overnight stay on the Appledore. Another possible change would be eliminating the 11 a.m. cruise and just having three cruises each day.

If the weather holds, the Appledore may continue sailing until mid-October this year.

"I've been pleased with it for our first year," Andrews said. She added, "We look forward to coming back next year."

Miss Charlevoix is a custom built 56-foot double deck tour boat. It has an enclosed lower deck along with an open bow and an upper observation deck. It is equally at home in the bays of Lake Charlevoix and out on Lake Michigan.

"We feel our boat fits the area," Ward said.

The boat will accommodate up to 100 passengers. Ward said operators hoped to average at least 20 passengers per cruise this summer, but probably will fall below that. He said they've had some 25 and 35 passenger cruises, but there have also been a lot of six and eight passenger trips.

"Right now we just don't have

2 MONDAY LABOR DAY

Busy weekend predicted

Difficult economic times combined with good weather have spurred travelers this summer to rediscover Michigan and its simpler pleasures—camping and beaches—and that trend should continue through Labor Day weekend, predicts AAA Michigan.

"With cooperating weather and the close-to-home vacation trend, the Labor Day holiday should help cap an excellent summer for campgrounds and other outdoor attractions," said Peter Erickson, AAA Michigan Member Services Director. "We expect that people will continue to look at Michigan as a vacation destination during this holiday weekend and the remainder of the year."

Attendance at Michigan state park campgrounds reached an all-time high this summer. More than 3.9 million campers stayed at 74 state parks between January and mid-August. That topped a previous record of 3.7 million visitors in 1988. For the upcoming Labor Day weekend, 45 of the 74 state park campgrounds statewide have filled all reserved sites.

This year's Labor Day holiday runs 78 hours, from 6 p.m. Friday, Aug. 30 to midnight Monday, Sept. 2.

A check of tourism's barometers comparing May through July this year with 1990 shows that Michigan was a popular vacation destination this summer. Consider the following:

AAA Michigan Tripak requests are up 7 percent compared to last year. The majority of the routings were to Michigan cities and resort areas.

AAA Michigan theme park ticket sales for parks in or near the state increased nearly 5 percent over last year.

Mackinac Bridge crossings rose 4 percent during the period.

Many of Michigan's most popular attractions experienced a surge in business this summer. Between May and July, Bavarian Inn and Bronners Christmas Wonderland in Frankenmuth reported visitors up nearly 8 percent. Sleeping Bear Dunes in the Leelanau Peninsula had 9,000 more visitors than last year. Occupancy rates at Grand Traverse Resort were up nearly 4 percent this summer. Sales at Carlson's Fisheries in Leland's Fish town jumped 15 percent, while visitors to the Kalamazoo Nature Center increased 20 percent over last year. Fifteen percent more visitors took boat rides on the Au Sable River Queen in Oscoda than last summer, and 25 percent more people visited the Shipwreck Historical Museum at Whitefish Point in the Upper Peninsula.

Michigan motorists are expected to log 925 million miles this holiday, up 15,000 miles from last year's Labor Day holiday.

"State motorists this Labor Day holiday will find gas prices much easier on the pocketbook than last year, when prices were up 16 cents per gallon in response to the Persian Gulf invasion," Erickson added. This year, travelers will pay an average $1.163 for a gallon of regular self-serve unleaded gasoline, compared to $1.324 at last year's holiday.

If the weather cooperates, more than 70,000 people are expected to join Governor John Engler in the annual Labor Day Bridge Walk on Monday, Sept. 2. Those staying closer to home can enjoy 39 statewide festivals that weekend.

AAA Michigan's "Bring 'Em Back Alive!" Holiday News Service will broadcast hourly traffic and event reports on 180 statewide radio stations throughout the holiday weekend.

the numbers. But that doesn't mean it won't turn around," Ward commented.

Miss Charlevoix has been making three two-hour cruises each day. Departure times have been 12:30 p.m., 4:30 p.m. and a sunset cruise beginning at 7:30 p.m. Starting times were set where they are to allow visitors to town to have dinner either before or after a cruise.

Cruise prices for the Miss

Charlevoix are $14 for adults and $7 for children under 12. A group discount of $2 per person is offered to groups of at least 30 people.

Earlier in the summer the Miss Charlevoix attempted to schedule some cruises out of Boyne City and Petoskey, but there just wasn't enough demand to justify it at this time.

The Miss Charlevoix anticipates running through mid-October although cruise schedules may change due to the earlier sunsets.

Lake levels remain below average

Precipitation over the Great Lakes Basin was above average in July. This is in contrast to a dry June, but is more in keeping with the above average trend which started in March. The 30-day outlook published by the National Weather Service projects moderate precipitation for the month of August.

The Great Lakes forecast, published in the Monthly Bulletin of Lake Levels for the Great Lakes, shows that Lake Superior is expected to remain below its long-term average levels during the next six months while Lakes Michigan-Huron are expected to be slightly below their long-term average during the forecast period. St. Clair and Erie are projected to continue above their long-term averages throughout the forecast period. Lake Ontario is projected to decline to a point slightly below its long-term average in September.

A more detailed summary of Lakes Michigan-Huron follows. Lakes Michigan-Huron at the end of July were at elevation 578.83 feet (176.43 meters) above the mean water level at Father Point, Quebec, or 24 inches (61 cm.) above Chart Datum. This was about 5 inches (13 cm.) above what it was a year ago, and about 1 inch (3 cm.) above one month ago. The July monthly mean level of 578.85 feet (176.43 meters) was about the same as the long-term average for July. The lakes, however, remained about 29 inches (74 cm.) below their all-time high July monthly mean level, which was recorded in 1986. The forecast shows that at the end of August, the level of Lakes Michigan-Huron will be about 2 inches (5 cm.) below what it was at the end of July. The lakes are expected to continue their seasonal decline into January. The water level in January 1992, is expected to be about 1 inch (3 cm.) below the long-term average for that month, and about the same as what it was in 1991.

BUSINESS

Cross Fisheries celebrates golden anniversary

(Editor's note: The following story is one in a series of stories about local businesses being written for the Courier by Ralph McRae. McRae is a retired building contractor as well as a former city councilman and mayor. He currently is a member of local Industrial Development Committee.)

By Ralph McRae

For many summer residents and tourists one of the high points of a stay in Charlevoix is a dinner of whitefish. All of the top restaurants in the area have whitefish as a featured item on the menu. For hundreds of diners this special treat comes by way of John Cross Fisheries of Charlevoix.

Founded in 1941, this is the 50th anniversary of the family-controlled enterprise. The late John Cross Sr. began the business and it has been at 209 Belvedere Avenue for half a century.

Cross was the oldest of nine brothers in a family of 16 children. The family was originally from Benton Harbor, but moved to Beaver Island near the turn of the century. They moved to Charlevoix in 1910. All nine brothers ended up working in the fishing business. They all had their own boats and sold netted fish to wholesalers. In the early years, ice cut from the lakes preserved thousands of tons of fish which ended up being shipped in steamers to Detroit and Chicago.

At one time between 1920 and 1940 there were 70 established commercial fisheries in Charlevoix.

John Cross purchased the Roy Ranger residents at 209 Belvedere. In front of the house on the sloping waterfront property, a building was constructed for the commercial fishing facilities. On the first floor of the building, nets were dried and mended. In those days the nets were made of cotton and deteriorated if not carefully maintained.

On the second floor of the building, nets were stored.

Fishing boats in those days were sturdy, all-weather vessels able to withstand years of wallowing in the rough waters of the Great Lakes. Crews of three or four men per boat had to be hardy to withstand the challenging occupation. Lifting and pulling the nets was hard work even when the lake was calm.

About the time John Cross expanded his business advances in refrigeration techniques changed the fishing industry. Blocks of ice from the lakes and sawdust insulation were replaced by modern and vastly more efficient forms of refrigeration.

The Cross fishing business eventually reached the point where it operated with only two boats built expressly for its purposes. A wooden boat, the Jackie C, was built on the site next to the Ward Brothers building. In 1958, a second boat, the steel-hulled Jackie II was launched.

In 1944 Hulda Cross opened a nautical restaurant in the home above the fisheries building. The restaurant became famous throughout Michigan and a favorite of politicians and baseball players. Cross served broiled whitefish, carrot salad, hush puppies, cole slaw and bisque lemon pie. All you could eat for $2.25. This was in the days before diets had been invented.

Hulda Cross' restaurant closed in 1974, but other restaurants continue to promote whitefish dinners and some of the local churches still have special dinners with a menu reminiscent of that developed by Hulda Cross. Those dinners are something of a memorial to a good cook.

In the late 1930s eels became a menace to the fishing industry. It took the state 20 years to come up with methods of control and another 10 years to get whitefish and lake trout back to normal numbers. Only a dozen area commercial fishermen survived the experience. Later, in the 1960s, alewife invaded the Great Lakes and destroyed millions of perch and littered the beaches. The Department of Natural Resources planted millions of salmon to feed on the alewives.

The southern rim of Round Lake has undergone tremendous change in recent decades. Most of the old establishments are gone. Notably, three of the remaining businesses are family ventures: Bellinger Marine Service, Ward Brothers Boat Company, and Cross Fisheries.

John Cross Sr. died in 1986, having been in the fishing business for 70 years. John Cross, Jr., his wife June, councilman John Cross III and his sister Kellie are presently the corporate owners of Cross Fisheries.

New heart technique comes to northern Michigan

A new therapy to open blocked coronary arteries was performed at Northern Michigan Hospital August 1.

The therapy, called directional coronary atherectomy, was recently approved by the Federal Food and Drug Administration for the treatment of coronary artery disease. Northern Michigan Hospital is the first hospital in northern Michigan to offer the treatment.

Directional atherectomy allows a number of patients to avoid bypass surgery by having their blocked arteries opened by a device which actually removes the plaque that's obstructing the artery, according to William L. Meengs, M.D., a cardiologist with the Northern Michigan Heart Center in Petoskey. The Heart Center is a comprehensive cardiac care program of Northern Hospital and Burris Clinic.

Mrs. Meengs and Harry T. Colfer, both Fellows of the American College of Cardiology (FACC), are actively involved in treating patients with interventional cardiology techniques and are now working as a team to provide the new specialized procedure.

The atherectomy procedure is intended to remove a portion of the plaque built up in the artery. The therapy results in a smoother surface and a larger lumen, or inner space of the blood vessel, without injury to the normal segment of the vessel.

Performed in Northern Michigan Hospital's Cardiac Catheterization Laboratory, the 45-60 minute procedure is similar to a balloon angioplasty. A catheter, consisting of a fixed shapable floppy guidewire, a housing unit (which includes a collection chamber, "window" and cup-shaped cutter), and a small balloon attached to the housing unit, is inserted. A hand-held motor drive unit is attached to the end of the catheter outside the body, and the catheter in the housing unit is rotated at 2,000 rotations per minute (rpm) through the driving cable.

When the catheter is placed at the lesion, a balloon is inflated at low pressure to stabilize the housing chamber and the window against the atherosclerotic plaque. Plaque that protrudes into the housing unit through the window is then excised with the rotating cutter, which is advanced manually.

"The essence of what's occurring is that a rotating knife shaves a little peel off the narrow part of the artery and traps it in a housing unit," Dr. Meengs explained. "The knife makes repeated shaves, taking small peels from the lesion until finally the lesion is gone."

"This new device allows us to direct treatment to the exact side of the artery where the disease is located and remove it," Dr. Meengs stated.

Atherectomy provides an alternative to bypass or open heart surgery for some patients, Dr. Meengs said.

"An increased number of patients, perhaps 20 percent or more, will be able to have this procedure (Directional atherectomy) rather than have bypass surgery," Dr. Meengs said. "It is hopefully eliminating the need for bypass surgery for some patients."

Patients undergoing the procedure are hospitalized for 1-2 days and typically can return to work or normal activities in about a week, Dr. Meengs said.

Atherectomy can be performed on patients who have disease in one or two heart vessels. Those patients with severe disease in two or three vessels may still be better treated surgically, Dr. Meengs explained.

Physicians with the Northern Michigan Heart Center are expected to perform approximately 350 balloon angioplasty and atherectomy procedures in 1991, Dr. Meengs stated.

"This new procedure is one more technique we have available at Northern Michigan Hospital to treat heart disease," he said.

The northern Michigan Heart Center in Petoskey launched its comprehensive cardiac care program in 1973. Services offered include prevention, diagnostic services, interventional cardiology, surgical services, and rehabilitation.

For more information about the Heart Center, contact Northern Michigan Hospital's Health Access at 1-800-248-6777.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT
An ordinance to amend the Code of the City of Charlevoix be adding to TITLE V - ZONING AND PLANNING, CHAPTER 51, ZONING, as follows:
THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX ORDAINS:

SECTION 5.21. "L1R" LAKE SHORE RESIDENTIAL be added:

development along the lake shores which will protect both the environment as well as scenic qualities of that unique land area. Views from the lake are deemed as important as views from adjacent development to the lake. New development along the lake shores should give appropriate consideration to adjacent established development.

Land and buildings in the L1R zone may be used for the following purpose only;

(1) One (1) single family dwelling on each lot or per condominium unit.

- (2). Accessory uses provided that no accessory buildings shall be constructed within a required minimum yard;
- (3). In addition to (2). above, private boat docks, beaches and similar lake front uses, provided all surfaces within rear yard areas, shall be pervious surfaces;
- (4). Special uses that may be authorized in this zone district include the following uses, provided that an application is submitted; for a special use permit and approved in accordance with the procedures, provisions, and standards of Article VIII of this Chapter:
 - (a). Site condominiums meeting all of the use and dimensional requirements of Sections 5.22, 5.23 and 5.290, provided the Planning Commission finds that an alternate proposal if approved will meet or surpass the objectives set out in the statement of intent (Section 5.21) and will not allow a greater density of use than allowed under Section 5.22 and Section 5.23.

(1) Front Yard. There shall be a minimum front yard of not less than twenty-five (25) feet.

- (2) Side Yard. There shall be a minimum side yard requirement of twenty (20) feet, provided a total of at least fifty (50) feet of combined side yard setback.
- (3) Rear Yard. There shall be a minimum rear yard of not less than fifty (50) feet.
- (4) Lot Area. The minimum lot size in this zone shall be fifteen thousand (15,000) square feet exclusive of the right-of-way, easement or common area required for adequate, permanent access. All impervious surfaces including buildings and/or structures, exclusive of drives and access roads, shall not exceed more than thirty (30%) percent of the usable lot area.
- (5) Lot Width. The minimum lot width in this zone shall be one hundred and fifty (150) feet measured along the water mark.
- (6) Setback from the Water. There shall be a minimum setback of fifty (50) feet from the water mark of the adjacent lake or water body.

Tree cutting shall be limited in accordance with the following provisions:

- tree cutting shall be limited in accordance with the following provisions:
- No more than thirty (30%) percent of the length of this strip shall be clear cut to the depth of the strip.
 - Provided further, that cutting of this thirty (30%) percent shall not create a clear cut opening in the strip greater than thirty (30) feet wide for every one hundred (100) feet of shoreline or normal stream bank.
 - In the remaining seventy (70%) percent length of this strip, cutting shall leave sufficient cover to screen cars, dwellings as seen from the water; to preserve natural beauty and to control erosion.
 - Natural shrubbery, trees; or other vegetation shall be preserved as far as practicable, and where removed it shall be replaced with other vegetation that is equally effective in retarding run off, preventing erosion and preserving natural beauty.
 - Paths - any paths, roads or passages within the strip shall be so constructed or surfaced as to be effective in controlling erosion.
 - Cutting Plan - as an alternative to the above requirements, a special cutting plan allowing greater cutting may be permitted by the Board of Appeals. In applying for such a permit, the Board may require the lot owner to submit a sketch of the lot, indicating the following information: location of all structures, location of parking, incident of the land, existing vegetation, proposed cutting and proposed replanting. The Board may grant such a permit only if it finds that such special cutting plans:
 - Will not cause erosion or destruction of scenic beauty, and
 - Will provide screening from the water of dwellings, accessory structures and parking areas. The Board may condition such a permit upon a guarantee of tree planting by the lot owner. Such an agreement shall be enforceable in court.
- No fertilizers shall be allowed within this area. No sea walls, retaining walls or fill shall be allowed within the area other than shoreline and soil erosion control structures utilizing loose laid natural stone.

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND SECTION 5.212 (8) OF CHAPTER 51 OF TITLE V OF THE CODE OF THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX

The City of Charlevoix ordains that Section 5.212 (B) of the Charlevoix City Code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Whenever a use or an activity requiring off-street parking is created or increased in floor area, intensity of activity or number of boat berthing slips by structural alteration, or new construction; the number of off-street parking spaces shall be provided and maintained as required in this Chapter for such new construction or change.

Changes in use or new uses of existing buildings or floor area shall require parking in accord with this Chapter; provided however, in the Central Business District, the requirement for additional parking due to a legal commercial use change shall be waived.

The new creation of commercial or accessory residential body spaces or uses in the Central Business District shall require the provision for parking in accordance with this Ordinance; provided that the Planning Commission and City Council may approve a development plan as required by Code § 168, as amended if the project improves a development area as required by Charlottesville's Central Business District Parking Improvement Fund, the basis to the City of Charlottesville's Central Business District Parking Improvement Fund, the sum of $100,000 adjusted on an annual basis in accord with the Consumer Price Index based on the base year 1991 for each parking place which can not be provided on site. Such funds shall be used to benefit the provision of public parking in the Central Business District. Parking spaces thus provided for shall be unreserved and as generally available to the public.

Existing parking spaces provided on site, shall be assigned to existing uses and may not be assigned to newly created floor space of uses, unless sufficient parking spaces are provided on site to meet the requirements of existing floor space and/or uses. Nothing herein shall preclude a property owner within that area mapped in Section 212 (12) from bidding to the limits of their property, as allowed by this Chapter, provided they contribute to the parking fund to replace existing parking spaces lost as well as meet the required number of parking spaces required for new construction in accord with Section 5.214 (7).

Local student attends space camp

Christian LeButt, 14, of Charlevoix had the space adventure of his life recently when he attended the U.S. Space Academy in Huntsville, Alabama. LeButt had the opportunity to spin and twist in the Multi-Axis Training Simulator, as well as sail high in the air while experiencing the Microgravity Training Chair. He was able to use the nation's only full-scale Space Shuttle exhibit to get a better understanding of how the shuttle works.

LeButt said he was most impressed with the simulated space shuttle flight which he participated in, and how realistic everything was.

Trainees with LeButt were housed in the Space Habitat, a futuristic dormitory built to simulate aspects of the Space Station. At NASA's nearby Marshall Space Flight Center, LeButt watched as engineers and scientists worked to design and build prototypes of the 1990's Space Station Freedom.

LeButt was also able to get some hands-on experience at the U.S. Space and Rocket Center, along with learning the history of space exploration at the Space Center's Rocket Park, which contains the most comprehensive collection of manned spaceflight rockets on Earth.

LeButt said that he would be interested in returning to the Space Academy next year, to enter into the Level Two training program. For those who prefer to keep their simulated explorations a little closer to terra firma, LeButt also said that an Aviation Challenge Program is available, dealing more with the government's Air Force.

PUBLIC HEARING NOTICE
Charlevoix City Planning Commission
Wednesday, September 25, 1991
City Hall, 210 State Street
7:00 p.m.

The Charlevoix City Planning Commission will hold a Public Hearing on the above date and time to receive public comments, written and oral on the following proposed amendments to the Title V - Zoning and Planning, Chapter 51 and amendments to Chapter 99 - Signs of the City of Charlevoix City Code. The amendments are as follows:

PROPOSED AMENDMENTS

Section 5.5 Definitions (A-C) be amended by adding:

(1a) Adequate permanent access: a street or place having an along with its right-of-way, easement or general common area, which provides for the following: Residents' personal vehicle movements and other non-motorized conveyance providing for safe maneuverability at an acceptable comfort level; parking; snow storage; protection of adjacent owners' property, such as adjacent residents' fences, storm water, etc.; emergency vehicles; moving vans; delivery vehicles; maintenance activities; related storm water management and public utilities.

Public adequate access must meet the requirements of Section 5.190. Private adequate permanent access may deviate from the standards of Section 5.190, provided the circumstances of the development show such deviation is justified and the uses described above can be adequately accommodated and such deviation is approved by the City Council.

Section 5.190 be amended as follows:

Section 5.190 Adequate Permanent Access

Adequate permanent access shall be provided for all lots or parcels created within the City of Charlevoix in accord with the following standards:

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND SECTION 5.212 (12) OF CHAPTER 51 OF TITLE V OF THE CODE OF THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND SECTION 5.214 (7) OF CHAPTER 51 OF TITLE V OF THE CODE OF THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX

The City of Charlevoix ordains that Section 5.214 (7) of the Charlevoix City Code is hereby amended to read as follows:

SECTION 5.214 (7)

Certain uses in the CBD, not with standing differing requirements within Sections 5.214 (3) and (4), non-residential and non-institutional uses within that area mapped in Section 5.212 (12), shall provide or replace parking as follows:

One (1) space per three hundred (300) square feet of floor area.

NOTE: Underlined language indicates new language. Deleted language is not indicated.

AMENDMENT TO SECTIONS 5.9, 5.10 AND 5.12 DEFINITIONS, ADD THE FOLLOWING:

Section 5.9 (M-N) (4a)

Non-Use Variance - A dimensional variance to standards such as yard requirements, building height, lot coverage, living space dimensions, and similar requirements, variances granted based on a showing of a practical difficulty.

Section 5.12 (U-Z) (b)

Use Variance - A variance allowing a use within a specific zoning district which is otherwise not allowed in that zone. Variances granted based on the showing of an unnecessary hardship.

Section 5.10 (O-R) (5a1)

Practical Difficulty - A situation whereby a property owner can not establish a "minimum practical" legal use of a legal lot or parcel, meeting all of the dimensional standards of the zoning district within which the lot is located. Situations occurring due to the owner's desire to establish a use greater than the "minimum practical" standard or to enhance economic gain greater than associated with a "minimum practical" standard, or created by an owner subsequent to the adoption date of this Ordinance is not a practical difficulty.

Section 5.12 (U-Z) (a)

Unnecessary Hardship - A situation whereby a property owner, due to conditions of a lot or parcel can not use said lot or parcel for any legal use allowed by the Zoning Ordinance, within the district within which the lot is located. Situations occurring due to the owner's desire to establish an alternate use, when allowed use options are available or due to situations created by an owner subsequent to the enactment of this Ordinance shall not be deemed an unnecessary hardship.

THAT SECTION 5.112, USE REGULATIONS BE AMENDED TO ADD (7) TO READ AS FOLLOWS:

(7) Special uses that may be authorized in this zone district include the following uses, provided that an application is submitted for a special use permit and approved in accordance with the procedures, provisions, and standards of Article VIII of this Chapter.

(a) Recreational uses such as youth clubs, gyms, ice rinks and other facilities requiring large open building spaces. Provided the Planning Commission finds that such use will not interfere with and is not objectionable to other industrial uses and users in the district or other uses and users in adjoining districts.

City commissions public safety study

By L. Scott Swanson

City volunteer firemen are concerned about a study of fire, ambulance and police departments being done by a consulting firm hired by the city.

While firemen have not said they are opposed to the study, Barry Wood, president of the volunteer firemen, said firemen have discussed the matter and are concerned and monitoring the situation to see what recommendations come from the study.

A primary concern is that the study might recommend restructuring the fire department so that it operates under a public safety director rather than a fire chief. Wood said firemen are comfortable with the present structure which has a fire chief who deals with fire department matters.

The city's present fire chief John Martin will be leaving the fire department this fall to replace retiring street department superintendent Wayne Carter.

City manager Mike Wiesner said the city has hired a firm called Municipal Consultants from Midland to come in and study the city's public safety operation to see if there are areas where improvements can be made. An

County to host $308,761 hearing

By Laurie Lounsbury

The Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners will host a $308,761 Public Hearing Sept. 11 in accordance with the Truth in Taxation laws to inform the public of the increased revenue which will be generated due to new construction and an increase in property values. According to the law, the public must be notified when there is going to be an increase in revenue for the county. The difference in the amount of tax revenue available to the county by disclosing the information at a public hearing is $308,761.94.

Revenue will increase despite a millage levy which is slightly less than last year's millage, due to the Headley rollback. The Headley Rollback is the amendment which states that the revenue from increased property values cannot exceed the Consumer Price Index (CPI, i.e. rate of inflation). If the property value increase should exceed the CPI, then the millage must be rolled back to be equal to the CPI. New construction is not affected by the Headley Rollback.

In the case of Charlevoix County, property values increased beyond the CPI, which caused the Headley rollback to reduce the millage by about .02, yet with new construction and inflation, there is still a higher total property value than last year, so the county's revenue will also be higher. In conjunction with the truth in taxation laws, the millage levied must be remain at a lower rate unless a public hearing is held. With the hearing, the General Fund will be levied at 4.5402 mills, an increase of .4109 mill, allowed without the hearing. The Transit fund will be levied at .2423 mill, an increase of .0124 mill, and the Grandview Fund will be levied at .7466 mill, an increase of .057 mill. The public hearing will also impart information about the distribution and revenues from the cigarette tax ($41,938) and the liquor tax rebate ($74,014).

The Public Hearing will begin at 10:30 a.m., by addressing the General Operating Fund proposed millage of 4.5402, at 11 a.m. they will address the proposed Transit Fund millage of .2423, and at 11:30 they will address the Grandview Fund proposed millage of .7466.

Difference in millage levy allowed due to public hearing

.0124 (Transit)	.0570 (Grandview)	.4109 (General)	.4803 (Total)
-----------------	-------------------	-----------------	---------------

Home Value Market Value/State Equalized Value
$50,000 - $25,000	31 cents	$1.43	$10.27	$12.01
$60,000 - $30,000	37 cents	$1.71	$12.33	$14.41
$100,000 - $50,000	62 cents	$2.85	$20.55	$24.02
Total Charlevoix County property state equalized Value of
$642,852,257	$7,971.37	$36,642.58	$264,147.99	$308,761.94

The county board of commissioners will host a truth in taxation hearing at 10:30 a.m. Sept. 11 in the commissioners' room of the Annex Building. The board is required to have the hearing in order for county tax revenues to increase due to increased state equalized evaluations of property within Charlevoix County. As the first three rows in the table above indicate, the monetary difference to individual taxpayers may not be too impressive, but as the fourth row indicates the total county SEV of $581,638,442 makes the hearing a $279,360 requirement. The top row indicates the differences (in mills) for the three categories of county millage (Transit, Grandview and General Operations) and the total difference for all three categories.

Several pre and after school programs available

By Laurie Lounsbery

Remember the little red schoolhouse, where children of varying ages worked together under one roof, learning at their own speed in a noncompetitive atmosphere? The Charlevoix Children's House, on Mercer Road in Charlevoix harks back to the little red schoolhouse days, with present day learning tools and methods added to the formula. It is a Montessori Method Preschool and Kindergarten, which has operated in the Charlevoix area since 1977, under the direction of Heather Woods. In keeping with the Montessori philosophy, children learn in a well structured environment, where they are free to move about and progress at their own speed. The children receive guidance from trained observers, who direct them towards the knowledge, rather than deliver the knowledge to them.

The Charlevoix Children's

House is able to provide afternoon daycare for attending students. There are still a few openings left for this school year. For additional information, contact Heather Woods at 582-9273.

Kid's Corner, a cooperative preschool which operates in the lower level of the Congregational Church, is taught by director Sue Sheets. Kid's Corner has two morning sessions for children three to five years of age. Kid's Corner provides children with a variety of activities, ranging from dramatic play to special daily projects and monthly field trips. Reading readiness and working with numbers are two skills which are applied during the course of the regular daily activities. The two-day or three-day sessions run from 9 to 11:45 a.m. on Tuesday, Thursday or Monday, Wednesday, Friday. The yearly cost for the sessions are respectively $270 and $350. Parental involvement is a key ingredient to Kid's Corner, with each parent working as a teaching assistant about once a month. For more information, call Sue Sheets at the Congregational Church, 547-9122.

Head Start and State funded programs will be available for children three to five years of age through the Charlevoix/East Jordan Development Center, which is a part of the Northwest Michigan Human Services Agency. Head Start provides the funding for the three and five-year-olds, while the State will fund the four-year-old program. This program will be held in the old Ironton School, and its goal is to provide well-rounded development for children of low income families, as well as disabled, handicapped, or higher risk children. Transportation and a meal will be provided for the children. Registration is by appointment only, and appointments can be made by calling 347-9070. Melanie Rieth, director, stresses the comprehensive learning aspects of the program, including health and nutrition. Rieth also said that the program is looking for a lot of parental involvement with the children, to enhance the parent's role as the primary educator of their children.

The Sunshine Club, sponsored by The Community Reformed Church, will be starting up with the beginning of the school year. Marie Somero, an experienced daycare director, will be heading up the after-school program for elementary school students. The Sunshine Club's aim is to provide a safe, entertaining environment for school age kids who might otherwise be returning to empty homes of working parents. The cost of the Sunshine Club is based on the ability to pay, and ranges from $5 to $19.50 per week for one child.

Van Alst - De Senna Fernandes

Julie De Senna Fernandes

Julie Van Alst and Carlos De Senna Fernandes exchanged wedding vows Saturday, Aug. 3, at the Evangelist Catholic Church in Essexville, MI. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Van Alst of Charlevoix, and the bridegroom is the son of Nuno and Julie De Senna Fernandes of Macau, China. Two hundred guests were present as Father Jack Genter performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride wore a white satin gown with a cathedral-length train. The bodice was accented with tear drop pearls and applied lace. Her illusion veil was attached to an applied lace hat with a cascade of lilies of the valley. She carried a nosegay bouquet of white and red roses and sparkling baby's breath.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her parents, had as her maid of honor Jill Laverty. Bridesmaids were Laurie Wilton, Theresa Fernandes, and Amy Fischner. Natasha Fernandes, niece of the groom, served as flowergirl. The bridesmaids wore black and white tea length taffeta gowns with a key-

School bus safety urged

School buses are back on our roads again carrying thousands of students to and from school. Safety is critical with this precious cargo.

The Michigan Department of Education estimates there are 15,200 buses transporting 818,700 students twice daily. Each year they travel over 90 million miles. But, even with this large number of student commuters, buses are one of the safest forms of transportation.

During the 1989-90 school year, there were 2,115 crashes that resulted in three fatalities and 915 injuries, according to the Michigan State Police. Preliminary 1990-91 statistics show four school-bus related deaths. Most of these result when drivers of other vehicles ignore stopped school buses or collide with another vehicle. No children were killed while riding on a school bus during these past two school years. However, every death and injury is a tragedy. How can motorists help?

School buses are safe due to their general appearance and construction. As important, school bus drivers are good drivers. In Michigan, they must have a commercial driver license to operate a school bus. This means they have passed tough knowledge and skills tests, as well as yearly health exams.

Students, especially young children, need to be regularly reminded by parents, teachers and bus drivers of the safe way to ride and be around a bus. Most injuries and fatalities to school-age children occur outside the bus, when they are walking near it or attempting to pick up something they dropped, such as a coat or book.

Young riders should be taught to wait for their buses out of the roadway and in a safe place visible to the bus driver and other traffic. When they enter the bus, children should sit and remain seated. When exiting, all riders should step away from the bus and not try to reenter if they have if they have forgotten or dropped something.

Drivers in other vehicles can also do their part to improve traffic safety. Michigan law requires all drivers to stop 20 feet from a school bus that has its red lights flashing, which means children are entering or exiting the bus. So, be extra careful and watch for children who may run into the path of your car. Drivers may only continue when the red lights have stopped flashing. Drivers should also proceed with caution and be prepared to stop if they see a school bus with only its yellow hazard lights on, since the bus driver is preparing to stop within the next 200 feet. Always watch for children walking to school and be ready to stop for youngsters crossing the street. School bus safety can be practiced by all of us - from kindergartners to the most adult drivers. Each of us can help keep our most precious cargo safe.

Nursery, which meets at the elementary school, is another option for three to five-year-old children. Taught by Sandy LaVoie and assistant Gail Levengood, the Charlevoix Co-op offers two and three day sessions, in both the morning and afternoon. Morning sessions run from 9 to 11:15, and afternoon sessions run from 1 to 3:15. The cost for the two-day session is $300 a year, plus a $10 registration fee, and the three-day session cost is $380 a year, plus the $10 registration fee. The Charlevoix Co-op also relies on parent involvement, with each parent to be on a committee, and also act as a teacher's helper at least once a semester. The aim of the Charlevoix Cooperative nursery is to help pre-school children develop socially interactive skills and learn about group dynamics. While the learning of ABC's and 123's is not taught directly to the children, it is worked into the daily activities and the kids tend to pick it up by osmosis, according to LaVoie. Monthly field trips are provided for the children, and the cost of the field trips is covered by the tuition. Afternoon sessions are still available for the Charlevoix Cooperative Nursery, and anyone interested should contact Linda Cross after 6 p.m. at 547-5734.

Richard B. McCann

Richard B. McCann, 79, of 316 N. Park St., Ludington, died at Baywood Nursing Home, following an extended illness.

McCann was born May 23, 1912, in Petoskey. As a child he moved to Charlevoix where he grew up and attended school. He was married June 8, 1940, in Frankfort, to Charlotte E. Koglin, and she survives. The couple moved to Ludington in 1942 where he worked as an engineer for C&O trainferries for 35 years; retiring in 1977. He was a member of the Washington Avenue Baptist Church.

Surviving, in addition to his wife, are one son, Richard (and Kathryn) McCann, Racine, Wis.; two sisters, Irene Seymour and Mrs. Jerry (Shirley) Greene, both of Charlevoix; one brother, Dale (and Frances) McCann, Flint; nieces and nephews.

Services for Mr. McCann took place Aug. 29 at the Dorrell Funeral Home chapel with the Rev. Thomas Cavanaugh officiating. Interment was in Lakeview Cemetery.

Memorials may be directed to the Washington Avenue Baptist Church or the organization of the donor's choice. Envelopes are available at the funeral home.

Dorothy Jane Adams

Dorothy Jane Adams, 77, of Norwood, died August 27 at Munson Medical Center in Traverse City. Adams moved to Norwood from Royal Oak in 1973. Mrs. Adams was a member of the First Congregational Church in Charlevoix, and was active in the Bergmann Center in Charlevoix as well as the Women's Republican Club in Royal Oak. Mrs. Adams enjoyed playing the piano, needle point work, raising roses and entertaining.

Dorothy Adams was born Dec.

10, 1913 in Charlotte, Michigan to Charles and Ava (Price). On May 19, 1934, she married Milton Adams, who survives her. She is also survived by two daughters, Mrs. Lee (Jane) Hawkins of Traverse City, and Mrs. Mike (Marty) Adams of Levering, a sister, Elaine Korney of Arizona, a step-sister, Rae Gresso of Texas, and five grandchildren; Sara, Mary, Sue, Jerry, and Amy. Mrs. Adams was preceded in death by a daughter, Linda Jane in 1987.

Memorial services were held at the First Congregational Church in Charlevoix Tuesday, September 3, with the Reverend Phillip Schaubert officiating. Burial was held at Norwood Cemetery after cremation. Memorials should be sent to the Bergmann Center, P.O. Box 236, Charlevoix.

by Rev. Bruce Hamilton

Our family had talked about it for several years. Monday, we finally did it. We got up early, piled into the van, and drove up to Mackinaw City for the bridge walk across the Strait.

Being first timers, we didn't really know where we were going. Once we got close, it wasn't hard to follow the stream of cars. We parked behind a miniature golf course and meandered our way through sea of cars to the bus pick up point.

Our clan isn't as big on exercising as we should be. So I wondered how we would do over the four and a half mile span. I thought maybe the Lord was reassuring us just a touch when we rode a Charlevoix school bus across the bridge.

A brave soul dressed like a clown and walking on eight foot stilts was preparing to set out as we walked by. We got to the base of the bridge and I kind of said to the troops it's now or never. Off we went.

We were not too speedy. Even the clown on stilts passed us. I have one who has ankle troubles and another who is afraid of heights. We were pretty enthused until we got to the first tower and then it got a little rough. My youngest spent two brief stints in my arms. I tried to piggy back him and discovered I couldn't lift him off the bridge. That couldn't be old age creeping up, could it? But folks, we did make it! Certificates 32858-61 proudly attest that in spite of weary ankles (that are still hurting today) and tired bodies (two are still sleeping in as I type this) we set a family goal and we made it.

With the school year now starting, a lot of you are going to be reminded how fast your children and grandchildren are growing up. I have learned through some very personal lessons how important it is to do things with them while they are young. I appreciate more than ever the importance of making memories that will serve them forever.

The Bible reminds us to "train up a child in the way he should go and when he is old he will not depart from it." Yes, as PKs (preacher's kids), my gang is in church every Sunday. But that doesn't mean they will automatically absorb the divine love that is so essential to us all. They have to see it, experience it, and come to recognize its place in their hearts all for themselves. It's up to Linda and I to share and live the way God would have them to go before them. It's a challenge. But every little thing you accomplish together as a family is really worth celebrating!

Anthony W. Price

Anthony W. Price, 45, of Lansing, died Aug. 22, 1991, in Lansing.

A memorial service was held Aug. 27 in Muir, Mich.

Mr. Price was born Dec. 8, 1945, in Petoskey. He graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1963 and obtained an engineering degree from Lansing Community College in 1966.

Mr. Price had been employed by the State of Michigan Highway Department for 26 years.

He is survived by his wife, Loreta, of Lansing; a stepdaughter, Colleen Mulligan of Lansing; a stepson, James Mulligan of Lyons; his mother, Thelma Trautman Price of Charlevoix; two brothers, Gerald Price of Petoskey and Carl Price of Charlevoix; five sisters, Alice Burrows of Petoskey, Marie Finco of Charlevoix, Mary Lou Schantz of Saginaw, Margaret Borowiak and Linda Oostmeyer of Charlevoix.

He was preceded in death by his father, William J. Price Sr. and a brother, William J. Price Jr.

Basketball team wins opener

Rayders beat Ellsworth 50-32

The Charlevoix girls' basketball team tried something new this year winning its opening game. In recent years, the Rayders never won any games until later in the season. If they won at all.

But 1991 is a year with more promise and the Rayders showed some of that promise in beating Ellsworth 50-32 on the Lancers' home floor.

Charlevoix got an early lead and continued to gradually extend that lead throughout the game. The Lancers are a tall, but young team this year.

The Rayders closed the first quarter leading 11-8 and went into halftime leading 24-15.

Rayder forward Gina Webster, normally the team's top scorer had problems with Ellsworth's height inside and also got into foul trouble.

Guard Mary Jane Grunch led a balanced Rayder attack from the outside. Grunch led the Rayders in scoring with 14 points on the night.

In the third quarter Charlevoix extended their lead to 39-28. Ellsworth had difficulty scoring throughout the night, particularly in the fourth quarter when they mustered but two points.

Charlevoix played an aggressive defense which gave the Lancers problems and also resulted in several Rayder fouls. But the Rayders had the depth to compensate for the fouls and the Lancers had a bad night at the free throw line.

Other top scorers for the Rayders were Cari Farshee with eight points and Webster with seven.

For Ellsworth, sophomore Traci Drenth accounted for a third of her team's scoring with 10 points.

Charlevoix baskets included three 3-pointers. Ellsworth made just six of 25 free throw attempts.

Charlevoix also won the junior varsity game, beating the Lancers 45-20. Becky Bragg had a strong game for the Rayders scoring 14 points.

Looking to establish a winning streak of two games, the Rayders will host Grayling Thursday, Sept. 5.

Season tickets available

The Charlevoix High School Athletic Department announces that season tickets for the 1991-92 school year are on sale at the High School office on East Garfield Avenue. Charlevoix's first home varsity football game will be Friday, September 6, 1991 with Lake City.

Camp Daggett hosts reception Public gets a look at new Mort Neff building

Camp Daggett hosted a reception last Thursday for area Chamber of Commerce members in order to express gratitude for the support received in the construction of the Mort Neff Building.

Camp Daggett Director Paul Benington took guests on a tour through the Mort Neff Building, explaining how the camp plans to install dormitory facilities, with a capacity of 52 boys and 52 girls in the lower level of the building. Upon completion of the dormitory, Camp Daggett will be able to offer winter camp sessions to schools from neighboring communities. Winter sessions will provide the schools with a wonderful winter field trip. Students will learn about winter ecological studies while cross-country skiing through the Camp's grounds. Winter activities would include studying animal tracks in the snow, taking water samples from Walloon Lake, and exploring nature's changes in the wintertime.

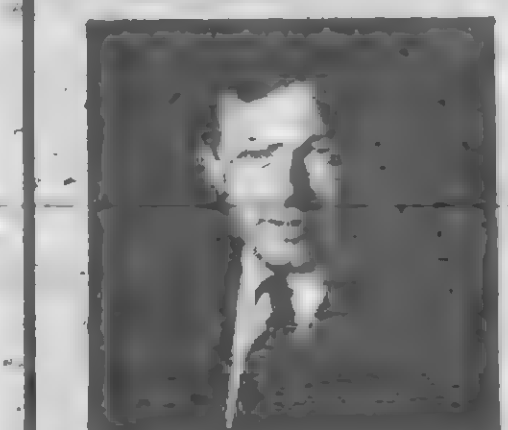

Benington stated that fundraising activities for the dormitory facilities will begin shortly. Benington hopes to form a Mort Neff 200 Club, which would entail finding 200 corporations to contribute $1,000 of more to Camp Daggett. If successful, this would cover the cost of the dormitories.

The Mort Neff building will be available year-round for hosting private parties for groups of up to 175 people.

Glass to speak to Garden Club

The Charlevoix Area Garden Club will meet at Nancy Vandenburg's home Sept. 10. Jan. Glas will be the guest. Her subject will be "Nature Through the Ages." Co-hostesses are Rheatha Trentham and Marie Sloan.

Members are asked to meet at 12:40 p.m. at Glen's parking lot to car pool.

Cross Fisheries emphasizes service

(Editor's note: The following story is a continuation of a story last week concerning Cross Fisheries. The story is one in a series on area business and industry being written for the Courier by Ralph McRae. McRae is a former councilman and mayor and is currently a member of the Charlevoix Industrial Development Committee.)

By Ralph McRae

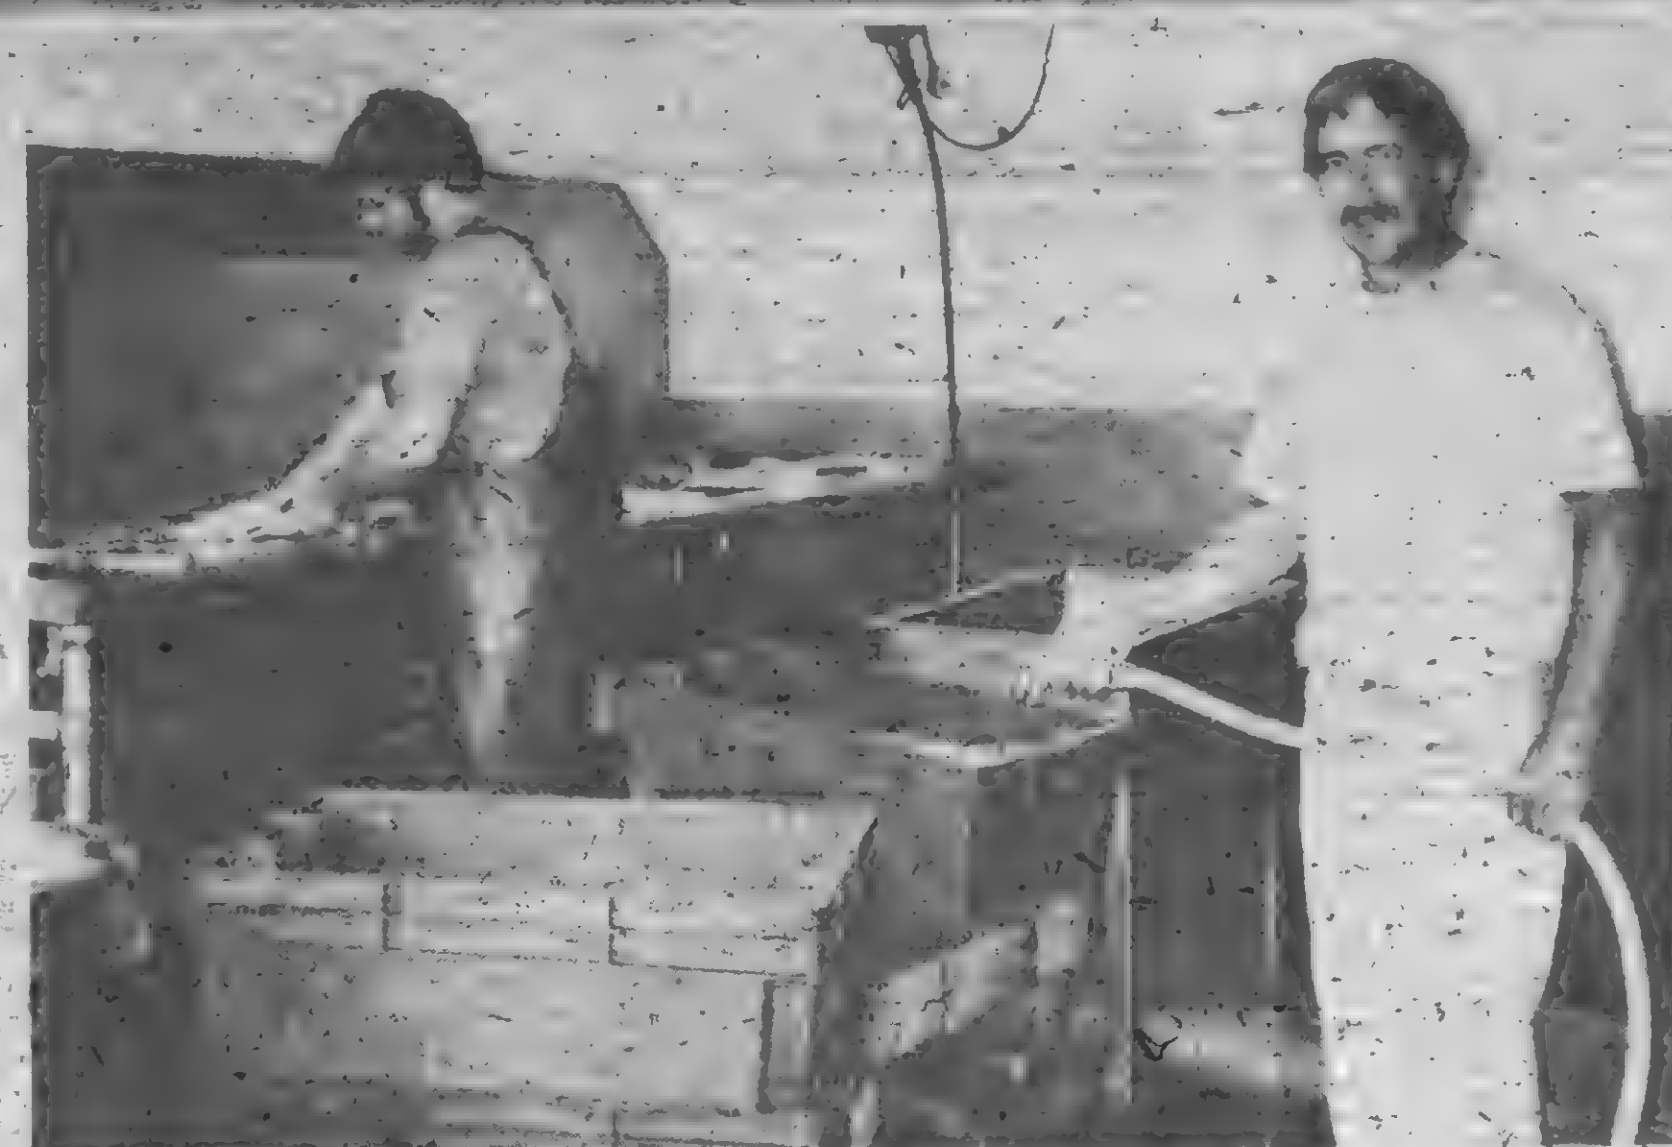

Cross Fisheries is a service-oriented business - satisfying and keeping the same customers for years.

John Cross Jr. is more concerned about quality than quantity. Six Crosses have been involved in the present enterprise. If you were to add all the years of experience, the total would be more than 200 years. In the summer, daily sales are close to 2,000 pounds. The biggest share goes to restaurants. About 90 percent of the fish sold is white fish, but sales also include lake trout and perch as well as a few chubs, menomies and walleye from Wisconsin.

About 25 percent of the fish is smoked. When the tubs of netted fish arrive, the fish are checked to see which are most suitable for smoking. After being cleaned, the fish are marinated for 24 hours in a special brine. Three separate batches are smoked every day, each for three to four hours over maple or apple wood. People from all over

...Cross fisheries continues to grow in Charlevoix

Michigan are addicted to Crosses' smoked fish. For several years, the store has been selling a pate made from smoked white fish and herbs. Fish not smoked go to the cutting tables where they are cleaned, headed and filleted within seconds. Only the filler pieces remain, about half of the original fish. The remainder is scrap destined for a daily trip to the landfill.

Before closing shop at the end of the day, the premises and equipment are hosed down with bleaching agents. It is difficult to smell the odors of fish. Large quantities of water and ice are used. Two ice machines are capable of producing seven tons of ice each day.

Fish that need scaling are placed in a revolving drum with rough internal surfaces. Water flushes the scales away through openings in the drum.

Tubs of fish arrive packed in ice with the tubs only half full to prevent fish from being crushed. Years ago 90 percent of the fish came from boats docking at Cross Fisheries. Now, that is down to 10 percent. Most of the fish arrives in trucks after being netted in Lake Michigan or Huron. Here, they believe that Lake Superior white fish is inferior to Lake Michigan white fish.

The Crosses say that although there are plenty of fish in the waters near Charlevoix, smaller boats and fewer fishermen make the supply undependable. Some days there are only enough fish for the restaurants. Cross Fisheries primary source of income.

In addition to Great Lakes fish, the Crosses sell seafood from throughout the United States. The seafood includes lobsters, shrimp, scallops, soft shell crabs and snow crab legs. Red-Norwegian salmon is imported from Nova Scotia.

In 1965 the Michigan fishing industry was dramatically changed by a ruling of a federal judge in Grand Rapids. In a ruling based on a treaty signed before Michigan became a state, the judge ruled that only American Indians could fish commercially in waters north of the 45th parallel. The waters were divided among the tribes. Each person in every boat must have a special numbered license. Buoys must be attached to all nets. Each tribe has its own officers and courts.

After the summer rush, whole fish are shipped from Cross Fisheries to Detroit and Chicago. During the winter months, some fish are caught through the ice. During the summer season, seven or more people work at the 209 Belvedere location; the four Crosses plus Jack Sutherland, Lisa Smith and Ra LaVoie.

The retail shop is small and often crowded with people standing in line. In the busy season it is open seven days a week. In the near future the over the counter space will be expanded and modernized.

Middle School mini-session scheduled for Sept. 9

Monday, Sept. 9, the staff of Charlevoix Middle School will be hosting "Mini-Sessions" for parents from 6:30 p.m. - 9:15 p.m. The purpose of this program is to introduce parents to both the daily schedule and the teachers of their students at the Middle School. The time schedule will be as follows:

6:30-6:50, coffee in cafeteria welcome by principal.
1st hour 6:50-7:00, 2nd hour

7:05-7:15, 3rd hour 7:20-7:30, 4th hour 7:35-7:45, 5th hour 7:50-8:00, 6th hour 8:05-8:15, 7th hour 8:20-8:30, 8th hour 8:34-8:45.

Individual conferences 8:45-9:15. Parents should copy their student's daily schedule as this is the schedule followed in the "Mini-Sessions." The Individual Conference time will give parents a brief opportunity to see a teacher of their choice for a short conference.

Classes in Petoskey take place at the Virginia McCune Arts Center,
461 E. Mitchell St. In dance, instructor Dianna Heinzelman offers a complete series of classes for children and adults, meeting on Mondays, Wednesdays and Thursday. Heinzelman has 25 years of dance teaching experience and has been with the Arts Center since 1981. Her classes include several levels of Movement and Dance, for students ages 3-6. Heinzelman is also teaching ballet for students ages six through adult. New instructor Anne Olson offers tap dancing for girls, boys and adults in separate classes. Classes include two sections of teen/adult ballet.

Heinzelman also teaches private dance lessons and pointe ballet.
Dance instruction features beginning and intermediate sections of Hatha Yoga, taught by Mary Reilly
on Tuesday evenings, 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. Yoga classes will run for eight weeks. Reilly is a certified instructor of Iyengar Yoga.
Children's visual art classes are again offered by instructor Eileen
Heck. Heck will teach two sections of "Exploring Art" for grades 5-8
on Tuesday and Thursday evenings, and a class in "Art for Kids" on Wednesday afternoons.
Instructor David Onis continues instruction in pottery for school students on Tuesday afternoons, and for adults on Tuesday afternoon and evening.
Private music lessons are offered in piano throughout each week by instructor Charlotte Ross-Lee, who has moved her studio back to the Arts Center after a year away. Instructor Julie Peirpont teaches piano, voice, and guitar on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons. Lessons in French Horn and Trumpet are taught by Janis Ley on Monday and Wednesday afternoons; in voice by Fran Tallas on Tuesday; and in cello with Nancy Henry on Mon-

McCune offers fall classes

The Fall term of 1991 arts classes and music lessons sponsored by Crooked Tree Arts Council begins Monday, Sept. 9. Instruction is offered through the Community School of the Arts. Classes will last for six weeks, through October 19. Two new instructors join the Arts Center faculty this fall.

Classes in Petoskey take place at
the Virginia McCune Arts Center,
461 E. Mitchell St. In dance, instructor Dianna Heinzelman offers a complete series of classes for children and adults, meeting on Mondays, Wednesdays and Thursday. Heinzelman has 25 years of dance teaching experience and has been with the Arts Center since 1981. Her classes include several levels of Movement and Dance, for students ages 3-6. Heinzelman is also teaching ballet for students ages six through adult. New instructor Anne Olson offers tap dancing for girls, boys and adults in separate classes. Classes include

two sections of teen/adult ballet.
Heinzelman also teaches private dance lessons and pointe ballet.
Dance instruction features beginning and intermediate sections of Hatha Yoga, taught by Mary Reilly
on Tuesday evenings, 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. Yoga classes will run for eight weeks. Reilly is a certified instructor of Iyengar Yoga.
Children's visual art classes are again offered by instructor Eileen
Heck. Heck will teach two sections of "Exploring Art" for grades 5-8
on Tuesday and Thursday
evenings, and a class in "Art for Kids" on Wednesday afternoons.
Instructor David Onis continues instruction in pottery for school students on Tuesday afternoons, and for adults on Tuesday afternoon
and evening.
Private music lessons are offered in piano throughout each week by instructor Charlotte Ross-Lee, who has moved her studio back to the Arts Center after a year away. Instructor Julie Peirpont teaches piano, voice, and guitar on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons. Lessons in French Horn and Trumpet are taught by Janis Ley on Monday and Wednesday afternoons; in voice by Fran Tallas on Tuesday; and in cello with Nancy Henry on Mondays.

Notice of Public Hearing on Increasing Property Taxes

The Board of Commissioners of the County of Charlevoix will hold a public hearing on a proposed increase of .0570 mills in the Grandvue operating tax millage rate to be levied in 1991.

The hearing will be held on Wednesday, September 11, 1991 at 11:30 o'clock in the a.m. at County Building Annex, Charlevoix, MI 49720.

If adopted, the proposed additional millage will increase operating revenues from ad valorem property taxes 8.27% over such revenues generated by levies permitted without holding a hearing.

The taxing unit publishing this notice, and identified below, has complete authority to establish the number of mills to be levied from within its authorized millage rate.

Labor day bridgewalkers complete their mission

A hush fell over the town as a band of elite, highly trained athletes amassed for the Small but Mighty Charlevoix Bridgewalk on Labor Day, September 2. Spaghetti stains could be spotted on the shirts of the stalwart, carbo-loading jocks. The group began their trek from the north side to the south side of the bridge, greeting a stream of south-bound cars with out-of-state plates with shouts of, "Bye, have a nice winter, see you next year."

Laurie Brown, bridgewalk leader, put the walkers through a series of highly strenuous warm-up calisthenics. "Jumping jacks, ready, one two, now leg stretches, one, two, ok, squat thrusts, one, never mind, that's enough." After being duly warmed up, the walkers began the arduous trip across the fifty foot bridge, led by Brown, Helen Weislik, Master of Ceremonies, and Mayor Dave Novoiny. Sam Supernaw, Chief of Bridgewalk Security, kept the huge, unruly mob under control.

The walkers never flagged, despite the blistering 72 degree midday temperatures, so devoted were they in their two-fold mission: The primary driving force behind the bridgewalk was to raise money for Charlevoix County Humane Society. Brown encouraged all walkers to buy T-shirts, make a donation, or adopt a pet in an effort to help the Humane Society. The secondary motivating factor, which has traditionally drawn Charlevoix natives to the downtown area on Labor Day, is to bid a fond farewell to all the summer resorters as they head back to their last paced lives in the southerly climes, leaving the Charlevoixians to their life in the slow lane, or perhaps more accurately stated, to their life in the parking lane. The collective sighs of relief from exhausted retailers were audibly echoing through the rapidly dwindling group of shoppers along Bridge Street. These same people, three weeks from now, will be gazing out their windows at the quiet downtown area, scratching their heads and asking, "How much longer till they're back again?"

Notice of Public Hearing on Increasing Property Taxes

The Board of Commissioners of the County of Charlevoix will hold a public hearing on a proposed increase of .0124 mills in the Transit operating tax millage rate to be levied in 1991.

The hearing will be held on Wednesday, September 11, 1991 at 11:00 o'clock in the a.m. at County Building Annex, Charlevoix, MI 49720.

If adopted, the proposed additional millage will increase operating revenues from ad valorem property taxes 5.37% over such revenues generated by levies permitted without holding a hearing.

Petrosky joins Big Rock

Timothy D. Petrosky had been named public affairs director of Consumers Power Company's Big Rock Point nuclear plant. The announcement was made by William L. Beckman, plant manager.

Petrosky, 33, will be responsible for the generating plant's news media relations, employee communications, emergency communications, speakers bureau activities and tours. He will also assist in governmental affairs and community relations activities.

Petrosky held similar responsibilities in his previous position as public information director for the utility's Saginaw-based central region.

He joined the company in 1981 and has held increasingly responsible positions in its sales and communications departments. He earned a bachelor of science degree from Ferris State University and has pursued graduate studies at Central Michigan University.

Petrosky succeeds Charles E. MacLanis, who was named the utility's director of news and information.

Notice of Public Hearing on Increasing Property Taxes

County discusses 911 service

By Laurie Lounsbury

A 911 plan will make calling for help in an emergency as easy as dialing three numbers. Implementing a 911 Plan for Charlevoix and Emmet Counties is quite another story, as the county board of commissioners is learning.

At its regular meeting last Wednesday, the board decided to have prosecutor Kraag Lieberman file an exclusion for three telephone exchanges, 536, 582, and 549, from Antrim County's 911 plan. Antrim County was hoping to include these exchanges in their 911 plan in order to have enough exchanges to satisfy the quota for the phone company. Because of complexities involved in implementing a 911 system, such as procuring a central dispatch system, upgrading certain exchanges to be able to handle the three digit calls, the board has decided to hire a consultant for the 911 plan. The consultant will be selected at the Sept. 11 commissioners' meeting.

CROP walk organizes

Ready. Get set. Walk. CROP Walk, that is.

Local organizers in Charlevoix county are making arrangements for the 1991 CROP Walk which is scheduled for Saturday, Sept. 14.

Funds raised by participants in the 1990 CROP Walk totaled $6,045. One-fourth of the money raised is returned to local food pantries, which meant that Charlevoix, Boyne City and East Jordan pantries each received $480.00, reported Charlevoix co-chairpersons Mary Helen Riggie and Kay Smith.

The Charlevoix County CROP Walk is unique in Michigan in that the three cities within the county cooperate in the one day event. This is the fifth year that the Charlevoix County Ministerial Association has sponsored the CROP Walk.

In 1990 community hunger walks in 118 Michigan areas raised $1,352,122.

People wishing to walk, or sponsor walkers, may contact any of the local ministers for more information.

Hospital drive exceeds $600,000

Charlevoix Area Hospital campaign contributions climbed to $616,991 this week.

Industrial gifts reported amounted to $76,000 of this total.

Solicitation in East Jordan, Boyne City and Ellsworth also kicked off this week. Steve Weber and Margaret Lasater are heading up the Boyne City-area campaign. Pat Tinney and Sharon Jackson are co-chairmen for East Jordan, and John Hastings, Katie Sowers, and Mary Peterson in Ellsworth.

Thus far major gifts have been received as living memorials to cover the cost of two operating rooms at $58,000 each; four labor-delivery-recovery-post-partum-maternity rooms at $15,000 each; surgery and family waiting area for $25,000 each; and the outpatient recovery area for $15,000.

General Campaign Chairman Jeffrey Porter said of the campaign progress, "With about one month to go in the campaign, I feel we are making great strides toward our goal. I'm confident we will reach our goal if the community and area continue to show such wonderful support."

Cross Country

Winning is more than just force of habit

Cross Country team still a power

If the Charlevoix boys' cross country team is to defend its Class C State Title for a fifth straight year, it will be with a young team.

Coach Pete Spieles said the team has good depth in overall numbers (21 runners), but lacks experience. Senior Mike Sevenski and junior Matt Smith return to lead the team. Sevenski is an all-state runner who led much of the state finals race last year. Smith is also all-state caliber.

Sophomore Zach Pajtas was also among the team's top seven runners last season. Chris Meier, an all-state runner last year, has moved to another community.

Right now there are four spots on the varsity squad just looking to be filled. Among the candidates to fill them are Henri Dhaseleer, Mike Bush, Erik Hess, Paul Henne, Josh Scheels and several others.

Spieles said that regardless of inexperience the team is shooting to finish at least among the top five Class C schools in the state.

The girls' team is in just the opposite situation from the boys' team. They have experienced runners, but lack depth in numbers.

Elso Conlan, Anne Schaubert and Melissa Cox have been running well.

Melissa Eaton is a returning veteran who ran well last year.

Kristin Ranville runs well, but not on Saturdays since she is a Seventh-Day Adventist.

Erin Wright ran well last year, but has been injured. Trina Holm is a new member of the team who has shown promise.

Golf team is a veteran unit

Golf coach Glen Taylor has five of his top seven players back from last year and it's not as if last year was a rebuilding year. Not by a long shot with second place finishes in conference and regional play.

The five seniors who will form the foundation of this year's team are: Luke LaBlance, Wayne Joy, Dan Boss, Corey Crain, Travis Blissett and Jeremy Doan.

Although these are the returning veterans, their positions are by no means secure. The Varsity team is chosen by the best scores, not by seniority. In fact, it's going to be important for at least one of the other golfers on the team to do well, particularly in league play where the top six, rather than top five, scores are tabulated for the team score.

Looking to move up this year and help the team are: Robert Sineway, Matt Dietel, Scott Curtis, Jeff Joy, Scott Campbell, David Dobulis, Ritchie LaVoie and Mark Schaubert.

While trying not to build hopes too high, it is obvious that Taylor feels he has a team this year which can fare well if things go right.

Looking back on a fine season last year, he said he feels the team should do "at least that well this year."

Charlevoix plays in the Rainbow League. Taylor expects defending champion Traverse City St. Francis to again field a good team. He also looks to Elk Rapids, Harbor Springs and his own Rayders to be among the better teams in the league.

Football team looks forward to another strong season

Varsity football coach Roger Gowell is optimistic going into the 1991 campaign. He's got a lot of depth at running back and quite a bit of experience in the offensive and defensive lines.

"We're optimistic. We have a bunch of kids who work real hard and who want to win," Gowell said.

Once again the Rayders will utilize a Wing-T. The offense uses a lot of deception and works well with a quick backfield. Charlevoix is fortunate this year in that they have several backs who are not only fast, but fairly big. Gowell says Brian Coolman, Jodi McGlinch, B.J. VanLee, Lance Emig and others will be carrying the ball for the Rayders.

For the past two years, Charlevoix had Greg Lewis and Dan Terryberry, two of the best passing quarterbacks in northern Michigan. They have been lost to graduation. This year Keith Carey and Ken Olinger will both see time at quarterback. When Olinger isn't playing quarterback, he will be lining up at wide receiver. Gowell said he isn't sure if the team will pass as much this year as in the past. He said the amount of passing the team does will depend on the situation that confronts them.

(Reading between the lines - just because the Rayders have a new quarterback doesn't mean they're going to allow defensive teams to get away with stacking the line of scrimmage.)

"Our offensive and defensive lines have more experience than last year," Gowell said. "We're not huge by any means, but we're pretty strong." Several of the Rayder players worked hard in the weight room this past summer.

Among the players manning the trenches for the Rayders this season will be Ryan Eveleigh, Jasper Sweeney, Luke Porath, Josh Martin and Todd Preyer. Some of the other players expected to play important roles defensively are McGlinch, Chris Pease, Bill Dreyer and Ben Whitley.

Gowell expects Traverse City St. Francis, Manvelona and Elk Rapids to field strong teams in the Lake Michigan League this year. He said he's not sure what to expect from Boyne City.

"I don't know where all of them (the other teams) are going to be," he said. "We don't take any of them for granted."

The Rayders open their season at home Friday, Sept. 6 against Lake City.

Basketball team wants to be .500...or better

With only one senior and two juniors on last year's varsity girls' basketball team, a lot of sophomores got a lot of playing time. On some nights that had a feel like being thrown to the wolves. This year the team hopes to round the bend. Rather than being thrown to the wolves, they hope to be the wolves.

"My prediction and my hope is that we're .500," said coach Toni Felter. "We like to think that we have a chance for a trophy somewhere during the year."

Felter said the players still have a lot to learn, but the floor time last year should help.

Although the team lacks any one player with dominating height, they do have several reasonably tall players with good mobility and several guards who run the floor well and aren't bashful about helping out with the rebounding chores.

Gina Webster, Tammy Holm and Stacy Tilton are the only seniors on this year's team. Webster is a forward with exceptional mobility and a nice shooting touch. She led the Rayders in scoring last season and is expected to draw a lot of defensive attention from opponents this year. In addition to scoring, Webster also is one of the Rayders' top defensive players and handles the ball well enough to drop back and help the guards break a full-court press.

Holm is among the team's most versatile players and will see time at both guard and wing positions. Aggressive defense is her strong suit. She's not shy about stepping into the lane to crash bodies with larger people or about zealously going after a loose ball in the open court.

Tilton currently has an ankle injury which is expected to sideline her for the first four to six weeks of the season. However, when she returns her height and athletic ability are expected to add depth to the team's forward position.

Other players on the team are: Micah Wilson, Mary Jane Gunch, Sheila Siegwart, Cari Fershee, Kim Keller, Marianne Pfister, Julie Gorgie, Jodi Allison and Liz Grunch. All are juniors except Liz Grunch who is a freshman.

Wilson transferred to Charlevoix from Central Lake. She is expected to help at the guard position. Mary Jane Grunch is one of the team's best outside shooters. Siegwart is a quick player who plays aggressive defense and runs the floor extremely well. Fershee still has a nice shooting touch and has improved several other aspects of her game from last year to the point where she is now one of the team's most versatile players. Keller is another player who can help in a variety of ways. Pfister is the team's strongest and most aggressive rebounder.

She doesn't get pushed around underneath the basket. Gungie and Allison rebound well and have both improved their shooting from last season. When teams key on Webster, it's going to be important for them to help out with inside scoring. As a freshman, Liz Grunch is going to see a lot of time at guard. She sees the floor well and is an excellent passer.

Given the team's depth, quickness and lack of a dominant center, Felter wants to play an up-tempo game offensively.

"Realizing that we're short, we're going to have to push it up the floor," she said. "I'd like to get some transition baskets."

For that to happen, Webster, Pfister, Gungie, Allison and company are going to have to rebound well, make outlet passes and fill lanes. Holm, Siegwart, Fershee, M.J. Grunch, Liz Grunch and the rest of the guards are going to have to get the ball upcourt quickly without losing control and throwing it or kicking it away.

Defensively, Felter would like to give opponents several different looks. She wants to play some player to player as well as zone and use full court pressure on occasion. Several of the guards like to gamble defensively. While that has its advantages, it puts added pressure on the taller players who will have to switch to shorter players until the Rayder guards recover when a gamble fails.

Felter expects Elk Rapids and Traverse City St. Francis to be among the stronger teams in the Lake Michigan League this year. Other coaches in the league are leery of Charlevoix this year. Although the Rayders aren't considered to be among the top teams in the league, other coaches say the Charlevoix team has enough talent to make them somewhat uneasy.

Charlevoix opened its season Aug. 29 with a 50-32 win at Ellsworth. The team's first home game is Sept. 5 against Grayling.

Soccer team blends youth with experience

This year's Charlevoix soccer club is going to be all right according to coach Tom Sikavitsa.

"We're anticipating a pretty good year this year. We have a lot of speed," Sikavitsa noted.

There are 15 players on this year's team. Sikavitsa said that's a nice size team to work with. Although there are several young players on the team, there are also some veteran players spread around the field.

Sikavitsa said the strength of this year's team is probably going to be its offense. Sam Bingham, a senior who Sikavitsa describes as "a fantastic goal scorer," will spearhead the offense from the front row.

Mike Dobulis and Jake Porath are two veteran players who will help stabilize the team at midfield.

Paul Cunningham will anchor Charlevoix's defense from the sweeper position. Seniors Jason Pajtas and Troy Bonar will both see time as goalies.

This is the sixth year that Charlevoix has fielded a high school soccer team. The team is not sanctioned through the school system, but plays as a club. Sikavitsa said he would like to be sanctioned so that the team would be eligible for post-season tournament play.

Charlevoix has had a youth program for eight years and some of those players are now funneling into the high school age club.

In addition to the veteran players, Sikavitsa said there are several young players who he expects to contribute this year. Among them are Mike Rostler who plays a very aggressive game despite being a freshman. Scott Boyer is a sophomore who Sikavitsa says is coming along real well. Tony Frederick, another sophomore, handles the ball well.

There are also three girls on this year's team: Lori Darrah, Jessica Kline and Katherine Campbell. All three have good athletic ability and will see playing time.

Sikavitsa said the team has been working hard in practice scrimmages, but is looking forward to seeing some competition.

"They're getting antsy to get into the first game," he said.

Charlevoix opens their season Sept. 11 at Rosecommon. The first home game is Sept. 19 against Buckley. The Charlevoix team plays their home games at Charlevoix Township's Shanahan Field. The team will have a homecoming game this year. Charlevoix will host Rosecommon in a homecoming game Oct. 4.

Charlevoix will play a 13 game schedule this year.

Thirteen testify in murder case

Wynkoop bound over on Kleiber charge

By L. Soen Swanson

According to a former cellmate, Andrew Wynkoop said he did kill Heather Kleiber, but wouldn't say anything more because he hadn't been convicted of it.

During a Sept. 4 preliminary examination in 90th District Court, Richard (Rick) Ferris, 19, testified that while sharing a cell, he and Wynkoop discussed the Kleiber case and Wynkoop said, "Yeah I did it, but that's all that you need to know, because I haven't been convicted of it yet."

Ferris was one of 13 witnesses called to testify at the preliminary examination. Following testimony, Judge Harvey Varnum bound Wynkoop, 19, over the 33rd Circuit Court on a charge of open murder. Wynkoop waived Circuit Court arraignment Sept. 9. A pretrial scheduling conference will take place Sept. 23. Pending trial, Wynkoop is being held without bond in the Charlevoix County jail.

Much of the preliminary examination testimony focused on Wynkoop and Kleiber's activities on Aug. 16, 1990, the night of the 13-year-old Kleiber's disappearance. Other testimony concerned physical evidence from her body which was discovered May 4. In addition, there was testimony by Ferris and testimony by David Russell, who said he helped Wynkoop get his car unstuck from the Medusa Creek turnaround area between 7 a.m. and 9 a.m. Aug. 17. Kleiber's body was found in the woods less than 150 feet from the turnaround.

Wynkoop has been in jail since May. Ferris was in jail from mid July to late August for forgery and assisting for immoral purposes. Ferris said the two were cellmates for between two weeks and a month.

In addition to the Kleiber murder charge, Wynkoop also faces kidnapping, sexual assault and murder charges in the death of Katherine McCleese, 28. Ferris said he and Wynkoop talked about both cases. According to Ferris, Wynkoop said he was with McCleese, but blacked out.

A key piece of evidence that has never been found in the Kleiber case is her bike, which she was riding the last night she was seen alive. Ferris said he and Wynkoop discussed how someone would get rid of a bike and Wynkoop indicated that he would bury it. Ferris also testified that Wynkoop said his lawyer had told him that although the judge would not drop the Kleiber charge, a jury would not convict him of it. Ferris said Wynkoop told him he killed Kleiber because the world is overpopulated and there won't be enough food if some people aren't killed off.

Ferris said he only told police what Wynkoop had told him after he and Wynkoop began quarreling. He said they got along well initially, but later began having disputes and Wynkoop threatened him. Ferris said that at one time Wynkoop put a pencil in his throat and threatened to kill him. On another occasion prisoners were in a lock-down because Ferris had damaged some jail property. Ferris said that while they were in lock-down Wynkoop said he was going to hang Ferris from the jail bars.

Under cross examination by Wynkoop's attorney, Ed Gregory, Ferris said he initially wasn't going to say anything about Wynkoop's comments on the charges, but changed his mind after Wynkoop threatened him.

Of the 13 witnesses, the only one called by Gregory was Sheriff George Lasater. Gregory asked Lasater if Ferris had reported being threatened by Wynkoop. Lasater said threats had been reported and that an investigation of that report is in process.

Russell, 29, testified that he encountered Wynkoop early in the morning on the first day of Charlevoix's 1990 sidewalk sales. Russell had come downtown shortly after 7 a.m. to shop for bargains.

Kipke honored

Former Charlevoix coach Ray Kipke (second from left) was honored prior to the opening of Friday night's football game. Kipke, who will turn 90 in January, coached Charlevoix from 1928 through 1949. His football teams were undefeated from 1945 through 1949. His first name is the reason the Rayders team name is spelled the way it is. On the field with Kipke were high school principal Dave Smith (right) and two players from Kipke's original 1928 team, Charles Bleha (left) and Max Novak (second from right).

Rayders win season opener

Charlevoix's varsity football team opened the season with a 28-13 win over Lake City Friday evening. (Story and additional photos on page 10.)

Applefest is just around the corner

Charlevoix's 12th Annual Applefest Oct. 12 and 13th will provide an excellent opportunity for visitors to see, sample and purchase apples, crafts and pumpkins from area orchards and farmers.

The Applefest was originated in 1980 to bring attention to the agricultural community in Charlevoix, Antrim and Emmet Counties. Residents and visitors alike often ask what is being grown locally and how to find area orchards and farm markets.

As a result, the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce decided that at least once a year they'd bring the harvest to the people. So each year on the second week in October, Saturday and Sunday, the Applefest takes place in downtown Charlevoix outside in East Park overlooking Round Lake.

The park will be lined with farm market booths selling more than 20 different varieties of apples, the ever popular eating apples - red and gold delicious - will be plentiful. Also available will be Macintosh, Spartan, Cortland and Johnathan, all excellent for pie baking and munching. For perfect stuffed baked apples remember to take home some Red Rome apples and the tart, crunchy Northern Spy is ideally suited for Streudel, pie or cobbler. Other fall harvest items available will be pumpkins, squash, tomatoes and peppers, apple butter, jam, honey and fresh pressed cider.

Of special interest this year will be the 4th Annual Autumn Craft Show, comprised of selected craftsmen. This is a limited show.

Local non-profit and church organizations will be selling home made apple goodies and most area restaurants will feature apple specialties. This year the Chamber has arranged for an authentic cider press to be in operation to "see and taste" fresh cider. All of this at a perfect time of the year...a time when fall colors peak in Northern Michigan.

On Sunday, Oct. 13 the American Legion will sponsor a pancake breakfast at the American Legion Hall at 106 W. Garfield Street. Breakfast includes pancakes, egg and sausage, orange juice, milk and coffee. Legion volunteers will man the griddles from 8 a.m. to noon.

...Wynkoop to face trial

He was in Olson's parking lot when Wynkoop came across the highway and asked Russell if he would help him get his car unstuck from the Medusa turnaround. Russell said that although he knew who Wynkoop was, he didn't know him personally. At first Russell refused to help Wynkoop. Russell said he walked downtown and looked around and when he came back to his vehicle Wynkoop was still there and repeated his request for help. Russell finally agreed to help get the car out for $20.

Russell said he took Wynkoop out to Medusa Creek and left him there with a shovel while he returned to town to get a chain, or strap, to tow the car out. The car was just off the end of a fence by the creek. According to Russell, the car's front end was almost in the creek and was buried up to the bumper.

By the time they got the car freed, it was about 8:30 a.m. Russell said Wynkoop indicated he had gotten stuck the night before, but didn't say why he was at the turnaround or how he got stuck.

Russell noticed that Wynkoop's pants were dirty when he approached him. He said Wynkoop's pants were "black, like black dirt."

Suzie Elzinga, Jacob Leadabrand and Ed Pitcher were among the last people to see Kleiber on the night she disappeared.

Elzinga was babysitting Aug. 16 and Kleiber had been with her on and off during the day. Elzinga said the last time she saw Kleiber was around 11:30 p.m. Aug. 16. According to Elzinga, Kleiber said she was going downtown to see what was happening and left the house on her bike.

Leadabrand said he met Kleiber and Wynkoop at a party that night and that following the party the three of them and two other people went out to his house for a while. Leadabrand was vague in his recollection of the times when he was at the party downtown, when people went to Leadabrand's house and when Wynkoop and Kleiber left his house.

Pitcher was also vague about times. He said he and Wynkoop and Kleiber were among a group of people on the boardwalk at Michigan Beach earlier in the evening. Pitcher, Wynkoop and Kleiber left the beach and went to the party. Pitcher acted unsure when asked when and how he left the party. He said at one time, he thought Wynkoop gave him a ride, but after being in jail for more than 50 days and not consuming alcohol he now believes that Wynkoop and Kleiber left the party without him and he later walked downtown. Pitcher had difficulty remembering which things happened at which times. "I was pretty messed up," he said.

Sheriff's deputy Don Schneider was the lead investigator for the sheriff's department in the case. He talked to Wynkoop several times following Kleiber's disappearance. Schneider said Wynkoop told him he met Kleiber early in the evening at Michigan Beach and they went to a party and later to Leadabrand's. Schneider said Wynkoop's story has varied somewhat concerning what happened after he and Kleiber left Leadabrand's. One time Wynkoop said they went straight from Leadabrand's back to Michigan Beach and another time he said they drove back past the party prior to returning to Michigan Beach. Schneider testified that Wynkoop said that after returning to the beach Kleiber got her bike and pushed it up the Grand Street hill and then rode away. Wynkoop claims to have turned onto Park Avenue, cruised around town for a while and then slept in his car at Depot Beach.

A Michigan State Police lab scientist, a dentist and a forensic pathologist were among those who testified as to the body's physical condition when it was discovered in May.

Lab scientist Connie Swander from the State Police crime lab in Grayling inspected the body at the scene and during the autopsy. She said brush and branches were over the body which had some mummified flesh on the upper body and hands and feet. A bag on the body was torn in front, but still clasped in back. A tank top on the body was slightly pulled up. There was no other clothing on the body although a pair of panties was recovered approximately 45 feet away. Swander said the panties had been chewed by "critter activity." The body was lying face down on the ground with the left leg bent at an unusual angle. She said that although the body was in its original position, the limbs may have been pulled by animals. Some hair was also found adjacent to the skull.

Dr. Cliff Buehrer, a dentist from Grand Rapids, identified the body by comparing an x-ray of the skull with Kleiber's dental records. "There was no doubt that they matched," he said.

Forensic pathologist Stephen Cohl from Blodgett Memorial Hospital in Grand Rapids testified that although he was unable to determine the exact cause of death, he did classify it as a homicide. Cohl said that when he received the body it was markedly decomposed and the total weight of remains was approximately 30 pounds.

Cohl said he could not determine the exact cause of death, but it is possible for someone to be stabbed, shot, strangled, suffocated or drowned etc. without leaving definitive evidence on skeletal remains.

Cohl, who has been involved in approximately 3,500 autopsies, concluded that in the Kleiber case "some way or another she was killed and then the body was hidden. He said that from the information he was given, she was a healthy 13-year-old girl so natural death can be ruled out.

In determining that the death was homicide rather than suicide, Cohl said, "The fact that the body was concealed. That is to me a very big factor, also that the body was only partially clad." Cohl said there was no way to determine from the remains whether or not the victim had been sexually assaulted.

In binding Wynkoop over to Circuit Court, Varnum said he was satisfied that preliminary examination testimony had established that: 1. Kleiber is dead; 2. The body found at the site is Kleiber; 3. Death was by homicidal causes; 4. Wynkoop had the opportunity to commit the crime.

Applications are now being accepted for a limited number of full-time, general production jobs which will be coming available and phased-in from Sept. 1 through June 1992.

Hospital drive passes halfway mark

Medusa Cement Company swept the Charlevoix Area Hospital campaign to the $775,000 mark this week with a pledge of $125,000.

According to John Dixon, Medusa Plant manager, the pledge which will be paid over the next five years, was made because, "We felt Charlevoix Area Hospital is a vital asset to our community and Medusa is proud to be included among its strong supporters."

General Campaign Chairman Dr. Jeffrey Porter thanked Dixon and Elbert Kaiser, who is the recently retired Medusa Plant Manager and is serving as Industrial Gifts Chairman for the campaign. "We are so pleased with this gift," Porter said. "A gift of this magnitude is gratifying to all of us working on the campaign and gives new motivation to us as we move over the halfway mark toward our goal."

Meanwhile, design of the new surgical addition and remodeling of the "Obstetrics Unit are moving ahead with meeting between the architects, medical staff, administration, and board. An effort to alleviate the crowded conditions for patients waiting for emergency treatment and those being admitted, the Business Office of the hospital has been

Editorial

Strange as it may seem, the city Downtown Development Authority (DDA) is considering putting a building in Bridge Park.

Bridge Park is the little green sidehill just south of the bridge, next to Round Lake. Putting a building in the park is part of an overall development plan which would affect the waterfront area between Park Avenue and Clinton Street.

An engineering firm hired by the city has given the DDA several options to consider for the Bridge Park project. In speaking to the local Rotary Club last Thursday, city manager Mike Wiesner indicated that the option the DDA is leaning toward is the one which would put a building in Bridge Park. Unfortunately for the public, that option happens to be the worst one.

Putting a building in Bridge Park is only one aspect of what is otherwise a desirable proposal. The idea behind the Bridge Park project is to make that area of the city's waterfront more inviting. Major points in the plan include: removing the old sewage treatment plant building; reworking parking lots to include more green areas; and removing the current Beaver Island boat company building and replacing it with a new building which would include public restrooms. The plan also will likely lead to an underbridge walkway on the south end of the bridge... something we should have had two years ago.

For the most part, the plan is commendable. Removing the old sewage plant building is perhaps the biggest plus. Many people will recall the wonderful little celebrations at the waterfront when the Presidential yacht Sequoia visited and when the U.S. Coast Guard cutter Acacia arrived. There were bands, ribbons, banners, horns blowing and a podium with Charlevoix's beautiful harbor serving as a backdrop. And lending its own peculiar air to the festivities was the old sewage treatment plant. You'll be hard pressed to find any complaints about removing that from the waterfront.

Adding more green area and additional public restrooms to that area of the waterfront is also desirable. Picture that portion of the waterfront with the Beaver Islander, the Acacia and the Voyager all lined up one behind the other. It could be visually impressive and appealing.

Where the problem comes in is in relocating the Beaver Island Boat Company building. According to the options presented to the DDA, the building would be relocated either into Bridge Park or to the north of the entry road, between the bridge house and the historic fishing display.

The argument for putting the building in Bridge Park is that it could be set into the bank with grass on the roof, leveling up the park. There are those who would contend that the building will be less conspicuous that way.

But a strong argument against putting the building in Bridge Park can, and should be, made. In fact, the more you look at the matter, the easier it is to conclude that the real allure of putting the building in Bridge Park is merely that having a half-buried building would be something architecturally out of the ordinary. And that's not a real compelling argument. Putting a building in that little park is undesirable. The fact that the building would have grass on the roof does little to make it more appealing.

Walk down and take a look at Bridge Park. The slope to the lake there is much less than in East Park. By putting a building in that park, the city would not only damage the park, but would take away much of the view gained by removing the current boat company building and the old sewage plant. What sense does it make to spend more than a million dollars to clear a view and then turn around and block it again? None. Absolutely none.

The alternative is to put the new boat company building and public restrooms over near the channel. The next time you drive past Bridge Park, glance first across the park toward Round Lake and then look toward the channel. Where do you get the best view? Looking toward Round Lake. Over by the channel, what view you do have isn't of the water. It's mostly a view of the front of the Edgewater Inn. There is a steeper slope on the south side of the channel. You could put a building there and have it be fairly inconspicuous.

Putting a building in Bridge Park is wrong.

Letters to the editor

Leave grave site alone

Editor,

As one who is concerned about the present but also the past and the future, and as one who is concerned about what is happening in our own area as well as in our nation and the world, I would like to register a protest against the proposed plan to expand the Waste Management landfill in Eveline Township to include a small graveyard where a number of pioneer families buried their dead. Also, there should be a clarification as to how it happened that the acreage acquired by the Waste Management Co. includes the rural burial grounds.

Those of us who consider as sacred the graves of family members and friends, whether in Eveline Township or Readmond Township, whether in Greenwood Cemetery or St. Francis Cemetery, are entitled to the assurance that the plots where our loved ones lie, can not and will not be sold or used for other purposes.

Whether they lie in the hallowed ground of the Arlington National Cemetery, or in the myrtle grown graves off M-66, the dead deserve our respect. To quote a stanza from Elegy, written in a Country Churchyard by Thomas Gray: "Yet even these bones from insult to protect, Some frail memorial still erected nigh, With uncouth rhymes and shapeless sculpture decked, Implore the passing tribute of a sigh."

Indeed, as a passing tribute to those who have gone before us, and as a promise to those who are to come after us, let us all agree to let them "Rest in Peace."

Bones discovered near landfill raise questions

By Laurie Lounsbury

When Barney Way of The Cedar Ridge Landfill in Ironton decided to have hydro geological testings done on some of the landfill's unused property, he didn't know exactly what the surveyors would turn up. He certainly didn't expect his investigation to turn up three sets of one hundred and eleven year old skeletal remains in three shallow graves. Way and his hydro-geological testers uncovered what is believed to be the bones of Jessie Rattray and her twins, all of whom died Dec. 30, 1880 in the birth process.

Way delved into old county plat books in an effort to discover if he had stumbled onto an old graveyard, and to learn who was buried there. A 1903 plat book showed that the particular spot had been marked by a cross, indicating a burial site, and some reference was made to the townships' consideration of buying the property for a township graveyard, but no records or documents of such a transaction exist.

Clara Mason of Petoskey, granddaughter of Jessie Rattray, became aware of the findings a year ago, when reading the minutes of the Eveline Township meeting in the local paper. She believes that the township either bought the acre of land for $50 back in 1903, or a man named Henry Hammond, a one-time owner of the land, donated the piece of land to the township. Mason is convinced that the site is not just a family plot, but served as a neighborhood graveyard for many families in the area. Long-time area residents believe that some of their ancestors may have been buried there, but no one has any records of who it might be or exactly where they were buried. Mason only recently learned of the precise location of the gravesite when Way conducted the archeological research diggings. Mason had never visited the gravesite until recently, but stated, "That has nothing to do with the issue. It was not because of a lack of respect for the dead that I didn't visit. We just never knew exactly where it (the gravesite) was."

Way, who began his investigation several years ago, has spent nearly $20,000 in an effort to clear up this matter. He hired an archeological team from the University of Michigan to study the area and make digs. According to Way, the team made diggings in an area approximately 100 feet by 50 feet, looking for any further evidence that the area had been a neighborhood or township graveyard. No other skeletal remains or caskets were found. Dave Willson, Eveline Township Supervisor, accompanied Way to the site when the archeological team was doing their digging, and concurred that many trenches were dug without turning up any further evidence of caskets or remains.

This wooded area near the Cedar Ridge Landfill contains graves from the 1800s which have caused a controversy in Eveline Township.

Way said he would be happy to move the remains to a proper burial site, at the expense of Waste Management, who owns the property, in order to settle this matter. When asked how this burial site discovery became public knowledge, Way said, "I brought it up. I looked into the old plat books and checked with the township to try to figure out if it was an old graveyard, or just an isolated case of one family being buried there. I was trying to do the right thing."

Mason asked the township to make an appeal to Waste Management to have the acre of land in question deeded over to the township, so that it could remain an historical township graveyard. The township made the request to Waste Management about six months ago, but has not received any response yet.

Way explained that the land is not conveniently located on a corner of Waste Management's property, but is situated practically in the middle, adjacent to the current landfill area. Way says they have no plans for this land in the near future, but would like to have the matter resolved. "I didn't want this to become an issue when I started all this," Way said. "I just wanted

Lugibihl - Wojan

Cheryl Lugibihl & Robert Wojan

Reverend and Mrs. Jim Lugibihl of Charlevoix announce the engagement of their daughter, Cheryl R. Lugibihl, to Robert L. Wojan of Charlevoix, son of Kenneth Wojan of Charlevoix and Mrs. Thomas Middle of Alpena. The bride-to-be attended school in Charlevoix and currently works at Oleson's Food Store in Charlevoix. Her fiancé attended school in Charlevoix, Maine, and Florida and currently works at Wojan Plumbing and Heating in Charlevoix.

The wedding will take place October 12 at the Community Church of God in Charlevoix.

With the beginning of the school year last week, elementary students got back into their school routine, a routine which includes waiting and watching for the school bus.

Chorale group celebrates 10 years

Since its inception in 1982, the Northern Michigan Chorale has presented approximately fifty concerts and has sung more than 450 pieces of music ranging in style from "Come, Josephine, in my Flying Machine" to "Phantom of the Opera". Its membership has tallied up to 80 voices per concert representing towns reaching from Boyne City to Cheboygan. The Chorale was led by composer/ranger Don Large until 1987 and is now directed by Connie Tanner.

In celebration of the 10th anniversary year, the Northern Michigan Chorale will present two concerts - December 1 - 2, 1991 and May 3 - 4, 1992, drawing from its vast musical library the favorite audience numbers of past years. As a special feature in each concert, former members have been invited to join their voices with this year's group on stage to present three special numbers in an "en masse" music extravaganza.

The Northern Michigan Chorale is open to anyone who loves to sing. Auditions are not required and while one does not have to read music, it is helpful if you have had some experience. The music is on the lighter side and features solos, small groups, some choreography, as well as numbers for the entire ensemble.

Rehearsals take place every Monday evening from 7:30 to 9:30 in the Petoskey Middle School Band Room. Registration for the 1991-92 season begins at 7 p.m. Sept. 9th in the hall adjacent to the Band Room with rehearsal following registration. Membership fee is $10 for the year plus a Music Deposit of $10 which is refundable when one leaves the group. All fees are payable by Oct. 1st.

For further information, contact Connie Tanner at 347-8623.

Al Frost shows one of the inside walls of the log cabin which he built from scratch. Building the cabin was a fairly complicated endeavor. Logs shrink during the first few years and that shrinkage has to be compensated for.

Al Frost built a log cabin in the woods because...because...because he wanted to, that's why. Frost designed the cabin as he went along. It took him about two years to complete.

A log cabin is built in the woods to keep a family warm on frosty winter mornings

By Laurie Lounsbury

Two roads diverged in a yellow wood, and Al, he built a house there. Al Frost, the great nephew to the famous American poet Robert Frost, shares certain fundamental philosophies with his great uncle. He has a profound love of the outdoors, and has the gumption to choose a road less traveled by. That's why Frost decided to single-handedly build a log home for his wife, Sharon, and his family. Frost's log home, which is located on the south arm of Lake Charlevoix, is truly a labor of love. When Frost got the idea to build a log home, he didn't consult an architect or purchase any pre-fab kits. He simply had Tom Moore pour him a square foundation and started laying down logs.

"I started the work without plans, and just made decisions about how I wanted it as I went along," Frost said. All of the pine and cedar logs were hand selected by Frost from Jim Swanson, Oscar Ward, and Ron Hinton. An eighty year old, enormous cedar log from Ward serves as one of the center support columns. Frost had to skin all of the logs himself, then drag them one by one into position and lay them down. He's been at this project for two years now, working a couple of hours a day initially, whenever he could fit in the time. Even the blizzards of winter didn't deter him as his wife will testify. She found him out hauling logs in thirty below-zero temperatures one morning, with snow flying all around him. He has been at it full time since March. "When I started this, I was out of shape and had a bad back. Now I'm in great shape and my back doesn't bother me any more," Frost said with a grin.

Building a log home from scratch requires more than muscle and imagination. Frost explained that each log will shrink about a quarter of an inch over the next five years, causing a shrinkage of about five inches for the entire house. This had to be taken into account when framing in windows, doors, and leaving room for plumbing, so the appropriate sized gaps had to be left for the logs to shrink into.

Affixing the logs to one another was no easy task, either. Frost said he burned out four power drills from drilling the necessary holes in the logs to accommodate the huge spikes which hold them together. Frost designed the roof with a four-foot overhang, which he said will keep his home dry and preserve the logs. He figures the house should last two hundred years, barring any unforeseen catastrophes.

The roof of Frost's house is going on now, with the help of John Mau and John Browne. Mau and Browne were impressed with Frost's workmanship. "I've never seen anything like it," said Mau. "It's totally unique. Even the interior walls are made out of logs. You'll never see that in any other log home."

When asked what motivated him to undertake such a project, Frost replied, "I believe in the 'do it yourself' philosophy. I think everyone should have a hobby, something practical to do with your mind and body. This has been fun for me. I'm doing it out of love, not for financial gain. This is a home for my wife and family, and we'll be here forever."

BEACONS

OF BLESSINGS

By Rev. Bruce Hamilton,
Charlevoix Community Church of God

For a brief fleeting moment, I almost wished I was back in high school again. A flood of memories swept me away to days gone by as we watched the Red Raiders claim their first victory Friday night.

There is something about the smell of hot dogs and a football game. The band playing the school fight song got everybody up on their feet clapping. Seeing the team not get discouraged in the first half and watching the coaches keep their charges following the plan was impressive.

It was fun getting caught up with a bunch of other adults yelling "all right" three times and then "decent" three times. I got so tickled when the cheerleaders tuned in on what we were yelling and joined us. Then there were those crazy little footballs. Yes, we went home with one. But not because dear old Dad here caught one for his son. A nurse friend felt sorry for my butterfingers and snagged one for us (bless you Nancy!).

When you come to church this Sunday, have you ever stopped to think about some of the things that happened to you in the house of the Lord? There ought to be a flood of very sweet and sacred memories that fill your soul.

There is all kinds of music out in the world. But there are times that "The Old Rugged Cross," "What a Friend We Have in Jesus," or "Jubilate Deo" move you far more than Johnny Mathis, Kenny Rogers or Paula Abdul ever could.

There are crowds to be a part of, moments where the emotion of the moment does sweep you away. And then there is the family of God, people you know and care about who share the same hopes, heartaches and dreams.

Couch Gowell is good at what he does. There are a lot of spiritual coaches in town with names like Benton, Lander, Lowell, and Larry that are good at what they do too. There is Phil who always has a way of keeping your thoughts in the right perspective. There's Duane, may he never lose his enthusiasm. They want to help you follow God's game plan to the fullest.

Worship in the Lord's house is meant to be an uplifting part of your life. It is designed to excite, comfort, minister and challenge you all at the same time. The only thing is that you were never meant to sit in the pews and just watch. The real richness of your Sunday experience flows full and free when you get involved.

Pick up that hymnal and let the most joyful noise your spirit can muster. Tly. When it comes time to pray, enter into it with all your heart. Unlike most human beings, God can handle and even enjoys more than one conversation at a time. There is real power in agreed prayer. When the sermon or hymn begins, open your Bible and take notes. The game of life is a whole lot more fun and satisfying when you understand how God's plan works!

Parking meters remain active until October

Nobody has worried about feeding the meters on Bridge Street in the fall for the last two years because there was no Bridge Street in the fall for the last two years. Now citizens can be seen standing around downtown, scratching their heads and trying to figure out if they are supposed to feed the meters. You know, that summer is over, and you know that the meter man went back to college, but that pesky parking meter is still standing there, taunting you, demanding to be fed with pocket change. Go ahead and pay up. According to Police Chief Dennis Halverson, the meters will remain on the city streets until mid-October, and as long as they're in place, people are expected to feed them.

"The meters are there to create a turn-over in parking spaces, and we feel there's still enough shopping going on until mid-October to justify the meters," Halverson explained. Halverson also said that the meters discourage people from parking their cars downtown and leaving them while they take an extended trip to Beaver Island, for example. The city isn't looking to get rich over the coinage brought in from parking meters. "We make about $15,000 to $17,000 a year on the meters," Halverson said. "That figure doesn't even represent a single percent of the city's general fund."

Benefit planned for hospitalized man

A benefit for Scott Golovich, a local farmer recovering from Guillien Barre Syndrome, has been scheduled for Oct. 6 at Dunhamgas. The day-long benefit will feature music and dancing. More details will be available as plans are formulated.

Golovich came down with the disease in August and has been in an Ann Arbor hospital for the past month. The disease affects the sheaths surrounding nerves and left Golovich temporarily paralyzed.

Family members say that the disease has now bottomed out, but according to doctors recovery is a long and painful process.

While Golovich was in the hospital his wife Karen gave birth to the couple's second child.

Defense holds until offense rolls

Football team wins 28-13

By L. Scott Swanson

Big, fast backs and a rusty defense led Charlevoix to a 28-13 season opening win over visiting Lake City Friday night.

Charlevoix opened the game like a house afire, but then looked pathetic for a while before finally righting themselves and overpowering Lake City.

In their opening drive, the Rayders offense marched through the Lake City defense like U.S. troops retaking Kuwait. Charlevoix's offensive line dominated in an eight-play drive that was capped off by Jody McGlinch's 16-yard touchdown run with 8:29 left in the corner. The snap on the extra point attempt was botched leaving the Rayders with a 6-0 lead.

After the Rayder defense held,

Ken Olinger coughed up the ball while attempting to return a punt. Lake City capitalized on the error scoring with 4:49 left in the quarter and converting the extra point to take a 7-6 lead.

Following their first drive, the Rayder offense took a turn for the worse late in the third quarter and throughout the second quarter. The offense simply went nowhere fast. Fortunately, the defense held Lake City scoreless, giving the Rayder offense time to regroup.

On Charlevoix's opening play from scrimmage in the third quarter, McGlinch fumbled the ball and Lake City recovered. Once again Lake City quickly capitalized on the turnover and scored. The conversion attempt failed and Lake City led 13-6.

That score was to be Lake City's last hurrah. Olinger and McGlinch got redemption on a long Rayder scoring drive. The key play in the drive came on a third and 20 situation when Olinger hauled in a 30-yard pass from Rayder quarterback Keith Carey. McGlinch capped the drive with two-yard touchdown run. Brian Coolman carried the ball in for the two-point conversion and gave Charlevoix a 14-13 lead.

In the fourth quarter, Charlevoix's backs ran wild and free. Coolman, McGlinch, B.J. VanLoo and Lance Emig added up to too... too big, too fast, and running behind an offensive line which created too many holes for the Lake City defense to contend with. Coolman was particularly impressive late in the third quarter and throughout the fourth quarter. He was carrying the ball toward Lake City's goal line. If the Lake City players wanted to be dragged along, oh well, suit themselves.

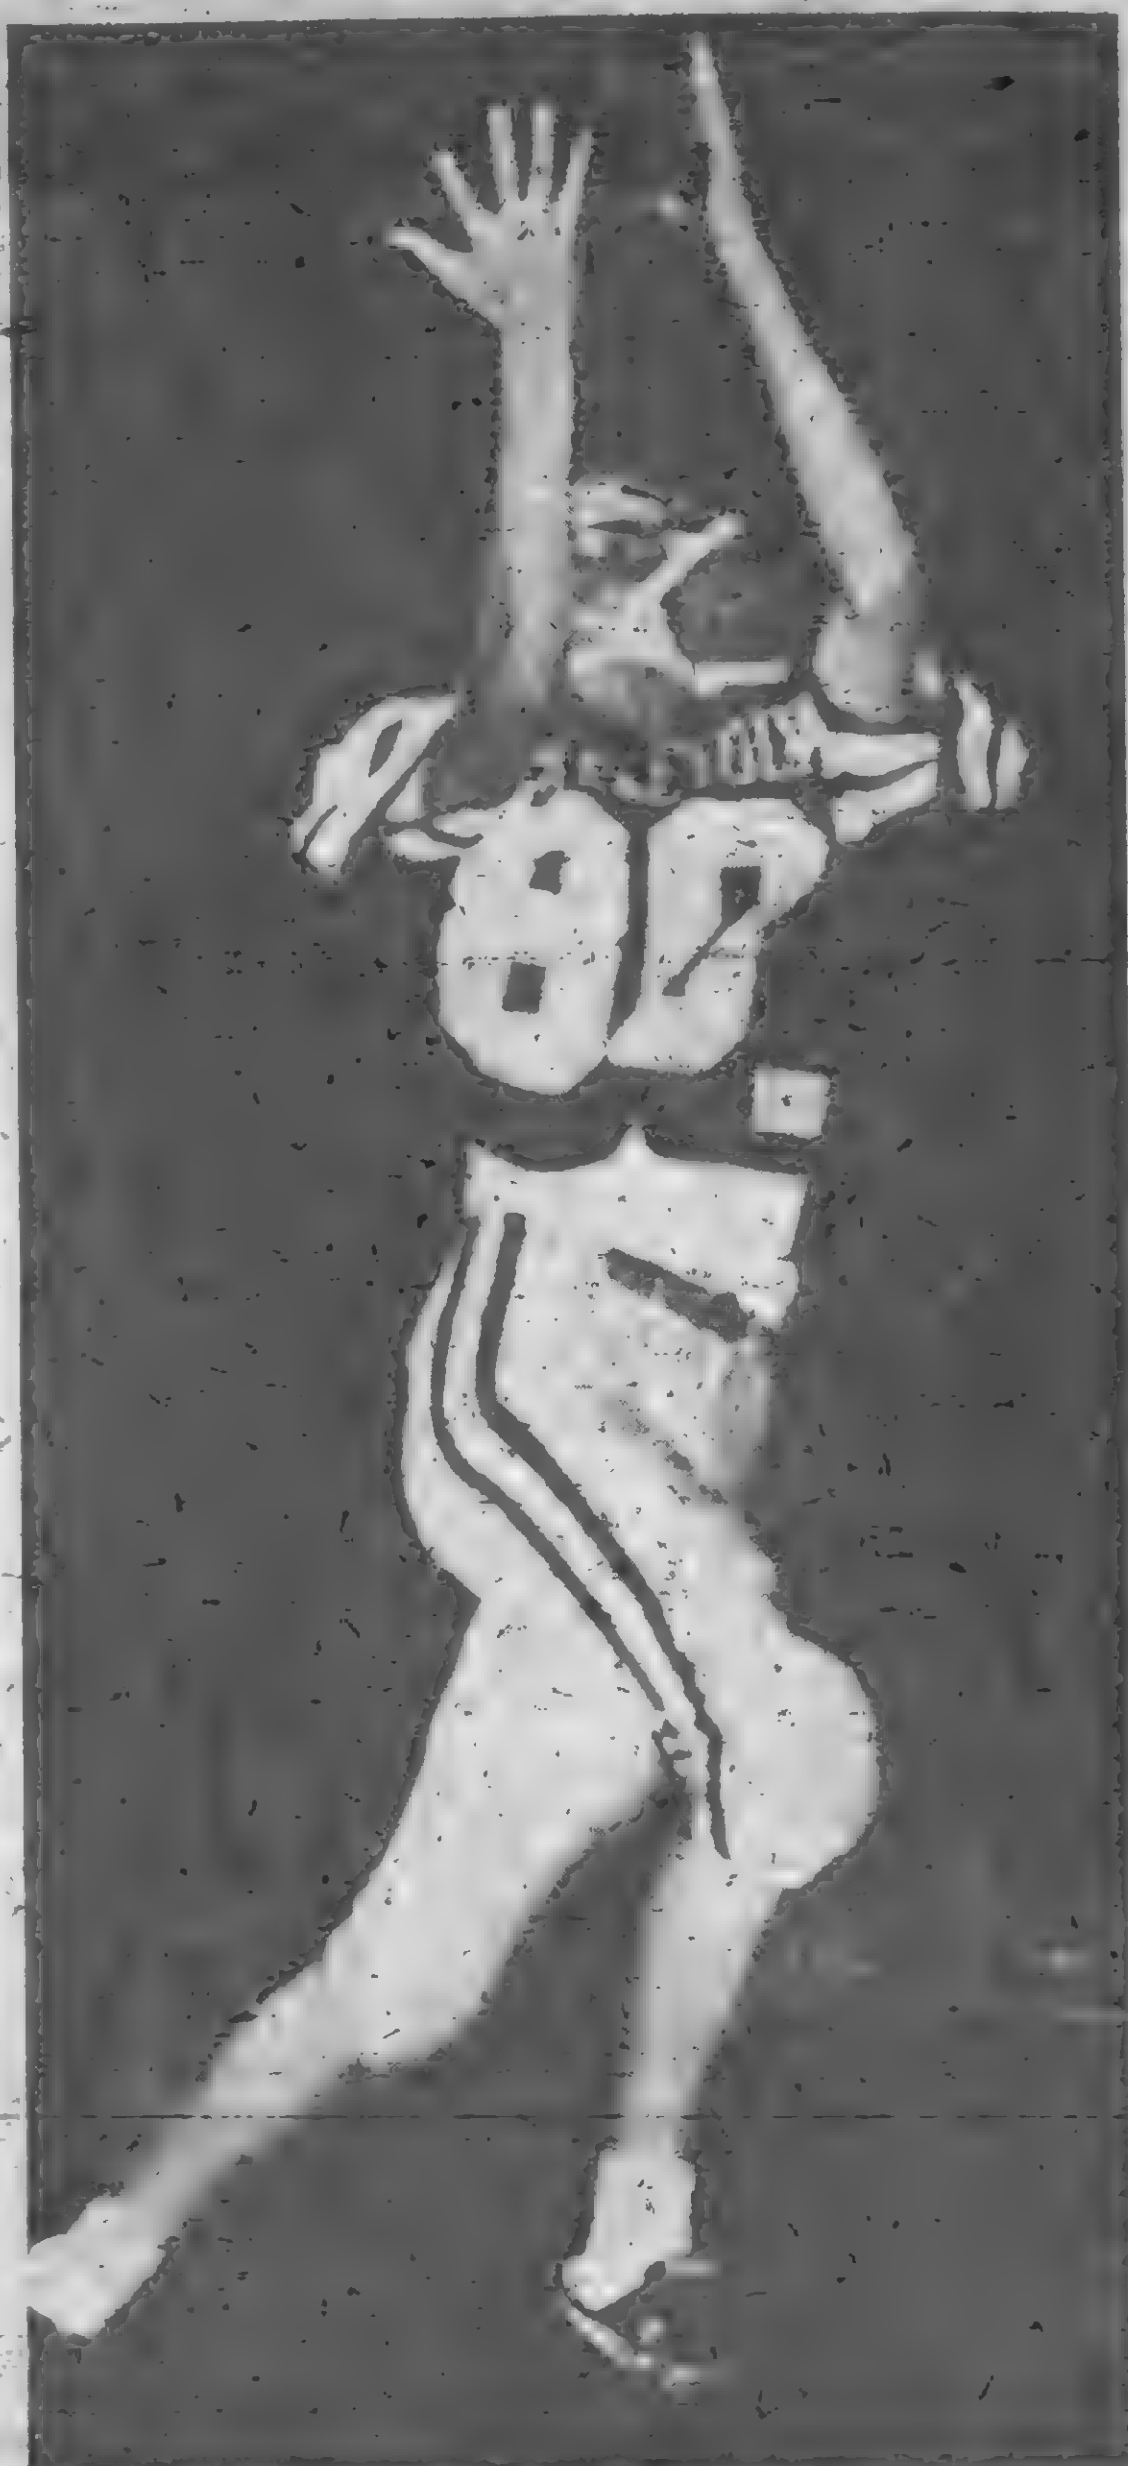

McGlinch scored his third touchdown of the game from 4 yards out with 10:05 left in the game. The point after attempt failed. Following an interception by Luke Porath, Coolman finished the scoring with a 16-yard run with 3:36 left. Emig swept right for a two-point conversion.

Charlevoix's offense totalled 445 yards, 349 of that on the ground. Coolman and McGlinch were both over 100 yards. Coolman carried 18 times for 152 yards, McGlinch 11 times for 117 yards. VanLoo carried eight times for 53 yards.

In the passing game, the Rayders were not frequent flyers, but when they went they went first class. Carey completed three of six passes for a total of 96 yards. All three passes went to Olinger who not only got himself open, he got himself lonely.

Defensively, Chris Pease had six tackles and four assists from his cornerback spot. Todd Prevost had seven tackles and three assists as did Ben Whitley. Prevost, Ryan Eveleigh and Jasper Sweeney anchored the Rayders defensive line.

This Friday evening Charlevoix opens Lake Michigan Division play at East Jordan. East Jordan opened their season this past Friday with a 27-6 win at Inland Lakes.

Ken Olinger reaches out to gather in one of three passes he caught against Lake City Friday night. Olinger and quarterback Keith Carey teamed up for three completions totalling 96 yards.

Basketball team now 2-0

Grayling beaten 51-26

For the Charlevoix girls' basketball team in recent years winning games at all was rare and winning them back to back, well, that was pretty much unheard of. But the 1991 Rayder team has opened the season 2-0. Yep, that's right. You read it here. They're on a roll.

Charlevoix hosted Grayling Thursday night and followed up an opening game win over Ellsworth with a 51-26 thrashing of the Vikings.

Charlevoix used aggressive defense and balanced scoring to dump Grayling. Last season Charlevoix had trouble with the third quarter and did again against Grayling, but it was nothing major. Grayling outscored the Rayders 13-10 in the third, but that wasn't nearly enough to offset 10-4, 12-4 and 19-5 Rayder advantages in the first, second and fourth quarters.

Charlevoix played a zone press during portions of the game. The Rayders have quick, aggressive guards and good athletes at the forward position and the press is designed to take advantage of those attributes.

Offensively, senior forward Gina Webster led the Rayders with 13 points, followed closely by junior guard Mary Jane Grunch who had a dozen. Freshman Liz Grunch and junior Shelia Siegwart each had eight points. Siegwart, whose playing philosophy seems to be "Hey, we've got a whole court available here. Let's use all of it," also had five rebounds, four steals and an assist.

Charlevoix's junior varsity team also moved to 2-0 with a 41-21 win. Becky Bragg led the Rayder JV team with 15 points.

This Thursday evening Charlevoix will travel to Boyne City for their first Lake Michigan Division game.

Exceptional riders program prepares for fall session

Lake Charlevoix Farms Exceptional Riders (LCERP), a therapeutic horseback riding program, is now accepting both students and volunteer helpers for its Fall Session.

Classes are one hour long and are scheduled to begin with orientation Sept. 10 and 12 at 7 p.m. The eight week session runs Tuesday evenings at 6:30 and 7:30 p.m. through the end of October.

These classes are open to physically, mentally or emotionally challenged children and adults at no charge. Each student is taught the basics of horsemanship by Barbara Lane-Harrington, NARHA (North American Riding for the Handicapped Association) certified instructor, and assisted by a horse-leader and side helpers. Safety is emphasized. The goal of the classes is to provide physical therapy and horse knowledge in a fun and safe environment.

Volunteers are needed! Experience with horses is not required, just a desire to help. Without volunteer helpers this program would not be possible. LCERP is a non-profit, all volunteer organization.

For more information about the classes, to register a student, or sign-up as a volunteer, please call Barbara Lane at 347-3300.

A collection of praises and honors won by Charlevoix people for good work and hard work.

Pvt. Edward T. Nachazel has completed an armor crewman course at Fort Knox, Ky.

The course is designed to teach the crewman to serve as a member of an armor unit in defensive and offensive combat operations. In addition to basic combat training, the soldier was taught to drive the armored weapon, load and fire the weaponry, perform ammunition supply duties, and to process intelligence and operations data.

Nachazel is the son of Edward F. and Mary E. Nachazel of 118 Church Road, Ellsworth. He graduated from Ellsworth Community High School in 1989.

Downtown coordinator moves into office and establishes hours

The Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce has announced office hours, address and phone number for its Downtown Coordinator's office. According to Rod Benson, newly appointed Downtown Coordinator for the Chamber, the office will be located in the Pine River Building, and the phone will be (616) 347-2273. Office hours will be from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Tips may lead to big bucks

Boyer Falls High School will host a Michigan Deer Classic on October 23, 1991 at 6 p.m. Area hunters who will pursue whitetail deer this fall are invited to attend.

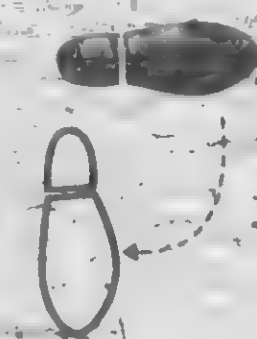

This deer hunting seminar will teach sportsmen how, when and where to hunt Michigan whitetails, with tactics that work in your coverage area. It is sponsored, in part, by Commemorative Bucks of Michigan, Inc., a nonprofit organization, and will feature noted deer hunter and outdoor writer, Dave Richey of the Detroit News.

Richey has authored hundreds of deer hunting magazine articles, countless newspaper features, and has written two deer hunting books. Profits from this locally sponsored event will benefit the Boyer Falls High School. For ticket information, contact Joe Kaddatz at 549-2214.

BUSINESS

Woodburn Diamond Die is newest local industry

(Editor's note: The following story is one in a series concerning area business being written for the Courier by Ralph McRae. McRae is a retired building contractor and a former council member and mayor. He currently serves on the Charlevoix Industrial Development Committee.)

By Ralph McRae

Woodburn Diamond Die Inc. is Charlevoix's newest manufacturing company. Its business is wholly dependent on diamonds...some dug out of the earth and some from laboratories. This company is one of only a few companies making diamond dies exclusively for the wire-making industry.

The idea for this method of wire reducing originated in Germany, but Woodburn Diamond Die was founded in Woodburn, Ind. by Cleland Farver in 1950. The business which started in Farver's garage is now internationally recognized for its contribution to the wire production industry and plays an important role in both domestic and world markets. Cleland Farver remains active in the firm and his son, Rex C. Farver, is president of the family corporation.

Almost all of the information for this story was provided by Charlevoix plant manager Randy Doctor. Doctor, an electrical engineer who received special training in Woodburn's Indiana plant, is 35 years old and aside from taking on the responsibilities of managing the Charlevoix plant will also be getting married in October.

Robert Kern of Robert Kern Realtors sold the Indiana firm on locating in Charlevoix's industrial park. Kern is president of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce and also a member of the local Industrial Development Committee. Before choosing Charlevoix, the company considered nine other possible sites. The new plant is located at 08855 Ance Road.

The current plant is only 5,000 square feet, but has the potential to expand to 20,000 square feet. Presently it is used mostly for research and development.

In terms of appearance, the plant is attractive both inside and out. The building is surrounded on three sides by hardwood trees. Inside, the decor is very refreshing with gray carpeting covering the floors and vertical cloth blinds framing picture windows. The production area has high ceilings with a closely monitored air purification system.

The Charlevoix plant does not make the basic die casings. They arrive here with the entry and exit portions of the casing already machined. Stainless steel casings are normally the width of a silver dollar and about 3/4 of an inch high.

The center part of the casing contains the diamond core. The means of implanting this core within the casing is a well-protected trade secret. No cameras are permitted in the operations areas. Making the holes through the diamond cores is an extremely precise operation involving laser beams, wet diamond dust and carbide bits. The process is constantly checked with microscopes. Scores of caliber sizes can be produced, from the size of a hair to the thickness of a finger.

The entrance to the easing has sloping walls to feed wire into the sizing hole. The wire is not cut or shaved, but is actually squeezed down to a smaller diameter. Pulling the wire through the die can reduce its size by 15 percent. To prevent breaking, the wire must have a high tensile strength. To elongate the wire further and to reduce the diameter, the wire may go through several dies.

The hardness of the wire determines how much the wire may be reduced at one time. Gold and silver wires are more responsive, brass and steel alloys much less responsive. Tungsten-wire for lamp filaments is the least responsive.

The diamonds can withstand the pressure of all the metals, but after long periods of time the dies are re-bored to larger size openings.

The most active diamond producing companies are South Africa and the Soviet Union. The DeBeers mining company dominates the market both in industrial and cosmetic diamonds. It controls the selling prices. DeBeers mines in South Africa are British-owned.

Woodburn used the services of North Central Michigan College in Petoskey to train several of its new employees.

Delivery of completed dies is done mostly by United Parcel Service. Hoskins, a local wire maker, is a frequent buyer of diamond dies. Sales are generated through move to new quarters.

The branch office will close at the end of business on Monday, Sept. 16 and re-open in its new home at 05951 North M-66 at 9 a.m. Thursday, September 19. The new office is located on the corner of M-66 and Eoeb Road. A more spacious facility will be provided to the public as well as for the staff in the office.

Citizens who must do business with the Secretary of State during the time this branch office is closed are urged to go to Secretary of State branch office in Bellare or Petoskey.

The Secretary of State regrets this inconvenience, but expects the move to result in improved service at the Charlevoix branch office.

Charlevoix Area Hospital General Campaign Chairman Dr. Jeffrey Porter (left) shows the hospital design plans to Elbert Kaiser, Industrial Gifts Chairman, and John Dixon, Medusa Cement Plant Manager. Medusa announced a $125,000 pledge to the campaign this week. That is the largest industrial gift thus far.
